PREFACE

The following English version of Professor Geiger's "Pāli Literatur und Sprache" offers more than the German original, for much new material, supplied by Professor Geiger himself, has been incorporated into it. Professor Geiger also secured the permission of the German Publishers.

I distinctly remember that at the first lecture on Pāli I attended at the Munich University I was taught the Law of Mora, the cornerstone of Pāli Phonology. My astonishment, therefore, can be well imagined when I discovered that many of the Czars of Pāli in India have never even heard of this law! It is all the more remarkable, because Professor Geiger's work is well known in our University and is in fact one of the text-books prescribed for M.A. students in Pāli. On account of the language difficulty, however, our students have not hitherto been able to make full use of it. There was thus a clear case for translating Profess or Geiger's work into English.

The translation was completed on 29th June, 1937. But the Calcutta University Press, always busy with a thousand things, could not pay undivided attention to printing it. Hence the inordinate delay in bringing out this translation, which at least some students of Pāli are anxiously waiting for.

In references to Prose texts, line too has been given throughout; thus A.I.2³ = Anguttara-Nikāya, vol. I, p. 2, l. 3.

My thanks are due first of all to Professor Geiger, my honoured teacher and my teacher's teacher. I am grateful also to Professors Suniti Kumar Chatterji, Prabodh Chandra Bagchi, Sailendra Nath Mitra and Beni Madhab Barua for the interest they evinced in this translation.

31st December, 1942.

PĀLI LITERATURE AND LANGUAGE

INTRODUCTION

I. By Pāli is understood the language in which is composed the Tipitaka, the sacred scriptures of Ceylon and Hinter India, and its ancillary literature. The word Pāli however signifies only "text," "sacred text." If we use this word to designate the language, it is merely a convenient abbreviation for pālibhāsā. Synonymous with pālibhāsā is tantibhāsā.

Pāli is an archaic Prākrit a Middle-Indian idiom, which is characterised by the same peculiarities which distinguish the Middle-Indian from the Old-Indian ² Pāli however cannot be directly derived from Sanskrit; for it shows a number of characteristic features which suggest its closer relation to Vedic. Thus the ger in -tvāna (beside -tvā), the forms tehi, yehi=Ved. tebhis, yehis (as opposed to Skr. tais, yais), etc. This has always to be borne in mind when in the following Pāli forms are compared with Sanskrit forms. The former cannot be derived from the latter but stand beside them as later formations.

- II. Pāli is not a homogeneous language. Numerous double forms reveal it to be a mixed dialect. Dialectical particularisme are found in it in large numbers. Yet, however, stages of development associated with periods following one after another can be clearly distinguished in the history of the Pāli language. Four different stages can be distinguished:
- 1. The language of the Gāthās, i.s., the metrical pieces. It is of a very heterogeneous, character. On the one hand, it contains many archaic speech-forms which are distinguished from the Old-Indian forms only phonologically; on the other hand, there are also used in it in large numbers such new formations as are wholly characteristic of Pāli, and they are often crossed by the archaic forms which may occur side by side with them, not seldom even in one and the same verse. In some cases the exigencies of metre might have determined the choice of the forms to be used. Particularly in those cases where verses out of an older language were translated into a later one, the use of archaic forms was liberal, because it afforded a closer approximation to the original.

R O. Franke, Strassburg 1902, Päli und Sanskrit, p. 90 ff.

- 2. The language of the canonical prose. It is more homogeneous and uniform than the language of the Gāthās. The archaic forms diminish more and more in number and partly disappear altogether. The use of new formations is no longer accidental or arbitrary as in the oldest period of the language, but is governed by more rigid rules.
- 3. The later prose of the post-canonical literature, as of the Milinda-book, the great commentaries, etc. It is based on the canonical prose and reflects its artificial and erudite usage. The difference between the first and the second period is therefore much greater than that between the second and the third. The latter is further characterised by a still more restricted use of the archaic forms.
- 4 The language of later artificial poetry, which no longer possesses a homogeneous character. The authors derived their knowledge of the language and borrowed the speech-forms indiscriminately from older and later literature, and their propensity to archaism and Sanskritism is more pronounced or less in different cases.

III. There is now on the whole a concensus of opinion that Pāli bears the clear stamp of a "Kunstsprache," i.e., it is a compromise of various dialects. This has been most emphatically declared by H. Kern. Minayeff's 2 opinion stands close to his. But already E. Kuhn 3 rightly pointed out that the problem is not solved merely by defining Pāli as an artificial language—its solution is only deferred by it. "Even an artificial and literary language, which on occasions draws materials from all possible dialects, must have had as its foundation a particular dialect." For Pāli now arises the question, which region of India was the home of that language which was the basis of Pāli.

- IV. According to the tradition current in Ceylon, Pāli is Māgadhi, Māgadhānirutti, Māgadhikabhāsā, that is to say, the language of the region in which Buddhism had arisen. This is very important, for strengthened by this argument the Buddhistic tradition makes the further claim that the Pāli-Tipiṭaka is composed in the language used by Buddha himself 1 and therefore in contrast to all other collections it alone represents the original canon. For this reason Māgadhī is also called Mūlabhāsā 2 as the basic language in which the words of Buddha were originally fixed, whereas the other versions are regarded as secondary variations.
- V. Weighty arguments have however been urged against the view that Pāli is a dialectical form of Māgadhī or is based on it. Precisely the chief distinguishing features of Māgadhī, as we know them from the grammarians and from the inscriptions and the dramas, are unknown to Pāli. These features are: 1. the mutation of every τ into l and every s into s, and 2. the ending s in N. Sg. Masc. and Neut. of s-stems and of consonantal stems inflected like them. Pāli however retains the s (its change into s is indeed frequent but not the rule), and possesses no s at all, but only s, and the nominal forms mentioned above end in it with s or s and s for this reason already Burnouf and Lassen s contested the theory that Pāli is a Magadha-dialect.
- VI. Westergaard, and after him E. Kuhn, consider Pāli to be the dialect of Ujjayinī, because it stands closest to the language of the Asoka-inscriptions of Girnar (Guzerat), and also because the dialect of Ujjayinī is said to have been the mother-tongue of Mahinda who preached Buddhism in Ceylon. R. O. Franke reached a similar conclusion by altogether different means. In his attempt to locate Pāli by eliminating all those Indian popular dialects which on account of their peculiar linguistic features cannot be regarded as the source of Pāli, he finally reached the conclusion that its original home was a territory, which could not have been too narrow, situated about the region from the middle to the western Vindhya ranges." Thus it is not improbable that Ujjayini was the centre of its region of expansion. Sten Konow too has decided in favour of the Vindhya region as the home of Pāli. In his opinion there is a closer relationship between Pāli and Paiśāci, and differing from his predecessors in the field, particularly from Grierson, he seeks the original home of Paiśāci not in North-West India but in the region of Ujjayini.

VII. Oldenberg³ considers Pāli to be the language of the Kalinga country. He considers the legend of Mahinda and his mission to be unhistorical. In his opinion Buddhism, and with it the Tipiṭaka, was introduced into Ceylon rather in course of an intercourse between the island and the neighbouring continent extending over a long period. As regards the character of the language, he compares it above all with that of the inscription of Khandagiri, which in his opinion agrees with Pāli un essential points. Also E. Müller⁴ considers the Kalinga country to be the home of Pāli. He bases his conclusion on the observation that the oldest settlements in Ceylon could have been founded only from the opposite mainland and not by people from Bengal or thereabout.

VIII. A concensus of opinion regarding the home of the dialect on which Pāli is based has therefore not been achieved. Windisch therefore falls back on the old tradition—and I am also inclined to do the same—according to which Pāli should be regarded as a form of Māgadhi, the language in which Buddha bimself had preached. This language of Buddha was however surely no purely popular dialect, but a language of the higher and cultured classes which had been brought into being already in pre-Buddhistic times through the needs of intercommunication in India.1 Such a lingua franca naturally contained elements of all the dialects, but was surely free from the most obtrusive dialectical characteristics. It was surely not altogether homogeneous. A man from the Magadha country must have spoken it in one way, and a man from the districts of Kosala and Avanti in another, just as in Germany the high German of a cultured person from Württemberg, Saxony or Hamburg shows in each case peculiar characteristic features. Now, as Buddha, although he was no Magadhan himself, displayed his activities mainly in Magadha and the neighbouring countries, the Magadhi dislect might have imprinted on his language its own characteristic stamp. This language could have therefore been well called Magadhi even if it avoided the grossest dialectal peculiarities of this language. As Windisch has rightly pointed out, after the death of the master, a new artificial language must have been evolved out of the language of Buddha. Attempts were made to retain the teachings of Buddha in authentic form, and to impose this form also upon those portions which, although derived from the monastic organisations of the various provinces, were gradually incorporated into the canon. In connection with the designation of the canonical language as Magadhi, Windisch also refers to the Arsa, the language of the Jaina-suttas. It is called Ardha-Magadhi, i.e., "half-Māgadhī." Now it is surely significant that the Ardha Māgadhī differs from Magadhi proper on similar points as Pali.2 For Ardha-Māgadhī too does not change the r into l, and in the noun inflexion it shows the ending -o instead of Magadhic -e at least in many metrical pieces. On the other hand, as I believe to have myself observed. there are many remarkable analogies precisely between Arsa and Pāli in vocabulary and morphology. Pali therefore might be regarded as a kind of Ardha-Magadhi. I am unable to endorse the view, which has apparently gained much currency at present, that the Pali canon is translated from some other dialect (according to Lüders, from old Ardha-Māgadhī). The peculiarities of its language may be fully explained on the hypothesis of (a) a gradual development and integration of various elements from different parts of India, (b) a long oral tradition extending over several centuries, and (c) the fact that the texts were written down in a different country.

IX. I consider it wiser not to hastily reject the tradition altogether but rather to understand it to mean that Pāli was indeed no pure Magadhi, but was yet a form of the popular speech which was based on Magadhi and which was used by Buddha himself. It would appear therefore that the Pali canon represents an effort 1 to reflect the Buddhavacanam in its original form. This theory would have been refuted if it could be proved that the Pali canon must have been translated from Sylvain Lévi 2 has tried to prove this. some other dialect. He points out a number of termini such as ekodi, samghādisesa, etc., in which a sonant appears in the place of a surd. From these data he infers the existence of a pre-canonical language in which the softening of intervocalic surds was the rule. I do notconsider Lévi's arguments to be convincing. Firstly, because all these etymologies given by Lévi are uncertain. Secondly, because the softening of surds takes place not only in the "termini" but also in a large number of other words. 3 Moreover, in my opinion, no special case should be made out of this phonological phenomenon. they merely represent one of the various dialectical peculiarities which are met with in Pali. Thus, for instance, we find equally frequent cases of the opposite process (hardening of a sonant) as well as various other features which considered together prove the mixed character of the Pāli language.

X. If Pāli is the form of the Māgadhī used by Buddha, then the Pāli canon would have to be regarded as the most authentic form of the Buddhavacanam, even though the teachings of the master might have been preached and learnt from the very beginning in the various provinces of India in the respective local dialects. This conclusion has been drawn—wrongly, in my opinion—from Cullavagga V. 33.1=Vin. II.139. Here it is related, how two Bhikkhus complained to the master that the members of the order were of various origins, and that they distorted the words of Buddha by their own dialect (sakāya niruttiyā). They therefore proposed that the words of Buddha should be translated into Sanskrit verses (chandaso). Buddha however refused to grant the request and added: anujānāmi

I say this intentionally; for, as the Pāli canon is the result of a long development extending over more than one century, it would naturally contain much that is unauthentic. It may have also lost much that is authentic and is preserved in other canons.

bhikkhave sakāya niruttiyā buddhavacanam pariyāpunitum. Davids and Oldenberg 1 translate this passage by "I allow you," oh brethren, to learn the words of the Buddhas each in his own dialect." This interpretation however is not in harmony with that of Buddhaghosa, according to whom it has to be translated by "I ordain the words of Buddha to be learnt in his own language (i.e., in Magadhi, the language used by Buddba himself)."3 repeated examinations of this passage I have come to the conclusion that we have to stick to the explanation given by Buddhaghosa. Neither the two monks nor Buddha himself could have thought of preaching in different dialects in different cases. Here the question is merely whether the words of Buddha might be translated into Sanskrit or not. This is however clearly forbidden by the Master, at first negatively and then positively by the injunction beginning with anujanami. The real meaning of this injunction is, as is also best in consonance with Indian spirit, that there can be no other form of the words of Buddha than in which the Master himself had preached. Thus even in the life-time of Buddha people were concerned about the way in which his teaching might be handed down as accurately as possible, both in form and in content. How much more must have been the anxiety of the disciples after his death ! The external form was however Magadhi, though according to tradition it is Pāli.4

Vinaya Texts III - Secred Books of the East, XX, p. 151.

In the text there is no vo! But I think this word was indispensable for the interpretation given by the English translators in order to get something with which to connect sakāya niruttīyā. According to the actual text sakā may be connected only with buddhavacanam. For the meaning "ordsins, decides "for anujānāti, cf. Vin., I. 4525, 8331, 8519,24, 9413, etc.

I. THE CANONICAL LITERATURE

1. Origin and Authenticity of the Canon

- 1. The Pāli canon is known under the name Tipiṭaka (Skr. Tripiṭaka), i.e., "Threefold basket," because it consists of three main parts: Vinaya-Piṭaka, Sutta-Piṭaka and Abhidhamma-Piṭaka. It is the canon of the Theravāda school which itself belongs to the Vibhajjavādins. According to tradition, which on essential points is probably quite dependable, its compilation began immediately after the death of Buddha about 483 B.C., at the council of Rājagaha. It was further developed a hundred years later at the council of Vesālī, the chief cause of which was the cropping up of certain wrong views which were threatening to undermine monastic discipline. At the third council under king Asoka (264 to 227 B.C.) the canon in all its essential parts seems to have been brought to a formal completion.
- On the relation between the two designations, see Oldenberg, Vin. I, p. XLI f.; Geiger, Mahāvamas transl., App. B, 14b.
- The history of the councils is based mainly on CV. XI, LII = Vin. II, 284 fl.; l)pvs. Chap. 4-5. 54, 7.34 fl.; Mhvs. Chap. 3-5. Also Buddhaghosa's Samantapāsādikā, Introd. (Oldenberg, Vin. II, Preface; Winternitz, A History of Indian Literature, Vol. II, 1 fl. (cf. literature given under f.-n. 1). More sceptical about the tradition are Minayeff, Recherches aur le Bouddhisme, trad. par Pompignan, Paris 1894; L. de La Valée Poussin, Conciles Bouddhiques I, Le Muséon N. S. 6, 1905, p. 213 fl. - 3 For the sake of brevity I only refer to Winternitz, Ibid., p. 4, as well as the data given by me in Mhvs. transl., p. XXII ff.
- 4 Kashi-Prusad Jayaswal (Journ. As. Soc. Bengal, N.S. IX, Nr. 8 and 9, p. 317 fl.) has calculated the year of Asoka's accession to the throne to be 276 B.C., and his coronation at 272 B.C..

This council is specially associated with the formation of the Abhidhamma, for according to tradition, the Thera Tissa Moggaliputta is said to have recited at it the Kathāvatthuppakaraṇa. This book contains the refutation of 252 different wrong teachings and is included among the works of Abhidhamma.\(^1\) The third council was also of importance on account of the resolution to send missions to neighbouring countries. The tradition is here supported in an interesting manner by epigraphical discoveries.\(^2\) Mahinda (Skr. Mahendra), the son of king Asoka,\(^3\) went to Ceylon as the messenger of the teachings of Buddha. He brought to Ceylon the canon in its Theravāda form.

2. The gradual formation of the canon may be imagined to have come about in the way, that in particular monastic orders the memories of the speeches and dialogues of the master were kept alive so far as they were known at all. Hence the introductory words evam me sutam "so have I heard." At larger gatherings, as at the councils, these particular contributions were examined and given monastic sanction in favourable cases. In this way the material grew up continually and was classified into particular collections. Such an origin of the canon renders it understandable that already at the beginning there was given the possibility of the formation of different schools. On the occasion of the second council, therefore, there arose in the church the schism of the Theravadins and the Mahasamghikas. The main body of the canon therefore should have been collected in the first two centuries after the death of Buddha. Titles such as dhammakathika, petakin, suttantika, pancanekāyika 5 occurring in inscriptions of the 3rd century B.C. prove that already at that time the canon must have been divided in the same manner as in later days. Of the seven texts which were specially recommended for study by king Asoka in Bhabra edict, four or five may be traced in the ⁴ The story of Purans in CV.XI. 1. 11 (=Vin. II, 289 f.) is very important in this respect. Purans comes to Rajagaha where Buddha's disciples had assembled after his death. He is asked to take part in the council but he courteously declines saying that he would prefer to adhere to what he had himself heard from the Master's lips.

Pāli canon with tolerable certainty. It is also very remarkable that the name of Asoka, who is so much praised in all Buddhist orders, has never been mentioned in the canon. The assumption is justified therefore that in Asoka's time the formation of the canon had been practically completed. In the first few centuries however the canon used to be handed down orally. The Tipiṭaka along with its commentary Aṭṭhakathā was fixed in writing, according to a notice in Dpvs. and Mhvs., which gives the impression of being quite trustworthy, only under king Vaṭṭagāmani, i.e., a few decades before the beginning of the Christian era.

Many peculiarities of the Pali canon may be understood only if the way in which it came about is kept in view and it is remembered that it was handed down orally for nearly four hundred years. As the contributions to the canon came from different places at different times various contradictions could not be avoided, as has been pointed out by R. O. Franke. We can thus also understand the schematic character of the canon and the numerous repetitions occurring in it. It is in the nature of an oral tradition that events and situations of common occurrence should be described in stereotyped form in the same words.4 Much of what repeatedly occurs in the text was without doubt compulsory for the monks to learn. I consider as such the continually repeated synonymous expressions, the discussions in question and answer which almost look like formularies for the examinations which the monks had to pass,5 the parables and similes. and the mnemonic verses. It has to be pointed out however that apparently even from the beginning the sacred texts were used for purposes of preaching. Under such circumstances it was unavoidable that those texts which were familiar to every Bhikkhu should again and again thrust themselves into the sacred tradition. Of particular importance is the fact that not at all very seldom in one and the same collection two or more pieces follow each other having absolutely the same contents and wording, distinguished merely by the names of persons and places.1 It is clear that in these cases we have to do with differences in tradition dating from the very beginning. When the collection of individual pieces began, the redactors quite naïvely arranged the variants one after another without trying to solve the problem of their authenticity. And finally, also the influence of purely literary activity might not have been quite negligible when the collections were compiled and written down. It is clear that the main tendency was to offer the material in as full a form as possible. It is not at all surprising therefore that from collections which were already existing whole pieces were taken into new collections whenever there seemed to be a sufficient reason to do so. 2 It however remains unknown which of the various forces was most potent in any particular case, and it is not at all unlikely that this question will never be solved satisfactorily.

4. It will be clear from what has been said above, in what sense we can speak of the authenticity of the canon. None will claim to day that all that is contained in it is derived from Buddha himself. But without doubt it contains a mass of utterances, speeches and teachings of the Master, as they were impressed on the memory of the disciples in their more or less accurate form. It is however impossible to read, e.g., the Mahāparinibbāṇasutta, without getting the impression that here we are confronted with the actual reminiscences of the last days of the Master. Other texts, on the other hand, might be imitations of existing types, which were at least impregnated with the spirit of Buddha. Others again are purely monastic fiction. Such is the case, for instance, when in the Vinaya all the individual regulations about suttanta mentioned in Mhvs. 15.4=Dpvs. 13.13=M.III. 163 ff.; wrongly Mhvs. trans. (p. 97, f.-n. 2). Cf. further, DhCo. I. 129 ff.

monastic discipline are attributed to the Master. Here too the formulated laws were modelled after certain types. But, on the other hand, we should not be too sceptical. The main body of the canon had at all events come into being in the first two centuries after the death of Buddha—at a time when the memory of the master might have been still fresh. And we have indeed no reason to doubt the honest intention of the Bhikkhus. If we always keep in view the fundamental difference between the Greek and the Indian mode of thought, then it may perhaps yet be said that the picture of Buddha stands out of the Pāli canon in the same way as that of Socrates out of the writings of Xenophon and Plato.

2. Classification of the Pali Canon, Editions, Translations

- 5. Beside the division of the canon into three Piṭakas "baskets" the tradition of southern Buddhism knows also other divisions of the canon. Thus 1. the division into five Nikāyas consisting of the first four Nikāyas of the Sutta-Piṭaka (D., M., S., A.), as well as the Khuddaka-Nikāya which in this connection comprehends also Vinaya and Abhidhamma.—2. The division into nine Angas is only formal. They are Sutta, Geyya, Veyyākaraṇa, Gāthā, Udāna, Itivuttaka, Jātaka, Abbhutadhamma and Vedalla. By "Sutta" is meant all the dialogues of Buddha along with some pieces out of the Suttanipāta. All pieces composed in mixed prose and verse are called "Geyya." The "Veyyākaraṇa" includes the
- 1 Sometimes the canonical works themselves betray the fact that they were composed long after Buddhs. Thus, already in the Theragathas, when Parapariya (v. 920-948) complains about the degeneration of discipline within the monastic order. In Petavatthu IV. 3.1 is mentioned a King of Surattha, named Pingalaka. According to the commentary (PvCo. p. 244) he should have lived two hundred years after the death of Buddha. This should give us however the lowest time limit, excepting of course occasional later additions.

- 4 According to the records of northern Buddhism there are twelve Angas. Wassilieff, der Buddhismus I, p. 109; Burnouf, Introd. sur le Bouddhisme, p. 51 ff.; Kern, Manual of Ind. Buddhism, p. 7.

Abhidhamma and some other texts. "Gāthās" are pieces composed solely in verse. The titles "Udāna," "Itivuttaka" and "Jātaka" will come up again for discussion below as parts of the Khuddaka-Nikāya. The Suttas which deal with supernatural conditions and powers are called "Abbhutadhamma." The meaning of the title "Vedalla" is not clear.—Finally, from quite a mechanical point of view, the canon is divided into 84,000 Dhammakkhandhas, i.e., individual pieces or lectures.

3. Vinaya Pitaka

- 7. The Vinaya-Piṭaka 1 contains the monastic rules of the order of Buddhist monks. It consists of the following parts:
 - 1. Suttavibhanga: (a) Pārājika, (b) Pācittiya;
 - 2. Khandhaka: (a) Mahāvagga, (b) Cullavagga.
 - 3. Parivāra.
- The Suttavibhanga is based on the Pātimokkha.2 This is very probably one of the oldest texts, containing the formulary for the ceremony of confession, as it was performed on Uposatha-days in the The SV. is a commentary on this text. The monastic orders. individual transgressions are divided into categories in the order of their seriousness: pārājikā dhammā entailing excommunication from the order, samghādiscsā dh., aniyatā dh., then pācittiyā dhammā, pātidesaniyā dh., sekhiyā dh. In SV. a story is always given at first stating when the particular transgression was committed for the first Then follows in the words of the Pātimokkha the respective regulation for the expiation of the transgression, as well as a philological explanation of it and a casuistic discussion of individual cases and possibilities. To the Mahāvibhanga meant for the monks there is added at the end of the SV. also a Bhikkhunīvibhanga of similar character .- 2. The Khandhakas represent the positive counterpart to the SV. They contain the regulations which determine the course of life within the monastic order. The Mahāvagga consists of the first ten Khandhakas. Its introductory chapter gives a history of the time, from the Sambodhi to the founding of the first Sangha in Benares. The Cullavagga is but the continuation of the MV. At its end are added two supplementary Khandbakas (XI and XII) which contain the story of the first two Councils. Closely connected with the Khandhakas are the kammavācā, which are formularies for the various acts of the Church to be undertaken by the order. Seven such formularies are known, of which the upasampadā-kammavācā, the formulary for the ceremony of the initiation of a member into the order, is still much used among the southern Buddhists. 1 All the kammavācā known to us agree with the corresponding regulations of the Khandhakas, which are themselves only a collection of such formularies with more detailed explanation and justification .- 3. The Parivara, consisting of nineteen sections, is of later origin. In all probability it was originated only in Ceylon. This is certain of the introductory verses,2 It is a manual of instruction about the contents of the Vinaya—a mātikā (table of contents) without any value of its own.

4. Sutta-Piţaka

8. To the Sutta-Piṭaka belong firstly the first four Nikāyas—Dīgha-, Majjhima-./Samyutta and Anguttara-Nikāya. They are the "collections" of Suttas or Suttantas, i.e., of speeches and dialogues of Buddha, or occasionally of his first disciples with their followers. Their form is prose sprinkled with verses. The individual Suttas vary according to the place and time of their origin. Instead of nikāya also the term āgama 3 is used: Dīghāgama, etc. This is the expression universally used in northern Buddhist literature. The Sutta-Piṭaka is the chief source of our knowledge of the dhamms. It is therefore often directly called dhamma as opposed to vinaya.

- 9. 1. The Digha-Nikāya "long collection" contains the longest Suttas.² As a collection it was complete already at a very early time, the Brahm jälasutta of D. is quoted in Samyutta-Nikāya IV. 28612. R. O. Franke 3 wanted to prove that the D. is a "homogeneously conceived literary work " and " a ho is work of some literatus." This is certainly wrong. 4 Suc a w militates against the fact that also inside the D, there are foun con adictions just as in the canon taken as a whole. The external relations which Franke 6 has proved to exist between individual Suttas only explain why a particular Sutta came to occupy a particular place in the collection. Nothing more can be inferred from them. A peculiar importance attaches to the 16. Sutta of the D., the Mahaparinibbanasutta, a running description of the events of the last weeks of the life of Buddha.—The number of Suttas in D. is 34; it is divided into three parts (Vagga): Silakkhandhavagga (1-13), Mahāvagga (14-23), Patikavagga (24-34).
- 2. The Majjhima-Nikāya "middle collection" contains Suttas of middle length. Their value is very unequal; some (e.g., Nr. 82,

As in the case of D., in M. too R. O. Franke would recognise no collection but an artificial literary work (schriftstellerisch verfasstes Werk), to which the Suttanipāta stands in relation of dependence.'
- 10. The third and fourth Nikāyas are more pronouncedly later and supplementary collections. In extent they considerably exceed D. and M.—3. The Samyutta-Nikāya ² gets its designation from the fact that its Suttas are grouped together (samyutta) according to their contents. The Sakka-Samyutta, for instance, contains those Suttas in which the god Sakka plays a rôle, the Bojjhanga-Samyutta is composed of those pieces in which the seven "elements of the highest knowledge" are discussed, etc. The most famous Sutta in S. is the Dhammacakkappavattanasutta, which contains the first sermen of Buddha with which he began his career as a world teacher. The number of Samyuttas is 56, and that of the Suttas 2,889; the whole is divided into 5 parts (vagga).
- 4. The Angustara-Nikāya (literally: "by-one-limb-more-collection") is divided into 11 sections (nipāta). They are called Eka-Nipāta 'section of one," Duka-Nipāta 'section of two," etc., up to Ekādasa-Nipāta 'section of eleven." Every section contains Suttas dealing with subjects which are in some way or other connected with the number of the corresponding section. The first Sutta in the Eka-Nipāta, for instance, deals with the one, which more than anything else darkens the mind of man, that is, woman. The section of five begins with Suttas 'which deal with the pañca schhabalāni, etc. Various combinations are resorted to in the Nipātas of higher designations for which no corresponding subject could be found. Thus Sutta 28 of the "section of nine" is made of 5+4, Sutta 11 of the "section of eleven" of 3+3+3+2, etc. In this scholastic method of grouping of subjects the A. resembles the Abhidhamma.—The number of Suttas is at least 2,308; the Nipātas are divided into vaggas containing as a rule 10 Suttas each. The largest number of Suttas contained in a vagga is 262; the lowest number is 7.

11. The 5th Nikāya of the Sutta-Piṭaka is the Khuddaka-Nikāya "the collection of short pieces." It contains texts of the most diverse characters, and it is significant that among the Buddhists of Ceylon, Burma and Siam there is no complete agreement as to the pieces belonging to it. In Ceylon Khuddaka-Nikaya is considered to consist of: 1. the Khuddakapātha, 2 a collection composed of only 9 short Sutta-like pieces. It is clearly a prayer book of daily use. Three of the Suttas (Nrs. 5. 6, 9) occur also in Suttanipata. Quite popular in character is the Tirokuddasutta (Nr. 7) which deals with the Petus, the departed souls. It bears the character of a magic hymn. Particular verses out of it are still recited in Ceylon and Siam on the occasion of the cremation of dead bodies, as is reported by Seidenstücker. -2. The Dhammapada is a collection of 423 memorial verses-a famous anthology of Indian Spruchweisheit. According to contents it is divided into 26 parts (vagga). Sometimes several consecutive verses form one close group—a small poem in itself. than half the verses may be found also in other canonical texts. The compiler of the Dh. however certainly did not depend solely on these canonical texts but also made use of the great mass of pithy sayings which formed a vast floating literature in India. -3. The Udana 4 is a collection of solemn sayings of Buddha. mostly in metrical form. Accompanying stories in prose give the occasions on which they were uttered. Altogether we have 82 stories divided into 8 parts (vagga).—4. The Itivuttaka ' 'Thus-has-been-said' closely resembles the Udāna. It contains the Master's sayings on morality. The number of the individual pieces, which are composed in a mixture of prose and verse, is 112. They are called Suttas and they either repeat the same thoughts at first in prose and then in verse, or in such a manner that the portions in prose and verse supplement each other. Like A. the Iv. is divided into Nipātas (Eka-. Duka-, Tika-, Catukka-Nipāta), and the latter are again divided into vaggas.

12. 5. The Suttanipāta 2 of the Khuddaka-Nikāya is very archaic in character. Its first four parts (vagga) consist of 54 pieces; the 5th, called Pārāyanavagga, is a running poem in 18 sub-sections, and it contains the questions which the 16 disciples of Bavari ask Buddha, as well as their answers. Some pieces of the Sn. are like Akhyāna-poems in character. Narrative stanzas sometimes alternate in them with dialogue-stanzas, as for instance in the Nālakasutta (III. 11), or, as in the Selasutta (III. 7), the speeches are in verse and the introductory or connecting portions in prose.—6. Vimanavatthu 3 and 7. Petavatthu * belong to the later and the least happy parts of the canon. Their later origin—perhaps a short time before the third council is proved less by their contents than by their language which is not always impeccable, the mention of Pingalaka, 5 etc. The Vimanavatthu describes the grandeur of celestial palaces, in which the Devas live in reward of some good act performed in lifetime. It consists of 83 stories in seven parts (vagga). The Petavatthu consists of 51 stories in four vaggas, and it describes the sorrowful fate of the spirits or restless souls (peta), which have to expiate for the sins committed in lifetime.

18. Like Vv. and Pv. also 8. the Theragatha and 9. Theragatha 1 are metrical in form. These are collections of strophes which are attributed to renowned monks (Thera) and nuns (Theri). Often several strophes together form short poems. There is no doubt that these strophes contain much that belongs to the authentic Buddhistic literature of the earliest times. Many verses however might have been fabricated by the collectors or the redactors on the basis of fragmentary reminiscences. As for the authors, the ascription of verses to a particular monk or a particular nun might in most cases be quite arbitrary. It is however not impossible that in some cases the ascription of verses to these authors is based on a dependable tradition. The Thera- and the Theriguthas can on no account be regarded as a "homogeneous work of a single intellect," even if due concession is made in this respect for the notorious utilisation of existing Gathas. 2 The number of Theragathas is 1,279, and that of Theragathas 522; the former are divided into 21 and the latter into 16 Nipatas, called Eka-, Dukanipata, etc., according as they contain one strophe or more attributed to one and the same author.-10. The Jatakas are a collection of strophes which from the beginning presuppose accompanying prose narratives. Each of the latter contains the story of the Buddha in one of his earlier existences. Only the verses however were regarded as canonical; the. prose narrative was left more or less to the discretion of the reciters. The strophes are very different in character. Sometimes they give the morals of the story, sometimes the questions and answers of the characters in the story form the subject of the verses, and sometimes the verses represent both the dialogue and the narrative. In the later Jatakas the narrative verses are predominant and they often combine to form ballads or epic poems. In the face of such diversity I cannot understand how "the mass of the Jataka-Gathas as a whole" may be regarded as "the personal product of a single author." The Jatakaverses are doubtless a "collection." This is suggested also by its quite artificial division into Nipatas as in the case of Thera- and Theragathas. The "section of ones" (Ekanipāta) consists of verses of which only one at a time belongs to a particular story; in the "section of twos" two verses belong to each story, etc.

The last pieces of the Kh. N. are 11. the Niddesa, a commentary to a part of the Suttanipata, traditionally ascribed to This text has not yet been edited.-12. Patisambhidamagga, dealing with the knowledge attained by the Arabant, belongs rather to the Abhidhamma literature both in form and contents.—13. The Apadana,2 most parts of which are still unedited, is a collection of legends in verse, in which are glorified the noble deeds (Apadana) of Buddhistic saints in previous existences. This work is certainly one of the youngest in the canon, but hardly younger than the Avadanas of the Sanskrit Buddhist literature.—14. The Buddhavamsa 3 is also metrical in form; in 28 cantos it delineates the story of 24 former Buddhas as well as of Gotama Buddha, recited by the latter himself.—15. The Cariyapitaka is a selection of 25 metrical Jatakas. Buddha himself explains in them how in previous existences he had fulfilled the ten Paramitas "perfections," which are the pre-condition of Buddhahood. In the first four Nikayas the doctrine of the Paramitas is still unknown. Winterintiz 4 rightly characterises the Cp. as the artificial production of "an excellent monk who was anything but a poet" and who manufactured edifying stories for the elucidation of the doctrine on the basis of the existing Jātakas. There were various recensions of the Cp. 5 One of them is mentioned in the Nilanakatha of the Jataka-book, but only two-thirds of the stories agree with ours.

5. Abhidhamma-Pitaka contain merely detailed elucidations of various topics dealing with ethics, psychology or theory of knowledge which are mentioned in the canon. Its form is throughout scholastic. The themes are schematically classified; they are not properly defined but ather described by multiplying synonyms. and they are brought into all possible combinations considered as they are from the most different points of view. The Abhidhamma is highly venerated particularly in Burma. The first suggestions of the Abhidhamma are found already in the dry and schematic enumerations in the Anguttara-Nikāya of the Sutta-Piṭaka, the last two Suttantas of the Dīgha-Nikāya and similar pieces.

- 16. The following seven works belong to the Abhidhamma: 1. Dhammasangani 2 "enumeration of psychical phenomena,"-a psychological work.-2. Vibhanga 3 "differentiation," a supplement and continuation of the preceding.—3. Kathāvatthu, 4 which has been already referred to in 1. It is perhaps historically the most important book in the Abhidham na. I consider the tradition about its origin to be quite trustworthy.-4. The Puggalapañautti 5 "description of individuals "deals with the various personalities and characters in the form of questions and answers -5. The Dhatukatha or the Dhatukathāpakaraņa 6 "discussion of the elements" deals with the various psychic phenomena and their relation to the categories.-6. The Yamaka 7 "book of pairs" is a work on applied logic, and it derives its name apparently from the fact that all psychic phenomena are considered in it in the light of a particular thesis and its opposite antithesis.—7. The Patthanappakarana or Mahaputthana is a voluminous work. deals with causality, but is very difficult to understand. The best European expert in the Abhidhamma, Mrs. Rhys Davids, says of this

Supplement: The Paritta

17. The Paritta or Mahāparitta 2 is a collection of canonical tex:s for popular magical use. In Ceylon such Paritta-ceremonies (8gh. pirit) are still in vogue. As Seidenstücker says, such ceremonies are performed on various occasions, such as the building of a new house, death, illness, etc.3 On these occasions the texts collected in the Paritta are recited. There are altogether 29 pieces, of which 7 are taken from the Khuddakapātha (cf. 11. 1), which seems to have been a predecessor of the Paritta. Also in Burma the Paritta is held in high esteem by the laity. It is not known when the present Paritta was compiled. Magical rites are, however, known in Buddhism from the earliest times. It is said of Buddha himself, 4 that he taught a "snake charm" to his disciples: it is significant that the purpose of the charm is to completely envelop the snakes with one's own spirit of benevolence (mettena cittena pharitum), so that it may not do any harm to anybody. It is also said in the book of Milinda that the parittā were taught by Buddha.5 Of the six texts which are then cited as examples, five are found in our Paritta. The commentary of the Dhammapada relates 6 of a great exorcism, which was performed by Ananda during the life-time of Buddha by means of the Ratanasutta of the Suttanipata.

II. THE NON-CANONICAL LITERATURE

I Period

From the Completion of the Canon to the 5th Century A.D.

- 18. According to the Indian tradition it was Mahinda who brought to Ceylon along with the canon also an Atthakatha, a commentary on it. The authenticity of this tradition however cannot be proved. It is at all events certain that in Ceylon already at an early time there was a commentary literature of considerable magnitude and multifarious contents. On this commentary literature is based not only the later commentaries such as those of Buddhaghosa, but also the historical literature beginning with the Dipavamsa. This Atthakatha of Ceylon seems to have been still existing and accessible even in the 12th century. In the opening verses of his Vinaya-commentary, the Samantapäsädikä, Buddhaghosa mentions the Atthakathä as the source of his own work.2 Buddhaghosa says that the Atthakatha was composed in the (old) Sinhalese language. In order to make it acces sible to the Bhikkhus, and at the suggestion of the Thera Buddhasiri. he translated it into Pali. The chief source was the Maha-Atthakatha: but he turned into account also the materials of other commentaries, such as the Mahapaccari- and the Kurundi-Atthakatha. The two Tikās on Smp., the Vajirabuddhi and the Sāratthadīpanī, mention moreover the Cullapaccari, the Andhatthakatha the Pannavara, and the Samkhepatthakathā. According to the Saddhammasamgaha (14th century) the Maha-Atthakatha was the commentary on the Sutta-Piţaka, the Mahāpaccarī on the Abhidhamma, and the Kurundī on Vinaya. 4 Also the Gandhavamsa 5 mentions the same three Atthakathās, and in fact the Aṭṭhakathā par excellence (i.e., the Mahā-A.) is ascribed to the Porāṇācariyā, and the two others are regarded as works of the Gandhācariyā—which clearly shows that they are later. Nothing has been directly preserved of all these old Ceylonese Aṭṭhakathās.
- This is quite evident from the data of the Mahāvamsa-Ṭikā, ZDMG.68.549-550. R. O. Franke's objection (D.XLV³⁵) may be met simply by consulting the contents of the passages of the Mhvs. Ti. quoted by me.

- There are preserved from the time before Buddhaghosa: 19. 1. The Nettippakarana "book of guidance," also called simply Netti, and 2. the Petakopadesa "instruction on the Pitaka" or the Petaka. 1 In Burma these two works are regarded as canonical.2 As the titles show, they serve as introduction to the teachings of Buddhism. cording to tradition they were composed by Mahākaccāyana, one of the most prominent disciples of Buddha.3 This is however certainly not true. The author was probably Kaccayana by name and was hence identified with the renowned disciple of Buddha. The same was the case also with the grammarian Kaccayana. The problem of the time of origin of these two works has been discussed by E. Hardy 4 in the light of both internal and external evidences. He assigns to them a date about the beginning of the Christian era. In connection with the Netti and the Petaka let us also mention 3. the Suttasamgaha 5 "collection of the Suttas." It is the only comprehensive anthology of Suttas as well as of texts such as Vimanavatthu, etc. We know nothing about the time of its origin or about its author. This work has however to be mentioned here because, along with Netti. Petaka and the book of Milinda, it is considered in Burma to belong to the "canonical" Khuddaka-Nikāya. 6
- 20. The Milindapañhā ' ' Questions of Milinda,' contains in the style of Suttas a dialogue between King Milinda and the Thera Nāga sena about the most important problems of Buddhism. In contents the book represents the orthodox point of view of the Theravadins. As the quotations occurring in it show, the canon known to the author does not differ in anything from the Pali canon. 1 Milinda is the Indian form of the name of the Graeco-Bactrian king Menander (end of the 2nd century B.C.), who was evidently well disposed towards Buddhism, but of whom it remains unknown whether he actually became a Buddhist. Our Milindapañhā is very probably based on a Buddhistic Sanskrit work, composed in North-West India about the beginning of the Christian era.3 The translation into Pāli took place in Ceylon, already before Buddhaghosa who quotes it repeatedly. The original work was much shorter as the Chinese translations show.4 The real contents of the work ended with Chapter 2, at the end of which we find in our Pali text the remark: Nagasena-Milindarajapañhā niţţhitā. Its introduction too was much shorter in the original than in the Pali version. It was considerably extended in Ceylon by various additions after existing models.⁵ It is not improbable that there were various versions of it in Pali; also the fragments of a metrical version are found in the Pali text.

21. To the works of the age before Buddhaghosa belong also the Dipavainsa "the island chronicle," a history of Ceylon up to the end of the reign of Mahāsena (325-352 A.D.). As Buddhaghosa knows the Dpvs., it must have been composed between 352 and about 450 A.D. Regarded from the literary point of view it is certainly a very weak performance. The author possessed only a very imperfect knowledge of Pāli and in language he is wholly dependent on his sources by studying which he collected his materials. R. O. Franke was quite right in all this. But he is quite wrong when, confusing form with contents, he refuses to recognise in Dpvs. any historical value. In contents the Chronicle is based on the historical portions of the old Atthakathā. That the informations given in it are not quite imaginary is proved by its frequent agreement with the tradition current in continental India. The Dpvs. is therefore the vehicle of an old historical tradition, and it is the duty of historical criticism to examine it minutely and assess its worth.

II Period From the 5th to the 11th Century

22. The beginning of the 2nd period is characterised by commentaries which were composed on the Tipiṭaka and which are based on the Ceylonese Aṭṭhakathā, Buddhaghosa is the greatest figure in this commentary literature. He was born in a Brahmin family of Northern India and came to Ceylon during the reign of king Mahānāma (458-480). He studied the Tipiṭaka and the Aṭṭhakathā in the Mahāvihāra of Anurādhapura and afterwards showed a very fruitful literary activity. The details about his life as handed down by tradition are probably nothing but legends. ³ The commentaries composed by him on the Tipiṭaka are the following ⁴:

- When Franke, JPTS. 1908, p. 1 says "that in the absence of any sources, the last-named work—namely, precisely this same Dpvs.—must be considered as standing unsupported on its own tottering feet," he is expressing as clearly as possible that the author of the Chronicle had freely invented his data! The commentaries of the Abhidhamma seem to have borne the general designation Paramatthakathā ⁸ Also the commentaries on the Jātaka and the Dhammapada are ascribed to Buddhaghosa, about which further below. Also the Apadānas are said to have been commented upon by him. ⁹ While still in India he is said to have composed a work called Ñāṇodaya, as well as an Atthasālinī ¹⁰ which was probably a first sketch of the later commentary on Dhammasangaṇi.

Along with the commentaries of Buddhaghosa should be mentioned also his Visuddhimagga "Path of purification." 11 It is a kind

23. Whether the Jātakaṭṭhavaṇṇanā, 2 the commentary on the Jātaka-verses mentioned above in 13 under Nr. 10, was also composed by Buddhaghosa, is not certain. The Jātaka-commentary 3 as it appears in Fausböll's edition, contains in all 547 stories, which are referred to former births of the Buddha and which are therefore called Jātakas "birth stories." Every story consists of four parts: 1. the canonical Gāthās; 2. the Atītava thūni, "the stories of the past," i.e., the prose narratives belonging to the Gāthās; 3. the Paccuppannavatthūni "stories of the persent," in which is described the occasion on which the particular Jātaka was told, along with the appended samodhānāni, in which is mentioned what characters have been assumed at present by the persons in the Jātaka; 4. the Veyyākaraṇāni, the "commentaries," in which the verses are explained word by word. The whole work is preceded Lit., pp. 113-56 (1938). I am inclined to attach more importance to the Jātakas as a source of knowledge about Indian culture about Buddha's time than Winternitz is prepared to do. I agree with the judgment given by Bühler, Indian Studies III (Sitzungsber. d. Wiener A. d. W., phil.-hist, Cl., Vol. CXXXII), p. 18 ff.

⁴ The various portions are not as sharply divided as may be suggested by the typographical contrivances in Fausböll's edition. The hand of the redactor may be perceived often and again in the relations between them. Thus, e.g., in II. 29513, as Franke has pointed out, the phrase tam eva udapānam of the Atītavatthu belongs to the Paccuppannavatthu.

by an introduction called the Nidānakathā, which contains the story of the Buddha in his earlier existences and in his last birth up to the dedication of the Jetabanavihāra in Sāvatthī.

In external form the Jataka-commentary is in my opinion the work of a priest of Ceylon, be he Buddhaghosa or some other scholar not far from him in time. But the author has taken his material from the old Atthakathā.3 The Atthakathā again is based on oral tradition. There is no doubt that from the very beginning the Gathas were handed down together with the stories-without the latter the former often give no sense at all. But the two portions have been handed down in different manners. The verse portion was fixed and unchangeable; but the prose portion containing the story was left more or less to the discretion of the rhapsodists. This also explains the contradictions which are sometimes found between the verses and the prose, and which was certainly present already in the Atthakathā. In short, the Jātakas are of the type of Akhyānas,5 but it is far from the truth that all the Jatakas are of this type. Also stories without any verse were incorporated into the collection. Such are, for instance, the Jatakas with the Abhisambuddhagathas,6 in which the Gathas are not placed in the story itself but are fathered on Buddha at the end in the samodhana. On the other hand. particularly in the Jatakas of the last books, in which the connecting prose shrinks almost into nothing in comparison with the verses, we see how the epic poetry is being gradually developed out of the older Akhyānas. The Jātakas were utilised at a very early time for the purpose of didactic sermons. This explains their extraordinary popularity from the early days of the Buddhist church ' to the present day. The contents of the Jātakas are not however specifically Buddhistic, but the common property of the Indian people as is proved, inter alia, by the numerous points of similarity and agreement between the Jātakas and the epics.¹ But the Buddhists have adapted these folk-tales and drawn them into their own sphere. Examples are not wanting which show how such folk-tales became Jātakas.² 'The process of incorporation takes place in the Paccuppannavatthūni. They are therefore later elements than the Atītavatthūni, although I believe that they too belonged to the Aṭṭhakathā. The differences between the scenes of action is very striking.³ The ''stories of the past '' are mostly referred to Western and Northern India (Gandhāraraṭṭha, etc.), but the ''stories of the present '' to the East (Kosalaraṭṭha, Magadharaṭṭha, etc.).

24. The Dhammapadaṭṭhakathā is later than the Jātaka-Commentary. According to the introductory verses, which are however quite stereotyped, it is the Pāli translation of an original Singhalese Aṭṭhakathā. In my opinion it is quite improbable that Buddhaghosa himself was the author of this commentary. But it is quite probable that this later work was greatly influenced by older prototypes. The Dhammapadaṭṭhakathā gives to every Gāthā or every group of Gāthās of the Dh. a particular story supposed to be a sermon (Dhammadesanā) of Buddha himself, at the end of which he recites the respective verses. These stories are more specifically Buddhistic than the Jātakas. Buddhistic priests and saints are the main characters in them. Not infrequently even Jātakas proper, the Atītavatthūni, are introduced: legends of a previous birth of one of the characters in the main story. Several of these interpolated stories may be traced in the Jātaka-Commentary, and, on the other hand, many of its main stories correspond to the Paccuppannavathūni of the Jātakas.¹ The literary style is largely influenced by the numerous quotations from the Jātakas, the Nikāyas, from Vimāna- and Petavathu, and from Suttanipāta and Vinaya.² The numerous cases of agreement in contents between the DhCo. and other works ³ can naturally be explained also on the hypothesis of common borrowing from a third source.

25. Along with Buddhaghosa should be mentioned:—1. Buddhadatta, who was his contemporary according to tradition.4 He is reputed to be the author of the Madhuratthavilasini (or Madhuratthapakāsanī), a commentary on the Buddhavamsa, as well as of the Vinayavinicchaya, a compendium of the Vinaya in Pāli verse, the Uttaravinicchaya of similar contents, the Abhidhammāvatāra, a handbook of Buddhist metaphysics, as well as a Jinālamkāra, which is certainly not the work of the same name which will be described below (84.3) With the possible exception of the first named work. everything is problematic about them. There might have been a scholar named Buddhadatta at the time of Buddhaghosa, but it appears to me that the tradition has ascribed to him also the work of a namesake of his who lived at a later age. -2. Ananda, of continental India, is the author of the Mūlatīkā or Abhidhamma-Mūlatīkā, the oldest sub-commentary to the Atthakathas of Abhidhamma. He is said to have composed it at the instance of Buddhamitta, who moved also Buddhaghosa to write his Papancasudani. If that is true, then Ananda and Buddhaghosa were contemporaries.—3. Dhammapāla of Padaratitha 1 composed a commentary called Paramatthadipani 2 on those parts of the Khuddaka Nikaya, which had not been commented upon by Buddhaghosa: Udāna, Itivuttaka, Vimāna- and Petavatthu, Thera- and Therigatha and Cariyapitaka. Moreover he is supposed to be the author of a commentary on the Visuddhimagga called Mahāṭīkā or Paramatthamanjūsā as well as a commentary on the Netti, the Nettippakaranassa Atthasamvannanā, a Tīkā to this his own work. called Linatthavannana, and also a Tika Linatthapakasani on the Atthakathas of the first four Nikāyas, a Tikā on the Jātakatthakathā as well as on Buddhadatta's Madhuratthaviläsini, and finally an Anutika on the Tīkā of Abhidbammatthakathā.3 The four last named works seem to be lost to-day. It seems that in this case too the tradition has fathered on Dhammapala, who might have been a younger contemporary of Buddhaghosa,4 the works of various Theras 5 of the same name, as he had made it his life's task to supplement the commentaries of Buddhaghosa. Dhammapāla's date would be one century later if he is identical with the Dhammapala of the Nalanda-Monastery who was Hiuen-theang's teacher's teacher. Yet however, like E. Hardy, I consider this identity to be yet unproved.

26. The number of the old commentators may be completed by adding the following names: 1. Culia-Dhammapāla, a pupil of Ananda, author of Saccasamkhepa "Elements of Truth;" 2. Upasens,

The former is reputed to have written a work called Vinayagandhi. 6. Khema, author of the Khemappakarana, ⁵ who is mentioned with Culla Dhammapāla, as well as with 7. Anuruddha, the author of the Abhidhammathasamgaha, the most read handbook on Abhidhamma, ⁶ on which the greatest theras of the 12th century have written Tikās. Anuruddha is also the author of two other works in the field of Abhidhamma, namely, Paramatthavinicchaya and Nāmarūpapariccheda. There are two Tīkās on each of them. ⁷

27. Two other short but important texts have still to be mentioned, which belong to the Vinaya: the Khuddasikkhā of Dhammasiri and the Mūlasikkhā of Mahasāmin. They are short compendiums on monastic discipline, for the most part in verse and evidently meant to be learnt by heart. There are various commentaries on them, as well as Singhalese translations. their language, they can be hardly placed before the 11th century. A lower limit is furnished by their mention in the Galvihāra-inscription of king Parakkamabāhu I (second half of the 12th century) in Polonnaruwa. These texts were held in high esteem already at that, time.

- The chronicle-literature of Ceylon owes to the second peroid 28. its most important work, the Mahāvamsa of Mahānāma. 2 It covers the same period of history as the Dipavamsa in almost the same order. The dry Chronicle has been here made into an artificial epic poem by drawing much new material from the Atthakatha. The kings Devahampiyatissa (247-207 B.C.) and Dutthagamani (101-77 B.C.) are the central figures of the first and the second parts respectively of the Mahavamsa. 3 According to Indian notions the Mahavamsa is a commentary on Dipavamsa. For this reason the commentary of the former is called Tika. I think Fleet was right when he connected the passage Mhvs. 38.59 with the origin of our poem. In that case the date of its composition would fall in the beginning of the 6th century A.D. (under king Dhatusena). The original Mahavamsa ends abruptly in 37.50 with the words Mahavamso nitthito. The later continuers have evidently destroyed the final portion in order to be able to impose their additions.

The work is composed in prose and presents, with the

30. The grammarian Kaccayana belongs to the age posterior to Buddhaghosa. His work Kaccayanavyākaraņa or Kaccayanagandha is considered to be the oldest Pali grammar. R. O. Franke 3 has, however, shown that even before Buddhaghosa and Dhammapala there must have been a fixed grammatical system, which was different from that of Kaccavana and was perhaps based on the grammar of Bodhisatta.4 The chief weakness of Kaccayana's system lies in the fact that it ignores the historical relation of Pali with Sanskrit. He gives an exposition of Pali wholly out of itself. Moreover it does not at all give an exhaustive treatment of the linguistic material. Kaccayana has naturally nothing to do with Mahakaccayana, the disciple of Buddha.5 He is also different from the Katyayana who in the 3rd century B.C. wrote the Varttikas on Panini's grammar. He is moreover to be distinguished from the author of the Netti and the Petaka. Without doubt he is later than Buddhaghesa, for otherwise the latter would have followed him in his grammatical terminology as the author of the classical Pali grammar. A higher limit for the date of Kaccayana may be obtained from the fact that he utilized, besides the Katantra of Sarvavarman and Panini along with his commentators, also the Kūśikū (7th century).6 Besides this magnum opus two other grammatical works, Mahāniruttigandha and Cullaniruttigandha, are ascribed to him. Out of the numerous commentaries on Kaccāyana I mention here only the Nyāsa of Vimalabuddhi, which is also called Mukhamattadīpanī. He seems to belong to the period we are dealing with because already towards the end of the 12th century Chapada wrote a commentary on it called Nyāsapradīpa.

III Period

From the 12th Century to the Modern Age

31. There was a great upward swing in the of literary activity of Geylon during the glorious reign of Parakkamabāhu I (1153-1186). Under lis auspices the Thera Mahākassapa is said to have held a council * with the purpose of providing Tikās in the Magadha-language to the Aṭṭhakathās, particularly of Buddhaghosa. The following is the list of the Tīkās:

1.	Sāratthadipani	Ţi	on Samantapāsādikā (Vin.)
2.	Paṭhama-Sāratthamañjūsā	,,	,, Sumangalavilāsinī (D.)
3.	Dutiya-Sāratthamanjūsā	1,	,, Papañcasūdanī (M.)
4.	Tatiya-Saratthamañjūsā	,,	,, Sāratthappakāsinī (S.)
5 .	Catuttha Sāratthamañjūsā	,,	,, Manorathapūraņī (A.)
6.	Pathama-Paramatthappakasini	,,	., Atthasālmī (Dhs.)
7.	Dutiya-Paramatthappakāsinī	,,	,, Sammohavinodanî (Vbh.)
8.	Tatiya Paramatthappakāsinī	,,	,, Pañcappakaraṇaṭṭhakathā
			(Dhk., etc).

Of these Tikas the Saratthadipani by Sariputta has been preserved. The same Thera is the author of another Tika on Papancasudani, named Linutthapakasana.

- 3 A very late commentary on the Nyāsa is the Nituttisāramannījūsā of the Burmese monk Dāthānāga (middle of the 17th century). Cf. Subbúti, p. X; de Zoysa, p. 25; Franke, p. 23; M. Bode, PLB., p. 55.

The account of the council of Mahākassapa closely follows the stories of older councils. It is probable that the council gave the impetus for the composition of such Tīkās and therewith initiated an era of remarkable literary activity, carried on mainly by Sāriputta and his pupils. As a work of Sāriputta is mentioned, beside the two already referred to above, the Vinayasamgaha "Compendium of the Vinaya." According to the Gross. he is said to have composed also the Sāratthamanjūsā on the Manorathapūranī.

32. Of Sariputta's pupils are to be mentioned: 1. Samgharakkhita us the author of a Khuddasikkhā-Tīkā (see 27). It is called "new Tīkā," and was therefore probably later than the Porāna-Tīkā attributed to Mahāyasa. Both the Tikās have been preserved in MSS.3-2. Buddhanāga, the author of a Tikā on the Kankhāvitarani (22, Nr. 2) called Vinayatthamanjūsā 4 which likewise exists only in manuscript.— The Gnvs. (62, 66) mentions 18 works of Vacissara. The following commentary-works of this author still exist (a) Mūlasikkhā-Abhinava-Tīkā (see 27), which is evidently later than the Porana-Tika of Vimalasara. 5 (b) Simalamkarasamgaah. belonging to the sphere of Vinaya, on the boundaries of sacred districts,—the monks living in them had to jointly perform the ecclesiastical duties. (c) Khemappakarana-Tikā on the work men tioned in 26.6.7 (d) Nāmarāpapariccheda-Ţīkā on the work of Anuruddha 8 mentioned in 26.7. (e) Saccasamkhepa-Tīkā (26.1), older than Sumangala's Tīkā on the same work. 9 (f) Abhidhammāvatāra-Tīkā 10 on the well-known work of Buddhadatta (25.1). (g) $R\bar{u}p\bar{a}r\bar{u}pavibh\bar{a}ga$, 11 like the works from c to f, belonging to the

There are mentioned, besides, Vinayavinicchaya-Tikā and an Uttaravinicchaya-Tikā (28.1) ; a Tikā called Sumanyalu ppasādanī on the Khuddasikhā; a Yogavinicchaya a Paccayasamgaha etc. It is quite possible that these works were composed by different Theras of the same name. There were at all events several Vācissaras 3—4. Sumangala composed a Tīkā on Anuruddha's Abhidhammatthasamgaha (26.7) which was titled Abhidhammatthavibhāvanī 3 and another Tīkā on the Abhidhammāvatāra (25.1) called the Abhidhammatthavikāsanī, 4 as well as a Saccasamkhepa-Tīkā, 5 which is also called the Abhinavatīkā (cf. above 3 c). All the three works exist in MSS.

- 83. Saddhammajotipāla or Chapada ⁶ belongs to the circle of Sāriputta's disciples. He was a native of Burma, but he received his education in Ceylon, where he stayed from 1170 to 1180 according to tradition. Of his works (cf. also 30) the following belong to the sphere of Vin ya: (a) Vinayasamuṭṭhānadīpanī, (b) Pātimokkhavisodhanī, ⁷ (c) Vinayagūṭhatthadīpanī, ⁸ in which the difficult passages of the Vinaya have been discussed, as well as (d) Sīmālaṃkārasaṃgaha-Tīkā ⁹ on 32.3 b. To the Abhidhamma belong (e) Mātikatthadīpanī, (f) Paṭṭhānagaṇanānaya, (g) Nāmacāradīpa, ¹⁰ as well as his best-known work (h) Abhidhammatthasaṃgahasaṃkhepa-Tīkā, ¹¹ a commentary on the work of Anuruddha mentioned in 26.7. Finally
- 1 The Tikas mentioned by de Zoysa, p. 15, 14 probably belong hereto. As author of the first work he mentions Revata, but he does not mention the name of the author of the second. In Fausböll, p. 19, Nr. 32 and 33 an anonymous Tika on the Vinayavinicchaya, called the Linatthappakäsini, has been mentioned, which however should not be confounded with the work of the same name referred to in 25.8.

there is still to mention (i) the Gandhasāra, apparently an anthology of sacred texts.—In connection with Chapada let us also mention the Burmese monk Sāriputta or Dhammavilāsa, who died in the year 1246. He received his ordination from Ānanda, one of the four Theras who accompanied Chapada on his journey back to Burma from Ceylon. Dhammavilāsa is the author of the oldest Burmese law-book Dhammavilāsa-Dhammasattha, which is the basis of the later legal literature of the Burmese.

84. The pupils of Sariputta displayed their activity also in the field of Buddhistic legends and ecclesiastical history. In this connection are to be mentioned 1. The Dathavamsa of Dhammakitti, who in the concluding verses declares himself to be a pupil of Sāritanuja. It is clear from the introductory verses that the poem was composed at the beginning of the 18th century.3 It deals with the story of Buddha's tooth-relic and adds to the tradition recorded in the Mahāvamsa a few notices which were very probably culled from the local tradition of Ceylon.—2. The Thüpavamsa of Vācissara, who was probably Sariputta's pupil. It is written in prose and is merely a compilation of pieces from Nidanakatha, Samantapasadika and Mahāvamsa with its Tikā. It was composed in the first half of the 13th century. The later Singhalese version may be ascertained to have been composed between 1250 and 1260.—3. The Jinālamkāra of Buddharakkhita, a poem composed in a very ornate language and in very artificial metres, which already bears all the signs of the artificial poetry of India. 6 It describes the life of Buddha till the Sambodhi. In the concluding verses (271 ff.) the author gives his own name and mentions the year 1700 (after Buddha=1156 A.D.) as the time of its composition. With the Jinālaṃkāra ascribed to Buddhadatta (25.1) our poem has therefore nothing to do, even if any real value attaches to this datum.—4. The Jinacarita of Medhaṃkara² is likewise a highly artificial poem which in conventional form deals with a subject similar to that of the Jinālaṃkāra. The Gnvs. 62^{2.4}, 72⁷ mentions this author immediately after Vācissara, Sumangala and Dhammakitti, and thus evidently takes him to be the pupil of Sāriputta. The author says in the concluding verses that he had composed his work in a Parivena erected by King Vijayabāhu. This seems to be a calculated and intentional homage, which however could have a point in it only if the prince was still living. It is therefore permissible to think that Vijayabāhu III (1225-29) is here referred to by the author, and Medhaṃkara would thus be a contemporary of Vācissara.

⁴ Pāli Thūpavaṃśaya ed. Dhammaratana, Ceylon 1896. Cf. Geiger, ibid., p. 92. The Gnvs. 70¹⁸ of course mentions the Thūpavs., but not among the works of Vācissara and without giving the name of the author.

The Tika on the Mahavamsa is of great importance for 35. information about the Ceylonese tradition. It is called Vamsutthappakāsinī. 5 Its author is unknown. As for it date, an upper limit is furnished by the reference to Dathopatissa II (ab. ut 670 A.D.), and a lower limit by the fact that the Pali-Thupavamsa (34.2) quotes it profusely. If the Mahabodhivamsakatha quoted in it is identical with our Bodhivamsa (29.2), then we get a still closer upper limit for it. The MhvsTi. is certainly older than the first supplement to the Mahavannsa by Dhammakitti (38), because it breaks off at the same place where the original Mahāvannsa (28) ends. It is probable therefore that the MhysTi, was composed in the 12th century. Its importance lies in the fact that it offers a mass of supplementary notices to the Mahavamsa culled from the Atthakatha. In this way it reveals to us the richness of the contents of the Atthakatha, which was still available at the time. The MhvsTi, is therefore a fruitful source of information about the indigenous tradition, the historicity of which however has naturally to be tested separately in each case.

36. Vedehathera belongs to the 13th century, as has been proved by the researches of d'Alwis and Sten Konow. 1 According to the notices in his works, he belonged to the Brahmin family of Vippagama. He was a "forest-dweller" and a pupil of Thera Ananda also called arannāyatana. His works are: (a) The Samantakūtavannanā "description of the Adam's Peak." 2 The poem deals with the story of Buddha's life and particularly the legends of his three visits to the island of Ceylon. On the occasion of his third visit he left on the summit of the Samantskūta his śrīpada, the print of his left foot. The verses 722-46 give a description of the sacred hill, which has given the name to the whole poem consisting of 796 strophes.—(b) The Rasavāhinī, a collection of prose stories, which, according to the introductory words, are based on a Ceylonese original. This original was translated into Pāli by Ratthapāla in the Mahavihāra, and the translation was revised by Vedehathera. Altogether the Rasav. contains 103 stories, of which 40 are derived from the Jambudīpa, the continent of Indis, and 63 from Lankādīpa. Ceylon. These are fables, legends, sagas and religious tales. The original work had very probably drawn the material from the Atthakatha. Hence the frequent quotations with tenāhu porāņā. In the present Pāli version the Mahāvamsa has been drawn upon profusely; some of the stories are based on the Apadanas and the Jataka book. The Sahassavatthuppakarana "the book of thousand stories" was probably in contents connected with the Rasav. and it is said to have been reintroduced into Ceylon from Burma.4

- 87. A contemporary of Vedehathera was Buddhappiya, the author of the Pajjamadhu, a poem which in 104 artistic stanzas glorifies the external beauty of Buddha and also his wisdom. In the last stanza but one, the author gives his own name and says that he is a pupil of Ānanda, who is doubtless the same person as Vedehathera's teacher.—The Attanagaluvihāravaṃsa was composed probably about the same time as the Pajjamadhu,—in the second half of the 13th century. It is written in a mixture of prose and verse and gives the story of the death of Sirisaṃghabodhi (Mhvs. 36.91 ff.) and his wife, as well as of the founding of the Attanagalu monastery on the spot where they died. As the anonymous author (v. 3) himself admits, he was induced to compose this poem by the priest Anomadassin, who is probably the person to whom, according to Mhvs. 86.37 f., in the reign of Parakkamabāhu II (1229-1246), was entrusted the Attanagalu monastery, furnished with new buildings by the minister Paţirāja.
- 38. The Mahavamsa of Mahanama (28) was continued under the special title Cūlavaṃsa "Short Chronicle" and made into a narrative covering the whole history of Ceylon.3 According to tradition the first author to continue the work was Thera Dhammakitti, who according to Mhvs. 84.12 ff. came to Ceylon from Burma in the reign of Parakkamabāhu II (first half of the 13th century). An evident supplement to the later Mhvs. begins with Chap. 90.104 after the close of the reign of Parakkamabāhu IV which began in the year 1284. second part of the Mhvs. (Chaps. 37-90) which ends here describes above all the glorious age of Parakkamabāhu I (1153-1186).4 In order to round off the concluding portion of the Mhvs., let us mention here that in the second half of the 18th century, according to Mhvs. 99.78 ff., the king Kittisiri had the chronicle extended up to his own time. This third part is made up of the Chapters 90 (from verse 105) to 100. In Chapter 101 are then given notices up to the arrival of the English in Ceylon.

- 39. To the transition period from the 13th to the 14th century belongs 1. the Sārasaṃgaha of Siddhattha, 1 a work on Buddhism in prose mixed with verses. The author gives his own name in the concluding verses of the work and also says that he was a pupil of Buddhappiya. If thereby the author of the Pajjamadhu is meant, then we have for the Sārasamgaha the date suggested above. A lower limit is at all events furnished by the reference to it in the Moggallanapancikapadipa composed in 1457 A.D. Some idea of the contents of the Saras is furnished by its chapter-headings: the Chaps. 1-3, for instance, deal with buddhanam abhinihara, tathagatassa acchariyani and panca antaradhānāni, Chaps. 13-15 with sīlāni, kammatthānāni, nibbāna, and Chaps, 30-34 with the Naga, Supanna, Peta, Asura, Deva 2: the last chapter contains a lokasamthiti (cosmology).—2. Somewhat later is the Saddhammasamgaha of Dhammakitti Mahāsāmin.3 This is probably the last of the Dhammakittis known to us, who was active towards the end of the 14th century. 4 In the 9th Chapter various authors and works are enumerated, the latest of them belonging of the 13th century. The Sdhs. in 40 chapters gives a history of the Buddhist church (without furnishing much new information) from the Councils in India to the period mentioned just above, and ends with a hymn in praise of the doctrine and a blessing for its study.
- 40. To the 14th century belongs: 1. the Lokappadīpasāra. According to Sāsvs. 48 it was composed by a Burmese monk named Medhankara, who had prosecuted his studies in Ceylon. The work deals with various forms of existence in the samkhāraloka, in the hell, among the Petas, in the animal world, in human life, in the sattaloka, and in the okāsaloka. The different topics are further elucidated by various legends. The 5th chapter, for instance, which deals with the forms of human existence, has drawn many stories from the Mahāvamsa.—Allied with it in content is 2. the Pañcagatidīpana, a poem in 114 strophes, which describes the five possible forms of rebirth in hell, as animal, as Peta, as man, or as god. Nothing is known about its author or the time of its origin.—3. The Buddhaghosuppatti¹ should belong to the 14th century if its author Mahāmangala is the same man as the grammarian Mangala (53.2 b). This short work is a biography of Buddhaghosa, and it is referred to also in the Sasvs. 30²⁰, where this famous commentator is dealt with. The author has made use of the data left by the pubbācariyā "the former teachers."

- 41. By way of appendix I would like to mention here two poems of which the authors and the time of origin are unknown: 1. The Saddhammopāyana, a collection of 621 (including the concluding verses 629) strophes in 9 chapters in praise of the law of Buddha.2 It begins with a description of the 8 akkhana, the miseries of the dasa akusulāni and the sorrowful lot of the Petas, and then goes over to the conceptions of punna and phala and describes the individual meritorious acts (dana, sila, etc.), and ends with appamada.—2. The Telakatāhagāthā 3 the "oil-cauldron-verses." These 98 strophes are ascribed to a Thera who was condemned to be thrown into a vessel full of boiling oil. He had been falsely accused of indirectly rendering help in an intrigue of the wife of King Tissa of Kalyani. This story belongs to the cycle of sagas centering round Rohana, and it is touched in the Mahavamsa (22.12 ff.), and is related at greater length in later sources. 4 The boiling oil cannot injure the Thera and he pronounces those strophes in which certain fundamental conceptions of the teaching of Buddha are elucidated. They deal with death and the thought of death, of transience, of suffering, and of the unreality of the soul, etc.
- 42. From the 15th century onwards the activity of the Burmese monks comes to the forefront. The special subject of their study is Abhidhamma. I mention here 1. Ariyavamsa, who lived in Avaduring the reign of Narapati (1442-68). He wrote (a) Manusāramanjūsā, a commentary to Sumangala's Abhidhammatthavibhāvanī (32.4); (b) Manidīpa, Tīkā on Buddhaghosa's Atthasālinī (23.8); (c) Jātakavisodhana, a work on the Jātakas.—2. Saddhammapālasiri, a contemporary of the former and author of Nettibhāvanī, 1 a Tīkā on the Netti (19).—3. Silavamsa, somewhat later than the above mentioned writers, was the author of the Buddhālamkāra, a poetical version of the story of Sumedha in the Nidānakathā.—4. Ratthasāra,3 who versified various Jatakas.—The poem Kayaviratigatha, 4 also belonging to the 15th century, is anonymous; it deals with the ways of overcoming sensuality.—To the 16th century belong 5. Saddhammalamkara, the author of a Patthanadipani on the Abhidhamma-work mentioned in 16.7, and 6. Mahānāma, the author of the Madhusāraithadīpanī, a sub-commentary on the Mula-Tika (25.2).—In the same century, the Wagaru-Dhammasattha composed in the Talaing language was translated into Palic by Buddhaghosa under the title Manusara (the original work was composed towards the end of the 13th century, somewhat later than the Dhammavilasa-Dhammasattha referred to in 33). The Manusara is the basis of the whole legal literature of Burma, composed partly in the native language, and partly both in Burnese and Pāli, as for instance the Manuvannanā (18th century) and the Mohavicchedani (19th century).

43. In the 17th century we have to mention 1. Tipiṭakālaṃkāra, 7 the author of (a) Visativanṇanā, a commentary on the 20 introductory verses of the Atthasālinī (22.8), and (b) Yasavaddhanavathu and (c) Vinayālaṃkāra a commentary on Sāriputta's Vinayasaṃgaha (31).—2. Tilokaguru, 8 author of (a) Dhātukathā-Tīkāvaṇṇanā and (b) Dhātukathā-Anutīkāvaṇṇanā, the two commentaries on the Dhātukathā (16.5), and (c) Yamakavaṇṇanā and (d) Paṭthānavaṇṇanā on the corresponding books of the Abhidhamma (16.6, 7)—3. Sāradassin, author of a Dhātukathāyojanā (on 16.5).—4. Mahākassapa, 10 author of the Abhidhammatthagaṇṭhipada which deals with the difficult termini of the Abhidhamma.—To the 18th century belongs 5. Ñāṇābhivaṃsa, 11 the Sangharāja of Burma, author of (a) Peţukāluṃkāra, a commentary on the Netti (19), (b) the Sādhuvilāsinī on a part of the D. (9.1), and (c) of several devotional stories such as Calusāmaņeravatthu, Rājavādavatthu. His (d) Rājādhirājavilāsinī deserves special mention. It is a prose work devoted to the eulogy of the then king Bodōpayā. It is a masterpiece of learned literary work, full of references to legends and history and teeming with quotations from various provinces of the literature, particularly from the Jātakas.—Somewhat older is the anonymeus Buddha-biography Mālālaṃkāra, which has become well known through Bigandet's translation.

45. Last of all I shall mention a number of modern works which cannot be dated accurately. or were composed in the 19th century. Both the time and the author of 1. the Nalāṭadhātuvaṃsa are unknown. The work gives the story of the frontal bone relic of the Buddha. It is evidently the Pāli counterpart, or perhaps the original, of the Sinhalese Dhātuvaṃsa, which contains exactly the same number of chapter: as this work. 2—Also 2. the Chakesadhātuvaṃsa 3 is devoted to the sacred relics. It is the work of a modern Burmese author and it gives in prose the story of six hairs of Buddha, which the latter had distributed as relics among his disciples, and for which Thūpas have been erected at various places.—Two modern works throw interesting sidelight on the relation between Ceylon and Burma: they are 3. the Saṃdcsakuthā 4 and 4. the Sīmāvivādavinic-chayakathā 5 In them are found the dates 2344 and 2345 after Buddha, equal to 1860 and 1801 A.D.

Quite a peculiar importance attaches to 5. the Gandhavamsa.⁰ This work was composed in Burma. It is a sort of library catalogue, a list of authors and works. After the usual introductory votive verses it begins at first with an analysis of the Tipiṭaka. Then it deals with the porāṇācariyā, the Theras of the three councils who compiled the words of the Buddha, with the exception of Mahākaccāyana. The same Theras are also the aṭṭhakathācariyā. Mahākaccāyana, who is mentioned in the Gandhavamsa as the author of the famous grammar.

Mahā- and Culla-nirutti, and Netti, Petakopadesa and the Vannanīti, is mentioned as the only example of the tividhanāmakācariyā. Then follows the long list of qandhakācariyā, headed by the authors of the Kurundi and the Mahapaccari, who are followed by Buddhaghosa, Buddhadatta, Ananda, Dhammapala, etc. Last of all are mentioned Ariyavamsa (see 42.1) and Udumbara. Then follows a list of anonymous works. After that the authors are grouped together according as they were active in Lanka or Jambudīpa (including Farther India). Last of all is recorded which works were composed at the instance of other persons, and which out of the authors' own initiative (attano matiyā).—6. The Sāsanavaṃsa of Pañnasāmin1 is dated in the year 1223 of the Burmese era, equal to 1861 A.D. Inspite of the very recent origin of this work it is of great importance in various ways, because it is based on older literature. In ten chapters it gives a complete history of the Buddhist church in India till the third council under Asoka, and then in Ceylon and other countries where Buddhist missions had been sent. The history of Buddhism in Aparantarattha, i.e., Burma itself, is dealt with very exhaustively in Chap. 6. It has to be mentioned however that in the Burmese tradition, no less than 5 out of the 9 countries, to which missions were sent according to Dpvs. 8.1 ff., Mhvs. 12.1 ff., are assigned to Farther India, namely, Suvannabhūmi, Vanavāsi, Aparanta, Yonaka and Maharattha. The chief sources of the Sasanvamsa are Samantapāsādikā, Dīpavamsa, Mahāvamsa, as well as the Burmese chronicles. The Atthakatha too is mentioned, but naturally it could have been utilised only indirectly.

45. There was an extraordinary literary activity both in Ceylon and Burma in the field of philology for which I may rely on the description of indigenous Pāli grammar and lexicography given by R. O. Franke.² W. Subhúti's Introduction to the Nāmamālā too is very useful.³

The grammatical works are divided into three groups: 1. Those which belong to the school of Kaccāyana (Bālāvatāra, Rūpasiddhi); 2. the grammar of Moggallāna with the ancillary works belonging to it, such as Payogasiddhi, Padasādhana, etc.; 3. Saddanīti with the Cullasaddanīti.1 To each of these three schools belongs a list of roots—the three lists being the Dhātumanjūsā, the Dhātupātha and the Dhātvatthadīpanī. For dictionary we have the Abhidhānappadīpikā. Finally there are also some works on prosody, etc. The value which these works possess as accessories for the study of Pali has been rightly judged by Franke.2 They are not based on the direct knowledge of Pāli as a living and spoken language. The authors have drawn their material from the literature just as we too have to do to-day. Their r ethod also is not based on any homogeneous tradition reaching back to the days when Pali was actually spoken. Moreover they slavishly imitate the model works of Sanskrit grammar and lexicography and take over their system mechanically into Pāli. Grammatical forms and words of Pali which are found in the text-books have therefore to be treated with the greatest caution so long as they are not proved actually to occur in literature. In all these cases the possibility is ever there that we have before us merely artificial constructions in imitation of Sanskrit.

46. Of the works belonging to the school of Kaccāyana, the commentary called Nyāsa has been already dealt with in 30, for it belongs to the preceding age. The next oldest work is 1. the Suttaniddesa of Chapada.³ Subhúti assigns it to the Buddayear 1715=1181 A.D. This also is a commentary on Kaccāyana. Approximately to the same age belongs 2. the Sambandhacintā of Samgharakhita,⁴ who has been mentioned in 32.1. It deals with Pāli syntax and there is an anonymous Tikā on it.—There is further 3. the Saddatthabhedacintā of the Thera Saddhammasiri⁵ from Arimaddana in Burma. This work too is furnished with an anonymous Tikā.—4. The Rūpasiddhi or Padarūpasiddhi⁶ is but a reshuffling of Kaccāyana's grammar. In the colophon the author gives his name as Buddhappiya with the surname Dipamkara, a pupil of the Thera Ananda. He is therefore probably the author of the Pajjamadhu (see 37), and the Rūpasiddhi therefore belonge to the second half of the 18th century. The work is divided into seven chapters, and the arrangement of the material is exactly like that of Kaccayans, the only difference being that Kitaka and Unadi have been stuffed in one chapter which is the seventh. There is a Tikal on the Rupasiddhi, as well as a Singhalese adaptation (sannaya) of it. The latter is mentioned already in Rāhula's Moggallāyanapañcikāpadīpa, a work of the year 1456 A.D.-5. The Bālāvatāra 2 is a handbook very much in use in Burma and Siam. This also is an adaptation of Kaccayana's grammar, giving the contents of the basic work in a more concise form and a slightly different order. According to tradition its author is Dhammakitti3 who composed also the Saddhammasaingaha (see 39.2). The Balavatara should accordingly have been composed towards the end of the 14th century. In Gnys. 629, 7126 it is however ascribed to Vacissara, in which case the work would be more than a century older. There is also a Balavatara-Tika4 by an anonymous author -6. The Saddasāratthajālinī 5 of the Burmese monk Kantakakhipanagita, usually called simply Nagita, was composed in 1900 after Buddha (=1356 A.D.), i.e., about the same time as the Ţikā on Abhidhānappadīpikā. The arrangement of the material is again very much as in Kaccayana's grammar. The chapters 3-9 of the former correspond to the chapters 1-7 of the latter.

lived in the second half of the 14th century. Fausböll however mentions Rassathera as the author of this work. There are two Tikas1 on this work which consists of 400 strophes and is divided into seven chapters. One of them was composed by the Burmese monk Ariyūlamkāra about the year 2152 after Buddha (=1608 A.D.), and is titled Sāratthvikāsinī. The other is the Kaccāyanabheda-Mahāţīkā of Uttamasikkha. Mahāyasa is also the author of a Kaccāyanasāra, 2 on which the author himself is said to have written a Tika. This is perhaps the Kaccayanasara-Puranatika,3 of which however Subhúti expressly says that the author and the time of origin are unknown. A Kaccayanasara-Abhinavaţīkā, also called Sammohavināsinī, was composed by the Burmese monk Saddhammavilasa of Pagan.—9. The Saddabindu, 4 consisting of 21 strophes, probably belongs to the second half of the 15th century. According to Sasv. 7625, King Kyacvā of Arimaddana (Burma) was the author of this work. Subhúti gives for it the year 2025 after Buddha (=1481 A.D.). A Saddabindu-Ţīkā⁵ titled Linatthasūdanī was composed by Ñāṇavilāsa towards the end of the 16th century.—9. Neither the author nor the time of origin of the Bālappabodhana6 is known. The editor Sudhammālamkāra gives the approximate date 2100 after Buddha (=1556 A.D.). It is at all events later than Kaccayanabheda and Saddatthabhedacinta. Also the Tika on Balappabodhana is anonymous.—I am unable to give any date for 10. the Abhinava-Cullanirutti of Sirisaddhammālamkāra.7 It deals with the exceptions to the rules of Kaccayana.—11. Finally I shall mention the Kaccāyanavannanā of the Burmese Thera Mahāvijitāvin,8 who lived about 1600 A.D. The work is a commentary on the samdhikappa of Kaccāyana. The authors of the most important earlier works, such as Nyāsa, Rūpasiddhi, Saddanīti. etc., are mentioned in the introductory verses. This Kaccāyanavaṇṇanā however must not be confused with a much earlier work of the same name, which has been mentioned already in the introductory verses of the Rūpasiddhi. Mahāvijitāvin is also the author of the Vācakopadesa, in which—according to Oldenberg—the grammatical categories have been considered from a logical point of view.

- Besides Kaccāyana, the Thera Moggallana or Moggallayana³ was the founder of a new grammatical school. His works are 1. the Moggallayanavyākaraņa, also celled Saddalakkhaņa, with the Vutti belonging to it, and 2. the Moggallayanapañcika, which was the author's own commentary on his grammar. This commentary is now lost. For the contents of the grammatical work of Moggallana I refer to the researches of R. O. Franke. It is doubtless superior to the work of Kaccayana. Moggallayana's grammar too is of course not free from the defects of indigenous Pali grammatical literature, but Moggallana deals with the linguistic material more exhaustively and with greater understanding of the essence and character of Pāli. There are considerable differences in the arrangement and grouping of the rules, as well as in the terminology. Besides the older Pāli grammars. the Katantra and the work of Panini, Moggallana has drawn most upon Candragomin. As for the age of Moggallana, he himself says in the concluding verses of the Vutti that he composed the work in the reign of Parakkamabhuja. Therewith is surely meant Parakkamabahu I (1153-1186 A.D.). Moggallana was an inhabitant of Anuradhapura, where he was a member of the Thuparama. According to the Gnvs. 629, 7126 Vācissara is said to have composed a Tīkā on his grammar : but it appears that this Vacissara was not the pupil of Sariputta mentioned in 32.3. There was evidently a confusion with the Thera Rāhula, the author of the Moggallāyanapañcikāpadīpa, who likewise bore the not unusual surname Vācissara.
- 49. As in the case of Kaccāyana's grammar, an extensive literature belongs also to the grammar of Moggallana.

First of all there is to mention 1. Piyadassin's Padasadhana. The author was one of the immediate pupils of Moggallana, and therefore probably belonged to the end of the 12th century. His work is an abridged version of the grammar of his master. De Zoysa says that the relation between Piyadassin and Moggallana is analogous to that between Balavatara and Kaccayana. A commentary called Padasādhana-tīkā or Buddhippasādanī2 on the Padasādhana was composed in the year 1472 by the Thera Sri Rahule of Titthagama, with the surname Vacissara, who is well known also in the Sinhalese literature.3-2. The Payogasiddhi of Vanaratana Medhamkara4 is considered to be one of the best grammars of Moggallana's school. and, according to de Zoysa, its position with regard to the Moggallanavyākaraņa is similar to that of Rūpasiddhi with regard to Kaccāyana's grammar. The author lived in the reign of Bhuvanekabahu, the son of Parakka nabahu. Perhaps it is Bhuvanekabahu III who is meant, in which case Medhamkara should have lived about 1300. He is different from the two Methamkaras mentioned in 34.4 and 40.1.— 3. The Moggallayanapancikapadipa5 is a commentary on the lost Pancikā of Moggallana. The author is the same Rahula who composed also the Tikā on Padasādhana. The Pancika-commentary is written partly in Pali and partly in Singhalese. De Zoysa considers it to be one of the most learned works on Pali grammar that we possess. Very rich material has at all events been collected and discussed in it. Subhúti mentions no less than 50 grammatical works which have been referred to in it, including Candra's Sanskrit grammar. The date of the work is given as the year 1379 of Saka era = 1457 A.D.

50. Aggavanasa's Saddaniti 6 is of peculiar importance for determining the value of indigenous tradition. The author was a native of Arimaddana in Burma, and his work is the fruit of grammatical studies as carried on in that country independently of Ceylon. The news of the erudition of the Burmese monks in the field of grammar is said to have been brought to Ceylon 1 by the mission of Uttarajīva. In order to test the truth of these rumours Ceylonese monks went themselves to Arimaddana. They were shown the Saddanīti, and they had to admit that in Ceylon there was no grammatical work which was so good as this. The year 1154 A.D. is given as the date of the Saddaniti. Its author Aggavamsa was also called Aggapandita the third and was the nephew of the second Aggapandita, who himself was a pupil of the first Aggapandita. Afterwards Aggavamsa became the teacher of King Narapatisithu (1167-1202).—On the whole, as R. O. Franke has shown, Saddanīti is based on Kaccāyana. From the point of view of contents it is hardly justifiable to separate the Saddanīti from the school of Kaccayana. But Aggavamsa utilised for his work also the Sanskrit grammars such as those of Pāṇini, etc. The work of Moggallana could have been hardly known to him; it was composed probably after the Saddanīti. The Saddanīti consists of 27 chapters; the first eighteen are called Mahāsaddanīti and the remaining nine Cullasaddanīti. It is expressly mentioned in the colophon that this work is based on the writings of the Acariya, as well as on the canonical literature, from which therefore it has drawn its material.

51. Of the lexicons only one has been handed down to us from olden times, and that is the Abhidhānappadīpikā of Moggallāna.² It is generally accepted from the time of d'Alwis that this Moggallāna is not identical with the grammarian of the same name (see 48). As is mentioned in its concluding verses, he was a member of the Jetavana-monastery in Pulatthipura (Polonnaruwa), whereas, as we have seen, the grammarian Moggallāna lived in the Thūpūrāma in Anurādhapura. Also in Gnvs. 62³ he is called Nava-Moggallāna to distinguish him from the grammarian. The difference in age between the two however could not have been very great. From the manner in which the king Parakkamabhuja (Parakkamabahu I) has been spoken of in the concluding verses it is clear that the Abhidhanappadipika must have been composed shortly after his reign (1153 1186), that is to say, towards the end of the 12th century.—The work is divided into 3 parts: synonyms, homonyms and indeclinables. It consists of 1203 strophes. The model after which this work was composed was the Large portions, particularly in the part on synonyms, have been taken in toto from the Amarakosa, and not infrequently Moggallana gives as Pali words straight away those forms which he himself constructed from Sanskrit according to the phonological laws of Pāli. R.O. Franke has shown that beside Amara also another Sanskrit Kośa might have been used. It does not seem to me to be conclusively proved however that another Pali synonyms-dictionary must have existed before the Abhidhanappadīpikā. A Ţīkā on the Abhidhauappadīpikā (see 46.6) was composed about the middle of the 14th century.—We have still to mention the Ekakkharakosa of the Burmese monk Saddhammakitti, 1 a metrical list of monosyllablic words closely on the model of similar works in Sanskrit. The date of the work is the year 2009 after Buddha = 1465 A.D.

52. So far as the lists of roots are concerned, 1. Dhātumanjūsā² (cf. 45) belongs to the school of Kaccāyana. It is therefore also called Kaccāyana-Dhātumanjūsā. According to the colophon, its author was the Thera Silavamsa of the Yakkhaddilena monastery, now Yakd ssāgala near Kurunāgala. It is metricai and consists of 150 strophes. According to Subhúti, the work is planned after Vopadeva's Kavikalpadruma. Its relation with the school of Kaccāyana is further proved by the agreement which is found in the arrangement of root-classes. According to Franke, Sīlavamsa used both the Pāṇini-Dhātupātha and the following work.—2. The Dhātupātha 3 belonging to Moggallāna's system, as indicated by the order of the root-classes, is shorter and not metrical. The author and the time of origin are unknown. Probably however the Dhātupāṭha is older than the Dhātumanjūsā.—3. The Dhātvatthadīpanī, according to Franke, "is a versified form of the roots recounted in a particular chapter of the Saddanīti." The order of the root-classes agrees with that of the Saddanīti. The author of the Dhātvatthadīpanī had made use of the Pāṇini-Dhātupātha, like the authors of the works discussed above in 1 and 2.

53: 1. Pāli poetics is dealt with in the Subodhālamkāra of Samgharakkhita 2 who has been mentioned frequently above (32.1, 46.2). There is also a Tika on it. The same There wrote a work on Pali prosody of the title Vuttodaya's on which there is likewise a Tika named Vacanatthajotikā.—2. Lastly I mention here a number of works of grammatical contents which have been discussed by Subhúti 4 but which I am not in a position to classify accurately: (a) Vaccavācaka of the Samanera Dhammadassin of Arimaddana in Burma, consisting of 100 strophes, dating probably from the end of the 14th century. A Tika on it was composed in the year 2312 after Buddha (= 1768 A D.) by the monk Saddhammanandin of the Khemāvatāra-monastery in Burma. -(b) Gandhatthi of Mangala, a work on particles, perhaps belonging to the 14th century, and probably older than the work mentioned next. Cf. 40.3.—(c) Gandhābharana of Ariyavamsa, likewise dealing with particles, composed about the year 1980 after Buddha (= 1436 A.D.). A Ţīkā on it was composed by Suvaņņarāsi of Burma (2128 after Buddha =1584 A.D.).—(d) Vibhattyatthappakarana on the use of cases, in 37 Slokas, is ascribed to a daughter of the King Kyncvā of Burma. date is 2025 after Buddha (= 1481 A.D.) according to Subbúti. belongs a Vibhattyattha-Tikā, which is perhaps identical with the Vibhattyatthadīpanī mentioned by de Zoysa and Fausböll. At least in the introductory verse the Tika ascribes to itself the same title. De Zoysa mentions also a Vibhattikathāvannanā.—(e) Samvannanānayadipani o composed by Jambudhaja in 2195 after Buddha (=1651 A.D.).

A. PHONOLOGY

1. Sound-system and Accent

- § 1. For the writing of Pāli there are used in the Orient various scripts: in Ceylon the Sinhalese, in Burma the Burmese, in Siam the Kamboja script. The Bangkok edition of the Tipiṭaka is printed in Siamese letters.
 - § 2. The sound-system of Pali consists of the following:
- 1. Vowels: a, \bar{a} , i, \bar{i} , u, \bar{u} , e, o, as well as the nasal vowels am, im, um.
 - Consonants: Gutturals: k, kh, g, gh, n.
 Palatals: c, ch, j, jh, π.
 Cerebrals: t, th, d, dh, n.
 Dentals: t, th, d, dh, n.
 Labials: p, ph, b, bh, m.
 Liquids: τ, l, l, lh.
 Semi-vowels: y, v.
 Sibilant: s.
 Aspiration: h.

Here should be noticed: 1. The vowels e, o are of middle length, in closed syllables they are short and in open syllables they are long.—2. The sign of nasalisation (n) corresponding to the anusvāra and anunāsika of Sanskrit is called Niggahīta by Pāli grammarians. In Ceylon at present the Niggahīta is pronounced as a guttural nasal.—3. The consonant l stands for intervocalic d, likewise lh for dh. In the MSS, l and l are always confused. Some spellings seem to be arbitrary. Thus $k\bar{a}la$ 'black' is mostly written with l, although it is equivalent to Sanskrit $k\bar{a}la$, probably to distinguish it from $k\bar{a}la$ 'time.' Surely l should be written everywhere where an etymological connection with cerebrals is apparent.—4. The l is, where it stands alone, a consonant. In combination with l, l, l, l, l, or with the nasals, it appears to have been pronounced in a particular manner. The grammarians in this case call it orasa 'spoken in the breast.' ²

The original diphthongical character of c, o is brought to light by the circumstance that in Sandhi a+i becomes e and a+u becomes o. Cf. macchassevodoke gatam=macchassa iva udake go 'like the course of fish in water 'Ja. 1.2958. There was even a tendency to use them (instead of ai, au) as vrddhi-vowels. Thus are found forms originated inside Pāli, such as tepiţaka 'devoted to the Tipiţaka ' DhCo. III. 384, 18 Mhvs. 5.84 from tipitaka, and opadhika 'relating to the substratum of existence ' Vv. 34.21, 24=S. I. 233¹⁵,21 from upadhi. This strengthening into e, o may take place even in those cases where originally there was no i, u. Thus pothujjanika ' relating to common people ' Vin. I.1012 from puthujjana, where the u corresponds to Skr. 7 (pṛthagjana). Cf. sosānika 'relating to cemetary 'Pu. 6927, DhCo. I. 694 from susāna=smasāna. In gelanna 'illness' D.II. 9916, JaCo. II. 3120 from gilāna=Skr. glāna, and in sovatthika 'bringing prosperity 'Vv. 18.7 from suvatthi=Skr. svasti, e and o are the strengthened forms of the svarabhakti-vowels i, u originated within Pāli. Cf. also veyyāvacca 'rendering service' Vin. I.2890 from *viyāvata=Skr. vyāpīta; veyyākaraņa 'answering 'D. I. 515 from viyākaroti=Skr. vyākaroti.

In the same way a has been strengthened into ā within Pāli: sākhalya, lla 'friendliness' M.I. 446¹⁹, Jā. IV. 57⁵ from sakhila; bhākutika 'with frowning eye-brows' Vin. III. 181⁶ from bhakuţi=Skr. bhrakuţi (or bhīkuţi).

§ 4. Nothing has been handed down to us about the nature of Pāli accent. It is, however, improbable that the ancient Indian accent was still in force. Rather, as Jacobi has suggested also for Prākrit, the Sanskritic accent was the rule in Pāli. This is suggested by the changes of vocalism in Pāli, such as the weakening of a vowel after the accented syllable (in the Skr. form) or its strengthening in the main tonic syllable. Cf. § 19 ff.

2. The Law of Mora

§ 5. In Pāli, as generally in Middle Indian, a syllable can contain only one mora or two moras but never more. The syllable is thus either (1) open with short vowel (one mora), or (2) open with long vowel (2 moras), or (3) closed with short vowel (2 moras). Every syllable with a nasal vowel is considered as closed. Long nasal vowels do not occur. Due to this law, where Skr. has long vowel there double-consonance (i.e. in closed syllable), Pāli has there either (a) short vowel before double-consonance or (b) long vowel vous following double-consonance simplified.

Examples of (a): jiṇṇa 'old, exhausted '=jīrṇa. Likewise maṃsa 'flesh '=māṃsa, and the final in nadiṃ 'the river' (acc.)=nadīn The vowels e, o are short in such cases: sēmha 'catarrh '=śleṣman; öṭṭha 'lip'=oṣṭha.—Examples of (b): lākhā 'lac'=lākṣā; dīgha 'long' =dīrgha. In case of the vowels e, o, the orthography in the msa. varies not infrequently, such as apēkkhā and apēkhā 'expectation.' =apekṣā; upēkkhā and upēkhā 'indifference'= upekṣā; vimŏkha and vimōkha 'deliverance' D. II.70²⁸, A. IV. 306¹¹=vimokṣa.

§ 6. The Law of Mora has led to various changes. Due to it: 1. there can be in Pāli long vowel before single consonant where Skr. has short vowel before double-consonance: sāsapa 'mustard seed' (instead of *sass-) Dh. 401, S. II. 18217, DhCo. I. 1073 =satṣapa; vāka 'bark' (instead of *vakka) D. I. 1672, Vin. III. 3428, JāCo I. 3042 = valka; nīyāti 'goes away '=niryāti.4—2. Pāli shows short vowel before double-consonance where originally there was long vowel before a single consonant: abbahati 'draws out' Th. 1. 162, 1007, Sn. 334. Jā. II. 955 =ābrhati; nidḍa (sic!) 'nest' Dh. 148 (AMāg. nēḍda) =niḍa; udukkhala 'mortar and pestle' Vin. III. 626, D. II. 3416, Jā-Co. I. 50220 (AMāg. udukkhala beside udūhala) =udūkhala; kubbara

In P. sutti, therefore, there have coincided, e.g., Skr. šukti 'oyster-shell' (Vio. II. 10611,13) ard sūkti 'good speech' (Suddhammopāyana 340, 617).

For analogous phenomena in Pkr. see Pischel, PkrGr. § 62-65, 90, 74-76.

⁴ Cf. also svätandya ' for next day ' (in Buddhistic Skr. śvetandya etc.) from Skr. śvetana. Johaneson, Monde Oriental, 1907-08, p. 106 ff.

- 'pole of a carriage' Vv. 64.2, A. IV. 1916, VvCo. 2695 = kūbara, kūvara; pěttika 'fatherly' D. II. 23210, Vin. III. 1635, JāCo. II. 5913 for *pētika = paitīka (after which has been latterly formed mettika). Cf. also mahabbala, mahapphala = mahābala, mahāphala.—

 3. As the short nasal vowel has two moras like the long. a nasal not infrequently appears in the place of a pure long vowel 1 and vice versa: maṃkuṇa 'bug' JāCo. III. 42313 instead of *māk., *makk = matkuṇa; saṃvarī 'night' D.III. 19622 (verse), Jā. IV. 4416 instead of *sāv., *sabb = śarvarī; suṃka 'toll' (AMāg. ussuṃka) instead of *sūka, *sukka = Skr. śulka; ghaṃsati 'rubs' instead of *ghās., *ghass = ghaṛṣati; vidaṃsentī 'she who shows' Th2. 74 instead of *vidās., *vidass = vidaṛśayantī. On the other hand: vīsati vīsaṃ 'twenty' = viṃśati; sīha 'lion' = siṃha; sārambha 'audacity' (beside saṃrambha Dāṭhāvs. 4.34) = saṃrambha, and other words with sam.
- § 7. Sometimes a long vowel is retained before double-consonance. Thus particularly in contractions, as in $s\bar{a}jja=s\bar{a}$ ajja Th2.75, $yath\bar{a}jjh\bar{a}sayena$ 'according to desire' JāCo. IV. 2438. Further, in derivatives such as dussilya from dussila. Cf. $b\bar{a}lya$ 'stupidity' DhCo. II. 303, variant reading of balya. These are evidently cases of learned orthography. There are also sporadical cases like $d\bar{a}bb\bar{i}$ (name of a plant) Abhp. $586=d\bar{a}rv\bar{i}$; $d\bar{a}tta$ 'sickle' Abhp. $448=d\bar{a}tra$ (none of these, forms, however, is quotable from texts). Quite frequent is $sv\bar{a}kkh\bar{a}ta$ 'well proclaimed' Vin. I. 12^{24} etc. $=su-\bar{a}khy\bar{a}ta$.
- § 8. It is also due to the action of the Law of Mora that even in the case of the separation a consonant-group by a Svarabhakti vowel (§29 ff.) a long vowel preceding the consonant-group is regularly shortened.³ The two one-mora syllables in these cases represent one two-mora syllable: suriya 'sun' (instead of *sūyya) = sūrya; but sūriya 'heroism' Jā. I.282¹⁷, purposely differentiated from the preceding; pakiriya gerund of pakirati 'loosens (the hair)'=prakīrya. In words like cetiya=caitya and Moriya=Maurya we have therefore to consider e and o as short vowels.—The insertion of the svarabhaktivowel however does not disturb the length of a following vowel: thus gilāna 'ill'=glāna. Only in the case of the originally monosyllable words itth' woman '=strī, sir' 'fortune'=śrī and hir' modesty' = hrī does this law act in some measure.\frac{1}{2} In compounds these words have short vowel\frac{2}{2}: itthiratana 'jewel of a woman' D. I. 89\frac{3}{2}, hirimana' of modest disposition' D. II. $78^{\frac{1}{2}4}$ etc. Also sirimant, hirimant and occasionally sassirika, ahirika etc.

² Childers gives also ājjava 'straightness' beside ajjava. Sākya Bodhivs. 22¹³, 27²⁹ instead of Sakya (according to the Colombo edition), Sakka or Sakiya is perhaps a wrong reading. The form Sākiya also is not quite correct.

³ As a rule it is different in Pkr., cf. AMag. sūriya vīriya etc. But still AMag., JMah. veruliya=voidūrya (P. veļuriya). In Pali we have sīliya, Ja. III. 7¹ only metri causa.

3. The Vowels # #

- § 9. Occasionally e appears for a before double-consonance: pheggu 'empty, worthless' M. I. 194^{25} , S. IV. 168^2 etc. = phalgu; $seyy\bar{a}$ 'bed'= $sayy\bar{a}$.\(^4\) The word ettha 'here' is probably not = atra, but=*itra, Av. $i\theta ra$,\(^5\) and is therefore to be classed with § 10.2. In the same way hettha 'below' is derived not from $adhasth\bar{a}t$, but from an * $adhesth\bar{a}t$ 6 as is shown by the cerebrals -tthalpha6.
- § 10. 1. The vowels i, u are lengthened in the flexional endings -ihi, -ūhi and -īsu, -ūsu of i- and u-declensions (§ 82).—

 2. Not infrequently i and u become ĕ and ŏ before double-consonance⁷: Venhu (JMāh. Vinhu) D. II. 259²²=Viṣnu ⁸; nekkha 'gold ornament' Sn. 689, A. I. 181¹⁵ (beside nikkha Vin. I. 38¹⁶) = niṣka; koccha 'bundle, ball, fleshy part' Vin. II. 149³², 266²³ = kūrca (cf. §62,1); oṭṭha 'camel' M. I. 80¹³, Vin. IV.
 - On the same words in Pkr. see Pischel, PkrGr. § 98, 147.
- 2 Lengthening takes place only metricausa, thus strimant Th1. 94, stridhara Mhvs. 5.16.4.
 - 3 sassirīka JāCo. I.50429. Smp. 30023, nissirīka JāCo. VI. 4561.
- 4 There might have been intermediate forms like *phiggu, *siyyā (Pkr. sejjā with the frequent variant reading sijjā). Cf. minjā 'marrow' (§6.3) = majjā. For Pischel's explanation see PkrGr. § 101. Jacobi, KZ. 35.573 ascribes the i in sijjā to the influence of the palatal.
- 5 So already Lassen, Instit. Linguae Pracritices 129. Cf. E. Kuhn, Beitr. p. 21. Pischel, § 107 thinks of connection with Ved. 1tthā I would however like to point out the v. l. ubhayettha of ubhayettha DhCo. I. 2913.
- 6 Pischel § 107. Not so Johansson, IF. 3.218; Monde or. 1907, 93 and Wackernagel, KZ. 43.293.
 - 7 Frequently also in Pkr., Pischel, § 119, 122, 125.
 - 8 Also in S. I. 5210 should be read Venhu instead of Vendu.

716=ustra; vokkamati 'gets deranged' D. I. 23014, M. III. 11723, JāCo. I. 2321 = vyutkramati; Okkāmukha (proper name) = Ulkāmukha.1 In words like rāmaneyya 'charming '=rāmanīya, dakkhineuva 'worthy of veneration '=daksinīya, an intermediate stage with *-iyya has to be imagined.—The change into e takes place even in the case of such i as is derived from r. Thus in the verb aheppati 'grasps,' if it is derived from *ghippati < *ghippati like Pkr. gheppai as Pischel (PkrGr. § 107) has suggested.—The doubleconsonance following after &, & may be secondarily simplified according to the Law of Mora with concomitant protraction of c, o: Uruvelā (place-name) through *-věllā, *-villā=Uruvilvā; ojā 'strength' D. II. 28510, M. I. 12432, DhCo. I. 10716 through *ojjā, *ujjā=ūrjā. In vihesati 'njures, insults' Ud. 4430, 458 (beside vihimsati) the intermediate steps *vihisati, *vihissati *vihěssati have to be imagined. Out of original this i,e has been developed in paligedha 'desire' A. I. 6610, paligedhin A. III. 2657 through *-gĕddha, *-gĕddhin, *-giddha, *-giddhin=gīddha, gīddhin.

§ 11. Intermediate stages with double-consonance have to be imagined where in open syllable \bar{i} , \bar{u} have become c, o: edi, edisa (erisa), edisaka, edikkha (erikkha) ' such a one ' Sn. 313, Vin. I. 195^{11} , Mhvs. 5.56 (beside $\bar{i}disa$ etc. Mhvs. 5.93) through *iddi, * $\bar{e}ddi$ etc. = $\bar{i}d_{\bar{i}}\bar{e}$, $\bar{i}d_{\bar{i}}\bar{e}\bar{a}$; $\bar{a}vel\bar{a}$ 'garland' Vv. 36.2, JāCo. I.4446, 501^{29} (Pkr. $\bar{a}mel\bar{a}$) through * $\bar{a}v\bar{e}d\bar{a}$, * $\bar{a}ve\bar{e}d\bar{a}$ * $\bar{a}vid\bar{a}$, = $\bar{a}pid\bar{a}^3$; $galoc\bar{i}$ (a plant; Pkr. $galo\bar{i}$) Abph. 581 through * $galoc\bar{i}$, * $galucc\bar{i}$ = $gud\bar{u}c\bar{i}$; jambonada 'gold' Dh. 230, Vv. 84. 17 through *aveleda *av

§ 12. The vowel r is represented by a, i, u in P.—even in initial position, which is not the case in Pkr. 1 The quality of the vowel is largely influenced by the neighbouring sounds (cf. § 16); u appears mostly after labials.—1. a stands for r : accha 'bear' Jā, VI. 5075, JāCo. Sometimes representation varies: cf. above, beside accha the dialectical form ikka 'bear'; vīddhi has been differentiated into vaddhi 'blessing' and vuddhi 'growth'; mrga has been differentiated into maga 'animal' Sn. 275, Th1. 958, S. I. 19921 and miga 'gazelle' passim.2 Beside ina there is anana 'debtless' Th2. 2, M. II. 10516 and sana (=sa-ana) 'indebted' M. III. 1277,9, S. II. 2211, probably through vowel-assimilation³ (but saying or saina Mhys. 36.39). Beside kanha 'black'=kṛṣṇa there is found as variant reading kinha D. I. 9015, S. IV. 1176. Skr. pythivi appears as pathavi, pathavi, puthavi, puthuvi, puthuvi; here the region from where the MSS, are derived is be taken into consideration: pathavi, e.g., is the orthography of the Burmese MSS. Moreover of. pitughātaka, mātughātaka 'parricide, matricide' Vin. I. 8820 with pitipakkhato, mātipakkhato 'from paternal side, from maternal side 'etc.

But always ukkā 'flame, rietecr' D. I. 4931, JāCo. IV. 29023; D. I. 1017 = ulkā. The name Okkāka = Ikēvāku, which is connected by the Buddhists with ikṣu' sugarcane' is in fact derived from *Ukkhāka (*ukkhu side-form of ucchu). The analogical influence of Okkāmukha was also effective.

§ 13. In some cases the τ -vowel becomes consonant: brahant, brahā° 'big' Th1. 31, Jā. III. $117^{23} = b\tau$ hant; brāheti 'devotes himself to a cause' Dh. 285, Ud. 72^{17} (verse), JāCo. I. $289^{11} = b\tau$ hayati, $v\tau$ hayati. $V\tau$ becomes τu in $\tau ukkha$ 'tree' $= v\tau$ kṣa' and in pāruta

¹ In Pkr. initial 7 usually becomes r+vowel, Pischel PkrGr. § 56. In P. we have only isuveda Dpvs. 5.62. or isubbeda DCo. I. 24719 = 1goeda. This word is however an artificial formation.

The form migs is found in its general meaning 'animal' in sakhāmēgs 'monkey' Jā. III. 98¹⁴, migscakka 'animal magic' D. I. 9¹⁶, DCo. I. 94⁶.

I. 296^{21} etc., samnatavīrakutti Jū. V. 215^{16} where kutta = kappana, just as mata = marana. In DhsCo. 321^{11} it is explained by $kiriy\bar{a}$.

5. Diphthongs and their Representation

§ 15. The diphthongs e, o are as a rule preserved; ai and au have become c and o: Erāvaṇa (name of Indra's elephant) = Airāvaṇa; mettī 'friendship' = maitrī; ve (interj.) = vai. orasa 'derived from the breast' = aurasa; pora 'urban' = paura; ratto 'at night' = rātrau

Not infrequently e and o are shortened into i and u before double-consonance 4 ; this shortening may take place even where the double-consonance is of secondary origin (according to § 6.2): 1. i from e = original e: pativissaka 'neighbour' M. I. 126., DhCo. III. 15511 from $^{\bullet}$ -võssaka=prativesya-ka; pasibbaka 'bag' Vin. III. 1710, JāCo. III. 10^{21} etc. through * -sẽbbaka=prasevaka. The word ubbilla 'pleasant surprise' M. III. 1594 with its numerous derivatives belongs to the root vell with ud. Also dvinnam, ubhinnam are traced by E. Kuhn5 to * dvenam, * ubhenam which are directly derived from the Nom. (* ubhe instead of ubho is due to analogy with dve^{6}).—2. i from e = original ai: issariya 'rulership' = aisvarya; sindhava 'horse from Sind' = saindhava.—3. u from o = original o: akuppa. asamkuppa 'unshakable' Th1. 182, 649 = -kopya; tutta 'spur' Cp. III. 5.2, D. II. 266^{5} (verse) = $tottra^{7}$; sussam (v.l. sossam) 'I shall hear'

6. Influence of Neighbouring Vowels or Consonants on the Vowels

- § 16. Vowels are not infrequently influenced by neighbouring vowels. Here we have the beginnings of a 'vowel-assimilation' in Pāli.² 1. Influence of following vowels: (a) i becomes u before a following u: usu 'arrow' (also in AMag.) = isu; ucchu 'sugar-cane' (AMag. ucchu beside ikkhu) = iksu; kukku (a measure of length) A. IV. 404^{21} , Vin. I. $254^{36} = kisku^3$; susu 'young' = 8isu (nasalised form in sumsumāra 'crocodile' = śiśumāra). In kukkusa 'powder in rice-ears' Vin. II. $280^{20} = kiknasa^4$ the intermediate steps are *kikkasa, *kikkusa (§19.2). Hereto belongs nutthubhati, -hati 'spits out 'Vin. II. 1757, JaCo. I. 4592, II. 10523 (beside nitthubhati Ud. 5018. ·hati DhCo. II. 367) from a root *stubh with ni5.—(b) a becomes u before following u: sumugga 'basket' JäCo. § 15. The diphthongs e, o are as a rule preserved; ai and au have become c and o: Erāvaṇa (name of Indra's elephant) = Airāvaṇa; mettī 'friendship' = maitrī; ve (interj.) = vai. orasa 'derived from the breast' = aurasa; pora 'urban' = paura; ratto 'at night' = rātrau

Not infrequently e and o are shortened into i and u before double-consonance 4 ; this shortening may take place even where the double-consonance is of secondary origin (according to \S 6.2): 1. i from e = original e: pativissaka 'neighbour' M. I. 1265, DhCo. III. 15511 from * -võssaka=prativeéya-ka; pasibbaka 'bag' Vin. III. 1710, JaCo. III. 10^{21} etc. through * -sõbbaka=prasevaka. The word ubbilla 'pleasant surprise' M. III. 159^4 with its numerous derivatives belongs to the root vell with ud. Also dvinnam, ubhinnam are traced by E. Kuhn⁵ to * dvenam, * ubhenam which are directly derived from the Nom. (* ubhe instead of ubho is due to analogy with dve^6).—2. i from e = original ai: issariya 'rulership' = aiévarya; sindhava 'horse from Sind' = saindhava.—3. u from o = original o: akuppa. asamkuppa 'unshakable' Th1. 182, 649 = -kopya; tutta 'spur' Cp. III. 5.2, D. II. 206^5 (verse) = tottra'; sussam (v.l. sossam) 'I shall hear'

III. 85¹°=kṣaudra; ludda 'horrible, diabolical' Sn. 247, Vv. 84.5, M. II. 97²° = raudra¹; assumha 'we heard' (§ 159. III) = aśrauṣma. In ussāva 'dew' JāCo. II. 11¹², DhCo. III. 338¹¹ (AMāg. ussā and osā) = avaśyāya the u is derived from o<ava.

6. Influence of Neighbouring Vowels or Consonants on the Vowels

- § 16. Vowels are not infrequently influenced by neighbouring vowels. Here we have the beginnings of a 'vowel-assimilation' in Pāli.² 1. Influence of following vowels: (a) i becomes u before a following u: usu 'arrow' (also in AMag.) = işu; ucchu 'sugar-cane' (AMag. ucchu beside ikkhu) = iksu; kukku (a measure of length) A. IV. 404^{21} , Vin. I. $254^{36} = ki \times ku^3$; susu 'young' = $6i \times ku$ (nasalised form in sumsumāra 'crocodile' = śiśumāra). In kukkusa 'powder in rice-ears' Vin. II. $280^{20} = kiknasa^4$ the intermediate steps are *kikkasa, *kikkusa (§19.2). Hereto belongs nutthubhati, -hati 'spits out 'Vin II. 1757, JaCo. I. 4592, II. 10523 (beside niţţhubhati Ud. 5016, -hati DhCo. II. 367) from a root *stubh with ni5.—(b) a becomes u before following u: sumugga 'basket' JāCo. I. 26528 (beside samugga) = samudga; usūyā, usuyyā 'envy' S. I. 1278. $J\bar{a}Co. I. 444^8$, D. II. 243^2 (§ 6.2) = $as\bar{u}y\bar{a}$.—(c) a becomes i before following i: sirimsapa 'snake '= sarīsīpa; timīssā 'moonless night' $J\bar{a}Co$. III. $433^{10} = tamisr\bar{a}^6$ —(d) u becomes a before following a in kappara (AMāg. koppara) 'knuckle 'Vin. III. 121°. JāCo. I. 293' $=k\bar{u}rpara.$
- § 17. There is further 2. the intuence of the preceding vowel.

 (a) a becomes u after preceding u: uļunka 'ladle' JāCo. I. 285²³.

 III 71²²=udanka; kurunga (a kind of gazelle) JāCo. I. 178¹⁵=
 kuranga; pukkusa (designation of a low caste) Jā. III. 194³⁰,

 M. III. 169²⁸, Pu. 51²³, Milp. 5¹²=pukkaša; puthujjana 'ordinary

⁶ Also timisā D. II. 17517, M. III. 17426, which presupposes a *tamisā.

(not converted) people '= pṛthagjana.—(b) i becomes u after preceding e: arafijara 'water-pot' Abhp. 458 = alisijara; kākaņikā (small coin) JāCo. I. 120²⁰, DhCo. III. 108¹² = kākiņikā; pokkharanī 'lotus-tank' = puṣkariṇī; sākhalla, -lya 'friendship' (§ 3) from sakhila.\(^1\)—(c) u becomes a after preceding a: āyasmant 'venerable' = āyuṣmant; matthalunga 'brain' Kh. 3 JāCo. I. 493\(^1\)0 = mastulunga; sakkhalī, -likā 'ear-lobe' (JPTS. 1909, p. 17) = śaṣkulī.—(d) a becomes i after preceding i: singivera 'ginger' = śṛṅgavera; nisinna 'sitting' (but pasanna, saṃsanna) = niṣaṇṇa.\(^2\)

§ 18. The influence of consonants on vowels comes to light in the fact that 1. the vowel u appears by preference in the neighbourhood of labials, and that 2. i appears by preference in the neighbourhood of palatals. Ad 1: Of derivatives from the root majj with ni and ud we have nimujjati 'drowns', ummujjati 'floats', nimujjā, ummujjā, nimugga etc. Cf. further sammujjanī, -munjanī 'broom' DhCo. III. 1686 beside sammajjanī DhCo. III. 719 = sammārjanī. Also mutu 'thought' Sn. 714, 793, M.I. 322 etc., muti 'thought' Sn. 846, mutīmā Sn. 321, Jā. IV. 7610 = matimān should be regarded only as dialectical side-forms of mata etc. The existence of a root mu however seems to be guaranteed by the Fut. Pass. Part. motabba and the verbal noun motar A. II. 2516.18.—Ad 2: mimjā 'marrow' (see p. 65, f.-n. 4) from majjā; jigucchati 'conceals' D. I. 21323, JāCo. I. 42220, jigucchā D. I. 17418 as opposed to jugupsate, jugupsā'; bhiyyo 'more' from bhūyas. On seyyā see § 9.

7. Influence of Accent on Vocalism

§ 19. In words of three or four syllables, which on the evidence of Skr. had the accent on the first syllable, the vowel of the second syllable is often reduced. In most cases i appears as the reduced vowel; after labials appears frequently, though not always, u instead of i: 1. After the accent-syllable a becomes i: candimā 'moon'= candramās'; carima 'following, last' Th1. 202 = carama; parima 'the highest' M. III. 112¹⁵ = parama; puttimā N. Sg. 'endowed with sons' Sp. 33, 34 = *putramān; majjhima 'middle'=

¹ Similarly kosajja 'slowness' Db. 241, A. I. 11²⁹ (from kusīta) as opposed to kausīdya.

Also in pathavi (-th-) and puthavi (§12.4) = prthavi we have vowel-assimilation; puthavi in a cross-form. Not so Pischel, PkrGr. §115.

Forms like jeguccha 'contrary 'Vin. I. 5828 etc. and jegucchin 'disgusting' Vin. III. 31, JaCo. I. 39014 etc. are new formations. Of. § 3.

A different but very far-fetched explanation is given by Pischel, PkrGr. § 103.

madhyama1; saccika 'true' Milp. 22617 = satyaka. Cf. the forms ahimkāra, mamimkāra 'self-consciousness' M. III. 8234 beside ahamk- mamamk-. In the same way should be judged the future forms like dakkhisi 'you will see', kāhisi 'you will do' (beside dakkhasi, kāhasi), chisi 'you will go', etc. as opposed to Skr. draksyasi, *karsyasi, cṣyasi.—2. After the accent-syllable a becomes u: navuti 'ninety' (AMāg. naüim) = navati; pāpuraņa 'mantle 'S. I. 175 f., DhCo. III. 19 through pāvuraņa M.1. 35913 (AMāg. pāuraņa) = prāvaraņa; sammuti 'consent' (beside sammata) = sammati (cf. above §18.1). In the flexional system (§ 92.3) brahmunā, brahmuno; kammunā, kammuno (also AMāg, kammunā, -no); addhunā, addhuno2=brahmanā, -nas; karmanā, -nas; adhvanā, -nas. After non-labials there is u in ajjuka (name of a plant) Abhp. 579=arjaka3; kukkusa (§ 16. 1a)=kiknasa; pckhuna 'wing 'Th1. 211, 1136, JaCo. I. 20710 = prenkhana 'swing '4; sajjulasa 'resin' Vin. I. 2021 = sarjarasa. -3. Occasionally after the accent-syllable i becomes u and u becomes i: rājula (a reptile) Abhp. 651=rājila; geruka 'reddish chalk 'Vin. I. 488 (AMag. geruya beside Māh. geria) = gairika; pasuta 'intent on something' Th1. 28, D. J. 13525, JaCo. III. 264=prasita. Further muditā 'softness' M. I. 370°, S. V. 11825 (beside mudutā A.I. 928) = mīdutā. On suņisā see § 31.2.

§20. Unstressed short vowels, particularly immediately after the accent, are sometimes syncopated: jaggati 'watches' (§142.4) is to be traced from jāgarati through *jāgarati; oka 'water' Dh. 34, 91 from udaka through *ŏkka, *ukka, *utka, *udaka; agga 'house' (in uposathagga, khuragga, bhattagga etc.) from agāra through *agara. *agara. Syncope is in evidence also in the verbal ending -mhe (beside -mahe). Finally, there is a number of onomatopoetic words in which syncope may be clearly traced: ciccitāyati 'rustles' Vin. I. 225²⁵, S. I. 169°, Sn. S. 14, Pu. 36³² beside citicitāyati; sassara, babbhara M.I. 128²⁵ (JPTS. 1889, p. 209) for *sarasara, *bharabhara beside sarasara, bharabhara. In enclicis khalu has become kho through *khalu, kkhu.

¹ This should not be regarded as "Samprasārana" as E. Kuhn, Beitr. p. 54 suggests, because the i is not derived from ya; the y is contained in ijh. At the most one can say that at an earlier stage of the language the a after y in madhyama had a pronunciation leaning towards i.

The same view should be taken as in f.-n. 1.

³ Subhúti, Abhp.-Súci under this word gives ajjaka beside ajjuko.

⁴ Pischel, § 89.

⁵ E. Kuhn, Beitr., p. 94.

⁶ In Pkr. Saurasenī and Māgadhī we have kkhu which causes the shortening of preceding c, o. Pischel § 94, 148. Whence the o in Pāli kho?

- § 21. Weakening of the syllable preceding the accented one is found in kāhāpana (a coin) (Pkr. kāhāvana) = kārṣāpana; perhaps also in nigrodha 'ficus indica' = nyagrodha and in susāna 'burial ground' from *śvaśāna, a side-form of śmaśāna¹. Yet however similar instances of samprasāraṇa are found also in the syllable with main accent. It is perhaps due to the weakening of the syllable preceding the accented one that dvi- appears as du- in compounds, e.g., dujivha 'doubletongued' Jā. V. 82⁴. Under the accent we have the regular forms dvi-, di-, e.g. dipada 'biped'². The two types having later crossed each other we have on the one hand duvidha 'double' = dvividha, and on the other dvibhūmiko 'consisting of two stories' JūCo. II. 18⁴.—In forms like thapeti (uṭṭhāpeti etc.) as opposed to sthāpayati we have analogical formations after the type jnāpayati etc (§ 180.1); similarly in kināti 'buys', as opposed to krīnāti, after the types mināti, lunāti³.
- § 22. The effect of accent is perceptible also in the shortening of unstressed final syllables. Thus o becomes u in asu 'that' (§ 109) through *aso (thus in AMāg.)=asau; udāhu 'or'=utāho; sajju 'immediately' Dh. 71 (from which sajjukam) through *sajjo=sadyas; hetu (in kissa hetu 'what for?') through *heto=hetos.' With later nasalisation: -khattum (adv. numeral suffix) through *-khatto=-kṛtvas and adum 'that' through *ado=adas. Cf. § 66. 2 b. Qualitative change (reduction) is in evidence in saddhim 'together with' =sārdham', sakkhi(m) or sacchi 'before one's eyes' (certainly not=sākṣāt, but)=*sākṣām (AMāg. sakkham's); saṇim 'slowly' Mhvs. 25. 84 (not=śanais, but)=*śanam. Reduction to u under the influence of an u of the preceding syllable (§ 17. 2 a) is found in puthu 'separate' Th1. 86, Milp. 41=pṛthak. The enclitic -svid has become-su, -ssu: kim-su, kena-ssu etc. S. I. 36 ff. We have moreover-si in kam-si DhCo. I. 9118. Cf. § 111.1.
- § 23. In a series of words even from the beginning the long second syllable was shortened. This is evidently due to the shifting of the accent to the first syllable. Examples: alika 'false' Sn. 239, ¹ Pischel, PkrGr. § 104. Johansson (IF. 25. 225 ff.) separates susans from śmaśāna and derives the former from śaraśayana 'burial ground'.

Also Pkr. has du-, do- beside di-, bi-. Pischel, § 436.

³ A different explanation is given by Michelson, IF. 23. 127.

⁴ Even new nominal stems are formed in this way; Skr. āgas 'sin' through ago becomes āgu, inflected like madhu.

⁵ A different explanation in Pischel, PkrGr. § 103.

⁶ Pischel, § 114.

- S. I. 189³, Rasav. II. 83¹⁴=alīka; gahita 'seized'=gṛhīta; pannavant 'intelligent' Thl. 70, Vin. I. 60¹=prajāāvant; pāniya 'water' beside pānīya (pāniyāni D. I. 148⁴, pānīyāni JāCo. I 450³) =pānīya (AMāg., JMāh. pāniya); vammika 'ant-hill' JāCo. I. 482⁵ beside vammīka JāCo. III. 85⁸=vālmīka; sāluka 'lotus-root' Vin. I. 246¹⁶=śālūka. Similarly dutiya 'second', tatiya 'third'=dvitīya, tṛtīya¹.—In other cases, where the vowel of the second syllable was originally short, qualitative change of the vowel took place as a result of this shifting of accent: Pajjunna (name of the god of rains) D. II. 260¹⁵, JāCo. I. 331²¹=Parjanya; mutinga 'drum' D. I. 79¹³, Vin. I. 15¹⁰ (Pkr. muinga) = mṛdanga. Cf. meraya 'intoxicating drink' Db. 247, D. I. 146²⁰=maireya.
- The effect of the new expiratory accent is perceptible also in the occasional lengthening of the vowel of the first syllable: āitra 'courtyard 'Mhvs. 35.3 = ajira; ālinda ' terrace in front of a house ' D. I. 8930. Vin. I. 2482. DhCo. I. 264 = alinda; perhaps we have also to include here ānubhāva 'power' JāCo. I. 50923 = anubhāva. This explanation of the lengthening of the vowel of the initial syllable often however remains doubtful, as in āroga 'in good health' JâCo. I. 4081 (reading uncertain) beside aroga = aroga; pāţibhoga 'surety' Ud. 1716, Iv. 16, JaCo. II. 9314, which in meaning is difficult to connect with pratibhoga; pāṭiyekka 'individually 'JāCo. I. 9224 beside pacceka = pratyeka.—Gemination of consonants may take the place of lengthening of vowels: ummā 'flax' in ummāpuppha (a precious stone) A. V. $61^{21} = um\bar{a}$; kummagga 'evil path A. III. 42029. Pu. 227. Milp. 3908, kunnadi 'small (intermittent) river 'Th1. 145. S. I. 1095, JaCo. III. 22111, kussubbha 'small pool' S. V. 630 (beside kusubbha) = $ku + m\bar{a}rga$, $nad\bar{i}$, &vabhra; mukkhara 'garrulous' Minayeff, Prātimokṣa 59 (beside mukhara S. I. 20334, JāCo. III. 1035) $= mukhara^{3}$.

8. Samprasārana and the Loss of Syllable through Contraction

§ 25. Through Samprasāraņa: 1. $y\bar{n}$ becomes $\bar{\imath}$ also in stressed syllable: $th\bar{\imath}na$ 'sloth '= $sty\bar{a}na$; $dv\bar{\imath}ha$, $t\bar{\imath}ha$ 'period of two (three)

Pischel, KZ. 35. 142, PkrGr. § 82, 91 assumes the basic forms *dvityå, *tṛṭyå. But see Jacobi, Kalpasūtra (AbhKM. VI. 1), p. 103, f -n., as well as KZ. 35, 570 f.

² The example suddittha quoted in JPTS. 1909, p. 193 is=su-uddittha; sakkāya is not=svakāya, but=satkāya (Franke, D., p. 54, f.-n. 4) and cikkhalla 'earthen,' Vin. II. 122³¹ not=cikhala but=*caikhalya > *cākhalla > *cekkhalla (E. Mūller, PGr. p. 19).

days' D. I. 19015, A. I. 14015 = dvyaha, tryaha; visiveti 'dries out at fire 'JāCo. II. 6816, DhCo. I. 2252 = visyāpayati. Of frequent occurrence is viti-=vyati-, vi-ati-, e.g., vitivatta=vyativita etc. Cf. ninka (a kind of deer) Abhp. 619=nyanku, Instead of i there is e in (sam) pavedhati 'shakes' Sn. 928, D. II. 222 from root vyath. Often ya is retained: vyasaha 'misfortune', vyadha 'hunter'etc. In cajati 'gives up '=tyajati, majjhantika 'relating to noon-time' from madhya etc. we have the assimilation of y to the preceding consonant.—2. $v\bar{a}$ becomes \bar{u} in $s\bar{u}na$ 'dog' Abhp. 519 from the stem $\dot{v}\bar{u}n^{-1}$. Before double-consonance \bar{u} becomes o through u (§ 10): sotthi 'welfare' (beside suvatthi) = svasti; soppa 'sleep' (beside supina) S. I. 11032 (verse) = svapna; sobbha 'tank' (cf. kussubbha § 24) = śvabhra. The form ko 'where?' S. I. 19916 (verse), Vin. I. 3624 (beside kvam, kuvam, kva-ci) is probably a sandhi-form before doubleconsonance. Before single consonants there is o instead of \bar{u} , e.g., in sopāka (AMāg. sovāga) 'man of low caste '= śvapāka and soņa 'dog''. Moreover $v\bar{u}$ is often retained in the assimilation of v, e.g.assattha 'ficus religiosa' (AMag. however has assottha etc.) = aśvattha. -3. Quite peculiar is dosa in which Skr. dosa 'fault' and dvesa 'hatred' have coincided. Cf. dosaniya 'deserving hatred' A. III. $169^{28} = dv csaniya.$

§ 26. Through contraction aya can become ϵ and ava can become o^3 , clearly through the intermediate stages ayi: ai, avu: aii (§ 19).

1. aya becomes ϵ in jeti 'wins' (beside jayati) = jayati, etc.; ajjhena 'study' Sn. 242, M. III. $1^{13} = adhyayana$. Facultatively also in causatives and other verbal stems in aya, such as moceti, $katheti^4$. Further terasa 'thirteen' = trayadasa, tevisa(ti) = trayavimsati; aya is retained in nayana 'eye,' sayana 'bed' etc. (but sendsana 'bedstead and seat' beside sayanāsana Sn. 338 f., Dh. 185).—2. ava becomes o in odhi 'limit' D. II. 160^{32} , JāCo. II. $18^{21} = avadhi$; oma 'lowly' Sn. 860, A. III. 359^{28} (verse) = avama; pona 'sinking, inclined' Vin. II. 287^{19} , Ud. 58^9 etc. = pravana; lona 'salt' = lavana; hoti 'is, becomes'

¹ In turita 'hastening' and kuthita' boiled,' as opposed to tvarita and kvathita, we have in fact no Samprasāraņa of the Pāli stage. We are to assume here older basic forms "turita, "kuthita.

The intermediate stages seem to have been iya and uva; thus dvyaha: "dviyaha: dviha, śvān-: "suvān-: sūna, soṇa. Cf. soṇṇa 'gold 'beside suvaṇṇa.

³ Pischel, PkrGr. § 153 f.

In the same way may be explained also bhāyāmi 'I fear 'and palāyati 'flies' beside which are found also bhemi and paleti. Cf. § 138 and 139. 1.

(beside bhavati) and many other forms. Also facultatively o-=the prefix ava-(orodha 'harem' =avarodha) and vo=the prefix vyava-, vi-ava, (vosita 'fulfilled' Dh. 428=vyavasita). Cf. uposatha (Pkr. posaha) = upavasatha. Ava is retained in lavana 'harvest,' savana 'hearing' etc. But lona 'salt'=lavana.

Further cases of contraction are 1. aya becomes a: pati-§ 27. sallāna 'meditation' D. II. 910, JāCo. II. 7711 etc. = pratisamlayana; sotthāna 'welfare 'Sn. 258, A. IV. 27120 (verse) = svastyayana (§ 25.2).— 2. āya becomes ā: vehāsa 'atmosphere 'D. I. 9510, JāCo. I. 44520 etc. = vaihāyasa; upaţţhāka 'attendant 'Vin. I. 7217, JāCo. I. 8574 etc.= upasthāyaka (but fem. upatthāyikā Thūpavs, 8120); Kaccāna (beside Kaccāyana), Moggallānu n. pr. = Kātyāyana, Maudgalyāyana etc. 1 Very frequently at the end of a word $-\bar{a}ya$ is contracted into $-\bar{a}$, such as sayam abhinnā 'on the strength of one's own knowledge 'instead of -Anāya = abhijnāya Ger.; apaţipucchā 'without hearing' Vin. II. 33 instead of -cchāya I. Sg. f.; esanā '(goes) in search of 'JāCo. Il. 3416 instead of -nāya D. Sg. m.; chamā 'on the earth' instead of -māya Loc. Sg. f.2 Particularly in the first syllables of words aya is likely to be retained: vāyasa, jāyati etc.—3. āva becomes o in atidhona(cārin) '(committing) transgressions 'Dh. 240=*atidhcvana. But āva is retained in the first syllables: pāvaka, sāvaka.— 4. $av\bar{a}$ decomes \bar{a} in the $y\bar{a}gu$ 'rice-gruel' A. III. 250^{12} etc. = $yav\bar{a}g\bar{u}$; avā remains uncontracted in kavāţa, pavāla, as ayā in dayālu etc.-5, ayi and avi become e: acchera 'miraculous' Vv. 84. through *acchayira (beside acchariya) = āścarya; ācera 'teacher 'Jā. IV. 2489 (beside ācariya) = ācārya; macchera 'envy' Dh 242, DhCo. III. 21 etc. = mātsarya4; thera 'venerable priest '= sthavira; hessati 'will be ' (§ 154.2) = bhavişyati5.-6. āyi becomes e in the technical term acceka(cīvara) '(garment) given at an unusual hour ' Vin. III. 26033 beside accāyika ' pressing ' M. II. 11227, JaCo. I. 33831=*atyāyika. Beside this e we have i in pāţihīra ' sign of miracle ' D. I. 1933, Mhvs. 5.188 through *pāṭihāyira (beside pāṭihāriya) = prātihārya; similarly (a)samhīrā ' (not) to be won ' Jā. V. 81^{17} , A IV. 141^{11} etc. = (a)samhārya.—7. iya is changed into $\bar{\imath}$ (i) in kittaka 'how much?' Smp. $304^1 = *kiyattaka$. According to § 10. 2 is to be explained cttaka 'so much '= *iyattaka^1.—8. Isolated cases of contraction are found moreover in koṭṭha in the names of birds rukkhakoṭṭhasakuna JāCo. III. 25^{29} if it is = koyaṣṭi² and mora 'peacock' (the same form also in Pkr.; in Pāli also mayūra D. III. 201^2 ?) = mayūra².

§ 28. As in Pkr., 4 so also in P. the prepositions upa- and apa-(through *uva-, *ava-) may become \bar{u} - and o: 1. upa- becomes \bar{u} -, as I think, in \bar{u} hadeti 'besmears with dung '=upahadati and \bar{u} hasana, 'smiling at somebody 'Milp. 12721. Cf. Pkr. \bar{u} hasia in Hem.= upahasita5.—2. apa- becomes o- in ovaraka 'inner apartment (of a house)' Vin. I. 21717, VvCo. 304^{14} =apavaraka; ottappati 'feels shame' A. III. 2^{16} (ottappa 'shame', ottappin or ottāpin 'shameful') from the root trap with apa⁶. Presumably also in (pacc)osakkati 'falls back' D. I. 230^{21} , JāCo. I. 383^8 , Mhvs. 25.84 (AMāg. paccosakkaī) from root ṣvaṣk with (prati)apa⁷.

9. Increase of Syllables through Svarabhakti

§ 29. Only the consonant-groups containing r, l, y, v or a nasal are separated by svarabhakti⁸. An exception is to be found in kusuta 'bad, false 'A. I. 72⁸, JāCo. II. 96²², Milp. 119¹³ etc. = kasta. This is perhaps a dialectical expression. In Pkr. we have the Paiśācī form kusuta.—The added vowel appears mostly in the inside of words. In initial

- 3 Uncontracted mayükha 'beam of light 'as opposed to Pkr. Māh. moha.
- 4 Hem. I. 173; Pischel, PkrGr. § 155.
- 5 It may be thought that also ūhanti in the meaning 'defiles' is derived from han with upa. Yet this is rendered improbable by Vin. I. 78¹², where ummihati stands parallel to it. It is certain that ūhanti=han with ud and it means 'conquers, annihilates.' Instead of ūhananti M. I. 243²³ we have in fact upahananti (with v.l. uh.) in the parallel passage 8. IV. 56¹⁹.
 - 6 E Müller, PGr., p. 43.
- ⁷ In Jā. III. 836 we have avasakkati, but with the variant reading apa- in the Burmese MSS. The word oggata. Thi. 477 (used about the sun) may be = apagata or aragata.

position it is found in itthi 'women' = strī and in umhayati, -te' smiles' Jā. II., 131²², JāCo. III. 44¹⁴ = smayate.—Beside forms with the added vowel there are often those showing assimilation of the consonant-groups. The latter are archaic and are found particularly in the gāthās. In the commentary they are explained by the forms with the added vowel, which therefore must have been the current forms. Thus we have in Jā. III. 151⁵ asi tikkho va maṃsamhi; the Co. replaces tikkha 'sharp' = tīkṣṇa by tikhiṇa. Regarding the action of the law of mora on the quantity of a long vowel preceding a consonant-group separated by svarabhakti, see above § 8. In verse the svarabhakti-vowels are often ignored as also in Pkr.² Cf. Dh. 10 arahati = arhati; Dh. 25 kayirātha = kayrātha; Th1. 477 suriyasmim = suryasmim; Th2. 49 puriso = purso etc. The i of itthī is always metrically justified; beside it however there is found in verses the form thī: Sn. 76), Jā. I. 295⁸, Jā. V. 81¹⁶.

 \S 30. Of all the added vowels the most frequent is i (both prothetic and anaptyctic): 1. In the group ry: iriyati 'moves' M. I. 746, A. III. 4516 (substantive iriyā) = īryate, īryā; mariyādā 'frontier' Mhvs. 34.70 = maryādā etc. In the same way are formed the passives like kariyati from karoti (also karīyati D. I. 5227), vāriyati 'is held back '= vāryate.—2. In other combinations with y: kālusiya 'darkening' DCo. I. $95^{10} = k\bar{a}lusya$: $jiy\bar{a}$ 'bow-string' D.II. 334^{20} , Mhvs. $14.4 = jy\bar{a}$ etc. In the same category are to be included also the passives like pucchiyati 'is asked '=prcchyate. Also in hiyyo (AMag. hijjo) ' yesterday ' = hyas we have svarabhakti with secondary reduplication of y.—3. In other combinations with r: vajira 'thunder, diamond' (AMag. vaira) Dh. 161, D. I. 95^8 , Milp. $118^{21} = vajra$. On sir^ , hir^* see § 8. Svarabhakti by i is in evidence also in purisa 'man' (cf. § 29). The basic form is *pūrsa. In the popular dialects the form with the svarabhakti vowel i was preferred to the Skr. form purusa with u3. From *pūrsa through *pussa, *possa is derived also P. posa Sn. 110 (and otherwise in verses).-4. In consonant-groups with 1: pilakkhu (name of a tree) Jā. III. $24^{26} = plaksa$; $hil\bar{a}da$ 'joy' Attanagaluvs. 1. $11 = hl\bar{a}da$ etc. But we have invariably sukka 'white' = śukla.-5. In consonantgroups with nesals: sineha 'affection' = sneha; tasinā 'thirst' Dh. 342 f. (beside $tanh\bar{a}$) = $t_1 sn\bar{a}$. On the other hand there occur only kanha 'black '= krsna (Pkr. kanha, kasina, kasana) and nagga 'naked '= nagna (AMūg. nagina, nigina). In flexion we have rājinā, rājino beside rannā, ranno=rājnā, rājnas. On gini from *agini, agni see § 66.1. On mihita see § 50.6.

It is however not right to change the orthography for the sake of metre.

§ 31. 1. The svarabhakti-vowel a is found particularly is those cases where the a-vowel is much in evidence before and after: garahā 'abuse 'JaCo. I. 37231, 'dishonesty' D. I. 13514, garahati 'abuses' etc. =garhā, garhali; palavati 'swims 'Dh. 334, Th1. 399 (beside pilavali Th1. 104)=plavati; harāyati 'is ashamed '(§ 186. 2) beside hiriyati from $h\tau\bar{\iota}$. Cf. nahāyati in § 50. 5. As link in compound: antaradhāyati 'disappears' from root dhā with antar.-2. The svarabhaktivowei u is found before m and v: $usum\bar{a}$ 'heat 'JāCo. III. 71^{18} = uşman; sukhuma 'fine '= sūkṣma; duve 'two' (more frequently dve) metri causa Sn. 48, 896=dve; maruvā (v.l. muruvā) (a kind of hemp) M. I. $429^{23} = m\bar{u}rv\bar{a}$. Sometimes u is induced by an u of the following syllable: kurūra 'cruel' A. III. 38324, Pu. 567=krūra In the same way originated also the form sunisā 'daughter in law' through *sunusā (as in Paiśācī) from snusā. The i in this form¹ is to be explained according to § 19.3. The svarabhakti-vowel u is in evidence also in sakkuņāti 'is able 'and pāpuņāti 'obtains ' from Skr. śaknoti, prāpnoti. Cf. § 148.

10. Quantitative Changes in Composition and under Stress of Metre

§ 32. On account of the metre very often 1. short vowels are lengthened²: satīmatī Th2. 35; tūriyam Mhvs. 25. 74; tatīyam Dh. 309; anūdake Jā. VI. 499⁵. Frequently also in final syllables: sīho va nadatī vane Th1. 832. Due to the law of mora, the lengthening of preceding vowel is to be regarded as equivalent to the reduplication of the following consonant: paribbasāna for pariv⁶ Sn. 796; saratī bbayo 'life flies' (cf. § 51. 3) for saratī vayo Jā. III. 95¹⁸. The forms kummiga Milp. 346¹⁸, kussobbha Sn. 720 might be due to metrical exigencies. According to § 24, they may however occur even where there is no pressure of metre.—2. Shortening of long vowels metri causa³ is likewise very frequent: (bhūtāni) bhummāni vā yāni va (instead of vā) antalikkhe Kh. 6. 1=Sn. 222 (cf. Kh. 9. 6, Dh. 138 f.); puccanikā instead of -nīkā. Cp. II. 8. 4 etc. o is shortened into a in okamokata (instead of -to) Dh. 34, and e is shortened into i in ogimhisu (instead of -esu) Dh. 286. Not infrequently the endings -inam, -unam, -ihi, -uhi, -isu, -usu remain short in verse as opposed to -īnam etc. in prose. Thus Thl. 1258, 240, Jā. VI. 57929, Thl. 1207 etc. Nasal vowels are denasalised: dīgham addhāna (instead of -nam) socati Dh. 207. In Th2. 91 should be read pāpuņi instead of -nim. In sandhi we have further very often cases like aññā samatimañāi 'ham (instead of -ññim aham) Th2. 72. Also in the inside of words the nasal may be dropped metri causa. Thus jīvato Jā. III. 5892 instead of jīvanto. Simplification of double-consonance is again equivalent to shortening of vowels. Thus we have, metri causa, dukham for dukham Th1. 734; dakkhisam for -issam¹ Th2. 84 (cf. dakkhisāma Jā. III. 997) and many similar cases.

¹ The n in sunisa is perhaps derived from the side-form sunha (see § 50.8).

³ Similarly in Pkr., Pischel, § 73.

³ Pischel, § 99.

§ 33. At the end of the first member of a compound 1. the short vowel is often lengthened2: sakhībhāva JāCo. III. 4936 (sakhībh-JāCo. VI. 42420); abbhāmatta S. I. 2054 (in a verse, but not metri causa); rajāpatha (see Childers, P. D. sub voce), for which there is rajapatha in Pu. 5712. Equivalent to this lengthening there is also the gemination of the initial consonant of the second member of the compound: jātassara 'natural lake ' Vin. I. 1114; navakkhattum 'nine times 'DhCo. III. 37712 and likewise in all compounds with -khattum = -krtvas.-Lengthening of vowels or gemination of consonants is found very frequently in combinations with prepositions: pāvacana (AMag. pāvayana) 'word' Th2. 457, D. I. 888 etc. = pravacana; pākata (AMāg. pāgada) 'apparent' Th1. 109, VvCo. 26727 = prakaṭa3. This may be partially due also to the effect of the stress accent (§ 24). Gemination of the consonant is found also in abhikkanta 'glorious' D. I. 857 etc.: it belongs rather to the root kam (not to kram*); further in paṭikkūla 'contrary 'M. III. 30111, JāCo.

Different explanation by Mrs. Rhy Davids, Pslams of the Sisters, p. 56, f.-n. 2.

Similarly in Pkr.; Pischel, § 70.

³ In pāheti 'sends' (beside pahinati: the \bar{a} is perhaps due to forms like $p\bar{a}hes\bar{s}$ 'he sent.'

⁴ The forms upakkilitha 'defiled,' upakkilesa 'defilement' are perhaps contaminations of *upakkitha, *upakkesa=upaklista, upakleśa with *upaklitha and *upakilesa (with svarabhakti-vowel according to § 30. 4). Probably a contamination of the root-forms sraj and sarj is at the root of ossajjati 'gives up', vissajjati 'gives sway' (beside ossajati, vissajati), oggata 'gone down' (see p. 76, f.-n. 7) and okkasati takes away' D. II. 7429 from root karş with ava (intermediate steps: *ogata *ōkasati) are cases of § 6. 2.

I. 898^{24} beside $patik\bar{u}la$ Vin. I. 58^{28} etc. = $pratik\bar{u}la$. Perhaps we have to explain in this way also some of the compounds of the type $phal\bar{a}$ -phala 'fruits of every sort.' In many cases however, e.g., maggā-magga 'paths of every description (good and evil ways),' it is not unnatural to think of the type $subh\bar{a}subha$ (subha+asubha).—2. Shortening of the vowel often takes place when stems in \bar{a} , \bar{i} , \bar{u} form the first member of the compound 2: $up\bar{a}hanad\bar{a}na$ 'gift of shoes' $J\bar{a}Co$. IV. 20^{18} from $up\bar{a}han\bar{a}+d$ -; $d\bar{a}sigana$ 'troop of maid-servants' $J\bar{a}Co$. II. 127^{26} from $d\bar{a}s\bar{i}+g$ -; $sassudev\bar{a}$ 'worshipping the mother-in-law as god' S. I. $86^{14}=J\bar{a}$. IV. 322^{15} (in verse, but without pressure of metre) from $sass\bar{u}+d$ -.

11. Irregularities of Vocalism

§ 34. There are now still a number of "sporadical cases" to deal with. Thus from Skr. punar the double forms puna and pana have been developed with different meanings: puna means 'again, once more, 'pana means 'but, on the contrary.' 3-In many cases the vocalism of Pali is more archaic than that of Skr. Thus in garu 'heavy 'as opposed to Skr. guru, and also in agaru, agalu 'aloe ' Jā. VI. 510¹⁴, VvCo. 237¹ as opposed to aguru (beside agaru). Perhaps also in kilanja 'mat' M. I. 228 33, Mhvs_34. 54 as opposed to kilinja; mucalinda (name of a tree) Vin. I. 312 as opposed to mucilinda; jhallikā 'beetle' Abhp. 646 as opposed to jhillikā.—In other cases the Pali word is derived from a basic form different from that of the Skr. word: thus tipu 'tin' D. II. 351°, Vin. I. 19027 is not =trapu, but = *trpu; papphāsa 'lung 'Kh. 3, D. II. 29315 etc. is not = pupphusa; simbala, -lī 'cotton-tree' (AMāg. simbalī) is not = (AMāg. sāmalī) but = Ved. simbala 'cotton-flower's; śālmali tekicchā 'healing,' atekiccha 'incurable' (AMag. teicchā) A. III. 14632, DhCo. I. 2521 not = cikitsā, but = *cekitsā. The forms kissa G. Sg. and kismim, kimhi L. Sg. of the Interr. Pron. do not belong to the stem ka, but to the stem ki which appears in Skr. kim. -Not infrequently, parallels to the Pāli forms are found in Pkr. Thus pārepata 'dove' Jā. VI. 539 ¹⁵ = AMāg. pārevaya as opposed to Skr. pārāpata = Māh. pārāvaa¹; milakkha 'barbarian' S. V. 466²°, milakkhu Th1. 965 = AMāg. milakkhu as opposed to Skr. mleccha = AMāg. měccha, miccha²; timbaru (name of a tree) Attanagaluvs. 7. 15 = Pkr. timbaru, ruya as opposed to Skr. tumburu = Pkr. tumburu ³.—The verb dhovati 'washes' as opposed to Skr. dhāvati owes its o to forms like dhota 'washed' = dhauta.⁴

12. Consonants in Free Position

§ 35. On the whole, the free consonants are well preserved in Pāli. Unlike Pkr.5, it retains intervocalic mutes. Also n and y remain as a rule unchanged.6 The sibilants ś, ṣ, s (see § 3) have coincided in s.—It may be said as a general rule (see § 2) that in intervocalic position d and dh change into ! and !h * : āveļā 'garland' (§ 11) = āpīdā; peļā 'basket' Pv. IV. 1. 42, Mhvs. 36. 20=pedā; hīļeti 'neglects' (JPTS. 1907, p. 167) from root hīd; mīļha Vv. 52.11=mīdha from root mih; văļha 'carried away' Vin. I. 32¹³=ūdha. The d is retained in hudumala 'opening bud' (kudumalakajāta A. IV. 117²¹). Here the d originally stood in a consonant group; (Skr. hudmala) which was separated by svarabhakti. In Abhp. 482 appears also huduba (a certain measure)=hudava. The form sahodha 'together with what has been plundered' from saha + ūdha* is remarkable.

§ 36. The various phenomena of Prākrit are met with sporadically also in Pāli. The words and forms concerned are taken from those dialects which had gone further on the path of Prākritisation than the literary language represented by Pāli. On the corresponding phenomena in sound-groups of. § 60 ff.

One of these sporadical phenomena is the occasional elision of an intervocalic mute which is replaced by the hiatus-filler y or v: suva 'parrot' (beside suka) = suka; $kh\bar{a}yita$ 'eaten' Jā. VI. 498^{19} , M. I.

83°, Vin. I. $109^{29} = kh\bar{o}dita^1$; niya 'own 'Sn. 149 (beside nija) = nija²; sāyati 'tastes 'D. III. 8520, A. III. 16321 (beside sādiyati, sādita) = svādate. Cf. the names Aparagoyāna Bodhivs. 742 = Aparagodāna? and Kusināra through *-naara = Kuśinagara. The Pāli forms in these cases very probably reflect the local dialectical pronunciation. Interchange between the endings -ika and -iya is very frequent4: āveņika 'particular, separate 'S. IV. 23910 and āveņiya Vin. I. 7130; Kosiya (name of Indra) Jā. II. 252^8 , M. I. 252^{32} , Milp. $126^7 = Kauśika$; posāvanika 'developed to maturity 'JāCo. III. 13420 and -niya DhCo. III. 35° from posati. But these are not cases of Prakritism; double forms like lokiko 'worldly '=laukika and lokiya=laukya have led to the confusion of two suffixes. In this way originated also sotthika 'Brahman' Mhvs. 5. 105 as variant reading of sotthiya= śrotriya. Similarly perhaps also veyyattikā 'lucidity 'Smp. 32328 is to be regarded only as a side-form of veyyattiyă M. I. 8225, II. 2083, which has been derived from viyatta (with svarabhakti) = vyakta in the same way as veyyāvacca from *viyāvata (§ 3).

§ 37. It is again a phenomenon of Pkr. when sporadically a sonant aspirate in intervocalic position is represented by h⁵; lahu, lahuka 'light' Dh. 35, Th1. 104, A. I. 10² etc = laghu; ruhira 'red, blood' Th1. 568, M. III. 122³⁴ (beside rudhira DhCo. I. 140¹⁴) = rudhira; sāhu 'good' Th1. 43, VvCo. 284²⁹ (beside more frequent sādhu) = sādhu; āyūhati 'struggles' Sn. 210, S. I. 48¹ (verse), Jū. VI. 283², Milp. 326⁸, if, as H. Kern (IF. 25.238) suggests, it is derived from a basic form *āyodhate; nuṭṭhuhati 'spits out' (beside bhati § 16. 1a) from root stubh with ni; pahaṃsati 'rubs' JāCo. II. 102⁶, DhCo. I. 253⁵ through *paghaṃsati = praghaṛṣati; momtha 'mad' S. I. 133³² (verse), D. I. 27⁹ (momūhatta A. III. 119⁹, Pu. 69⁷) = momugha⁷. The ending -bhis in Instr. Pl. has become -hi; -bhi is archaic. The Present form dahati 'sets, places' is to be derived from *dadhati as Pischel has suggested1. Similarly dahāsi Sn. 841 and dahāti Sn. 888, Jā. V. 2208 represent dadhāsi, dadhāti. In initial position h represents bh in hoti 'becomes' beside bhavati (also Pkr. hoi); to the same category belong further pahoti 'is able', pahonaka 'sufficient' pahit 'able' Sn. 98, pahūta 'much '= prabhavati etc. In secondary initial there is h for dh in hettha 'under' = *adhesthat (§ 9). It should be noticed here that in Pali, as also in Pkr.2, an old aspirate is sometimes preserved where the Skr. form shows only h: idha ' here' as opposed to Skr. iha = Av. iba; ghammati 'goes' as opposed to Skr. hammati, Pkr. hammai; Vebhāra (name of a hill) (AMāg Vebhāra, Věbbhāra, Vibbhāra) as opposed to Vaihāra (but Vaibhāra with the Jainas)3. Also in pilandhati 'decorates', pilandhana 'decoration' from the Skr. root nah, Pali has retained the older dh.—A surd aspirate has been replaced by h in suhatā 'happiness' Jā. III. 15824 from sukha4 and in samihati 'moves away 'Vv. 5.1, VvCo. 3516, which is perhaps connected with Skr. ikhate (beside inkh of the Dhatupathas).

§ 38. The softening of surds in intervocalic position is another feature of Pāli which is to be attributed to the influence of dialects.

1. Softening of k into g: elamūga 'deaf and dumb' Jā. I. 24728.
M. I. 2019 = edamūka; patigacca 'earlier' D. II. 11827, DhCo. III. 3053 etc. (in S. I. 5719 variant reading patikacca) = pratikṛtya.

Further, in the proper names Sāgala (a city) Milp. 13, JāCo IV. 23021 = Sākala and Māgandiya (a Brahman; JPTS. 1888, p. 71) = Mākandika. kh is softened into gh in nighanāsi 'you will dig' Jā VI. 1818.—2 Softening of cinto j: sujā 'sacrificial ladle' from Skr. srucs.—3. Softening of t into d: udāhu 'or '= utāho; niyyādeti 'hands over 'JāCo. I. 5072 (also niyyāteti D. II. 3312) and paṭiyādeti 'prepares' D. I. 2267 = -yātayati; pasada 'spotted antelope' (§ 12.1) = pṛṣata; ruda 'voice' Jā. I. 20720 (beside rāta JāCo. II. 38823) = ruta; vidatthi ⁸ Lévi, ibid., p. 505 f. derives pārājika, a particular kind of transgression, from *pārācika (AMāg. pāranciya).

'span' DhCo. III. 1724 = vitasti. S. Levi explains also samghādisesa (designation of a particular kind of transgression) from sampha + atisesa and ekodi 'spiritually united' (obhāva, obhūta) from eka+ūti consisting of a single (woven) chain. 1-4. Softening of th into dh: pavedhati 'shivers' (§ 25.1) = -vyathate; gadhita 'greedy' Ud. 7510, Milp 4012 beside gathita D. I. 245 24, M. I. 16214 = grathita. - 5. III. 12915 = vyāprta4; visīveti (§ 25.1) = višyāpayati.—In the same way is to be explained also 6. the change of t into l which presupposes an intermediate d: kakkhala 'cruel'=kakkhata; khela 'village'= kheţa (or from the root kṣvid of the Dhātupāṭha); cakkavāla 'horizon' JāCo. II. 3719, Mhvs 31.85 through *cakkavāţa from *cakravarta (Skr. cakravāda, -vāla); phalika 'crystal' = sphatika. § 39. It is again due to dialectical variations that sporadically the sonants are represented by surds⁵. 1. Instead of g appears k in: akalu (a perfume) Milp. $338^{13} = aguru$ (§ 34); chakala 'goat' Abhp. 1111 =

III. 27811 = basta; bhisa 'lotus-sprout' Jā. VI. 5163, JāCo. I. $100^7 = bisa$; bhisi 'mattress' Vin. I. $47^{35} = b_1 si$; bhusa 'chaff' Dh. 252, Ud. 7810 = busa. According to Pischel (PkrGr. § 211) this unetymological aspiration of the initial consonant is in evidence also in words like cha 'six' = sat; chaka, chakana 'dung' Vin. I. 20225 =śakrt; chāpa(ka) (AMāg. chāva) =śāva (§ 39.6); cheppā (AMāg. chěppa, chippa) 'tail 'Vin. I. 1912, III. 2137 = śepa; the aspirated sh, sh is said to have developed into ch in these cases. Johansson (IF. 3.212 f.) assumes Indo-European doublets with $s\hat{k}$ and \hat{k} ; ch in his opinion is derived from $s\hat{k}$.—(b) Unetymological aspiration in the middle of a word: sunakha (Pkr. suṇaha) 'dog '=śunaka; sukhumāla 'tender' = sukumāra; kakudha (Māh. kaüha) 'hump' JāCo. 3403 = kakuda. -2 Loss of aspiration is rare: (a) initially: jalla 'dirt' Sn. 249, D. I. 1679, jallikā Sn. 198=jhallikā.—(b) Medially: kapoņi 'elbow' Abph. 265 = kaphoni; $khud\bar{a}$ 'hunger' Sn. 52, Jā. VI. $529^{30} = ksudh\bar{a}$; cf. also katikā 'agreement' M.I. 17128, Vin. I. 96 etc. beside kathikā, a variant reading in JaCo. I. 45016 = *kathikā.

§ 41. Dialectical influences are responsible also for sporadical changes of the place of articulation of the consonants.—1. Palatal appears for guttural in: cunda 'turner's lathe 'cundakāra 'turner' JāCo. VI. 339¹²=kunda; root in j D.I. 56²² (beside in j JāCo. II. 408¹²)=in g.—2. Dental appears for palatal² in: dighanna 'situated behind, to the west 'Jā. V. 402°, 403° from jaghana); daddallati 'glistens' (§ 185)= jājvalyate; tikicchati 'cures' (§ 184)=cikitsati (§ 34); digucchati 'feels abhorrence' in Childers (AMag. dugucchan) beside jigucchati=jugupsate³. The last two are probably cases of dissimilation.—8. A dental appears for a cerebral in: dendima (a drum) D. I. 79¹⁴ (beside dindima) = dindima, which is clearly derived from popular speech.

§ 42. Quite frequently cerebrals appear in the place of dentals, mostly under the influence of preceding r, r, even though they may have disappeared in Pali². Thus there is 1, t for t in ambataka (a tree) Abhp. 554 = ămrātaka3. Also vaļaņsa(ka) (§ 66.1) as opposed to avataņsa and patamga 'insect' Ja. VI. 50630, Milp. 2725 as opposed to patamga. Moreover sometimes in the participles of τ -roots we have t for t: hata (AMāg. JMāh. hada) 'taken away '= hrta; vyāvaļa (§ 38.5) = vyāvrta. On the other hand we find only mata 'dead', ābhata 'brought in.' samvutu 'restrained'; mostly also kata 'done' (dukkata term. tech. for a particular kind of transgression). Instead of prati-, there appears sometimes pati- and sometimes pati-, the former particularly (but not exclusively) in those cases where other cerebrals occur in the word concerned; thus patitihāti 'stands firm'; but also patimanteti 'disputes 'D.I. 9323, Vin. II. 112 etc. On the other hand we have pați in patimā 'image '= pratimā etc. Michelson' would connect pati- with Skr. prati- but pati- with Avest. paiti-, O Pers. patiy-,-2. th appears for th in . pathama 'the first' = prathama; sathila 'uncareful' Dh. 312 f = *sthila (but sithila Th1. 277 etc.) Orthography is uncertain in the case of pathavi, pathavi (§ 12.4). Cf. further kathita (AMāg. kadhiya, Māh. kadhia) 'made hot', pakkathita Thūpavs. 4833 as against kvathita. -3. d appears for d in the two roots dams 'to bite' and dah' to burn' and their derivatives. Thus dasati: saṃdāsa 'pincers' Jā. III. 13812, M. II. 7512 = saṃdaṃśa; daṃsa 'gnat' Th1. 31. Vin. I. 320 etc. = daméa. But we have invariably dattha 'bitten' = dasta and datha (Pkr. dadha) 'tooth,' obviously on account of the cerebral inside these words. Further dahati; daha 'glow' M. I. 306^{11} , JaCo. III. $153^{10} = d\bar{a}ha$. On the other hand we have daddha

¹ For changes in the place of articulation of consonants in sound-groups see § 63.

² Cerebralisation is much more widespread in Pkr., Pischel, § 218 ff. For cerebralisation in sound-combinations see below § 64.

³ For apphotā (a kind of jasmine) Jā. VI. 53633, the proper reading with cerebral is found also in Skr. āsphotā.

⁴ On the other hand patamga signifies bird according to Abhp. 624.

⁶ There occurs also pakkatthita (variant reading pakkutthita) DhCo. I. 1268, III. 310 9 beside pakkuthita Th2Co. 2925 and pakkatthāpeti 'causes to boil' JaCo. I. 4727. How to explain this tth here? On kuthita see p. 74, t.a. 1.

⁷ As also in Mah., AMag., JMah; Pischel, § 222.

'burnt'=dagdha. Medially, between vowels, d is then further changed into l: āļāhana 'pier' D. I. 5526, DhCo. I. 2618 etc. and pariļāha 'sorrow' Dh. 90 etc. from dah. Similarly uļāra 'great' Th1. 65 etc.= udāra; uļunka (§ 17. 2 a)=udanka; koviļāra (a kind of tree) Jā. VI. 5302=kovidāra; dohaļa 'desire during pregnancy' JāCo. III. 283, DhCo. III. 957, dohaļinī=dohada, dohadinī; bubbuļa(ka) 'bubble' Dh. 170, Mhvs. 30. 13=budbuda.—4. ļh appears (through dh) for dh in: dveļhaka 'doubt' Smp. 30921 from dvaidha.—5. n appears for n in: sakuņa 'bird'=śakuna; sana 'hemp'=śana; sanim, sanikam (§ 22)=*śanam. A peculiar case is offered by nāna 'knowledge' (also abhināāna etc.)=jāāna. The orthography is sometimes uncertain in Pāli: thus sanati, sanati 'sounds' from root svan.

- § 43. Related to the phenomenon of cereoralisation is the sporadical representation of d by r, of n by l or r, and also of n by l.—1. For d appears (through d) an r^2 quite promiscuously in the compound numerals with dasa 'ten' such as $ek\bar{a}rasa$ (beside $ek\bar{a}dasa$) 'eleven,' etc., as well as in the compounds with -disa, -dikkha = -disa, -dika: erisa, erikkha (beside edisa, edikkha) = idisa, idisa, idisa etc. according to Kacc. IV. 6. 19 (Senart, p. 525) t becomes (through d d) r in sattari 'seventy' = saptati S. II. 59^{34} , 60^{1} . Cf. § 112. 3.—2. l appears for n in: ela 'fault' (anclaka 'faultless' D. III. 85^{17} etc.) = enas; pilandhati, pilandhana (§ 37) from root nah; Milinda (proper name) = Menandros (in the last two cases n is perhaps due to dissimilation)3. For n appears r in Ncranjara (name of a river) Vin. I. 1^6 etc. = Nairanjana.—3. For n appear l^4 in: velu (also AMāg. velu beside venu) 'bamboo' = venu; $mul\bar{a}la$ (§ 12. 3) = $mrn\bar{a}la$.
- § 44. Representation of r by l is very common in Pāli, and in Pkr. it is the rule for Māgadhī, although this substitution occurs sporadically also in other dialects ⁵. Thus, initially, in lujjati 'falls apart', Th1. 929, S. IV. $52^{\,8}$ (palujjati D. II. $118^{\,31}$ etc.)=rujyate; ludda (§ 15. 4)= $raudra^{\,6}$. Sometimes double forms with l and r occur in Skr.: $l\bar{u}kha$ (AMāg. $l\bar{u}ha$ beside lukkha) 'gross, bad' Th1. 923, Vin.

⁶ In JaCo. IV. 416 25 we have ruddarupa with the variant reading luddarupa.

I. 55²²=lūkṣa, rūkṣa; lodda (name of a tree) Jā. VI. 497²⁵=lodhra, rodhra. In Pāli we have loma, roma (the latter in Abhp. 259, 175) 'hair' and lohita, rohita (the latter in certain compounds) 'red, blood' as in Skr. Medially l'stands for r in elaṇḍa' Ricinus' M. I. 124³⁰=eraṇḍa; taluṇa 'tender' A. IV. 129⁶ (beside tdruṇa D. I. 114¹⁵)=taruṇa; tipukkhala (technical term) Nett. 2° etc. = tripuṣkara; daddula (a kind of rice) D. I. 166²⁰, A. I. 241⁶=dardura; sajjulasa (§ 19. 2)=sarjarasa etc. In the case of kumbhīla 'crocodile' we have also in Skr. kumbhīla beside -ira. Not infrequently there appears pali- for pari-: palikhanati 'exterminates' S. I. 123⁶ (verse), II. 88⁷ from root khan with pari; palissajati 'embraces' D. II. 266¹⁰ (verse), Jā. V. 204¹⁷ from root svaj with pari. For other examples see § 39. 1, 2 and Childers. A secondary r originating from d (§ 43. 1) alternates with l in telasa, terasa 'thirteen'.

§ 45. Skr. l is more rarely represented by Pāli r: araājara (§ 17 2b)=aliājara; $\bar{a}rammana$ 'basis, object' Sn. 474, M. I. 1276 etc.= $\bar{a}lambana$; kva (particle) = kila; $bil\bar{a}la$ 'cat' Abhp. 461 (beside the usual $bil\bar{a}ra$ Jā. I. 4618, $bil\bar{a}rik\bar{a}$ JāCo. III. 26510) = $bid\bar{a}ra$.—For l appears n (perhaps through dissimilation) in nangala (also in AMāg.) 'plough' Th1. 16, D. II. 3535 etc.= $l\bar{a}ngala$; nangala 'tail' in gonangula (a kind of ape) Th1. 113= $l\bar{a}ngula$; valata 'forehead' D. I. 10613, JāCo. I. 38818=lalata. Medially there appears n for l in dehani 'threshold' Abhp. 219=dehali3.

§ 46. Not infrequent is the alternation between y and v¹.

1. Pāli v appears for Skr. y: āvudha 'weapon' Dh. 40, A. IV 1077, JāCo. 100' (āyudha Mhvs. 7. 16 etc.)=āyudha; āvuso Voc. from āyuşmant; ussāva (§ 15. 4)=avašyāya; kasāva 'dirt, sin' Sn. 328, Dh. 9 f. (kasāyita Attanagaluvs. 2.2)=kaṣāya; kāsāva 'yellow robe of monks' = kāṣāya; tāvattiṃsā (AMāg. tāvattīsā) 'the 33 gods' = trayastriṃśat; piṇḍadāvika 'provision-carrier' D. I. 51°. DCo. I. 156²⁵ for piṇḍadāvika; migavā 'chase' JāCo. I. 149²⁸=mṛgayā. The form kīva(m) 'how much? how far?' (kīva-dūraṃ etc.) is to be compared with Ved. kīvant as opposed to Skr. kiyant. Beside

² Cf. also nanguṭṭha A. II. 245², JāCo. I. 370 ²³ etc., which stands to nanguṭha as anguṭṭha thumb to angula.

³ In Abhp. 562 there is also tintini 'tamarisk' instead of tintilika, dika.

For Pkr. see Pischel, § 254. In the language of Asoka's inscriptions of, papovā prāpnuyāt. Michelson, IF. 23. 229.

kanduvati 'scratches' Vin. III. 117 14 = kandūyati there is kandūyana Attanagaluvs. 2. 3. After the svarabhakti-vowel i there appears v instead of y in pativimsa, -visa Vin. I. 28°, DhCo. III. 30410= *pratyaméa. Childers cites also tivangika out of *tiy-=*tryangika, as well as divaddha 'one and a half' = #dvyardha (but in Smp. 28535, Mhvs. 10. 92 there is diyaddha). In case of the gemination of v there appears (cf. § 51. 3) bb: pubba 'pus' Sn. 671, M. I. 5710, JaCo. II. 1816 through *puvva, *pūva=pūya; vanibbaka 'begging' D. I. 13723, DhCo. I. 10515 = vaniyaka. Now as in Pali b occasionally appears for Skr. v (kabala 'morsel '=kavala, kabalikā 'compress' Vin. I. 205 35 = kavalikā, buddha 'old 'D. II. 162 26 beside vuddha = vrddha), so it can naturally appear also for y (through the intermediate stage of v): jalābu 'uterus ' M. I. 734, S. III. 24018 (see § 44)=jarāyu.—2. Pāli y appears for Skr. v in: dāya 'park 'D. II. 4019, Vin. I. 89 etc. (beside dāva JāCo. I. 212 11) = dāva. The Gerund lāyitvā Jā. III. 22624. Vin. III. 6437, JaCo. I. 21522, III. 1305, and the Participle layita JāCo, III. 130 2 seem to stand for *lāvitvā, *lāvita (lāveti 'tears out. mows,' root $l\bar{u}$); E. Kuhn has derived caccara 'crossing of roads' Milp. 118, JaCo. I. 42512 through *catyora from catvara. -3. Occasionally l appears for y as in $latthi(k\bar{a})$ 'sprout, stick' Jā. III. 161 13, D. I. 105 10 beside $yatthi(k\bar{a})$ JāCo. II. $37^4 = yatti^2$. The mutation of y into τ is however doubtful. The form antarārati 'runs risk 'cannot be quoted from texts. About the forms sakhāram, sakhāro instead of sakhāyam, sakhāyas see below § 84. In vedhavera 'son of a widow' Ja. IV. 18422, VI. 50813 and samanera 'novice' derived from vaidhaveya and śrāmaneya the suffixes themselves are different. Also nahāru 'ligament, string' (§ 50. 5) cannot be directly equated with snayu, for it is derived from a side-form with r as is shown by Av. snavars and Goth. snorjo 3 .- 4. v and m alternate in the people's name Pali Damila = Skr. Dravida. Cf. also sāmi 'porcupine 'JāCo. V. $489^{32} = \pm v\bar{a}vidh$ (Lüders, ZDMG, 61, 643). forms vīmamsati 'tests,' vīmamsā, -sana, -sin as opposed to Skr. mimamsate are to be explained through dissimilation 4.

18. Dissimilation and Metathesis

§ 47. Some examples of 1. Dissimilation have been already mentioned in § 41.2, 43.2, 45, 46.4. To them are to be added the following isolated cases: kipilla, -llikă 'ant' Sn. 602, Vin. I. 973, DhCo. III. 20618 = pipīla, -likā1; takkola 'bdellium' Abhp. 304 = kakkola, but also Skr. takkola, Sgh. takul. The people's name Takkola Milp. 359²⁸ is perhaps = $Karkota^2$.—2. The liquid r is particularly susceptible to metathesis: ālārika 'cook 'D. I. 5110 = ārālika; kaņeru(kā) 'young elephant 'Ja. VI. 4971, JaCo. VI. 48522 = karenu; pārupati 'covers. dresses 'D. I. 24610, JāCo. II. 244, Mhvs. 22.67, pārupaņa3 'mantle 'JāCo. I. 378°, III. 82' beside pāpuraņa (§ 19.2 and 39.6). Metathesis may take place after the insertion of a svarabhakti-vowel: kayirā through *kariyā = karyāt from root kar; kayirati (§ 175) = *karyate; payirudāharati 'utters 'D. II. 22211, JāCo. I. 45428 and payirupāsati 'sits at the feet (of the teacher) 'Th1. 1286 through *pariyud-, *pariyupa-=paryud-, paryupa-; juhada 'tank' through *harada (§ 31.1) = hrada. Also daha (AMāg daha, draha) Vin. I. 283. Mhys. 1. 18 is to be explained through *draha derived from hrada. Forms like acchera 'wonderful' (§ 27.5) are also cases of metathesis: āścarya *acchariya *acchayira acchera. Finally should be mentioned makasa 'mosquito 'Sn. 20, A. II. 11733, JāCo. I. 24623 through *masaka = masaka⁵. On -hirati, -bhirati see § 175.

14. Consonant-groups

Combination of Two Consonants

§ 48. Consonant-groups may be divided by svarabhakti according to § 29. They however remain undivided, 1. if they consist of similar consonants or of a mute with the corresponding aspirate, or 2. if they consist of a nasal with a homorganic mute. In the derivatives

¹ Similarly 8gh. kubudinu 'awake 'instead of *pubudinu.

On these and other doubtful cases see Trenckner, Notes p. 58 f. (JPTS. 19 8, p. 108); E. Müller, PGr. p. 39; JPTS. 1888, pp. 18, 37, 50.

³ Johansson (IF. 25, 222 f.) is inclined to derive pārupati from an extended root varp (I.-E. verp).

⁴ On acchera, acera, macchera, where quite the same metathesis is in evidence, see § 27.5.

⁵ Fausböll, Five Jat., p. 29 derives makasa from maksa with svarabhakti, but separation of ks does not occur anywhere else.

from pañca are found however also forms with nn, nn, nn; pannarasa 'fifteen, fifteenth' (rarely panna-), pannuvīsa 'twenty-five' Jā. III. 138^{20} beside pañcadasa Sn. 402 and pañcavīsa Dpvs. 3.29, and only pannāsa(m) DhCo. III. 207^{12} or pañnāsa(m) fifty'=pañcāsat. Assimilation of a mute to a preceding nasal is to be found in \bar{a} rammana (\S 45) = \bar{a} lambana.

- § 49. Consonant-groups containing h have to be dealt with separately: 1. Metathesis takes place in the case of groups h + nasal, y or v.2 Thus hn, hn, hm, hy, hv become respectively nh, nh, mh, yh, vh. Examples: pubbanha 'forenoon 'D. I. 10929, DhCo. III. 9820 = pūrvāhņa. Similarly aparanha 'afternoon '=aparāhņa, and after them also sāyanha 'evening' = sāyāhna; cinha 'sign' Abhp. 55 (beside cihana with svarabhakti Abhp. 879)=cihna; jimha 'crooked, false' Jā. III. 11117, A. V 2994=jihma; vayhā 'movable chair' Jā. VI. 50018 from vahya. Similarly in Future Passive Participles: sayha 'that which is to be endured 'Sn. 253=sahya; in Gerunds: āruyha from root ruh with a 't' mount'=āruhya; in Passives: duyhati 'is milked 'Milp. 41' = dunyate. Also jivhā 'tongue 'D. I. 2110 etc. = jihva. In compounds we have bavhābādha 'ill' M. II. 9420= bahvābādha; bavhodaka 'containing much water' Th1. 390.-2. The combination hr undergoes various changes.4 Initially we find h in hesati 'neighs 'Dathavs. 44, hesa, hesita 'neighing 'Rasav. II. 9816, Mhvs. 23.72=hresate, hresā, hresita, but we have r in russa (as opposed to Mag. hassa) 'short 'Dh. 409, JaCo. I. 35618 etc. = hrasva. Both svarabhakti and metathesis are in evidence in rahada=hrada (§ 47.2).
- § 50. There should further be mentioned the groups consisting of a sibilant followed by a nasal. As in Pkr., 5 so in Pāli too, there takes place in these cases, as a rule, metathesis with concomitant mutation of the sibilant into h. Frequently there are found parallel forms with svarabhakti which took place in some cases already in the original sound-group and in some cases after metathesis and mutation of s into h. 1. sn becomes nh (Pkr. nh): panha (AMāg. panha) question,

² As in Pkr.; Pischel, § 330, 332.

³ In Pkr. hy becomes jjh, initially jh; Pischel, § 331.

⁴ For hl may be quoted only $kallah\bar{a}ra$ 'white water-lily 'Dpvs. 16.19= $kahl\bar{a}ra$; cf. § 30.4.

⁵ Pischel, PkrGr. § 312 ff.

= praśna; pańhipanni (sie i not panhi-) (name of a plant) Abhp. 584 = préniparni.—2. ém becomes mh: amhanā 'with the stone 'Sn. 443= asmanā: amhamaya 'stony 'Dh. 161. Besides also asmā Jā. III. 2917. Sometimes sm=sm is retained in Pāli: Kasmīra=Kāsmīra; rasmi (Pkr. 7assi) 'ray, rein' Dh. 222, M.I. 12421, JaCo. I. 444 (beside ramsi Sn. 1016, ∇v . 52.5) = $\tau a \epsilon m i$; vesma 'house' Abhp. $206 = v \epsilon \epsilon m a n$. Initially & is assimilated to m (m<mm) in massu (AMag. mamsu) 'beard' D. I. 6017 etc. = śmaśru. -3. sn becomes nh: unha 'hot, heat' D. Andersen Pali Gl. sub voce = uṣṇa; uṇhīsa ' diadem ' D. II. 1791, Dpvs. 12.1 = uṣṇīṣa; kaṇha 'black, demoniac' Th1. 140, Vin. III. 2030 etc. = kṛṣṇa; taṇhā 'thirst '(beside rarer tasiṇā § 30.5) = tṛṣṇā; tuṇhī 'silent'=tūṣṇīm; Venhu (§ 10)=Viṣṇu; suṇhā 'daughter-in-law' through *suṣṇā from snuṣā, beside suṇisā (§ 31.2).—4. şm becomes mh: gimha 'summer' Dh. 286, Vin. I. 79^{29} , JāCo. I. $390^{26} = g\bar{r}_s ma$; semha (AMäg. sembha, simbha) 'phlegm '= ślegman; tumhe, tumhākam etc. = yuşmc, yuşmākam etc. (§104). sm = şm is retained in usmā 'warmth' D. II. 33515 (beside usumā § 31.2) = uṣman; āyasmant 'venerable '= $\bar{a}yusmant$; bhesma (sic!) 'horrible' Abhp. 167 = bhaisma.—5. sn becomes nh in: nhāyati 'bathes,' nhāna 'bath' etc. mostly in verses, beside the forms appearing in prose such as nahāyati, nahāna (sunhāta, sunahāta 'well-bathed 'D. I. 10427, M. II. 12013, S. I. 7111) = snāyati. snāna: nhāru Vin. I. 251 beside the more frequent nahāru Sn M. I. 429²² etc. connected with snāyu (§ 46.3).—6. sm becomes mh in: vimhaya 'astonishment 'Mhvs. 5.92, vimhita Mhvs. 6. 19=vismaya. vismita; amhe, amhākam etc. (§ 104) = asmān, asmākam etc. There are moreover the Pāli forms asme JāCo. III. 35921 (verse), asmākam Sn. 102 in which sm has been retained. It is retained moreover in asmi (beside amhi) 'I am', in the endings $-sm\bar{a}$ of Abl. Sg. (beside $-mh\bar{a}$) and -smim of Loc. Sg. (beside -mhi), in bhasma 'ash' Dh. 71, S. I. 169²⁵ =bhasman. There is svarabhakti in initial sm in the case of sumarati 'remembers' Dh. 3241 = smarate; beside it also sarati with assimilation. Similarly sita 'smile' M. II. 454, DhCo. III. 479' beside mihita JāCo. VI. 50430 = smita.

§ 51. Moreover, in so far as no svarabhakti intervenes, the assimilation of consonant is characterised by the rule that the consonants of lesser power of resistance are assimilated to those of greater resisting power. The power of resistance diminishes in the order: mutes—sibilants—nasals—l, v, y, r. Thus an r is assimilated to a mute or a sibilant, both when it precedes or follows it. Where a mute is combined with a mute, or a nasal with a nasal, the first consonant is assimilated to the second.

The following details should also be noticed: 1. If the consonantgroup contains an aspirate, the aspiration appears at the end of the new group after completed assimilation: kh+y becomes kkh, k+thbecomes tth. Aspiration of the resultant group is normally caused also by the presence of a sibilant in the original group: s+t becomes tth.—2. In initial position, there remains only one of the assimilated consonants, which is normally the second one: thus tth becomes th. In compounds however the double-consonance normally appears again, and occasionally also in external sandhi. Cf. § 67, 74.1.—3. Wherever according to the laws of assimilation the sound-group vv would originate, there appears in P., in contrast to the other Middle Indian dialects, always bb^1 ; initially however only v.—4. Also certain other qualitative changes are concomitant with assimilation: dentals, as well as n, are palatalised by a following y before the effectuation of Sometimes also k is palatalised in the combination k+s.—5. Between m and a following liquid there is introduced in the first instance the slide-sound b2. Only after that there takes place assimilation or separation through the svarabhakti-vowel. Examples: amba 'mango' Vv 81.16, JāCo. I. 45020 etc. through *ambra=āmra; ambāṭaka (§ 42. 1)= āmrātaka; tamba 'red, copper 'Vv. 32 3, M. III. 18615, JaCo. I. 4647 etc. through *tambra = tāmra; Tambapaṇṇī (Ceylon) JāCo. I. 8511 = Tāmraparṇī. Svarabhakti in ambila 'sour, acid 'JaCo. I. 34930 etc. through *ambla =amla. In this way is to be explained also gumba 'mass, bush' D. I. 8416, Th1. 23 etc. = gulma, with metathesis, from *gumla, *qumbla 3.

§ 52. Progressive assimilation takes place 1. in the combination of mute with mute: chakka 'collection of six' M. III. 280 ³³ = $atka; satthi 'thigh' Th1. 151, Vv. 81. 17, JāCo. II. 408 ⁵ = satthi; mugga 'bean' Jē III. 554, D. II. 293²⁰, JāCo. I. 274 ²⁴ = mudga;

Similarly, according to § 6. 2, yobbana (Pkr. joveana) 'youth' Dh. 155 f., D. I. 115 16 = youvana.

² Also in Pkr.; Pischel, § 295.

No metathesis has taken place in Pkr. gumma; here assimilation has been direct.

ugg āta 'blow' Vin. I. 1922=udghāta.—2. In the combination of sibilant with mute (with aspiration of the resultant group): acchera (§ 27. 5) = āścarya; nikkha, nekkha (§ 10) = niṣka¹; apphoţeti 'claps the hands' JaCo. VI. 48617 (apphotana, apphotita) = āsphotayati. Initially: khalati 'stumbles' Th1. 45, Milp. 18712= skhalati; thaneti 'thunders' D. II. 260 25 (verse), thanita JāCo. I. 47012 = stanayati, stanita; phassa touch' = sparéa. There is no assimilation in bhasta (§ 40, 1 a) = basta (cf. bhastā 'bellows' M. I. 128 21 = bhastrā); vanaspati 'tree 'Jā, I. 3296, S. IV. 302 28 = vanaspati.—3. In the combination of liquid with mute, sibilant or nasal: kakka (a precious stone) VyCo. 111 25 = karka (karketana); kibbisa 'sin' Jā. III. 34^{13} , M. III. $165^8 = kilbiga$; $v\bar{a}ka$ (§ 6. 1) = valka; kassaka 'farmer' D. I. 61 16 = karsaka 2; ūmi 'wave' JāCo. I. 498°, Milp. 3° (§ 5 b) = $\bar{u}rmi$; kammāsa 'spotted' D. II. 8024. A. II. 187²⁶ = kalmāṣa, -4. In the combination of nasal with nasal: ninna 'deep, low' Dh. 98, S. IV. 1911, JaCo. II. 36=nimna; ummūleti 'uproots' JāCo. I. 328 = unmūlayati.—5. In the combination of r with l, y, v: dullabha 'difficult to attain '= durlabha; ayya'venerable 'Vin. II. 29028, D. I. 9213, JaCo. III. 6113 (beside ariya with svarabhakti according to § 30. 1) = ārya 3; udiyyati 'is heard, resounds 'Th1. 1282 = udīryate 4; niyyāti 'goes away 'D. I. 4931 (niyyāna, niyyānika) = niryāti etc.; niyyāma 'sailor' JāCo. IV. 13710 =niryāma; niyyāsa 'resin' Mhvs. 29, 11, Thūpavs. 5718=niryāsa; samkīyati 'is mixed up, defiled 'S. III. 7116, A. IV. 24618 (§ 5b) through *-kiyyati = samkīryate; kubbanti 'they make' Jā III. 11810 (§ 51.3) = kurvanti; sabba 'all '= sarva; $dubbutthi(k\bar{a})$ 'drought' D. I. 117, JaCo. VI. 4876 = durvrsti. In verbs of the type jiryati. puryate we have mostly r (instead of yy, y) as the result of the regressive assimilation of ry. Thus (pari) pūrati ' is filled ' Dh. 121 f., Jā. I. 498²², JāCo. I. 460²⁷ = pūryate, beside the analogically formed passives -hīrati, -bhīrati (§ 175). Cf. the doublets jīyati 'is digested, becomes old 'and jirati = jiryati, -te (§ 137).

§ 53. Regressive assimilation takes place 1. in the combination of mutes with nasal: ubbigga 'anxious' Jā. I. 486^{10} , JāCo. III. 197^{14} =

Similarly dukkha 'sorrow ' = duhkha.

² Cf. ghamsati ' rubs ' (§ 6.3) = gharşati.

⁴ The similar form miyyati (and miyati) 'dies', which cannot be connected with Skr. mriyate, is derived from a *miryate.

⁵ In analogy with it there appears bb also in subbutthikā.

udvigna; soppa (§ 25.2) = svapna; abhimatthati 'rubs, grinds' Dh. 161, S. I. 12714 = abhimathnāti; chaddan 'veil, cover' in vivattacchadda (of a Buddhe) D. I. 89°, JaCo. I. 5614 = chadman. On the other hand in becomes $\tilde{n}\tilde{n}^1$ through progressive assimilation: pannā, pannāņa 'knowledge 'Sn. 1136, Dh. I. 1244 = prajñā, prajñāna; raññā, rañño Instr. and Gen. Sg. of rajan = rajna, rajnas. In initial position in becomes \tilde{n} : \tilde{n} atti 'request' Vin. I. 56^{14} etc. = $i\tilde{n}$ apti. For \tilde{a} $n\tilde{a}$ 'order' see § 63.2. The assimilation observed in the form rummavati=rukmavatī² quoted by E. Kuhn, Beitr. p. 46 from Vuttod. would also be progressive. -2. In the combination of mutes with liquids: takka 'whey 'JāCo. II. 36310 = takra; udda 'otter' Vin. I. 18621, JāCo. III. $51^{26} = udra$; sobbha (§ 25.2) = $\delta vabhra$; sukka 'white '= $\delta ukla$. initial position there appears in these cases only a single mute: kayavikkaya 'purchase and sale 'D. I. 510 = krayavikraya ; tāṇa 'protection 'Dh. 288, M. III. 1655 = trāna; bhātar 'brother' = bhrātar. Sometimes the combination mute +r remains unchanged: nigrodha (§ 21) = nyagrodha; tatra 'there' Th1. 31, Vin. I. 10³², D.I. 76²³ (beside tattha Th1. 183) = tatra; citra 'multicoloured' Jā. VI. 49716, D. I. 722 (beside citta Dh. 151) = citra; bhadra 'happy 'S. I. 11724 etc. (beside bhadda D. II. 9517 etc.) = bhadra; udriyati 'is split' S. I. 11315, D. 1. 9617 (udraya 'fruit, reward 'S. II. 2912, A. I. 9731) from *vddriyate for uddiryate3. The Part, Pres. atriccham Ja. In atrajă 'son. daughter 'Ja, III, 1814, Dpvs. 18.29 through *attajă=ātmajă the tr originated through folk-etymology.—3. In the combination of mutes with semi-vowels (dental + y will be discussed in § 55): sakka 'capable' = śakya; vuccati 'is said' = ucyate; kudda 'wall' D. I. 783. S. III. 23825 = kudya; pajjalati 'burns 'D. II. 16320 etc. = prajvalati; labbha 'attainable 'Ja. III. 20427, M. In initial position there appears only the single mute: kathita (§ 42. 2)=kvathita; dija (poetic term) 'bird'

In Pkr. in mostly becomes nn; Pischel, § 276.

But we find initially b for dv in barasa 'twelve', bavīsati, battimsa (§ 116. 2). Sometimes the combination mute + semi-vowel remains unchanged: vākya (poetic term) 'word, speech' D. II. 1665 (verse) etc. = vākya2; ārogya 'good health' Jā. I. 36524, D. I. 119, JāCo I. 3673=ārogya; kvam 'where, how', kvaci 'some where '=kva, kvacit; the gerundial suffixes -tvā, tvāna; dve 'two' (beside duve), dvidhā D. II. 3413, dvedhā Vin. Similarly chabbanna 'sixcoloured 'Mhvs. 17. 48 = sadvarna; chabbīsati 'twenty-six' = sadvimsati.

§ 54. Regressive assimilation takes place 4. in the combination of sibilant with liquids or semi-vowels: missa 'mixed' Th1. 143, JāCo. III. 954 = miśra; avassam 'necessary' DhCo. III. 17023 = avaśyam; vayassa 'friend' JāCo. II. 319 = vayasya; assa 'horse' = aśva; palissajati (§ 44) = pariṣvajate4. In initial position there is only s: sota 'stream' = srotas; semha (§ 5) = śleṣman; sandana 'chariot' Jā. VI. 5113 = syandana; seta 'white' = śveta. Initially sv is retained in sve 'to-morrow' (beside suve) = śvas, svātanāya 'for next day' 5 and in forms like svākkhāta 'well-proclaimed' from su-ākhyāta, svāgata 'welcome' Vv. 63. 4, D. III. $75^{1} = vrata^{1}$; vo- (§ 26.2) = vyava. Also in composition as in udayavaya A. II. 45 26 besides udayabbaya (see above). Frequently however vy is retained as in: vyāseka 'mixing up' DCo. I. 18324, vyāsincati 'is mixed' S. IV. 787 from root sic with vi-ā; vyeti 'bifurcates' Th1. 170 (vyagā) = vyeti; vyāvaṭa (§ 38.5) = $vy\bar{a}p\gamma ta$, etc. In manuscripts from hinter-India by- is written for vy- in these cases. Medially we have vy in pathavyā Dpvs. 5. 2 (Loc. Sg.) besides pathaviyam, and in the composition udayavyaya D. II. 35¹⁵ (var. reading -bb-).

§ 55. Palatalisation takes place in the combination of dentals

The word sorata 'kind' and its abstract noun soraces should not be derived from surrate which has become subbata in Pāli, but from saurata, sauratys 'the opposite view is expressed in JPTS. 1909, p. 233).

(including n) with y, as well as in the combination of n with y(cf. § 51.4): sacca 'true '=satya; racchā 'street' JāCo. I. 42512 (besides $rathiy\bar{a}$ D. I. 83 °) = $rathy\bar{a}$; chijjati 'is split' = chidyate; dvojjha 'falsity, uncertainty' A. III. 40310 = dvaidhya; 'another'= $anya^1$. In flexion: $jacc\bar{a}$ Jā. III. 895°, Sn. 136 (besides jātiyā) Ins. Sg. from jāti 'birth'; najjā Vin. I. 16 (besides nadiyā) G. Sg. from nadī. Initially: cajati 'leaves'=tyajati; jotati ' lightens up ' JāCo. I. 534 = dyotate; nāya ' method ' D. II. 212 etc. = nyāya. Examples of nn from ny: kammanna 'ready for use' A. I. 9^{31} , Vin. I. 182^{31} (besides kammaniya D.I. 76^{14} , Vin. III. 4^{19})= karmanya; piññāka 'oil-cake 'D. I. 16622, Pu. 5525 = pinyāka, etc. The rule seems to apply also in the case of the combination cerebral +y: vekuranjā <*vaikurandya from vikuranda 'without testicle' (Skr. kuranda). But addha 'rich '= ādhya. When ud precedes a word beginning with y, the combination dy becomes yy through progressive assimilation (cf. § 53.3, 57): uyyāna 'garden' = udyāna; uyyutta 'alert' DhCo. III. 45115=udyukta, etc.2

§ 56. The Skr. sound-group ks requires special treatment. 1. Where Skr. ks = Indo-Iranian ks or ss, it is represented as in Prakrit by kkh or cch. Pischel's hypothesis, according to which Pkr. kkh should be derived from Indo-Iranian $ks = Avestan \chi s$, and Pkr. cch from Indo-Iranian & = Avestau &, although both have coincided in ks in Skr.,3 can be as little proved from the actual state of things in Pali as from that in Pkr. Rather it seems that kkh and cch appear quite promiscuously, sometimes in accordance with, but as often in opposition to, the indication Pāli Avestan language. Sometimes even and Pkr. do not agree with each other, and not infrequently both forms are found side by side also in P. as in Pkr. (a) We have kkh in P. dakkhina (similarly Pkr. but Avestan dašina) = dakṣina; makkhikā 'fly ' (Av. maxši, but Pkr. macchiā4) = makṣikā. Initially: /khudā (§ 49.2 b) = ksudhā (Av. Šuša. Pkr. khuhā and chuhā) etc. (b) We find cch in kaccha (similarly in Māh., kakkha in AMāg. JMāh.: Av. kaša) 'axis, arm 'Sn. 449, Vin. I. 1510, JaCo. II. 8818 = kakşa; tacchati (Pkr.

In Pkr. we get jj, which however (in analogy with vv from dv) is not directly derived from dy, but from yy.

takkhai and tacchai, Av. tašan) 'to shape 'D. II. 3411, JāCo. I. 24718 = takeati, etc. Initially: chārikā 'ash' Ud. 93', D. II. 164'=kṣārikā, etc. (c) Sometimes in P. kkh and cch alternate in one and the same word: acchi 'eye' Abhp. 149 besides the usual akkhi = aksi (Pkr. akkhi and acchi, Av. aši); ucchu (§ 16.1a) = ikau (Pkr. ucchu, in AMag. also ukkhu) besides Okkāka (p. 66, f.-n. 1) through *Ukk-, *Ukkh- = Ikavāku; accha (§ 12.1) besides ikka (for *ikkha, § 12.2 and § 62.2) = rksa (AMag. accha and riccha, Av. arssa). A differentiation in meaning has come about in chana 'festival' JaCo. I. 423° and khana 'moment' Th1. 231, Vin. I. $12^{12} = k_8 a_1 a_1$, as well as in chamā 'earth' Sn. 401, M. III. 16425 and khamā 'forgiveness' Abhp. 161 (also khamā 'earth' Abhp. 994) = kṣamā. 1—2. Where Skr. kṣ corresponds to the Indo-Iranian sonant-group $2 = Av. 72, there appears in P. ggh, ijh and in Pkr. jjh.2 Cf. paggharati 'drips' Th1. 394 etc. = prakearati. Similarly uggharati Th1. 394, D. II. 34718. Initially we have jh: jhāma (so also in AMāg.) 'burnt' S. IV. 1931', JāCo. I. 23814. DhCo. I. 11824 = kṣāma; jhāyati (AMāg. jhiyāi) 'burns (intrans.)' Ud. 933. A. I. 13713. JaCo. I. 4856 = ksāyati; jhāpeti 'burns (transitive) 'D. II. 15926, JaCo. III. 1646 etc. = ksăpayati.

§ 57. Finally the Skr. sound-groups ts and ps have to be mentioned. Both become cch in P.: kucchita 'despicable' VvCo. 215¹= kutsita; maccharin 'jealous' Dh. 262, Vv. 52.26, JāCo. I. 345¹s= matsarin; vacchatara 'ox' D. I. 127¹², A. IV. 41¹¹= vatsatara; accharā 'nymph'=apsaras; jigucchā, jigucchati (§ 18.2)=jugupsā, jugupsate. Skr. tochati and īpsate have coincided in icchati 'wishes'. Through dialectical influence ts appears as th initially in tharu (also AMāg. tharu, besides charu) 'handle, sword' A. III. 152³², JāCo. III. 221¹=tsaru. The representation of ps by ch in initial position is quite regular: chāta 'hungry' Jā. III. 199², JāCo. I. 345²⁰=psāta.—In composition, when t (d) at the end of a word combines with an initial Skr. ś or s, the resulting sound-groups *t$ (= Skr. cch), ts become ss through progressive assimilation. In rare cases there appears cch³, mostly in combinations with ud. Cf. § 53.3, 55. Examples for ts: ussada 'friction' DhCo. I. 28¹⁵ (verse), JāCo. IV. 188¹⁵ from Skr. utsādana hudda 'small 'Thl. 48, Vin. II. 287³¹ and chuddha 'despised' Dh. 41 are of course not both = kşudra as Childers explains them in his dictionary; the latter rather = kşubdha We have moreover P. khubbhati Jā. VI. 489¹³ and khobhsti JāCo. I. 501³¹.

Examples for *tś (Skr. cch): ussankin 'coward' Vin. II. 19023 from root sank with ud; ussīsaka (JMāh, ūsīsaa) 'head-end (of bed)' JāCo. II. 41020, Mhvs. 30.77 = ucchīrsaka (ud + sīrsa); ussussati 'dries up' S. I. 1262 = ucchusyati (sus with ud). On the other hand we find in P. cch for ts in ucchanga 'lap' Jā. I. 3085, JāCo. II. 4128=utsanga; ucchādana 'annihilation' D. I. 7618, S. IV. 8327, 'friction' (besides ussada, see above) D. I. 719, DCo. I. 8812 = utsādana; cch appears also for *tś in ucchittha 'leaving' Ja. VI. 5087, DhCo. III. 2082 = ucchişta (siş with ud).

Combination of more than two Consonants

§ 58. Under the influence of the general laws of assimilation, groups of more than two consonants are reduced to combinations of two.-1. Where a nasal preceding a mute stands at the beginning of a group, it remains according to § 48, and the following consonants are assimilated and simplified: ānaāca 'infinity' is derived from ānantya through *ānancca (§ 55); randha 'hole' Jā. III. 1922, A. IV. 2515, DhCo. III. 37610 is derived from randhra through *randdha: kankhā 'doubt' from kānkṣā through *kankkhā.—2. When a heavy consonant (mute or sibilant) stands between light consonants (nasal, liquid, semi-vowel), at first the first light consonant is assimilated to the heavy one: macca 'man' is derived from martya through *mattya, *matya; panhi(kā) 'heel' D. II. 1719, JaCo. I. 49110 from pāreņi through *paṣṇi, *paṣṇi; akamha 'we did' (§ 159. III) is likewise derived from akārema. Svarabhakti is in evidence in vatuma 'path' D. II. 85, S. IV. 5221 through *vattma, *vatma=vartman, as well as in pāṣani(?) 'heel 'Abhp. 277 besides paṇhi.—3. In the same manner. assimilation and simplification of the first two consonants take place at first in those cases where a light consonant stands at the end of the group, and two heavy consonants or one light and one heavy consonant stand at the beginning of the group: oftha (§ 10) through *utthra. *uțhra=uștra; tikkha 'sharp' Jā. III. 1515, S. I. 19110, Vin. I. 636 through *tikkhna, *tikhna=tīkṣṇa; dāṭhā 'tooth' besides daṭṭhā Milp.

 $150^{\circ} = damstr\bar{a}$. Svarabhakti however may take place, though mostly in the last stage: tikhina 'sharp' JaCo. II. 1821 etc. besides tikkha; pakhuma 'eyelid' D. II. 1828, Th2Co. 25514 = paksman; sukhuma 'tender'= $s\bar{u}ksma^1$. Taking into consideration also § 57, we are then in a position to understand also ussapeti 'raises' Vin. III. 2031 = ucchrāpayati (root śri with ud), (sam)ussita = (sam)ucchrita, (sam)ussaya = (sam)ucchraya. The v is retained in Gerunds like mutvā = muktvā, $patv\bar{a} = \bar{a}ptv\bar{a}$ with pra, $vatv\bar{a} = uktv\bar{a}$. Similarly y is retained in forms like $raty\bar{a}$ 'at night' = $r\bar{a}try\bar{a}m$, ratyo 'the nights' = $r\bar{a}tryas$, as well as in agyantarāya 'hindrance through fire' Vin. I. 11237, agyāgāra D. I. 101^{22} , Vin. I. 24^{21} from aggi + antarāya ($\bar{a}g\bar{a}ra$).—4. Groups consisting only of heavy consonants are found in composition in forms like uggharati (§ 56.2) from root kear with ud and nicchubhati 'thrusts out' Bu. 11.15, Ja. III. 51211, Milp. 13019 from root ksubh with nis3. In these cases ks at the beginning of the root at first became gh and ch respectively, to which then the final consonant of the preposition was assimilated.

Some details: 1. The sound-groups ksn, ksm, tsn may be § 59. treated as sn, sm, sn, and thus according to § 50. 3-5 they may be changed into nh, mh, nh: sanha 'tender' = ślaksna; tinha 'sharp' D. I. 5632, JaCo. III. 8914 (besides tikkha, tikhina) = tikana; abhinham 'repeatedly' Jä. I. 1905, A. V. 8729. Pu. 489, JaCo. II. 3911 (besides abhikkhanam) = abhiksnam; abhinhaso 'continuously' Th1. 'eyelid' Th2. pamha 383, VvCo. 162²⁷ 2! = abhiksnaśas: (besides pakhuma) = paksman; junha (with cerebralisation, for *junha, as also Pkr. jonhā) 'moonlight'=jyotsnā (cf. § 15.3).—2. ts is treated as in composition in dosina 'clear' D. I. 4710, JaCo. I. 509° (besides junha) through *dossna, *dosna=jyautsna (cf. § 63.3) and in kasina 'whole 'Abhp. 702=krtsna. In the same manner is treated cch in kasira 'difficult' (besides kiccha; cf. kicchena kasirena 'with much labour' Vin. I. 1956, JaCo. I. 33829 etc.)= krechra.-3. Besides uddham 'upwards' = ūrdhvam there is also ubbham⁵ Th1. 163. Here dhv is treated like dv in composition

In hammiya 'hut 'Vin. I. 5820, II. 14629 = harmya, as well as in abhikkhanam 'repeatedly' M. I. 12925 = abhikṣṇam the Svarabhakti has taken place in the first stage.

15. Sporadical Phonological Aberrations in Sound-groups

- § 60. One of these sporadical phonological phenomena in soundgroups is the representation of a sonant aspirate (cf. \S 37) by h in the group bhy, which became yh through metathesis in tuyham = tubhyam. But it is perhaps formed in analogy with may ham = mahyam. group dhv became vh in the ending of the 2. Pl. Pres. Med. -vhe =-dhve. Moreover in some words h alternates with an aspirated media after a nasal. Thus in -sumbhati 'strikes' Ja, VI. 549°. VvCo. 21222, Pv. III. 1. 7, 8, Th2. 302 and -sumhati Ja. III. 1852, JāCo. III. 435²¹; vambheti 'shames,' vambhanā D. J. 90²⁵, M. I. 52336, A. V. 1507, Vin. IV. 61, DhCo. IV. 3811 and vamheti, vamhanā JaCo. I. 454²⁰, 356³. The roots underlying these forms seem to have been sumbh, vambh.2 Besides rundhati 'encloses' JāCo. I. 409 20, samnirundhati M. I. 11532 we have -rumbhati JāCo. I. 6231, II. 34110 and rumhati JaCo. II. 627, VvCo. 21727. There was thus clearly a root rubh (rumbh) beside rudh (rundh)3. Similarly we have further (sam)ūhanti 'removes' D. II. 25418, M. II. 1938, (sam)ūhata Th1. 223. which stand for *(sam)ūdhanti, *(sam)uddhanti, *(sam)uddhata from root han with sam-ud.
- § 61. 1. Softening of tenues (cf. § 38) sometimes occurs after a nasal: nighandu 'vocabulary' D. I. 88°, A III. $223^{10} = nighantu$; gandha 'book' Mhvs. 34. 66 besides gantha DhCo. I. $7^{18} = grantha$; the interjection handa=hanta; addhuddha 'three and a half' Vin. I. 34^{10} instead of *-uṭṭha. But punjati 'rubs off' JāCo. I. 318^{6} for punchati JāCo. I. 392^{11} etc. = pronchati is perhaps merely a graphic error. The group kkh was softened in sagghasi 'you will be able to' instead of sakkhasi Sn. 834 = 6akṣyasi. On leḍḍu see § 62. 2. —2. Hardening of media (cf. § 39) is found in bhinkāra 'jug' (however with the frequent variant reading with g) D. II. 172^{21} , Dpvs. 11. 32 = bhṛṅgāra; lippa 'sharp' Jü. VI. 507^{7} , M. I. 10^{20} , Milp.

§ 62. Unetymological aspiration or de-aspiration of sound-groups (cf. § 40) is not rare.—1. Unetymological aspiration: singhāṭaka (also AMāg. singhādaka) 'road-crossing'=sīngātaka; Khandhapura (name of a city) Sasvs, 8125 from Skanda (name of the war-god); pipphala 'Ficus Religiosa' Abhp. 909=pippala; pipphalī 'pepper' III. 85²⁴, S. V. 79²², Vv. 43. 6=pippali. Such aspiration is often caused by r: acchi 'light' S. IV. 29027 besides acci=arcis; koccha (§ 10) = $k\bar{u}rca$. Sometimes the r occupies the second position in the original sound-group: tattha 'there' (besides tatra, § 53.2) = tatra; sotthiya 'Brahman' (besides sottiya) = śrotriya; paripphoseti 'sprinkles' M. III. 243 17 from root prus with pari (paripphosaka 'besprinkled all around 'D. I. 743, M. II. 15 13 etc.). Initial aspiration: khidda 'play ' (beside $k\bar{i}l\bar{a}$) through * $kh\bar{i}d\bar{a}=kr\bar{i}d\bar{a}$; $ph\bar{a}su(ka)$ 'comfortable,' if it is connected with Vedic prāśu.3—2. De-aspiration: lodda (§ 44)=lodhra, babbu(ka) 'cat' Jā. I. 480'=babhru; bunda 'root' Abhp. 549 (with concomitant metathesis) = budhna (cf. bondi 'body' Pv. IV. 3. 32); muccati 'coagulates 'Dh. 71, DhCo. II. $67^{22} = m\bar{u}\tau$ chati.4 The form milāca 'forest-dweller' Jā. IV. 2913 is perhaps a variant of milakkha (§ 34) and derived from *milacea, *milaceha. The form ludda(ka) 'hunter' DhCo. III. 317, Mhvs. 28. 41=lubdha(ka)is perhaps due to contamination with ludda 'cruel' (§15.4, 44). On atta =artha see § 64.1. Not infrequently the expected aspiration (according to § 51.1) does not take place in groups containing a sibilant. when the sibilant is first in the group: saccessati 'will interrupt (?)' A. IV. 343²⁵ from root saśc; kukku (§ 16.1 a) – kisku; catukka 's collection of four, crossing of roads ' Dāthāvs. 1. 58, JāCo. III. 446, Milp. 118 = catuska; nippesika 'cheat' (?) D. I. 8 30 = naispesika; bappa 'tear' Abhp. 260 = bāṣpa5; maṭṭa 'polished' D. II. 1336 (besides mattha Vv. 84. 17. DhCo. I. 25°) = mīsta; (abhi)vatta 'he who has

² Similarly to be considered perhaps also dubbhata' injures 'Thi. 1129, S. I. 225¹⁰ etc. (dūbhān' malignant' Jā. III. 73²⁸, mittadubbhika' treacherous' Mhvs. 4. 1.), which I am inclined to connect not with druh—from it is derived mittaddu S. I. 225²¹ (verse), Mhvs. 4. 3—but with durv dūrvati (dhurv).

Not so Pischel, PkrGr. § 208.

⁴ Besides it muccheti 'sounds, plays (on the lyre)' JaCo. III. 1882 = mūrchayats.

⁵ According to Markandeys in Pischel § 305 the form bappa in the sense of 'tears is said to have been current also in Sauraseni.

showered rain 'JaCo. In leddu 'clod of earth 'M.I. 123", JaCo. III. 1618 through *letthu, *lette = lestu² there is concomitant softening of the group (§ 61.1). In composition, the expected aspiration is missed in : niccala 'immovable '= niścala; duccarita 'bad deed' = duścarita; duttara 'difficult to cross '= dustara: namakkāra 'obeisance' JāCo. = namaskāra; also majjhatta 'impartial' JaCo. I. 30018, Mhvs. 21.14=madhyastha. Missing aspiration in sound-groups with the sibilant in second position: dhanka 'crane' Th1. 151, Ja. II. 20810, 'crow'S. I. 20729 (verse), VvCo. 33430 through *dhankha=dhvānkṣa; i kka (§ 12.2) = tksa; Okkāka (p. 66, f.-n. 1) from Iksvāku; Takkasilā (name of a city) = Takşaśilā. Expected aspiration missing in initial position: kudda³ 'small' D. II. 146¹², 169⁹, Jā. V. 102²⁴ (cf. § 64.1) besides khudda = kṣudra; culla, cūla (also AMāg., JMāh. culla) 'small' (for chulla) = ksulla, which in itself is very probably a popular form of the word ksudra.

§ 63. Change of consonant-classes in sound-groups (cf. § 41): 1. Guttural appears for palatal perhaps in bhisakka 'physician' M.I. 429', A. III. 238', Milp. 247'1 as against bhesajja 'medicine'.—2. Cerebral appears for palatal in āṇā 'order' JāCo. I. 369'2's etc. (āṇāpeti, āṇatta, āṇatti) = ājñā (ājñāpayati'). But we have also aññā 'highest knowledge', aññātar' one who knows well', aññāya Gerund from root jāā with ā. Similarly to be explained also paṇṇarasa, paṇṇuvīsa, paṇṇāsa (§ 48.2).—3. Dental appears for palatal in uttiṭṭha (Skr. ucchiṣṭa) 'rest of a meal' Milp. 213 f. (uttitṭhapatta 'alms-bowl with grains of food attaching to it's), a dialectical side-form of ucchiṭṭha (§ 57). For initial jy there is d instead of j in dosina (§ 59.2) = jyautsna.

§ 64. Cerebralisation of dental-groups is the most frequent case of the change of place of articulation (cf. § 42). 1. Under the influence of τ : thus rt, rd, rdh become tt, dd, ddh: atta 'pained 'Th1. 1106,

The spelling with tt is preferred also in vattati in composition, when the sense of rolling is emphasised: āvattati pavattati 'rolls hither and thither 'D. II. 1401, JaCo. VI. 50415 etc. Hence also avatta 'turn, whirl', samvatta' overturning, annihilation', vivatta' renewal (of an aeon) ' D.I. 1426, Vin. III. 425. The group nt became nt under the influence of an original 7 in vanta 'stalk 'Jā VI, 53722, D. I. 4613. tālavanta 'fan 'Vin. II. 137', JāCo. I. 26529 = vrnta, tālavrnta. Cf. also alla 'damp' D. II. 33226, Vin. I. 1093 etc. through *addra, *adda=ārdra.-2. Under the influence of a sibilant: thati, thahati 'stands', thana 'place', samthana 'figure', patthaya 'beginning from, 'kūtattha 'standing firm as a rock' etc. from root sthā, sthāna, saṃsthāna, prasthāya, kūṭastha etc.-3. Irregular cerebralisation is found in jannuka 'knee' (perhaps this form should be corrected) JāCo. VI. 332¹⁶ besides $jannu(ka) = j\bar{a}nu$, as well as kavittha (§ 38.5) besides kapittha. Cf. also the cerebrals in daddha (§ 423) = dagdha.

16. Metathesis in Sound-groups and Loss of Syllable through Haplology.

- § 65.1. Metathesis in sound-groups takes place in combinations of h with nasal or semi-vowel (§ 49, 60), and further in combinations of sibilant with nasal, which become nasal +h (§ 50). The sibilant is retained, inspite of the metathesis, in ramsi 'ray '=rasmi. On the metathesis of ry into yr with concomitant insertion of svarabhakti see § 47.2; for gumba = gulma see § 51.5; for bunda = budhna see § 62.2. Unique is the case of gadrabha 'ass' I). II. 343^{14} , JāCo. II. 96^{24} as opposed to gardabha.
- 2. Haplology and the loss of syllable caused by it is in evidence in addhatiya (for *addhatatiya) 'three and a half' JāCo. II. 93' (also addhateyya Vin. I. 39²⁴, DhCo. I. 95⁶); viññāṇañcāyatana (for viññāṇāṇañcāy-) 'sphere of infinite knowledge 'M. III. 106¹³ etc. As sporadical cases may be mentioned: pavissāmi (for pavisissami) 'I shall enter 'Cp. I. 9.56, JāCo. II. 68²⁰, sossi (for sossasi) 'you will hear 'Jā. VI. 423⁸, vipassi (for vipassasi) 'you apprehend 'Th2. 271, gacchist (for gacchissasi) 'you will go 'Th1. 356. Cf. also sakkhī Jā. V 116³ for *sakkhisi (Co: sakkhissasi), āsādum Jā. V. 154¹⁶ (Co: āsāditum). It is however impossible to decide whether the optatives of t-roots such as jeyyam from ji, neyyam from nī should be regarded as 'haplologies' for *jayeyyam, *nayeyyam.

17. Sandhi

§ 66. Initial and Final. 1. In Pali the initial may be only one vowel or (as a rule) only one consonant (§51.2). In a number of cases in Pali the initial sound shows peculiar variations which should be regarded as due to petrified sandhi-forms. Thus an initial vowel has been lost in va=iva and eva, in pi=api, ti=iti (beside iva, eva, api, iti), dāni 'now' (beside idāni)=idānīm', hetthā $(\S 9) = *adhesthat$, and in the Pronominal stem $na = ena^2$. following too are sandhi-forms originated in position after a vocalic final: posatha 'holiday' (beside uposatha) = upavasatha, gini 'fire ' from *agini=agni; vatamsa(ka) 'ear-ornament' V.v. 38.5, JāCo VI. 48825 etc. = avatamsa; valanja 'use', valanjeti 'he uses 'from root lanj with ava. The doublets daka, udaka 'water' occur also in Skr. Similarly we have in Skr ratni and aratni 'one cubit '= Pāli ratana3. Also of Skr. yūkā and Pāli ūkā 'louse' JāCo. I. 45329, DhCo. III. 34215, one or the other is probably a sandhi-form. Similarly, words containing a prothetic y before i(c) and v before u(c)should be regarded as frozen sandhi-forms: yitha 'sacrificed'=ista; vutta 'spoken' = ukta; vutta 'sown' = upta; vutta 'shorn' = upta; vusita 'inhabited, = ușita; vūļha 'carried' = ūdha (cf. saṃyūļha D. II. 2671°, M.1. 386^{33} besides samvūļha DCo. I. $38^8 = samūdha$); also ubbūlha-(vant) ' firm' M. I. 41430 = udūdha. In some cases the form varies. Thus we have both vutthahitvā D. II. 1565 and utthahitvā M. III. 18310 after vowel. There is vutthita beside utthita, vutthanas besides

uțțhāna, vonata 'bent down 'Th1. 662 beside onata Vin. I. 2911 = avanata. In a number of cases it is doubtful whether vo- is derived from ava- through o-, or is derived from vyava-. There are moreover the frozen sandhi-forms yeva=eva and viya=iva, the latter of which I consider to be derived from *yiva through metathesis1. To the same category belong also the short forms va, pi, timentioned above. All of them have become independent side-forms. In the case of pi, ti this is proved by their occurrence after the anusvāra, which becomes m and nrespectively before them: yam-pi...tam-pi M. I. 4833,34; ālapitun-ti JāCo. III. 45311. As regards the use of eva, yeva, va², the state of things according to my collections seems to be as follows: 1. eva occurs most frequently after a vowel which is itself elided (tass' eva), then after -am, -im, which become -am, -im, and after -i which is itself elided. It is ten to twelve times as frequent as 2. yeva, which occurs after -a, -i, -u, -e as well as after nasal vowel. 3. va occurs about half as often as yeve and that after $-\bar{a}$, -e, -o. After nasal vowel we find not infrequently orthographic forms such as tvam neva or tvañ ñeva JāCo. IV. 15517, which indicate a particularly close combination. Of the three forms corresponding to Skr. iva, we find (a) iva, particularly in verses, after -a, with which it coalesces into -eva; (b) viya occurs, mostly in prose, after -a, -ā, -o and nasal vowel; (c) the short form va occurs, mostly in verses, after long or nasal vowel.—2. In final position there can be only a vowel (also nasal vowel). The consonants which originally occurred in final are dropped; n and m become anusvāra. Final m is dropped in $tunh\bar{t}$ 'silent'= $t\bar{u}_{\bar{s}}n\bar{t}m$. The following details should be noted:—(a) Final -as and -ar become -o: tato 'therefrom '=tatas, pāto 'early in the morning '= prātar. Both the forms puno and puna 'again '=punar are found to occur. In verbal flexion there often appears -ă for Skr. -as (§ 157, 159. II). Sporadically there appears -e instead of -o (Magadhism)—in pure 'former' (compar. puretaram) = puras; cf. also sve, suve (§ 54.4) = svas. Similarly also in flexion, see § 80, 82.5, 98 3.—(b) The vowel which becomes final after a consonant is dropped, can remain unchanged. But it may also be lengthened: dhī 'fie!' Dh. 389=dhik; papatā 'hurled down' Vin. III. 1726 = prāpatat; madhuvā 'honey-like' Dh. 69 (according to Fausböll) = madhuvat; in this way a new stem parisā originated out

Not so Pischel, Pkr. Gr. § 336.

² Cf. also Windisch, Ber. d. K. Sächs. Gesellsach. d. W. 1893, pp. 230 f.

of parisat 'retinue'. Or it may be shortened: abravi 'he spoke' = Skr. abravit. Or it may be nasalised: manam' a little' Jā. I. 40516, Vin. I. 1093, 'in short' DhCo. III. 14722 = manāk; tiriyam' obliquely' = tiryak; sakim (beside saki) 'once' = sakīt; okhattum (§22.1) = krtvas; adum' that' (§ 109) = adas. In verbal flexion there are endings in-um which are derived from -us (§127, 159. I, III, IV).

§ 67. COMPOSITIONAL SANDHI on the whole follows the rules of Skr., particularly in the case of compounds derived from an older period. Consonant-groups undergo assimilation according to § 49 ff. For vowel-sandhi I mention here mahodadhi 'ocean' (as in Skr.); kākolūkā 'crows and owls 'DhCo. I. 5013 (from kāka+ul-); mahesakkha 'powerful ' from mahā + is-; accuggamma Vin. I. 635 Ger. from root gam with ati-ud (Skr. atyud). More like Skr. forms are agyantarāya (§ 58.3), anveti (§ 54.5), etc. Examples of consonantsandhi are: tammaya (§52.4) 'consisting of that '= tanmaya (from tad + maya); tannissita 'issued out of that 'M. III. 24328 = tad-ni; jaraggava 'old bull 'Th1. 1154, Ja. III. 15611 (§ 52 1)=jaradgava; tabbiparīta 'opposite of that 'JaCo. I. 33729, DhCo. III. 27510 (§53.3) from tadviparita, etc. Original final consonant of the first component often reappears in composition: punabbhava 'rebirth' = punarbhava; chappaneavācāhi 'with five or six words' Vin. IV. 2125 from cha = sat + panca + v.; sakadāgāmin 'one destined to be born once more only '=sakīd (Pāli sakim) + āgāmin. Also the original double-consonance at the beginning of the second component reappears in composition: subbata ' virtuous ' from su + vata = vrata.—But Pāli is not always consistent. Quite often in vowel-sandhi one of the vowels is simply elided: satipatthana 'earnest meditation' from sati + upatthana = smrtyupasthana. Hiatus too is allowed in composition: patto saüdako 'vessel with water' Vin. I. 4615; atiagginā odanam uttarati 'cooking food on blazing fire' Milp. 27729. Sometimes however one of the two confronting vowels is extended: hitūpacāra 'beneficial help 'JāCo. I. 172° = hita + upacāra. Sometimes inorganic consonants are introduced to avoid hiatus: nisida puppha-m-āsane 'sit on the seat decorated with flowers' DhCo. I. 10820 (verse); su-h-uju 'quite straight 'Kh. 15. In mixed sandhi the re-introduction of the initial double-conscnance of the second component is often omitted: supatipanna 'keeping on the righteous path' M. II. 12010 beside suppatipanna Pu. 4833 = supratipanna. In consonant-sandhi the first component often appears in its peculiar Pāli form: pātubhāva 'appearance' (without assimilation into bbh) = prādurbhāva; antovana 'interior part of the jungle 'M. I. 12433 = antarvana.

- $68. EXTERNAL SANDHI of Pali is fundamentally different from that of Skr¹. It is always arbitrary Neither does it apply equally to all the words of a sentence, but only to those which are syntactically closely connected. Windisch rightly said that such a sandhi, as opposed to that of Sanskrit, certainly appears to be older and more natural. The cases in which sandhi can take place are the following combinations: 1. subject and the verb of the predicate, 2. verb and the object, 3. substantive and attribute, 4. attribute and attribute, 5. adverb and verb, 6. noun of the predicate and copula, 7. adverb and object, 8. vocative and the word preceding it; 9. particles and pronouns may join in sandhi with preceding or following words. In general, sandhi in Pali is much more frequent in verses under the stress of metre than in prose.
- § 69. When two similar vowels meet: 1. $\check{a} + \check{a}$ become \check{a} by contraction when the second word begins with an open syllable: duggatāham Th2. 122= duygaiā aham. If the second word begins with a closed syllable, one a is simply elided 2: piyo c' assam M. 1. 33°; chāt' amha = chātā amha JāCo. III. 416 4. Frequently however also in this case contraction takes place, the length of the resulting vowel being retained against the general rule § 5 (cf. § 7): gavāssā ca= qavā assā ca Jā. III. 408 21; nācceti=na acceti Jā. IV. 165 22; tassākkhibhcdam=tassa akkhi- JaCo. III. 431 8.-2. The result is similar in the case of $\tilde{t} + \tilde{t}$, $\tilde{u} + \tilde{u}$; yet here elision can take place also when the initial syllable is an open one, and that not only—as demanded by Jacobi's law3—when the prefinal syllable of the preceding word is long. We have thus contraction in numerous cases such as quechatiti= gacchati iti, at the side of elision as in yam p'iccham na labhati ' what he longs to get, but cannot 'M.I. 4833; but elision may take place also when the initial syllable is open, e.g., cattar' imani M.I. 661 and even pañcas' upādānakkhandhesu M.I. 611.

In the case of the most frequent sandhi-combinations handed down from the older period of the language (e.g., n'atths=nāsti), it is possible that the contraction was followed by the shortening of the vowel according to the Law of Mora. But those cases of sandhi which took place only in the Pali period, as well as the undoubted cases of elision such as pañcas' upādānakkhandhesu, and finally the analogy of the treatment of confronting dissimilar vowels (§ 70 f.), speak rather for elision.

³ Jacobi, Über eine neue Sandbiregel in Päli und in Präkrit der Jainas, IF. 31.
211 ff.

§ 70. Confrontation of dissimilar vowels: 1. When a is followed by i or u:(a) there is contraction of a+i into c and a+u into o. This form of sandhi applies mainly to the language of the Gathas. Example: macchassevodake (§ 3). From later poetic literature: ceme = ca ime Mhvs. 1. 10; man nopeti = na up- Mhvs. 32, 13. We have even mamedam = mama idam JaCo. III 446 12.—(b) The Z is elided : satt' imāni ca suttāni Iv. 2212 (verse); Bodhisattass' upaţţhāko JāCo. III, 46320; manas' icchasi=manasā icchasi Jā. III. 4934. Elision may take place also when the penultimate syllable of the preceding word is short: iminā pan' upāyena JāCo. III. 4201. This form of sandhi (:elision) is met with in all periods of the language. The elision may take place also before c, o: dhuttā mūlen' ekam bhattapātim āharāpesum JāCo. III. 28722.—(c) Finally, after the elision of a, the remaining vowel may be lengthened: idh' ūpapanno Iv. 99 11. Frequently however, when iti follows a word ending with a, the initial i is elided with concomitant lengthening of the preceding a: bhavissāmā 'ti' M.I. 424.—?. Confrontation of i, u with dissimilar vowels: (a) i and u become y, v, particularly in the Gatha language, but occasionally also in the later period of the language: manussesv. etam na vijjati Sn. 611; na te dukkhā pamuty-atthi (from pamutti atthi) Th2. 248. In icc-eva (iti eva) Jā. III, 48122 the sandhi is accompanied by consonantal assimilation. In canonical and postcanonical prose: app-ekacce (<api ek-) Vin. I. 627 etc.; Brahmāyvāham (from Brahmāyu aham with lengthening of the initial vowel) M. II. 144 26; pātv-žkāsı JāCo. III. 40525, DhCo. III. 4118. -(b) Any one of the two vowels may be elided (in every period of the language): kurom' aham Th2. 114; kurissas' eko Th2. 231; panditeh' atthadassibhi Th1. 4; gacchant' eva JaCo. IV. 14923; yam hi 'ssa M. I. 926; saddahissat' eva JaCo. III. 4992; anabhijihālu 'ham- asmi M.I. 17 37. The remaining vowel may be lengthened: labhimsū 'ti 1 JaCo. III. 40322; ās' ūpasampadā (āsi upasampadā) Th2. 109; idan' aham M.1. 135

§ 71. Confrontation of e, o and nasul vowels with vowels. 1. e, o before vowel. (a) The initial vowel is elided: sutto 'smi Jā. III. 40418; tato 'gacchi (from āgacchi) Th2. 129; cattāro 'me puggalā M. I. 2417.—(b) Sometimes e, o is elided with concomitant protraction of a following short in open syllable: y' āham (from yo aham) JāCo. III. 36424; y' āhu (from yo ahu) Th1. 632; y' assa (from ye assa) M. I. 726; sac' āhaṃ (from sace ahaṃ) JāCo. III. 475²¹.—(c) In monosyllabic words such as te, me, so, yo. kho the vowels e, o are changed into the semi-vowels y, v, in which case a following short vowel is always protracted in an open syllable, but is optionally so in a closed one 1: namo ty-atthu Th2. 157; tyāham (from te aham) M. I. 13¹; ty-āssa (from te assa) DhCo. I. 116²⁰; sv-āyam (from so ayam) Vin. I. 2928; yv-āssa (from yo assa) M. I. 13717; khv-āssa (from kho assa) M. I. 6812. Like these monosyllabic words is treated ito in itv-eva Th1. 869. -2. Nasal vowel before vowel. In such cases (a) all the phenomena of vowel-sandhi may appear. Thus contraction: nandeyyāham (from nandeyyam aham) Jā. III. 495 20; yesāham (from yesam aham) M. I. 3317. Eli-ion: paripucch' aham (from -cchim aham) Th2. 170; catunn' etam (from -nnam etam) S. IV. 17423. Elision with compensatory lengthening: tes' ūpasammati (from tesam up-) Jā. III. 4888. 'Iransformation . into semi-vowel after denasalisation is in evidence in ky-āham (from kim aham) Jā. III. 206 21.—(b) The retrograde mutation of Anusvāra into m is very frequent: bandhitum-icchati Th2. 299; atītam-addhānam M. I. 84; saddam-akāsi JāCo. III. 287 25; also antalikkhasmim-eliki Jā. III. 481 16. An original long vowel shortened before Anusvāra gets back its original quantity in this process: āloko passatām-iva (from -tam+iva) Sn. 763; pappoti mām iva (from mam + iva) Jā. III. 468 4. It should be noted that in n' etam ajjatanām-iva Dh. 227 the lengthening is due merely to metrical exigencies.

§ 72. The hiatus due to confrontation of vowels in a sentence is often filled, 1. by restoring at the end of the first word a consonant which originally formed part of it. Thus, e.g., by restoring r: punar - ehisi Th2. 166; pātur - ahosi Vin. I. 5²¹ etc. (as opposed to pātu bhavati). This restitution is in evidence also in flexional forms²: ramsir-iva Vv. 52. 5; pathavīdhātur-ev' esā M. III. 240²⁹ (analogically also vijjur-iva Vv. I. 1); bhattur-atthe (Skr. bhartur-arthe) Jā. II. 398¹⁵; sabbhir-eva (Skr. sadbhir-eva) Th1. 4. Restitution of d to avoid hiatus: etad-avoca (passim), yad-idam (passim), yad-icchitam Th2. 46; ahud-eva bhayam D.I. 49³⁵; sakid-eva 'once only 'Pu. 16¹⁷.

² Cf. AMag. sihir-iva, väyur-iva etc.; Pischel, Pkr. Gr. § 853.

Restitution of g: pag-eva (Skr. prāg-eva) JāCo. I. 354 ²⁰; puthag-eva (Skr. pṛthag-eva) from puthu Kacc. I. 5. 1 (Senart, p. 221). Restitution of m: tunhīm-āsīne D. II. 212 ²¹ (verse) from tunhī=Skr. tūṣṇīm. Finally, ļ is restituted at the end of the numeral cha 'six': chal-ete (Skr. ṣaḍ-ete) Jā. I. 366 ²⁷. After the analogy of punar-ahosi etc. also haṃsar-iva Jā. I. 403 ²¹; bahud-eva S. IV. 183 ²⁷ after añād-eva M. I. 372 ¹⁸.—2. By prothesis of y before i (c) and of v before u (o). For frozen sandhi-forms of this type see § 66. 1. In numerous cases a prothetic y precedes the pronominal stem ima: na-y-idaṃ Th2. 166, DhCo. I. 201 ³; cha-y-ime M. I. 51 ¹⁶; also na-y-ito Jā. III. 466 ²⁸ etc. Further ādicco-v-udayaṃ 'the rising sun 'Iv. 85 ⁴ (verse); ubhaya-v-okinno 'scattered in both directions '1 D. III. 83^{8-L} beside okirati JāCo. I. 88 ²⁰; kati-v-uttari, pañca-v-uttari S. I. 3¹⁵⁻¹⁷ (in Windisch).

The phenomena described above have led-particularly in § 73. the Gāthā language—to the introduction of inorganic sandhi-cons nants for the purpose of avoiding heatus. Thus there is 1. y occasionally also before a: khaṇi-y-asmani Jā. III. 48311; yā-y-aññaṃ Jā. I. 42927. -2. Frequently m serves as a sandhi-consonant: Sattukā-m-iva Jā. III. 4381a, isi-m-avoca Sn. 692, saki-m-eva Milp. 1012. According to § 72.1 one would rather expect instead: Sattukād-iva, isir-avoca. sakideva (so A. IV. 38020). Other examples are: nīcakulā-m-iva Sa. 411; puno-m-aham Th2. 292; ekañ-ca jeyya-m-attānam 'one should conquer one's own self 'Dh. 103 etc. With characteristic shortening: hitva-m-aññam (from hitvā aññam) Sn. 1071.—3. Further we find r as sandhi-consonant: dhi-r-atthu Thi. 1184, Ja. III. 2918, as against dhig-atthu (Skr. dhig-astu) according to § 72.1; jalanta-r-iva (from jalantam iva) Jū. VI. 1816; jīva-r-eva (from jīvam eva; Comm. jivanto yeva) Jā. III. 46 417. According to § 71. 2 b these two forms should rather have been jalantam-iva, jivam-eva. Very frequently there is r before iva, particularly after ā, e, o: turiyā-r-iva Th2. 381; janamajjhe-r-iva Th2. 394; thambo-r-iva Sn. 214; so-r-iva sumsumāro Jā. II. 22821. Shortening is in evidence in hamsa-r-iva Sn. 1134(there is however the variant reading hamso-r-iva); suriyan tapantam sarada-riva from sarado (Gen. Sg) iva Sn. 687 etc.—4. Sometimes we find d as sandhi-consonant: puna-d-eva Vv.53.22, JāCo. I. 968; samma-d-eva D. II. 12611 (against Skr. samyag-eva); bahu-d-eva rattim Th1. 366.—

- 5. Occasionally t serves as sandhi-consonant: ajja-t-agge 'from to-day' M. I. 24°, D. I. 85¹⁴ etc. But it is uncertain whether yasmātiha (tasmātiha) is to be explained as yasmā-t-iha. I would rather divide it into yasmā ti ha like Windisch (p. 244)¹.—6. For the sandhi-consonant n Kacc. 1.4.6 (Senart, p. 218) gives the examples ciran-n-āyati 'since long' and ito-n-āyati 'from now on.'—7. It is uncertain whether h too should be regarded as a sandhi-consonant³ in cases like mā-h-evam avaca S. I. 150° or na-h-eva M. II. 223° etc.; Kokanadāhasmim S. I. 30¹ may be explained as Kokanadā aham asmim.
- § 74. Confrontation of vowels and consonants (mixed sandhi): 1. Frequently an original initial consonant-group at the beginning of the second word reappears in sandhi. Often this is due to exigencies of metre, as in sarati-bbayo (from vayo = Skr. vyaya) Jā. III. 9518; but sometimes also without the stress of metre and in prose: muni-ppakāsayi Sn. 251; tatra-ssu (from su = Skr. svid) M. I. 7728; na-ppajahanti M. I. 1415; na-ppamajjasi JāCo. III. 424 etc.—2. The ending o is sometimes retained in its original form as before s: tayas-su dhammā Sn. 231; lūkhas sudam homi M. I. 7725. In the same way we find -us in Sonena Suhanus-sahā Jā. II. 3124, pitus-sutam Jā. III. 48424, in which case however a different explanation is possible. -3. When a nasal vowel is confronted with a consonant, the Anusvara before mutes and nasals is very frequently changed into the corresponding nasal: karissañ-ca Jā. III, 43725; bheriñ carāpetvā JāCo. III. 41011; āsabhan-thānam M. I. 6932; man-tāta Th2, 274; kahanno mātā JāCo. III. 42720; cittuppādam-pi M. I. 4326; diţţham-me JāCo. III. 449^{36} . The Anusvāra may be changed into \tilde{n} before h: cittan-hi 'ssa padūsitam Iv. 138.

As in composition; cf. su-h-uju § 67.

B. WORD-FORMATION

Note: The flexion of Pāli is throughout determined by the laws of analogy. The old historical forms have been more and more replaced by new formations in course of the development of the language. The relation between archaic and later forms in particular periods of the language has been discussed already in Introduction II.

I. Noun (Substantive and Adjective)

1. Generalities

§ 75. In Pāli the nominal stems have undergone multifarious changes. Due to the phonetic law entailing the elision of final consonants, the consonant stems become vowel ones and are inflected like the latter. Thus we get sumedha 'wise' Dh. 208, Vin. I. 535 (verse) from sumedhas; āpā 'misfortune' (Loc. Pl. āpāsu Jā. II. 81718) from apad. In this way originated sappi 'butter' (Abl. Sg. sappimhā D. I. 20126) from sarpis; acci or accī (the latter form in M. III. 27317) 'brightness' from arcis; tādi 'like this' from tādīs etc.; similarly vijju 'lightning' (N. Pl. vijjū Mhvs. 12.13) from vidyut: maru 'god' from marut etc.—Very often the transfer to vowel-flexion is effected by adding a to the consonantal stem. The a-flexion has supplied most of the types of new formations. Besides sumedha we have sumedhasa (N. Sg. sumedhaso Dh. 29; Fem. sumedhasā Mhvs. 22. 36). Similarly āpadā Th1. 371, JāCo, III. 12 12 beside āpā (in JāCo. II. 317 21 āpāsu is explained by āpadāsu); vijjutā (Loc. Pl. vijjutāsu D. II. 131 10) besides vijju. Analogous stems are sarada 'autumn' = śarad; barihisa 'sacrificial grass' D. I. 141 26 = barhis; sarita 'flowing stream 'D. III. 196 26 = sarit, etc. In this way the consonantal flexion is reduced more and more, and at the side of older consonantal forms new forms according to the vowel flexion appear in the language and gradually come to be regarded as the only possible correct forms.

§ 76. Gender is distinguished on the whole according to the rules of Sanskrit. Syntactical irregularities however often show that the sense for grammatical Gender had already become hazy. Thus the L. Sg. Masc. Neut. asati Ud. 81 7-8 is connected both with the Feminine forms passaddhiyā, ratiyā, āgatigatiyā as well as with calite, cutupapate. In Dh. 104 there is attā jitam instead of jito 1; Th2. 518: sakhiyo tīni janiyo 'we three women friends' instead of tisso; in Ud. 79 21 the Subject upāsikāyo is connected with the Predicate anipphalāni kalamkatāni etc. Particularly the Neuters in -as are occasionally treated as Masculine 2: yattha me nirato mano (instead of niratam) Ja. III. 91 15; tapo sukho (instead of sukham) Dh. 194; sukhumo rajo pativātam va khitto (instead of sukhumam, khittam) Sn. 662; mahävegena ägato nadisoto 'the current of the stream coming with great force ' DhCo, IV, 45 17 etc. Also Neuters in -a are not seldom treated as Masculine and vice versa. We have, e.g., je keci rūpā . . sabbe vat' ete S.I 67 5; sabe te rūpā M. III. 217 31; ime ditthitthana D.I. 16 34 (cf. A. II. 42 2,4). In Ja. I 289 29 there is sabbe katthamayā vanā, although vana is Neuter, and in M.I. 67 15 cattāro upādānā besides the regular cattāri upādānāni. Cf. below § 80. 4. On the other hand Masculines too show flexional forms of the Neuter. Thus we have dhamman from Masc. dhamma Ja. V. 221 27; vandati pādāni Vv. 51. 1 has been explained in the commentary 218 14 by pade; petāni puttām (Acc.) Th2. 312 stands for pete putte according to the commentary: "lingavipallasena". Cf. also Ud. 17 33. There is bhujani pothenti Bu 1. 36 beside pothayam bhuje Rasav. II. 92 4, and the Acc. talatarune immediately before the Nom. Pl. tālataruņāni Vin. I. 189 10.11. Accusatives like puttāni should be regarded as cases of Ardha-Māgadhism. Pischel § 358 also cases of confusion between Faminines in ā and Neuters in -a: Thus Pl. sabhāni Jā. IV. 223 from Fem. sabhā, which has been explained by sabhayo in the commentary. The stem kucchi 'womb' = kuksi, which was originally Masc., has besides the forms kucchismā, kucchimhā, kucchismim, kucchimhi also kucchiyā, kucchiyam JāCo. I. 52 8, 293 18 like the Feminine stems of § 86. From sāli 'rice ' = \hat{sali} Masc. we have the Acc. Pl. sāliyo. Also dhātu 'element', although originally Masc., knows forms like Nom. Acc. Pl. dhātuyo Dhs. 67, Th2. 14, Inst. Sg. dhātuyā D.II. 1091, A. I. 282, IV. 31321, but Gen. Sg. dhātussa Mhvs. 20 19. The usually Neuter stem massu 'beard' has in Gen. Sg. massuyā Jā. III. 315 22 etc. Examples of confusion in Gender have been discussed in connection with the changes of word-stems in § 75.

R. O. Franke, Die Sucht nach e-Stämmen im Pali, BB. 22, 202 ff.

Similarly in Pkr., Pischel & 356.

§ 77. 1. Of the Numbers Pāli has given up the Dual 1. Its place has been taken by the Plural. Of Dual there have been preserved only dve, duve 'two'=dve, and ubho 'both'=ubhau. It is therefore usual to say dve cakkhūni 'the two eyes' JāCo. IV. 13716, dve antā Nom. Pl. and ubho ante Acc. Pl. 'the two extremes' Vin. I. 10 10,11,15. The same use of Plural also in Dvandva-compounds: Acc. Pl. ime candimasuriye M.I. 69 16 Gen. Pl. candimasuriyanam D.I. 10¹⁴.—2. As for the Cases (cf. R. O. Franke, BB. 16.64 ff.), Pāli replaces the Dative in both Numbers by the Genitive 2. Only the a-stems have retained in Singular a Dative in -āya s. It serves to express direction and purpose. Thus, e.g., saggāya gacchati Dh. 174; jahassu rūpam apunabbhavāya 'give up the body in order not to be born again 'Sn. 1121. It is also used quite frequently as Infinitive, as in na ca mayam labhāma bhagavantam dassanāya 'we do not get permission to see the Blessed One' Vin. I. 253 11. This Dative is used particularly to express longing after something (cf. icchā lābhāya A. IV. 293 20) and exertion for something (ghaţati vāyamati lābhāya, ibid.). It is further used in the sense of 'it suffices to, it servs to ' (sallekhāya subharatāya viriyārambhāya samvattissati M.I. 13 30), in connection with hetu, paccaya 'reason for' (ko paccayo muhato bhūmicālassa pātubhāvāya D. II. 10711), and in connection with alam 'enough' (alam vacanāya A. III. 5 27) etc.—Frequently the Abl. Sg. is formed with the suffix -to=Skr. -tas. It can be also included in the paradigm as has been actually done by V. As examples let us mention: gharato from the Henry. house 'JāCo. I. 290 26, mukhato Ud. 78 10, dūrato 'from afar', cāpāta (with lengthening, from cāpa 'bow') Dh. 320 (see § 78-80); Nālāto Th2. 294, cūlāto JāCo. II. 410 19, nāvāto DhCo. III. 39 14, jihvāto S. IV. 178 15 besides jivato S. IV. 175 1 with shortening as also in simato JāCo. II. 31 (see § 81); aggito D. II. 882, atthito Jā. II. 409 3, dadhito Milp. 41 1, bhikkhuto Th1. 1024, kāmandaluto DhCo.

The two examples given by E. Müller, PGr. p. 65 f., as instances of retained Dual are unconvincing. One of them (pathamam) to idhāgato Dpvs. 9. 32, even if the reading is not corrupt, goes back only to the author of this work whose knowledge of Pāli was very imperfect. The second form mātāpitu (ca vandstvā) Cp. II. 9. 7 is certainly no Dual at all.

³ As in Pkr., Pischel § 361.

³ Cf. R. O. Franke, BB. 16. 82.

III. 448 ³, cakkhuto S. IV. 174 ³⁵ (see § 82, 85); kucchito JāCo. I. 52 ³¹, angulito DhCo. I. 164 ¹, Bāraṇasīto Th2. 335 besides -sito (with shortening) JāCo. II. 47 ¹⁵, pokkharaṇīto JāCo. II. 38 ⁴ besides -ṇito VvCo. 217 ²¹, dhātuto JāCo. I. 253 ²⁵, jambuto Bu. 17. 9 (see § 86); abhibhūto D. I. 18 ¹, M. I. 2 ²¹ (see § 87. 2); pitito 'from father', mātito 'from mother' D. I. 113 ²⁵, A. III. 151 ¹⁶ etc. = pitṛtas, mātṛtas; rājato Dh. 139; attato S. III. 46 ¹⁶; hatthito (from hatthin 'elephant') JāCo. IV. 257 ²⁰, Himavantato JāCo. I. 140 ²⁴ (see § 96); manato S. IV. 175 ² (see § 99).—In Plural the suffix -bhyas of Dat.-Abl. has been lost. The Abl. formally coincides with Instr. as Dat. with Gen. Also in Singular the form of Instr. is often used as Abl. (§ 82. 2, 90. 1, 91, 92, 95, 96).

On flexion: 1. The Instrumental Sg. in $-\bar{a}$ corresponds to the same form of the Vedic language 1. It is found not infrequently in the Gāthā-language and in canonical prose; but only occasionally in post-canonical prose. A form to the point is the frequent sahatthā 1 ' with one's own hand ' JāCo I. 286 5, D. I. 109 33, Vin. I. 1830, JāCo. I. 73, Mhvs. 5. 72 besides sahatthena JāCo. VI. 3053. Also yogā DhCo III. 283 31 (verse), explained by yogena in the wordanalysis; pādā 'with the foot 'Jā. III. 269 16, DhCo. I. 202 6 (verse); saha vacanā 'along with the word, in the moment he spoke the word ' Ud. 16 s; mā sokā (=sokena) pahato bhava Th1. 82; bhikkhusamghā (parallel to the Instr. bhagavatā) Vin. II. 198 23 etc. That these forms were later felt to be archaisms is clear from the fact that as yogā is explained by yogena, so also is pādā explained by pādena in the commentary (JāCo. III. 269 28).—2. The suffixes -asmā, -amhā of Ablative Sg. and -asmim, -amhi of Locative Sg. are taken from the pronominal declension.—3. The suffix -c of Accusative Pl. is taken from the pronominal declension. Here the forms te, ime, sabbe are used both in N. and Acc. From te *dhamman gradually originated te dhamme .- 4. The Instr. Pl. in -ehi is either derived from the Vedic forms in -ebhis, or is taken over from pronominal declension. -5. As for the Vocative Sg. of neutral declension, cf. citta 'O soul 'Th1. 1108 f.-6. The Nominative Plural in -ā 3 of Neuter stems is not rare in the first two periods of the language: rūpā Th1. 455, Vin. I. 21 18, D. I. 245 17 etc.; sotā 'ears' Sn. 345; nettā 'eyes' Th2. 257; phalā 'fruits' Jā, IV. 203 22, Vv. 84. 4. These forms were still felt to be Neuter. Cf., e.g., tīņ' assa lakkhanā gatte Sn. 1019; moghā (Com. moghāni) te assū pariphanditāni Jā. III. 24 25. They correspond to the Vedic Plurals in -ā like yugā 'yokes,'-7. As these forms however formally coincided with Masc. Plurals, they gave rise also to Accusative Plurals in -e as in Masc. : rupe M. III. 281°, S. IV. 81° (in Th1, 1099 it occurs at the side of Masc. Accusatives); sarire DhCo. III. 208°; pupphe VvCo. 17414; te chidde S. I. 4320 (verse), where chiddani as Nom. occurs immediately before. Confusion of Gender is thus in evidence.

§ 79. Individual forms. 1. Not at all rare are Sg. Instrumentals in $-as\bar{a}^4$, formed on the analogy of as-stems on the basis of the proportion mano: $manas\bar{a} = dhammo$: X. Examples are found specially in the first two periods of the language, and again in the artificial poetry;

Sten Konow and D. Andersen however consider it to be Abl.; JPTS, 1909, p. 134.

E. Kuhn, Beitr. p. 72. Cf. Pischel. ZDMG. 85.715 f. Scepticism about this. interpretation has been expressed by V. Henry, Préc. de Gramm. Pâlie § 158, note 3.

³ Frequently also in Pkr.; see Pischel, § 867.

Such forms occur also in Pkr. "through the influence of preceding Instrumentais of s-stems," Pischel, § 364.

they are rare in post-canonical prose. Cf. balasā 'with force' (instead of balena) Th1. 1141; Cp. II. 4.7; damasā Sn. 463 beside damena Sn. 655; vāhasā (instead of vāhena) Th1. 218, Vin. IV. 15820, D. II. 245°; padasā 'on foot' (instead of padena) JāCo. III. 300°, Mhvs. 14.2. Moreover mukhasā 'with the mouth' Pv. I.2.3 is explained by mukhena in the Pv.Co. and vegasā 'with speed 'Jā. III. 185² is explained by vegena in the Co.1-2. According to Moggallana II. 108 ff., Singular Locatives in -asi are formed analogically on the basis of Instrumentals in -asā2.—3 In Vocative Sg. the final is sometimes extended3. The Voc. ayyo is used in respectful address for both Numbers and Genders (beside ayya, ayyā; ayye, ayyā), as for instance in Vin. I. 758 in Voc. Pl. Masc.—4. In Nom. Pl. the forms in -ase are quite common in the Gatha-language. They correspond to the Vedic forms in .āsas, and the ending -c instead of -o suggests the influence of Magadhi4: upāsakāse Sn. 376; paņditāse Sn. 875; dhammāse Sa. 1039; brāhmaņāse Sa. 1079ff.; vancitāse Th1. 102; gadhitāse Th1. 1216; ussitāse Vv. 84. 15; rukkhāse Jā. III. 3992; ariyāse Jā. IV. 22221; dutthāse (and a number of other forms) Iv. 110 ff.; Gotamasāvakāse D. II. 27226 (verse), gatāse D. II. 2553 (verse), S. I. 278 (verse), Ja. I. 971; upapannāse S. I. 604 (verse); niviţṭhāse S. I. 674 (verse) etc.—5. An Acc. Pl. Masc. in -ān as in Skr. has perhaps been preserved in vehäsän-upasamkamim Th1. 564 through the influence of Sandhi. But it should rather be construed as vehāsāni up° according to $70.2b.-6. Besides the ending -ehi in Instr. Pl. there is also the archaic form -ebhi: ariyebhi Ud. 612. To the Skr. ending -ais corresponds -e' in gune dasah' upagatam Bu. 2.32. Or is it merely a shortened form of gunehi dasahi?7.

§ 80. Māgadhism—1. Forms of the Māgadhi-language are used in isolated passages of the canon. Such forms are: the Singular Nominatives in -e—in Masc. instead of -o, and in Neuter instead of -am; (a) Masculine⁸. attakāre, parakāre, purisakāre (instead of -kāro)

¹ The same form is used also by secondarily originated s-stems. Cf. § 94

(b) Neuter: sukhe dukkhe jivasattame D. I. 5626 instead of sukham etc. Further ye avitakke avicare se paņītatare D. II. 27816, 30, 27912 instead of yam avitakkam avicāram tam paņītataram. The passage ye lokāmisasamyojane se vante M. II. 25425 instead of yam -janam tam vantam has been already discussed by Trenckner¹. Cf. also navachandake dāni (var. lec. dane) diyyati Ja. III. 28813, which has been replaced in the comm. by -kam danam diyyati,-2. I consider as "Magadhism" the voc. sg. in -e of a-stems: Bhesike D. I. 2257, 2269 from the proper name Bhesika; Takkāriye Jā. IV. 24724 from Takkāriya. Cf. Māg. puttake, cede, bhattake etc. These are nominatives used as vocatives2. In a Magadhesque passage in D. I. 5412, M. I. 5185 there occur gen. pl. in -uno: cullāsīti mahākappuno satasapassānı (DCo. I. 164= mahākappānam). Also pancakam muno satani (= kammānam) D. I. 54^{2} .

On flexion: 1. The forms of Instr. sg. (as well as of Abl., Gen., Dat.) in -āya, like the Prākrit endings in -āa³, are derived from the old ending -āyās in Abl.-Gen.; the old Instr. in -ayā has disappeared. Beside -āya there is also -ā. But I do not believe that they are to be connected with the Vedic Instrumentals like doṣā, barhāṇā. The forms are rather the result of a phonetical process (§ 27.2). The ending -ā appears, for instance, also in loc, e.g. rathiyā ' on the street' Dpvs. 6.34.—2. For voc. sg. cf. the frequent bhadde JāCo. II. 294 etc. and ayye JāCo. The form is written with i, for instance, in pokkharaniyo A. I. 145¹⁰.

-thi,-thi of Instr.-Abl. Pl. and in -isu, -usu of Loc. Pl is probably due to analogy with the form in Gen. Pl.—5. The form bhikkhave in Voc. Pl. is a "Māgadhism" which has penetrated into the literary language from the popular speech in this word of address so often used by Buddha towards his followers. In Sg. the Nominative form is used as Vocative.

§ 83. Isolated forms: 1 In Acc. Sg. there are sometimes found the forms bhikkhunam Sn. 513, ādiccabandhunam D. II. 28721 (verse) -after the analogy of in-stems. An agginam too would be expected accordingly.-2. The form corresponding to the old Gen.-Abl. in -os is to be found in the postposition hetu 'on account of, for the sake of '(§ 22).-3. To the Skr. ending -au in Loc. Sg. corresponds -o in $\bar{a}do$, instead of which however occurs $\bar{a}du$ in Th1, 1274 (§22). Cf. § 86. 5.—4. The old ending of Voc. Sg. is to be found in ise 'O wise one!' Sn. 1052, E. Müller (PGr. p. 73) cites an analogous Voc. Sg. Sutano Ja. III. 3298 (treated as Nom. in JaCo. III. 3252, 32928). -5. The mixing up of in- and i-flexions (§ 95) has led also in the case of original i-stems to the construction of forms according to the in-decl. Thus aggino Saddhammopāyana 584; dummatino Mhvs. 4. 3 (where also the analogous form mittadduno); sāramatino Dh. 11; vajjamatino Dh. 318; also Instr. Sg. nivātavuttinā Th1. 71, 210 (in Skr. too occasionally "vittin for "vitti).-6. An isolated Acc. Pl. with transfer to the a-decl. is to be found in ise Ja. V. 9234. It is preceded by samane brahmane. - 7. Archaic forms in -bhi instead of -hi in Instr. Pl. are isibhi Th1. 1065, Ja. III. 2910 (with protraction in isibhi Th2. 206); ñātibhi Cp. 1. 9. 56, Jā. III. 32910, 49523. 8. Forms with shortened stem-vowel in Instr. (Dat. Abl.), Loc. and Gen. Pl are not at all rare. The shortening takes place mostly metri causa. Cf. pāņihi Jā. On flexion: 1. The flexions of short-vowel stems and longvowel stems coincide with each other in Pali excepting in Nom. Sg. Here the latter mostly retain their length. But shortening too is found in this position, as, e.g., in sassu Vv. 29. 7, 8.—2. As a rule, t at the end of the stem is changed into iy before vowel-endings. The flexion is thus like that of monosyllabic i-stems in Sanskrit. In analogy with it n too is then changed into uy. Yet, however, there are numerous forms of the t-stems in which t is changed into y.—particularly, metri causa, in the Gäthā-dialect; but analogous forms occur also in canonical prose. Cf. ratyā Th1. 517, 628, Jū. VI. 49121 (instead of rattiyā) 'of the night'=rātryās; Nom. Pl. ratyā Jā. VI. 2616 (com. rattio) and Loc. Sg. rattimhi Jā. V. 10223; Instr. Sg. nikatyā Jā. Pl. is najjāyo 'rivers' Jā. VI. 2781, which presupposes a stem *najjā, abstracted out of an Acc. Sg. *najjam = Ved. nadyam1. -3. The forms in Pl. with extended stem-vowel may again undergo shortening: naranāriņam 'of men and women' Cp. I. 6, 2; nārisu Dh. 284; jūtisu Th1. 346 etc -4. For the double-forms in Nom. Acc. Pl. let us mention, for Nom. Pl., kumāriyo JāCo. I. 3378, pokkharani Vv. 81. 5, jambuyo Th1. 309, (acchara) putha Th1. 1190;

4. Diphthong-stems.

§ 88. 1. The Skr. stem rai 'wealth' is unknown in Pāli.—2. From nau a new stem nāvā 'ship' has been formed', which is inflected according to § 81 (cf. nāvāyo DhCo. III. 18410, nāvāsu ib. 1851).-3. Abl. gavā D. I. 20125, Dat.-Gen. gavassa M. I. 429³², Loc. gave Sn. 810. From a third stem gava is derived gāvī 'cow' which is quite common. Finally we have also a stem gona³: Sg. Nom. gono Vin. Of the Skr. stem div. dyu 'day, sky ' only the adverbially used form divā 'by day ' has been preserved in Pāli.

5. Radical Stems.

§ 89. Only mengre rests have been preserved of the flexion of radical stems. Thus, e.g., Sg. Instr. vācā 'with the word' Sn. 232 from Skr. vāc which otherwise appears as vācā in P. (§ 81); Sg. Instr. padā 'with the foot' Tb1. 457, Sn. 768 from Skr. pād (cf. Pl. Gen. khattiyo dvipadam scitho S. I. 6²² (verse) = Skr. dvipadām); Pl. Acc. sarado satam 'hundred autumns' Jā. II. 16¹⁵ from Skr. śarad; Pl. Gen. sāgaram saritam patim 'the ocean, the lord (husband) of the rivers' Jā. II. 442° from Skr. sarit. All the quotable examples belong to the Gāthā-language. In Mhvs. 36. 93 there is the Sg. Loc. pathi

² Cf. AMag Ag. Nom. gave, Pl. Nom. gava in Pischel, § 393.

⁴ It seems unlikely to me that in apo ca pathavi ca 'water and earth' Sn. 307 apo is the Nom. Pl. = Skr. apas. Beside the Acc. Sg. apam Sn. 391 we have also the Loc. Sg. ape Sn. 392. A stem apa has therefore to be accepted. In the first member of a compound is found apo*, e.g., in D. II. 108 5.

On flexion: 1. The following are historical forms used in every period of the language: Sg. Nom. satthā (JāCo. III. 2019), Acc. saitharam (JaCo. III. 211), as well as Pl. Nom. Voc. sattharo. The last form was then used also as Acc. Also the following forms are historical: Sg. Gen. satthu (Iv. 798, JāCo. III. 2029, bhattu Vv. 15°) = Skr. śāstur; Sg. Loc. satthari (Dhs. 1004, DhCo, II. 3811) = śāstari; also Sg. Instr. sattharā = śāstrā with Svarabhakti. The Instr. is then used also as Abl.—2. In compounds the r of the stem appears in Pāli as u. Thus satthukappa 'like the master' Mhvs. 14. 65. bhattuvusānuvattinī 'obedient to the will of the husband' Jā. II. 34816. A stem satthu was abstracted out of these u-forms. from which: Sg. Instr. satthunā (Mhvs. 17. 12), Dat.-Gen. satthuno (Sn. 547, 573, Th1. 131, bhattuno VvCo 11011), satthussa (Mhvs. 4. 32); Pl. Instr. Abl. salthūhi, Gen. satthūnam (DCo. I. 2028: sotūnam). Loc. satthūsu.—3. A stem satthāra was abstracted analogically out of the proportion kammāram: kammāra = satthāram: x. From it are derived the forms Pl. Instr. satthārehi, Gen. satthārānam (JāCo. I. 5093), Loc. satthārcsu; perhaps also Sg. Instr. satthārā (D. I. 1638, JāCo. II. 2418, DhCo. II. 451, Mhvs. 5. 77) and the form in Sg. Abl. which is identical with it2.-4. Transfer to the a-declension through the elision of τ should also be noticed.

Also in Pkr. the stems bhattu and bhattāra cross the historical forms; Pischel, § 889.

nahāpita ' barber ' (Sg. Nom. to D. I. 225¹⁶, Acc. tam D. I. 225⁶, Pl. Acc. te Mhvs. 29. 20) presupposes a stem *snāpitar (cf. Skr. nāpitā); sallakatta ' physician '(Sg. Nom. to Sn. 560, Acc. ttam M. The form satthā of Voc. Sg. is taken from the Nom. The form sattha is shortening of the same on the analogy of nadi from nadī, vadhu Vin. III. 16²⁵ from vadhū. As for the form satthe, cf. khatte from khattar D. I. 112¹⁰, M. II. 164²⁸; katte from kattar Jā. V. 220²¹, VI. 492² They are based on the analogy of the Voc. kañūc of the Nom. kañūā (§ 81).

The long-vowel forms in the Voc. Sg. are transferred from the Nom. The stems, which like attan 'soul, self' end in Skr. with -man -van following after a consonant, retain the a in the weak cases. Cf. II. 87°, Mhvs. 18. 32) = $r\bar{a}j\bar{n}\bar{a}m$. Moreover a new stem $r\bar{a}ju$ appears in Plural (rājūhi Ud. 417, M. II. 12022, JāCo. III. 454, Mhys. 5, 80. 8, 21, archaic τājubhi D. I cannot find attestation for the forms attanchi etc.—2. Transfer to the a-decl. takes place often as a consequence of the dropping of the final nasal; cf. forms of the stem raja1 such as Sg. Gen. rajassa Dpvs. 17. 41, Pl. Nom. rājā Mhvs. 37. 89 (=Colombo ed. II. 37, 39); Sg. Acc. brahmam (instead of brahmānam) Vv. 17, 4, Sn. 151, 285, M. I. 211, 32818 like Pkr. Mag. bamham; muddham (from muddhan) Dh. 72, Sn. 987, D. I. 9513; attam Dh. 379; also Pl. Instr. attehi, Gen. attanam. A stem ranna was developed out of the weak-grade torin lajn-: Sg. Nom. ranno A. II. 11321, 11624, 1173; Gen. rannassa Ja. III. 707; Loc. rafine 1), II. 14516, III. 8327; Pl. Instr. rafinehi2 A. I. 27914. The weak stem extended by a gave rise to the forms attanehi, attaneou. In the same way a stem addhana3 was abstracted out of the strong-grade form of addhan 'way, time' (Sg. Acc. addhanam): atīta-m-addhane 'in past time 'JāCo, III. 431 (verse), addhānamaggapatipanno D. I. 18.-3. Under the influence of the preceding labial (§ 19. 2), in the weak cases of the stem brahman 'the god Brahman, Brahmin' the a is changed into u. Thus Sg. Acc. brahmanam, but Instr. brahmunā Th1, 1168, Ud. 7710, D. II. 2374 etc., Dat.-Gen. brahmuno Tb1. 182, D. I. 220³³, 222², S. I. 141². The Loc. Sg. is brahmani M. I. 212, the Voc. brahme (cf § 90. 5) Ja. VI. 52515, M. I. 32820, Vin. I. 66. Similarly also addhunā S. J. 7826, II. 17927, addhuno D. I. 1710, M. III. 1840.

² This is probably the proper reading for radinahi. Pkr. knows neither the u-stem nor any stem corresponding to Pali radina.

³ Also in Pkr there are forms such as Sg. Nom. addhano, muddhano.

§ 93. 1. Of the stem san 'dog'= svan the Sg. Nom. sā is quite common: S. I. 17618 (verse), D. 1. 1664, M. 1. 7733, II. 23225, Pu. 5518. In JPTS, 1909, p. 61 also the Pl. Nom. sano is cited, but no reference is given. From the Skr. weak stem sun a new stem suna (sic! with n) has been derived: Sg. Instr. sunena Jā. VI. 35320'20, 354°12; Voc. suna JaCo. VI. 3571. The frequent form sunakha is another derivative. From the strong 5kr. stein évan- is further derived suvāna, -na: Pl. Nom. suvānā Jā. VI. 24716, Instr. suvānehi M. III. 9125.—2. Of yuvan 'youth' the Sg. Nom. yuvā Dh. 280, Sn. 420, D. I. 8016 is quotable. The reading of the Sg. Gen. yuvino Ja. IV. 22223 is uncertain. The stem yuva is to be found in yuvassa Mhvs. 18. 28. Yūna and yuvāna ure new formations from the weak and the strong stem respectively.—3. Of maghavan, name of Indra, we have the Sg. Nom. maghavā Dh. 30, Voc. maghavā S. I. 22124 (verse) as should be read instead of mathavā. -4. Corresponding to the Skr. stems path and panthan 'path' there are in Pāli the thematised stems patha (Sg. Nom. patho D. I. 633, Acc. patham JāCo. II. 3913, Abl. pathā Jā. Vl. 52531, Gen. pathussa Th1. 69, Loc. pathe Sn. 176 f., Mbvs. 21. 24) and pantha (panthasakuna Ja. VI. 52722, panthadevatā JaCo. VI. 52730, Sg. Acc. pantham Milp. 15723, Loc. panthasmim Sn. 121).-5. From puman 'man' we have the Sg. Nom. pumā Rasav. II. 83°. In Kace, II. 2. 33 ff. (Senart, p. 271ff.) are given also Voc. pumam and Pl. Nom. Voc. pumāno, besides Sg. Instr. pumunā like brahmunā. There is moreover a stem puma (Sg. Nom., pumo D. II. 27918 (verse) and Pl. Nom. pumā Jā, III. 45913), as well as pumāna (according to Kacc.). There is no trace of the weak stem pums in Pali.

§ 14. Neuters in -an. Stem: kamman 'work, deed '=karman. In Sg. the forms are historical in Nom.-Acc.-Voc.—kamma Dh. 96, 217; Instr. kammanā Sn 136 etc. and kammunā Th1. 143, 786, Vv. 32. 7, Mhvs. 5. 189; Gen. kammuno¹ Jā. III. 65¹¹; Loc. kammani. The old forms are however more and more ousted by those of the a-flexion on the basis of the agreement in Pl. Nom.-Acc.-Voc. kammāni Sn. 263, Dh. 136. Thus Sg. Nom.-Acc. kamman, Instr. kammena etc. Cf. even in the oldest literature nāmam (Sg. Nom.) Sn. 808; kammehi Sn. 215, kammesu Sn. 140 etc. In the same way

Acc. jammanaṃ Sn. 1018 from jamman 'birth'=janman; Sg. Nom. yakanaṃ Kh. 3, M. I. 57¹⁷, D. II. 293¹⁴ from yakan' liver'=yakan.—Masculine compounds with neuter second components in -an are is flected mostly according to the a-deel. after dropping the final nasal. Thus Pl. Nom. puūūakammī S. On flexion: 1. Two distinct types are in evidence¹: the old one in -in and the new one in -i (flexion according to § 82), which is derived either from the stem-form in which the in-stems appear in compounds, or from the case-form in Instr. Sg. where both declensions show the same form. Both the types were living in all the periods of the language. Cf., e.g., Sg. Gen. jhāyino (from jhāyin 'thoughtful') Dh. 110, setthino JāCo. I. 122¹⁷ (from setthin 'merchant'), hatthino DhCo. I. 168¹² and anupassissa* (from -ssin 'observing') Dh. 253, setthiesa S. I. 90', Vin I. 218^{cs}, JāCo. IV. 229¹⁰, hatthissa Vin. II. 195²⁶, JāCo. Occasionally in-stems too are themsetised by adding an a1, thus giving r se to new stems. Cf. Sg. Acc. neut. oharinam Dh. 346 from oharin ' dragging down '; Sg. Loc. ariyavuttine JaCo. III. 1222 (verse); Pla Nom. verinā DhCo. II. 371 from verin 'inimical'=vairin; Pl. Acc. palokine Th2. 101 from palokin 'doomed to destruction', panine Sn. 220; Pl. Loc. verinesu Dh. 197. We have even Sg. Voc. fem. aveline uppalamāladhārine Vv. 48. 2 from avelin 'decorated', odhārin 'carrying lotus-wreaths' beside Vocatives like alamkate. Otherwise the in-stems form their feminines as in Skr.: sāminī ' mistress', gubbhini 'pregnant' etc.—3. There are some isolated unusual forms, e.g., Pl. Noin. pāņayo Sn. 201, hatthiyo Jā. VI. 53730 and the archaic Instrumentals in -bhi: atthadassibhi Th1. 4, nettimsavaradhāribhi Jā, II. 7723, jhāyībhi, jhānasīlībhi M. III. 1325 etc -4. The stem tādi=tādīs (cf. §75) is treated as an in-stem; cf. Sg. Gen. tādino Vv. 82.7 Pl. Gen. -nam Vv. 81. 26; also Sg. Loc. tādine (cf. 2) Th1. 1173.

On flexion. 1. Out of the older historical type the later one has been developed through transfer to the a-flexion. The Sg. Acc. in -antam was the connecting link. Both types persist side by sile through all the stages of the language. The younger type completely monopolised the Instr., Abl. and Loc. Pl. even from the beginning. Examples of forms of the later type out of the Gatha-language: Sg. Gen. silavantassa Dh. 110; Loc. silavante JaCo. III. 1222 (verse); Voc. yasavanta Vv. 63. 30; Sg. Nom. neut. vannavantam (puppham) Th1. 323. 324; Pl. Acc. mahante Jā. IV. 22228. From canonical prose Sg. Nom. mahanto 'great' M. III. 1851; Pl. Acc. mahante Vin. I. 8531; Gen. sīlavantānam M. I 3344, satimantānam A. I. 2433, dhitimantanam A. 1. 252, bhagavantanam S. V. 1646 etc. Also Pl. Insir. silavantehi D. II. 8021 etc. Yet il e regular flexion is still the From the stem cakkhumant 'endowed with eyes, seeing' we have in Sn. the forms Sg. Nom cakkhumā, Voc. -ma, Instr. -matā; Pl. Nom. -manto. From satimat 'of retentive memory' we have in Dh. Sg. Nom. satimā; Gen. -mato; Pl. Nom. -manto; Gen. -matam etc.1 In canonical pro-e the forms of the older type are: Sg Nom. satimā D. I. 3725, vusitavā Perf. Part. Act. 'he who has dwelt 'M. I. 510, sutavā 'he who has heard, learnt 'M. I. 832; Instr. mahatā S. V. 16326, sīlavatā S. III. 16723; Gen. sīlavato S. IV. 30320, sabbāvato (from sabbāvant 'full, complete') M. II. 1510: Pl. Gen. sabbāvatam M. II. 1618 etc. Also bhagavā, -vatā, -vato. -vati; ayasmā, -matā etc. passim. Forms of the older type in post-canonical prose: Sg. Nom. sīlavā Milp. 2243, JāCo. I. 1871; Instr. (Mārena) pāpimatā Milp. 15511; Gen. mahato Milp. 22416, JāCo. III. 2318, (Mārassa) pāpimato Milp. 1558; balavato yasavato Milp. 28416; quite commonly bhagavā, vatā, vato, vati: āyasmā, -matā. Beside them bowever the forms of the a-flexion go on increasing: Sg. Nom. sumahanto Milp. 1552; Instr. mahantena JāCo. III. 2420, 403; Pl. Acc. silavante JaCo, I. 18728; Gen. bhagavantānam Milp. 22613; Sg. Nom. neut. mahantam (pāṭihāriyam) JāCo. IV. 22918, ojavantam (rattham) JāCo. III. 1116; Pl. Nom. neut. ojavantāni JāCo. III. 11020 etc. Of the stem Himavant2, for instance, there occur in JaCo, only the following forms: Sg. Nom. Himavā JāCo. VI. 5808, Gen. Himavato JāCo. V. 39218, 41918, Loc. Himavati seven times (of which five times with the variant reading vante). Otherwise the stem Himavanta is used throughout. Cf. also the abstracts like silavantata JāCo. I. 3204 etc., derived from a stem extended by -a.-2. Transfer to the a-flexion follows also from the dropping of nt3. Forms of this type are found in the Gāthā-language: Sg. Acc. satimam Sn. 212, bhānumam Sn. 1016, Himavam Jā. VI. 2724; Pl. Noir. mutīmā Sn. 881. Also Sg. Nom. fem. kittimā Jā. III. 706, VI. 50821. The fem. name Sirimā occurs in all the stages of the language1. The neutral form ojavam Th2. 55 may be derived from a stem ojava, or it may be directly derived from Skr. ojavat. These forms perhaps facilitated the shortening of ant-stems into a-stems.—3. The Nominative-form of the Pl. in -anto is used also in Acc., just as that of the Sg. in -ā is used in Voc.

§ 97. Present Participles in .nt. 1. Their flexion is distinguished from that of the adjectives in -nt firstly by the fact that the Sg. Nom. has retained the ending -am = Skr. -an in the Gatha-language and in the canonical prose. Thus jivam 'living' Sn. 427, 432, Th1. 44= jīvan; kubbam 'making 'Jā, III. 27812 = kurvar; viharam 'sojourning' Th1, 435=viharan; bhanam 'speaking' Sn. 429=bhanan etc. Similarly jānam 'knowing' M. II. 923 = jānen; passam 'seeing' M. II. 924 = pasyan. But beside it the ending onto occurs already in the oldest period of the language: kandanto 'weeping' Th1. 406; patthento 'desiring' Th1. 264; gavesanto 'seeking' Th1. 183; apațikujjhanto 'not getting angry with it' S. I. 16230 (verse) etc., and frequently in the canonical prose: kandanto M. II. 320, appajānanto 'not comprehending' M. I. 722. In post-canonical prose the form in -nto becomes predominant, and that in -am is considered to be archaic. Hence nihanam 'killing' Ja. II. 4071 is explained by nihananto in the Co., as also in similar other instances. In the first two periods of the language the flexion retained the archaic forms: Sg. Instr. icchatā (from icchati ' wishes ') Th1. 167=icchatā; Gen. vasato (from vasati 'dwells') Jā. III. 17° = vasatas; Pl. Gen. vijānatam (from vijānāti 'comprehends') Th1. 14; vadatam (from vadati 'speaks') Vv. 53. 1 (Comm.= vadantānam); Sg. Gen. passato = pasyatas M. 1.74, viharato M. I. 927 etc. Along with them should be counted also the forms Sg. Gen karoto Dh. 116, Th1. 98, 99 and Pl. Gen karotam Vv. 34. 21 (but kurutam M. I. 51623). They belong to the stem karont-abstracted out of the Acc. of the new form karonta-, and their relation to the Acc. karontam is as that of vasato, vasatam to vasantam2. We should also note the Pl. Nom. icchato Th1. 320 for icchanto = icchantas. At the side of the older forms there are found, already from the Gatha-language onwards, forms of the a-flexion: Sg. Gen.

namantassa (from namati 'bows') Jā. II. 205°, passantassa Ihl. 716; Loc. kandante Thl. 774; Pl. Nom. vicarantā (from vicarati 'wanders about') Thl. 37, a-vijānantā Thl. 276; Pl. Gen. nadantānam (from nadati 'roars') Thl. Introd. verse 1; cf. alsc Pl. Loc. uppatantesu nipatantesu (root pat) Thl. 76. These forms become more frequent in the canonical prose (cf. Pl. Nom. jānantā, passantā M. II. 10⁸°: Acc. pavisante, nikkhamante 'the incoming, the outgoing' M. II. 21²¹), and in the post-canonical prose they are the only current ones.—2. More rarely, in the Gāthā-language, the participles in -ant go over to the a-flexion also by dropping the final nt. Cf. jāno 'knowing' Jā. III. 24² for jānam, jānanto; passo 'seeing' Thl. 61 for passam, passanto. In this way is to be explained the form anu-kubbassa Jā. II. 205¹º instead of -kubbato=kurvatas (Comm. anukubbantassa). The Sg. Nom. neut. asam 'worthless' Jā. II. 32² would be thus directly = Skr. asat.

§ 98. 1. The stem arahant 'the perfect one', originally a Part. Pres., has in Sg. Nom. both araham S. I. 16923 (verse), Sn. p. 100, 103, A. II. 234^{36} , Iv. 78^{22} etc. as well as $arah\bar{a}$ Sn. 1003. The reading of the mss. is ofren uncertain, as in A. III. 43621, 4372, IV. 36422, Iv. 9512. Moreover the stems arahant and arahanta are in evidence side by side. The Sg. Loc arahantamhi occurs already in Th1. 1173; the Pi. Gen. is arabatam in Dh. 164, D. I. 882, S. I. 16127 and arahantānam in A. IV. 39423, Milp. 20821 etc.-2. Of the stem sant 'existing, good' the old Pl. Inst. sabbhi= sadbhis has been retained in verses: Dh. 151, Th1. 1096, D. II. 2467 (verse), sabbhir-cva Th1.4, S. I. 173 (verse), asabbhi Su. 245. The other forms are derived from the stems sant or santa; c.q. Sg. Dat.-Gen. sato Th1. 180, D. I. 3411, Milp. 23525; Loc. sati Sn. 81, D. II. 3113, Vin I 11235, Milp. 23113 (in connection with a fem. substantive JaCo. I. 3282, 3488 etc.) and sante Sn. 94, M. II. 2422, DhCo. II. 1344; I'l. Nom. santo Dh. 83, 151 and santā Vin. I. 1031; Pl. Loc. santesu Milp. 288 (verse) etc. The Sg. Nom. masc. is always santo Sn. 98, 124, Th1. 198, Milp. 326. On the neut. asam see § 97. 2; beside it we have santam, asantam Vin. I. 943233. But I consider asatam Sn. 131 to be Pl. Gen. = asajjanānam as in the Comm.; va. lec. of the Comm. is asartam = abhūtam.—3. The form of address bhavant 'venerable', used for the Pron. of the second person, has the following forms: Sg. § 99. Neuters in -as. Stem sotas 'stream

Of the historical forms there are preserved only Sg. Nom.-Acc.-Voc. soto³—Instr. sotasā—Dat.-Gen. sotaso—Loc. sotasi. Transfer to the neutral a-declension is also achieved by dropping the final s (§ 78 B). The new stem serves as the basis of all the cases in Plural, and, apparently, also of Abl. Sg. Sometimes also the other cases of Sg. are formed from it.

On flexion. 1. The historical forms are found mostly in the Gāthā-language and in the canonical prose: Sg. Nom. ³ The coincidence of this form with the Sg. Nom. dhammo of masc. a-stems has led to a confusion in gender as pointed out in § 76.

atmosphere 'Vv. 16. 1. But beside them, already in the oldest period, forms of the a-type are frequently used: Sg. Nom. siram Th2. 255, manam Dh. 96; Acc. siram A. I. 14113; Instr. tapena Sn. 655; Gen. manassa S, IV. 417; Loc. ure D. I. 13527, urasmim A. I. 1415, nabhamhi 'in the atmosphere' Ja.V. 1420, aghe Ja.IV. 3221 and aghasmi Jā. IV. 48412. This becomes the normal flexion in the post-canonical prose 1. The archaic forms are confined to a limited number of words and expressions: Sg. Nom. mano JaCo. IV. 21725,26; Acc. vaco JāCo. IV. 23417; Instr. manasā JāCo. IV. 2184, 22715, as well as, for instance, Milp. 22710, in the old phrase kāyena vācāya manasā; Loc. manasi in manasi-karoti 'pays attention to, ponders in mind over' JāCo. I. 39329, 50015 etc. On the other hand mane DhCo. I. 233. 2. For the Plural it is sufficient to point out from the oldest literature the forms sotāni Sn. 433 and sotā Sn. 1034; Acc. sote² Th1. 761; Instr. sotchi Sn. 197, sirchi Ja. IV. 25015; Gen. sotunam Sn. 1034.—3. The transfer to the a-decl. may take place also through the addition of a to the s-stem: Sg. Acc. sirasam JūCo. V. 4348.

§ 100. Masculines and feminines in -as. 1. The masc. stem . candimas 'moon' has in Sg. Nom. candimā Dh. 172 f., 382= candramās. For the rest the flexion is just like that of a-stems. same applies as a rule to compounds with as-stems. Cf. Sg. Nom. attamano 'joyous 'Dh 328, D. II. 35211, M. I. 4323; dummano 'sad' Vin. I. 2122, JāCo, II. 16018; fem. attamanā JāCo. I. 5230; Pl. Nom. attamanā D. I. 4627; sumunā Sn. 222; Acc. muditamane Sn. 680. Forms of the as-type are however found in the Gatha-language: Sg. Gen, ananvāhatacetaso Dh. 39; perhaps Sg. Acc. vyāsattamanasam Dh. 47. Transfer to the a-flexion may take place also through extension of the stem by a: Sg. Nom. avyāpannacetaso 3 S. V. 7419,20; Pl. Nom. adhimanasā Sn. 692.—2. The Participles Perf. Act. in -vas assume various forms. Historical are the forms avidvā 'unknowing' Sn. 535 etc., M. I. 311 = avidvān, as well as odassivā in bhaya-dassivā Dh. 31 f. = odarśivān 'seeing'. The form which is most in use is vidă, derived from the weak stem vidus and inflected according to § 87. 2. Moreover we have also a stem viddasu: Sg. Nom. aviddasu Dh. 268, Gen. viddasuno, av- M. I. 655, 6, 8; Pl. Nom. aviddasū Sn.

As also in Pkr. (see Pischel, § 408 f.), which has however also retained the old forms, particularly in AMag. and JMah.

² On sota and sote of. § 78. 6, 7.

³ Also in Skr. the form cetasa is allowed at the end of a compound according to Vopadeva, BR. sub vesc.

762, suno M. I. 6526.—3. The comparatives in syas drop the final s and are transferred to the a-flexion. Cf. Sg. Nom. scyyo Dh. 308, Sn. 918, S. IV. 883; Acc. scyyam Dh. 61, Th1, 208; Pl. Nom. scyya Dpvs. 4. 51 and scyyāsc (§ 79. 4) Vv. 18. 12; from this stem also fem. scyyā, neut. scyyam JāCo. III. 23713, Pl. scyyāni Jā. III. 19612. old Sanskritic form is retained in the neut. scyyo 'superior' Dh. 76, Th1. 194, Ja. II 44^{24} , VI. 498^{19} , Vin. III 73^{14} etc. = $reyas. opposite of it is pāpiyo 'inferior' Ja. II. 446 etc. (beside pāpiyam Milp. 15516) = pāpiyas. The indeclinable scyyaso Dh. 42 f., Jā. IV. 2414'13 is identical in meaning with seyyo. Seyyatara may be regarded as the usual form for scyya in the post-canonical prose, and in VvCo. 9622-23, for instance, scyya is explained by scyyatara. Also from the old stein the fem. seyyasi (shortened from seyyasi metri causa) Jā. V. 39321 -4. Pāli accharā1 corresponding to Skr. fem. apsaras 'nymph' is a case of transfer to the ā-decl., § 81. The stem jarā beside jaras is known also in Skr.

The neuter stems in -is, -us are treated almost exclusively as i-, u neuters (§ 85). Historical forms are found only occasionally, as Sg. Instr. āyusā" from Skr. āyus 'age 'Sn. 149. Usually however the stem is as in Pali sappi from Skr. sarpis 'butter', Pali cakkhu from Skr. cakşus 'eye'. Thus Sg. Nom. sappi D. I. 20128, A. I. 27831 and sappin JaCo, I. 45722, ayu 'age' Thi. 145, Dh 109 and āyum JāCo. I. 1385, cakkhum Vin. II. 1573; Acc. sappim Mhys. 5. 217, cakkhum JāCo. III. 187; Instr sappınā Ud. 3833, cakkhunā JāCo. III. 189; Abl. sappunhā D. I. 20126; Dat.-Gen. sappissa Ud. 934, āyussa Mhvs. 35. 73, cakkhuno JāCo. IV. 20619; Loc. cakkhusmin Vin. I. 3432, cakkhumhi Dpvs. 4. 4. Pl. Nom. cakkhūni JaCo. IV. 13716; Instr. cakkhāhi Dpvs. 17. 26 etc.—The neuter Sanskrit stem arcis 'flame' was changed into acci and then inflected as a fem. stem: Sg. Instr. acciyā M. II. 1306, Pl. Nom. acciyo Vin. I. 2530 (acci. vātena khittā A. IV. 1035, S. IV. 39923126).—Masculine compounds like $digh\bar{a}yu$ 'long-lived' = $d\bar{u}gh\bar{a}yus$ are inflected according to § 82.

10. Adverbs and Comparison.

§ 102. The accusative of the neuter adjective serves as the adverb in Pāli: jaha sīgham samussayam 'give up quickly the totality (of all that lead to rebirth) 'Thi. 88; sādhu kho mayam palāyimha 'we have fled just in the right manner' Vin. I. 88³⁴; tumhe sanikam āgaccheyyātha 'come hither slowly! 'JāCo. III. 37¹³; palāyatha lahum 'fly quickly!' Mhvs. 7. 66. But other case-forms too are used as adverbs; thus Instrumentals: kicchena katā paņņasālā 'the hut made with great labour' JāCo. II. 44⁶; api ca me āvuso salthā paricinno dīgharattam manāpena na amanāpena 'moreover the master has been served by me for a long time in a fitting manner, and not in an unfitting manner' S. IV. 57²⁵. The Abl. is used, for instance, in kicchā laddho ayam putto 'this son has been acquired with great difficulty' Th1. 475 (cf. VvCo. 229¹⁸). Or should kicchā here be regarded as Instr.?

¹ So also in Pkr.; Pischel, § 410.

² As also Pkr, AMag. cakkhusa; Pischel, § 411.

§ 103. Comparison. 1. Several of the old comparatives and superlatives in -iyas and -iṣṭha have been preserved. Thus seyya(s) = srcyas, $p\bar{r}piya(s) = p\bar{a}p\bar{i}yas$ (\$ 100. 3); bhiyyo, $bh\bar{i}yo$ 'more' (adv.) Dh. 17 f., Th1. 110, 173, S. I. 1.98^{17} etc. = $bh\bar{u}yas$, The comp. $n\bar{u}ceyya(s)$ Sn. 855, 918 has been formed clearly on the analogy of seyya(s). Moreover we have the superlatives settha 'the best' = śrestha; pāpittha ' the worst ' = pāpistha ; kanittha ' the youngest ' = kanistha; jettha 'the eldest' = jyestha. Settho in Vv. 64. 88 is used in the sense of a comparative. As in Skr., so also in Pali, these comparatives and superlatives may undergo further gradation 1: seyyatara (§ 100, 3); sctthatara Jā. V. 1487; pāpitthatara Vin. II. 511. The compound pāpissika is difficult to explain. According to Childers sub vocc it is = $p\bar{a}p\bar{i}yas + ika$. A less contracted form is perhaps to be found in pāpiyyasika of the technical term tassapāpiyyasikā.—2. The comparative suffix -tara is very productive in Pali. It seems to have almost completely ousted the superlative suffix -tama. An example of the superlative is ularatama 'the highest' VvCo. 82014; sattama 'the best' Sn. 356 is another. Regular examples of the comparative are piyatara 'dearer' JaCo. III. 27924, sādutara 'sweeter' Sn. 181 (used in the superlative sense in S. I. 21419), bahutara 'more' Vin. I, 1294 etc. There are also new formations such as mahantatara 'greater' M. III. 17013, JaCo. II. 41716, silavantatara 'more virtuous' JāCo. II. 321, vanņavantatara 'more beautiful' D. I. 1821, in which the suffix has been added to the stem extended by a. In balavatara ' stronger ' Milp. 23421 it has been added to the shortened stem. Cf. the comparatives purimatara 'the earlier' S. IV. 3988, paramatara 'the higher' Th1. 518, varatara 'the more excellent' DhCo. I. 3326 and the Adv. pathamataram 'earlier' Vin 1. 304, DhCo. I. 1387,

JāCo. VI. 510²⁵. In sappurisatara 'the more efficient man' S. V. 20⁷ the suffix -tara has been added to the substantive sappurisa = satpuruṣa; in purctaram 'earlier' it has been added to the adv. purc. Even the adverb pageva 'much more still' has been intensified to pagevataram M. III. 145³. The comparative has been extended by the suffix -ika in lahukatarika M. II. 70¹³. The intensity of meaning—'much', 'exceedingly' etc.—may be expressed also by the reduplication of the adj.: mahantamahanto JāCo. I. 347²⁹. Cf. D. II. 73⁶.—3. The simple positive is not infrequently used in the comparative sense. Cf. ctcsu kataram nu kho mahantam 'which is the greater of the two?' JāCo. III. 194³; santi to nātito bahū 'they are more numerous than the relatives' Mhvs. 14. 20. Cf. DhCo. I. 94¹⁸

Enclitic: Sg. Instr.-Dat.-Gen. te Pl. Acc.-Instr.-Dat.-Gen. vo.

¹ Cf. Geiger, Mhvs. ed. p. LIV. The same usage also in Pkr.; Pischel, § 414 (towards the end of the paragraph).

Notes: 1. The unbracketed forms are the regular ones in the post-canonical prose, in which, for instance, clear distinction is made between tvam 'thou' and tam 'thee'. All these forms are used also already in the oldest periods of the language. The bracketed forms are archaic or rarer. Attestation of the Pronoun of the first person: Sg. Acc. mamam Jā. III. 555, S. I. 8821, 21934; Gen. mamam Sn. 694, D. II. 9011, A. II. 111, amham 1 Th1, 1045 (or Pl. Dat.-Gen.?); Pl. Nom. amhe S. I. 11812, DhCo. III. 5617; Acc. asme Ja. III. 85981 (Comm. = amhc), amhākam JāCo. The m of mayam = Skr. vayam is takenover from the forms of the Sg. such as mam, $may\bar{a}$ etc., just as the t of tumbe, tumbākam etc. (as opposed to Skr. yuşmākam etc.) has been taken over from the forms tam, tayā etc.—3. The Nom.-Acc. Pl. amhe (asme) and tumbe correspond to the Vedic forms asme, . yuşme, which according to Pāṇini VII. 1. 39 may be used for various plural cases 2.-4. The c of amhehi, amhesu, tumhchi, tumhcsu as opposed to asmābhis, asmāsu, yuşmābhis, yuşmāsu are to be explained by the analogy of the forms tchi, tcsu etc. (§ 105).

§ 105. Pronoun of the third person. (Stem-form tam- Vv. 84. 44, tad- in tadahe Mhys. 5. 43, tappaccayā Thl. 719 etc.)

Notes: 1. The more isolated or archaic forms are again given in brackets. The remaining forms are found in all the periods of the language and become the regular ones in the post-canonical prose. Attestation of the former: For Sg. Gen. fem. tissaya cf. clissaya (§ 107. 1) VvCo. 10614; Sg. Loc. fem. tāsam 1 Milp. 13611, (tissam M. II. 5525), tāyam (vclāyam) Vin. I. 22, Ud. 116, S. I. 521. As for the forms of Pl. Gen. tesanam, tasanam (double ending!), cf. esanam (§ 108) M. II. 1542, sabbesānam (§ 113. 1) M. III. 6024, katamesānam (§ 111. 2) Vin. III 722. Sg. Nom. masc. sa is from the first rarer than so. In Sn. sa occurs 40 times but so 124 times; in the first 500 Theragathas sa occurs 4 times (of which twice in the favourite construction sa ve) and so 37 times. At the end sa becomes quite rare. -2. Instead of the Sg. Nom. Acc. neut. 1am we have sometimes also the Magadhesque form $8c^2$: D. II. $278^{16^{+}30}$, 279^{12} , M. II 254^{25} , 255. Cf. § 806. I think the same form is contained in scyyathā ' just as ', scyyathidam ' as follows, namely ' ". Instead of the former we find tanyathā in Milp. 111. The sa- in sayathā 'as 'Th1. 412, sace 'if' is analogous to Skr. sa in a-yadi, sa-yathā etc 4-3 There is an isolated form with double ending. Sg. Nom. neut. tadam Sn. p. 143, in apposition with the Rel. Pron yam' -4. The Pl. Nom, te appears also in Acc. Similarly in the flexion of other pronominal sterns as well.

§ 106. 1. It is worthy of note that (mostly in the two oldest periods of the language) the Pron. so, sā, taṃ is used to strengthen other pronouns. It is used (a) before the personal Pron. of the first and the second persons: so chaṃ Sn. 190; svāhaṃ (§ 71. 1c) JāCo. I. 2983, taṃ taṃ (=taṃ traṃ) Jā. VI. 51618; tesaṃ vo A. V. 868. We have even tesam vo. bhikkhave, tumhākaṃ.....Iv. 321; tesaṃ no amhākaṃ M. III. 19418. The Pron. so may refer also to the person contained in a verbal form: so karohi '(you) do' Dh. 236; so tato

Unnecessarily changed by Trenckner into tāyam.

² As Pkr. Mag. se (se munde=tan mundam), Δ Mag. se (se dittham=tad distam). Pischel, § 423.

³ Not so Pischel, § 429, in whose opinion se = Ved. sed (sa-id). Yet his arguments do not seem to be convincing.

cuto amutra udapādim 'departed from there I was born again at that place' D. I. 13²⁸. (b) It is used also after the Rel. Pron., which thereby gets the general meaning 'whoever': yā sā sīmā ... tam sīmam Vin. I. 109°; ye te dhammā ... tathārūpā 'ssa dhammā M. III. 11²⁰; yo so ... mama sahāyako DhCo. IV. 128³. (c) It is used before or after the Dem. Pron. ayam: ta-y-idam (=tam idam) D. I. 91⁴, M. II. 230³; svāyam (=so ayam) Vin. I. 29²⁶; ayam so JāCo. II. 16¹².—2. When repeated, the Pron. so signifies 'this and that, any, various ': tāsu tāsu disāsu, tesu tesu janapadesu Vin. I. 21²⁴. Or it may refer to the indefinite Rel. Pron. yo yo, as for instance in Th1. 144, JāCo. I. 417° etc.

§ 107. 1. The Dem. Pron. eso (esa), esa, etam 'this' is inflected like so. In Sg. Nom. masc. both the forms eso and esa are equally in use, and that not only as substantive (esa JaCo. II. 624, eso JaCo. II. 718) but also as adjective (esa JaCo II. 108, eso Sn. p. 102). stem-form is etam- which appears, for instance, in etamkāranā 'for this reason 'Vin. I. 5735. Eso too, like so, is used in connection with other pronouns. Thus esāham (=eso aham) D. I. 11023, or ayam eso Mhvs. 1. 42; or yāni etāni (yānāni) DhCo. IV 67.—2. The Pron. ena (=Skr. enad) is found to occur only in the forms enam and enena. Enam occurs as Acc. masc. in Sn. 981, 1114, M. III. 5' etc., and as Acc. fem. in Ja. III. 3955 (changed into ena for sake of metre). as Acc. neut. in Sn. 583, Dh. 118, 313. The combination tam-enam occurs in M. II. 24811, III. 57, JaCo. I. 3506 etc., and as fem. in Vv. 21 4. The Sandhi-form of ena is na which is very common (cf. § 66 1, p. 107, with f.-n. 2). The form nam in Sg. Acc. masc.-fem.-neut. is very well attested, as well as Dat.-Gen. nassa Ja. V. 20321; Pl. Acc. ne Vin. I. 4235, S. I. 22422, JaCo. I. 9926, 20117; Pl. Dat.-Gen. nesam Sn. 293, Th1. 130, Th2. 277, JāCo. I. 15310 etc.—3. Quite an isolated form is tyamhi Ja. VI. 29221, which might belong to the pronominal stem tya = Ved. tya, mentioned by Moggallana². The Comm. explains tyamhi by tamhi. The reading however is not quite certain.-4. Finally we have to mention the pronominal stem tuma of the third person which belongs to the two oldest periods of the language and which may be connected with the Ved. tman*.

³ R. O. Franke, PGr. p. 35f.

This according to Oldenberg, KZ. 25. 319, while Johansson, Monde Oriental 1907-8, p. 99f. refuses to recognise any connection between the two words.

The following forms of it are found to occur: Sg. Nom. tumo Sn. 690, Vin. II. 186³¹, A. III. 124¹⁰, 125⁶ and the Sg. Gen. tumassa Sn. 908.

The Neuter has in Sg. Nom.-Acc. idam, imam; Pl. Nom.-Acc. imāni. Otherwise as in masc.

Notes: 1. The pronominal stem a-, ana- is gradually supplanted by the stem ima- in course of the development of the language. It made its way also into Nom.-Acc. Sg. neut. Thus we have imam as Nom. neut. in Milp. 467 and as Acc. neut. in S. IV. 12519, JaCo. I. 8078, DhCo. II. 294, 3112, Mhvs. 5. 157. Examples of forms of the a-, ana-stem: Sg. The Neuter has Sg. Nom.-Acc. adum, Pl. amū, amūni. Otherwise as in Masc.

Notes: 1. The stem amu has made its way also into Sg. Nom. masc.¹ (We have, e.g., amu M. II. 206²°, 223³°, Mhvs. Tī. 118² and asu M. III. 275′, S. IV. 315°, 398¹⁴). It is found also in Pl. Nom. Instr. Abl. Dat.-Gen. Loc. masc. neut. (as against Skr. amī, amī. bhis etc.), so that in Pāli masc. and neut. have coincided with fem. The neut. adum occurs in S. IV. 315°, Jā. I. 500¹³, JāCo. I. 500²³.—2. When repeated twice, this Pron. signifies 'the one. . . the other'. Cf. D. II. 200′. It is in apposition with the Rel. Pron., e.g., in yam vā adum khettam aggam 'that field which is valuable' S. IV. 315°.—3. The pronouns amuka and asuka are derived from the stems amu and asu, and like Lat. quidam they are used for indefinite person or thing: amukasmim gāme 'in the village so and so' D.I. 193¹³ (cf. S. IV. 46°);

As also Pkr. amū; beside it AMāg. aso = asau, Pāli asu. Pischel, § 439. In Pkr. also Nom. Acc. neut. amun.

'this much' Milp. 816^{25} , DhCo II. 15^6 etc. and tattaka DhCo. II. 16^{11} etc. From the same stem is derived the Adv. kittāvatā 'how far?' Vin. I. 3^1 , M. I. 14^2 , S. IV. 38^{32} etc.

§ 112.1. The Possessive Pronoun for all three persons is sa = sva (sam 'property'; Instr. sena Ja. II. 2223, Pl. sani M. I. 3665) and saka = svaka (Sg. Instr. sakena darena Vv. 83. 20, Abl. sakamhā gāmā D. I. 8123, cf. samhī ratthī Jā. VI. 50234, Loc. samhi āsane D. II. 22517. Pl. Acc. sake 'one's own people' Ja. VI. 50516 etc.). The Poss. Pron. of the first person madiya (in Childers, PD.) = Skr. madiya seems to be unattested. The Adj. māmaka, fem. -ikā = Skr. māmaka signifies 'lovable, valuable' Iv. 11215; at the end of a compound it signifies 'loving, worshipping' JaCo. III. 18210, 18312. The oblique cases of attan 'soul, self' (§92) are used as reflexive pronoun: attānam damayanti subbatā Th1.. 19; attānam nāsesi JāCo. I. 51011; attana katam pāpam Dh. 161. Cf. attadutiya 'with one companion' D. 11. 14721; attasattama 'in group of seven' Smp. 3205, attattama 'in group of eight' VvCo. 14917 etc.—3. From pronominal stems are derived: yavant 'how big, how much' (Pl. Nom. yavant' ettha samagata Dh. 337; retained also in the conjunctions yāva or yāvam, yāvatā, correlative tāva, tāvatā) and yāvataka 'how big, how much' (Sg. Nom. neut. -kam S.IV. 32023, 3217; Pl. Acc. masc.-ke Vin. I. 8327), tāvataka 'so big, so much' (Sg. Nom. neut. -kam S. IV. 32023, 3217, Instr. -kena DhCo. III. 6114, Milp. 3129; Pl. Acc. masc. -ke Vin. I. 8328), as well as the frequent formations with -di. -disa,-risa,-dikkha,-rikkha = Skr.-drá, -dráa,-drksa (cf. § 43. 1): mādisa, mārisa 'such as I' (cf. Pl. Nom. iem. mādisiyo DhCo. II. 1712); amhādisa 'such as we' (Pl. Acc. masc. -se Mhvs. 5. 128); tādisa 'such as you' JāCo. I. 445²³; tumhādisa 'such as you (pl.)' (DhCo. II. 39¹⁹, III. 235°); yādisa(ka) 'of what sort' and tādi, tādisa(ka), etādisa(ka) 'of that sort' (Sn. 522, S. I. 22727 (verse), D. II. 10913, DhCo. II. 169, PvCo. 10²⁵ (verse); Th1, 201, Vv. 84, 54, D. II, 157⁴ (verse), S.I. 202⁶ (verse)); idi, idisa(ka), idikkha, irisa 'of this sort' (Mhvs. 10, 54, 14, 13, JäCo, I. 60^{33} (verse)); edisa(ka), erisa 'of this sort' (Sn. 313, Vin. I. 19511); kīdi, kīdisa, kīrisa 'of what sort?' (Sn. 835, 1088, JāCo. I. 49621, II. 323; kimdisa S. I. 3410 (verse)); yādisakīdisa 'of whatever sort' (Jā. 1. 420⁷).

§ 113. The following are pronominal adjectives: 1. sabba 'all, whole, every' = sarva. It is inflected like the Rel. Pron. Cf. Pl. Nom. masc. sabbe Sn. 179, M. III. 61¹², JāCo. I. 280¹, Gen. masc. sabbesam Sn. 1030, M. II. 201⁷, JāCo. II. 352¹⁷ and sabbesānam M. III.

6024; Gen. fem. sabbāsam S. I. 1727; Sg. Loc. fem. sabbāya Vin. I. 16527.—2. vissa 'all'=viéva is archaic and quite rare. We have the Sg. Acc. masc. vissam (dhammam) Dh. 266. Comm. however explains the word by visamam. -3. anna 'another' = anya is inflected like sabba. Cf. Pl. Nom. masc. anne Sn. 201 etc. Gen. aññesam Sn. 213, JaCo. I. 25421 etc. But an i-vowel appears in the stem in Sg. Dat.-Gen. and Loc. fem.: Dat.-Gen. anniesā Vin. I. 1510, Loc. annissā (guhāya) JāCo. II. 2716. When repeated, anno... anno signifies 'the one...the other' JaCo. I. 456°. In annamanna 'one another' only the last component is inflected: annaminassa D. I. 5629, annamannamhi D. I. 2017, annamannehi Sn. 986, Th1. 933.-4. annatara 'one of two' D. I. 2282, M. I. 6235 or 'any one' Vin. I. 234, D. I. 6234. The Sg. Gen. fem. is annatarissa S. I. 14020. -5. annatama 'any one' Mhvs. 38. 14.-6. itara 'another' too is inflected like sabba: Pl. Nom. masc. itare DhCo. IV. 4013, Dat.-Gen. fem.-rāsam JāCo. II. 2719. 'The one...the other' is expressed by eko... itaro VvCo. 149', or itaro...itaro Mhvs. 25. 62; itaritara signifies 'the one and the other, everyone, any one' Th1. 230, Ja. I. 46728 (Comm. = yassa kassaci), M. II. 61, A. V. 916 (itaritarena 'reciprocally' Vv. 841, likewise itaretarehi Attanagaluvs. 10.5).-7. Also para and apara 'a different one' are inflected like sabba: Pl. Nom. masc. pare Sn. 762, Vin. I. 54, D. I. 233, apare JaCo. III, 5135; Dat.-Gen. paresam Th1. 743, 942, Vv. 80. 6, D. I. 8°; paro...paro 'the one...the other 'D. I. 22413. As for param Adv. 'beyond, later' and Prep. 'after', as well as for aparaparam Adv. 'from one side to the up and down, ' see Childers, PD. and other. D. Andersen. PGI. under the words.—8. pubba 'the fore part, eastern', uttara 'the upper part, northern', adhara 'the lower part' are said to be inflected like sabba. Of pubba, however, only the Sg. Loc. pubbe 'earlier, formerly 'is attested, the other forms occurring only at the end of compounds. Of uttara we have the Loc. Sg. fem. uttaraya (disāya) D. I. 7423 beside uttarassam disāyam S. I. 1484 (verse), Adv. uttarena 'to the north' and uttarato ' from the north' .- 9. Of ekacca 'one, any one '(Adj. Vin. I. 18329, Subst. S. III. 24314) the Pl. Nom. is ekacce 'some 'S. IV. 1021, Sn. p. 101, JaCo. III. 12617, Dat.-Gen. ekaccānam Vin. I. 4518, III. 2012; ekacco...ekacco signifies 'the one ...the other 'S. IV. 30510'11, Vin. I. 8830'31, DhCo. III. Numerals

Cardinal Numbers.

§ 114. The numbers one and two. 1. eka 'one' is inflected like anna (§ 113. 3). Thus Sg. Dat.-Gen. masc. ekassa Sn. 897, DhCo. II. 2315, but fem. ekissä Vin. II. 3826, JaCo. I. 1513; Loc. masc. ekasmim, but fem. ekissā M. III. 6515, JāCo, VI. 3220 or ekissam DhCo. III. 3466. The Pl. eke signifies 'some' D. I. 1229; when repeated, eko...eko signifies 'the one...the other' D. I. 1811, Mhvs. 5. 103; ekameko is 'everyone separately, individually' D. II. 1711, Mhys. 4, 52. On ekacca, ekacciya see § 113. 9.-2. dvi 'two' (in compound also di-, cf. diguna 'double') has the following forms for all three genders: Nom. dve (masc. DhCo. II. 914, JaCo. I. 1515. fem. Sn. p. 102, neut. JaCo. IV. 13716) and duve (masc. Th1. 245, fem. Sn. 1001); Acc. dve (masc. JāCo. II. 2720, DhCo. II. 414, fem. DhCo. II. 424) and duve (masc. Mhvs. 5. 213, neut. Mhvs. 10. 47); Instr. dvihi (masc. JāCo. I. 3386, II. 15314, fem. M. I. 782, II. 1626); Dat.-Gen. dvinnam (masc. Mhvs. 24 19, JaCo. II. 15422, DhCo. II. 128, fem. M. I. 6523, JaCo. II. 2719) and duvinnam; Loc. dvisu (masc. Mhys. 6, 25, neut. JaCo, 1, 3386, DhCo, II, 88). Similar is the flection of ubho 'both': Nom.-Acc. ubho Dh. 74, Sn. 582, JaCo. I. 51026, Vin. I. 1015 etc. (and ubhe); Instr.-Abl. ubhohi D. II. 17622, JaCo. IV. 14210 (and ubhehi); Dat.-Gon. ubhinnam Ja. I. 35314, JaCo. I. 33810, Mhvs. 2, 25; Loc. ubhosu Sn. 778, JaCo. I. 26418, VvCo. 27517 (and ubhesu). The Sandhi-form vubho occurs in Ja. VI. 50924. The wordubhaya 'both 'is used both in Sg. and Pl.: thus punne ca pape cu ubhaye 'both in virtue and sin' Sn. 547; ubhayena samyamena 'through both (kinds of) self-control 'PvCo. 112; gihīhi ca anāgārehi ca ubhayehi 'with both the laity and the priests' DhCo. IV. 1741; candimasuriyāubhay'ettha (=-yā ettha) dissare 'both sun and moon are visible here 'Vv. 83, 4. Cf. DhCo. I. 2913 (verse). In Voc. we have ubhayo nisametha 'listen to me, you two! 'Th2, 449 (cf. 457); ubhayam 'both' Dh. 404. In the same way dubhaya is used in the Gathalanguage, of which the initial d might be derived from dvi: dubhayam outupapatam 'both degeneration and regeneration' Sn. 51;

dubhayāni paṇḍarāni 'both kinds of intelligence' Sn. 526; Todeyya-Kappā dubhayo 'the two (the pair) T and K.' Sn. 1007, 1125; Acc. dubhayaṃ lokaṃ 'both worlds' Jā. III. 4424. Cf. dubhato Jā. VJ. 4974, which is explained in the Comm. by ubhato.

Pañca 'five', chu 'six', satta 'seven', attha 'eight', nava 'nine', and dasa 'ten' are inflected in all three genders in the following manner: Nom.-Acc. pañca, cha etc.; Instr.-Abl. pañcahi, chahi DhCo, II. 285 etc. [with protraction atthahi Ja. ¹ For parallels in Pkr. cf. Pischel, § 438 f.

² On this double-formation cf. R. O. Franke, PGr. p. 13.

- § 116. The tens, hundreds etc. 1. The numbers from 20 to 100 are: 20: vīsa, vīsam, vīsā, vīsati=vimšati.—30: timsa, timsam, timsā, timsati = trimsat. - 40: cattārīsa, -rīsam, -rīsā; cattālīsa, -līsam, -līsā; tālīsa, -līsam, -līsā = catvārimsat.-50: pannāsa, sam. -sā; paņņāsa = pancāsat.—60: satthi = sasti.—70: sattati, sattari = saptati.—80: asīti=asīti.—90: navuti=navati.—100: sata=sata.— 200: dve satāni or dvisata -300: tīņi satāni or tisata etc.-1000: sahassa=sahasra.—2000: dve sahassāni etc.—100 000: lakkha.—10 millions: koţi 1.-2. Intermediate numbers: 11: ckādasa, ckārasa = . ckādaša.—12: dvādasa, bārasa = dvādaša.—13: terasa, telasa = trayodasa.-14: catuddasa, cuddasa = caturdasa.-15: pañcadasa, pannarasa, pannarasa = pañcadasa.-16: solasa, sorasa = sodasa.-17: sattadasa, sattarasa = saptadasa.—18: aṭṭhādasa, aṭṭhārasa = aṣṭādasa.— 19: ckūnavīsa, ckūnavīsati = ckonavimsati, ūnavimsati.—22: dvāvisa, sati, bāvīsa, -sati; 23: tevīsa; 24: catuvīsa; 25: pañcavīsa, panņavīsati, pannuvīsa etc.—32: dvattimsa, battimsa; 36: chattimsa; 49: ckūnapaññāsa; 55: pañcapaññāsa; 56: chappaññāsa etc.2
- § 117. The mode of using the numerals is unusually varied in character. 1. The numbers 1 to 18 are adjectives. Cf. dve vā tīņi vā rattindivāni 'two or three days and nights 'D. II. 32719; catunnam māsānam accayena 'after the expiry of four months' Sn. p. 99; solasannam puggalānam 'of 16 individuals' Milp. 31018. On the analogy of the tens, however, also the numeral compounds of dasa may take a final -m and thus become substantives: nava satta dvādasan-ca...pancavīsam dvādasan-ca, dvādasan-ca navāpi ca '9 and 7 and 12..., 25 and 12 and (again) 12 and 9 (kings) 'Mhvs. 2.9.— 2. Of the decades those in $-\bar{a}$ are feminine substantives, of which the form in -āya (Instr. Dat. Gen) actually occurs: chassa pi dadāmi dvinnam-pi dadāmi ... dasannam-pi dadāmi vīsāya pi dadāmi timsāya pi dadāmi cattārīsāya pi dadāmi paūnāsāya pi dadāmi satassa pi dadāmi 'I give (alms) to one, to 2,... to 10, to 20, to 30, to 40, to 50, to 100 'Sn. p. 86. The decades in -a may be declined, but are mostly left uninflected; those in -am are used as nominatives and accusatives; those in -ti are fem, substantives and are inflected according to § 86 or remain undeclined. The numerals sata and sahassa are neuter.-3. When connected with substantives, the numerals from 20 upwards may be used appositionally in the same case as the substantive: Loc. vīsatiyā yojancsu timsāya yojancsu II. distance of) 20 (30) miles ' M. 162: Instr. dvattimsäya mahöpurisalakkhanchi asītiyā anuvyanjanchi ' with the 32 major and 80 minor insignia of a Buddha' VvCo. 32314; ekūnapañnāsāya kandchi 'with 49 arrows' JāCo. III. 796; vīsam-pi jātiyo timsam-pi jātiyo cattālīsam-pi jātiyo paññāsam-pi jātiyo '20 and 30 and 40 and 50 existences' Iv. 993; atthacattārīsam vassāni '48 years' Sn. 289; Gen. imcsaņ tevisaliyā buddhānam santike 'before these 23 Buddhas 'DhCo. I. 84". In the following examples the decades remain uninflected: Nom. pannāsa yojanā satthi yojanā '50, 60 miles' DhCo. III. 2178; timsa rattivo D. II. 32710; pañcapaññāsa vassāni...pañcavīsati vassāni Th1. 904; dvattimsa mahāpurisalakkhaņāni Sn. p. 102 (but dvattimsā mah- Sn. 1000); Acc. chūnapaūñāsa jane '49 people' JāCo. III. 22020; sattasaltari ñāṇavatthūni 'the 77 items of knowledge 'S. II. 5924; Instr. dvattimsa mahāpurisalakkhanchi M. II. 18521.—3. Also sata and sahassa, as well as numerals with them as components, may be used in apposition with a substantive: Nom. gandhabbā cha sahassāni '6000 G.'s 'Th1. 164; bhikkhuniyo sahassam '1000 nuns 'Mhys. 5. 187; Acc. pañcasatāni Candālapurise '500 Candālas' Mhvs. 10. 91; gāthā satam '100 verses' Db. 102; Instr. pasicasatehi therehi ' with 500 Theras ' Dpvs. 4. 6. The substantive in such constructions appears sometimes in the Sg., as in Acc. atthasatam bhattam (instead of bhattāni) '800 meals' Milp. 884. The numeral is treated as an Adj. in Nom. pancasatā vānijā, fem. pancasatā yakkhiniyo, Acc. pancasate vāņije JāCo. II. 12817'22.-4. The numerals may further be used in Sg. as abstracta and substantives may be connected with them as genetive attributes: paro-sahassanı bhikkhünam 'over 1000 monks' Th1. 1238 (but appositionally paro-sahassam puttā 'bver 1000 sons' D. I. 894); sahassam-pi atthanam ' 1000 things ' S. I. 22913; vihārānam pancasatam '500 monasteries' Mhvs. 12. 83; satthim arahatam aka 'be made 60 Arhats 'Mhvs. 1. 14.-5. Finally, a numeral and a substantive may unite into a compound. Cf. atthavassam sattamāsam rājā rajjam akārayi 'the king reigned for 8 years and 7 months 'Mhvs. 35. 46. The compound vassasatam of this type, sign: fying 'hundred years', is very frequently used. Compounds like the following are also very much in evidence: satta manussasatāni '700 people' JāCo. IV. 1423; dvisu vassasatesu (atikkantesu) '(after the expiry of) 200 years' Mhvs. 33. 80; pañca-itthi-satchi 'with 500 women' Mhvs. 14. 57, etc.

¹ The designations for higher numbers, such as abbuda etc. (see Abhp. 475, Dpvs. 5. 11 f.) are confined to lexicons.

On the numerals in Pkr. cf. Pischel, § 445 f., 443 f.

On the use of the ordinals: In some isolated cases the ordinal number stands for the cardinal: paūcamchi bandhanchi 'with 5 bonds' S. IV. 201²², 202°. Worthy of notice are the compounds with attan, such as attadutiya 'with one companion' D. II. 147²¹ etc. Cf. § 112. 2.
- § 119. 1. The distributive numbers are expressed by repeating the cardinals or the ordinals as the case may be: atthattha there 'macce ca pesayi 'to each he sent 8 theras and court-officials' Mhvs. 5. 249. Cf. DhCo. I. 896-7.—Addha, addha 'half' is the fractional number. Like Skr. ardha, Pkr. addha, addha, it is compounded with the next higher ordinal number, as in German 'dritthalb, vierthalb': addhatiya. addhateyya JūCo, I. 45021, II. 934 (cf. § 65. 2) is 21; addhuddha Vin. I. 3410, DhCo. I. 8721 (= Pkr. addhuttha out of addha+ tuitha, Skr. ardhacaturtha) is 31. Cf. saddhim addhatclaschi bhikkhusatchi 'with 121 hundred monks' Sn. p. 100, D. I. 474; addhanavamasahassani '8500 (persons)' Mhys. 15, 201. If on the other hand addha. addha stands after a cardinal number, it signifies half thereof: dasaddha is thus=5, Th1. 1244. Thus purisanam dasaddhchi satchi parivarito 'surrounded by 500 men' Mhvs. 5. 122.—3. Numeral adverbs: 'once' is expressed by sakim, saki (sakid- or sakad- in sandhi before a vowel, § 67, 72. 1) = eakrt, or ekadā (appekadā 'sometimes' M. II. 71, A. V. 8318). These adverbs are formed moreover by affixing the formans *khattum (§ 22) = *krtvas2: tikkhattum '3 times' Vin.I. 10428; catukkhattum '4 times' Th2. 37, 169; chakkhattum '6 times' D. II. 19824, DhCo. III. 19620; satakkhattum '100 times' Th2. 519 etc. Also katikkhattum 'how many times?' M. III. 1257. Moreover the Sg. or the Pl. Acc. vāram and vāre is used to express 'time': cka-vāram 'once' JāCo. III. 150 21; dve vārc 'twice' DhCo. I. 4711; tayo vāre '3 times' DhCo. I. 48°; navo vārc '9 times' Mhvs. 30. 52; bahu-vārc 'many times' JāCo, II. 88°. Cf. also dvīsu vāresu 'twice' Mhvs. 6. 25; tatiyc vāre 'the third time, on the third chance' Mhys. 6, 26. Otherwise 'the first time', 'the second time' are simply pathamam, dutiyam, etc. Ekaso = ekasas means 'individually'.-4. Numeral adverbs in 'times' are constructed with odhā = Skc. odhā, Pkr. ohā: sattadhā seven times. in seven parts or pieces' I. I. 9424, II. 23423. Similarly saladhā, sahassadhā —5. Numeral adjectives in 'kinds, fold' are constructed with 'vidha = Skr. 'vidha, Pkr. 'viha, or with 'guṇa = Skr., Pkr. 'guṇa : anekavidha 'of many kinds' Dpvs. 6. 70; sattavidha 'of seven kinds, seven-fold' JāCo. I. 9133, Milp. 10213; atthaguṇa 'eight-fold' Th2. 153. —6. As for numeral substantives, we have duka neut. 'aggregate of two', tika 'aggregate of three' DCo. I. 2427 = Skr. dvika, trika, Pkr. duka or duya, tiya; catukka 'aggregate of four' (§ 62.2.) = Skr. catuṣka; sataka 'aggregate of hundred' JāCo. I. 7422 = sataka.

IV. Verbal System

Generalities

§ 120. In verbal forms Pali is still farther removed from the basic Sanskrit than in nominal flexion. The historical forms are on the whole well preserved, particularly in the older periods of the But the actual life of the language lies in the new formations, which were created in such numbers, either on the basis of analogy, or after existing types, that it is scarcely possible to lay down rules covering all the individual cases.—It is a prominent feature of Pāli distinguishing it off from Skr, that it has lost the dual.-The medium is also disappearing. Passive forms too have active endings already in the oldest period of the language. The Gatha-language still shows, it is true, a considerable number of medial forms. But they are in part due to the exigencies of metre, and everywhere bear the stamp of archaism. They become rare already in the canonical prose, and rarer still in the non-canonical, in which they are confined only to a few fixed forms (c. g. Imp. 2. Sg. in -884, Pret. 3. Sg. in -ittha). The medial forms appear again in the later artificial poetry. The Part. Pres. Med. in -mana was productive in every period of the language. -As for the tempora, the perfect has almost completely disappeared, leaving but slight traces behind. Unlike Prākrit, Pāli has retained the conditional. Imperfect and agrist are no longer snarply distinguished between in Pali. Both of them have coincided in the preterite which is mostly called "aorist". The various periphrastic formations are of great importance they are originated by the combination of participles, gerunds or verbal substantives with the verbs "to be" or 'to become'', or with other verbs of an indefinite meaning. They represent quite a characteristic feature of the language.-The modes are the same as in Sanskrit. The Gatha-language has apparently still retained isolated forms of the Vedic subjunctive.—Another important feature is the predominance of a-stems in the present system. Their analogy has decided the character of many verbs which are athematic in Skr. It is no longer possible to set up a complete system of paradigms for the different 'conjugation-classes' as they are distinguished in Sanskrit. The present-stems of these classes will be discussed, as is proper, in connection with one chief paradigm, as supplement to it. Besides the expansion of the sphere of the a-flexion we have also to notice that of e-stems.—The preponderance of the presentstem is of particular importance. Tenses, as well as verbal nouns etc., which in Skr. are based directly on the root, may be derived iu Pāli from the present-stem. This applies to preterite (sorist), future, past part. in -ta, future pass. part. in -tabba, infinitive in (-tuye and) -tum, and gerund in -tvā, -tvāna and -ya Moreover new pastive and causative stems may be derived from present-stems. The innovated forms in all these cases appear side by side with the historical ones—sometimes rare in comparison with the latter, but occasionally even surpassing them in the frequency of use. In particular cases the process goes even further, when, for instance, an historically attested future or passive-stem is made the basis of further new formations.1

2. Present-system

with Indicative, Subjunctive, Imperative and Optative.

A. PRESENT INDICATIVE

§ 121. The flexion may be shown by a verb of the I. Class, labhati 'gains, receives'.

		Sg.	Pl.
Act. 1	1.	labhāmi	la bh āma
	2.	la bh asi	labhatha
	3.	labhati	lab hanti
Med.	1.	labhe	(labhamhc)
	2.	labhasc	(labhavhe)
	3.	labhatc	labhante, labharv

I am thinking here, for instance, of the stem dakkh. = Skr. draks-(cf. § 152, 201, lc. 213), or of the stem chijj. = chidy- (§ 196), etc.

§ 122. 1. Act. Sg. 1. Instead of -ami there is also found in the Gatha-language the shorter ending -am: tassaham santike gaccham 'I am going to him' Th2. 306. For the rest the endings correspond to those of Sanskrit; -ma is the secondary ending.-2. Med. (the examples are mostly from the Gatha-language or the artificial poetry) Sg. 1: rame, 'I enjoy myself' S. I. 1808 (verse), kuppe 'I am angry' Jā. III. 12015. In the post-canonical prose we find, for instance, maññe 'I think' JāCo. II. 249' etc. Sg. 2: anupucchase 'you ask' Vv. 17. 5; labhasc Jā. II. 22012 (Comm. labhasi). Sg. 3: labhate Th1. 35; sobhate 'is beautiful' Th2. 255 ff.; rocate 'suits (one's) taste' Th2. 415; bhāsale 'speaks' So. 452. Pl. 3: lambante 'they hang' Th2. 265; hannantc 'they are beaten' Th2. 451. The ending are in 3. Pl. is quite frequent: labhare S. I. 11032 (verse); khādare 'they consume' Ja. II. 22314 (Comm. khādunti); jāyarc 'they arc born' S I. 3416; socare 'they suffer pain' Sn. 445 (against socanti Sn. 333); obhāsare 'they light up' Vv. 9. 8 (v. 1. obhāsate); jīyare 'they vanish away' Jā. VI. 528' (Skr. jiryante); miyyare 'they die' So. 575 (Skr. mriyante); hannare 'they are killed' S. I. 7622 etc. These forms are connected with the Vedic presents like sere, isire, and they correspond to the forms in -ire in Pkr.'-The 1. Pl. Med. deserves special consideration. Kacc. 3. 1. 2 and 18 (Senart, pp. 423, 429) gives as ending .mhe, which is probably derived from -mahe through syncope The fuller form occurs in bhavamahe2 Mhvs. 1. 60. Also the ending -mase (and -mhase) seems to have been in existence at its side. All the forms with this ending have not a subjunctive meaning (cf. below § 126), as for instance (na) tappamase (dassanena tam) 'we are (not) tired of (looking at you)' Vv. 17. 4, which is indicative in meaning (cf. Skr. trpyate). Same perhaps also with abhinandamase 'we are glad' Vv. 17. 7; saremhase (according to e-flexion) 'we remember' Th2. 383 The ending mase is evidently the medial counterpart of the Act. Vedic -masi, and -mhase looks like a cross of -mhe and -mase.

B. SUBJUNCTIVE

§ 123. It is not possible to set forth a paradigm, because we have to do here only with isolated forms preserved in the Gāthā-language. The Subjunctive is distinguished from the Indicative by Whitney, Sanskrit Gramm. § 550; Pische', PkrGr. § 458; Windisch, Abhdl. Sächs. Ges. d. W., Nr. VI, 1887, p. 478 f.; E. Kuhn, Beitr. p. 94; E. Müller, PGr. p. 97.

² E. Kuhn, loc. cit.

the extended stem vowel. Yet only those forms may be relied upon as Subjunctive without any hesitation in which the Subjunctive (Imperative) meaning is quite clear and the possibility of a mere metrical protraction is out of the question. This appears to be the case with one of the two passages pointed out by Pischel 1: no vitarāsi bhottum 'do not go on eating!' Ja. II. 1417 (Fausböll, Ten Jat. 194). The Comm. gives. the explanation: mā nāgamamsakhādako ahosi. I add to it: attānam yeva garahāsi ettha 'scold yourself for this affair!' Ja. IV. 248, which is explained in the Comm. by attanam eva garaheyyasi. True Subjunctives are to be found parhaps also in the forms kāmayāsi and cajāsi Jā. V. 22020124, which are dependent on sace and ce respectively. Pischel's second example is, however, doubtful: ātāpino samvegino bhavātha 'be zealous and enthusiastic' Dh. 144b. form in question here may be simply that of Imp. 2. Pl. protracted metri causa. Similar cases ore: adhimanasā bhavātha Sn. tam ca (i.e. dhammam) dharātha2 sabbc 'all should hold fast to it (the truth) l' Sn. 385; pāpāni kammāni vivajjayātha, dhammānuyoganca adhitthahātha 'give up sinful practices and hold fast to zeal for the truth! Vv. 84. 38; abhinibbajjiyātha nam 'uvoid that!' Sn. 281 (from root varj, varjayati). Of the three examples given by E. Müller, dahāsi and dahāti Sn. 841, 888 are certainly no Subjunctives: they are simply the representatives of Skr. dadhāsi, dadhāti (§ 37). Also saddahāsi Jā, I. 426 is reproduced in the Comm. simply as saddahasi. But even the third ko tam patibhanāti me 'who can give me answer to that ?' Ja. III. 404' is very doubtful on account of the patibhanami and -bhanāsi in the parallel verses 40410'20 and 40413, 4058, where the latter certainly has no Subjunctive meaning. It is wanting also in āvahāţi Th1. 303 (cf. Sn. 181, 182, S. I. 425.0, 21418.22), for which there occurs rakkhati in the parallel passages, and it cannot be traced either in hanāsi Jā.III. 1992 (Comm. = paharasi), V. 46019 and hanāti Jā. V. 46124.

C. IMPERATIVE

§ 124. The paradigm is:

Sg. Act. 1. labhāmi Pl. labhāma
2. labha, labhāhi labhatha
3. labhatu labhantu

It should be noticed that in this passage the Imp. sunātha 'hear!' occurs immediately before.

³ E. Müller, PGr. p. 180. Also the 1. Pl. Med. of the Imperative is of Subjunctive origin. See § 125. 2.

Med. 1. labhe labhāmase
2. labhassu labhavho
3. labhatam labhantam

§ 125. Active. The 1. Sg. and Pl. are simply transfers from the Indicative: vandāma 'let us praise!' D. III. 19724 (verse); dhunāma 'let us destroy!' Th1. 1147. Hence it is also said kassa nam dema 'to whom should we give it?' JāCo. II. 19624, handa karomi M. III. 17927, handa karoma Vin. II. 2953. Similarly we have in 1146 dalemu 'let us smash!' (with the ending -mu, cf. § 128) dālayāma parallel to dhunāma.— In the 2, Sg. the type labhu corresponds to the Skr.-form of the thematic conjugation. Thus piva 'drink!' JāCo. III. 11022 = piba; sinca 'pour out!' Dh. 369=siñca; nipajja 'seat yourself!' JāCo, II, 2232 from nipadyate. Also kara 'do!' JāCo. IV. 114 may be regarded as an historical form= Ved. kara Verbs which were not originally thematic gradually began to form their Imperatives after the type labha. Thus ganha 's ize!' JāCo. II. 159° from ganhāti=gīhnāti,—even patiggaha 'accept!' Jā, I, 23310; saddaha 'believe!' JāCo. IV. 5218 from saddahati=śraddadhāti etc. The second form labhāhi has derived its -hi from the forms of the athematic conjugation. Historical are the forms like akkhāhi 'describe!' Ja. III. 279' = ākhyāhi; brūhi 'speak!' Sn. 76 = brūhi; dehi 'give!' JāCo. I. 22319 = dehi. On the analogy of these types were further formed ugganhāhi 'learn!' M. III. 1922 from ugganhāti= udgrhņāti; sāvehi 'proclaim!' JāCo. I. 34414; ānehi 'bring here!' JāCo. II. 2541°; vissajichi 'give up!' JāCo. I. 2232°; karohi 'do!' JāCo. III. 18818 etc. from long-vowel stems. Similarly, also from a-stems: jīvāhi Sn. 1029; sarāhi 'remember!' Milp. 7925 (beside sara Th1. 445); pakkosāhi 'call here!' DhCo. IV. 284; tussāhi 'be content!' JaCo. I. 49426 etc.1—The 3. Sg. and Pl. in -tu and .ntu are frequent: passatu 'he should see' Sn. 909; etu 'he should go' D. I. 17916; ijjhatu 'should succeed' Th2, 329 (from Skr. rdhyate); hanantu 'they should kill' Ja. IV. 4226; vinassantu 'they should die' JaCo. IV. 224. The 2. Pl. in -tha, as also in Pkr.2, is a transfer from the Indicative, and is thus different from the Skr. suffix -ta: āharatha 'bring here!' JaCo. I. 2669; anurakkhatha 'protect!' Dh. 327; vijānātha 'learn to distinguish!' Sn. 720; ganhatha 'take!' JaCo. III. 12625; karotha 'do!' Th2. 13, JaCo. II. 19620; voropetha 'rob!' D. II. 3364 etc.

Similarly in Pkr. Mūg. bhanāhi, AMāg. harāhi, randāhi, JMāh. kadhehi, etc.; Pischel, § 468.

The suffix in Pkr. is ha. Cf. Mah. namaha, AMag. hanaha, dahaha etc. Pischel. § 471.

§ 126. Medium. The 1. Sg. is a transfer from the Indicative. The 2. Sg. in -88u1 = Skr. -8va is very common. Thus in the Gathalanguage: labhassu Th2, 482=labhasva; pucchassu2 'ask!' Sn 189; jahassu 'give up!' (from jahāti) Sn. 1121 and frequently elsewhere. In bhikkhasu 'go to beg!' Th1. 1118 the ss has been simplified metri causa. Further in the canonical prose: bhāsassu 'speak!' M. II. 1998 = vhāṣasva; sikkhassu 'learn!' A. V.7920; payirupāsassu 'worship!' M. II. 19625; nivattassu 'return!' Vin.II. 18233; pātu-bhavassu 'appear' Vin. II. 18512 etc. Also in the post-canonical prose: bhāsassu Milp. 2725; tikicchassu 'cure!' JaCo, II. 21323; naccassu 'dance!' JaCo. I. 29223. The medial meaning of the suffix does not seem to have been felt any more, for it is taken also by those roots which were never medial, as, for instance, by nart.—In the 3. Sg., suffix -tam=Skr. -tam; cf. acchatam 'sho should remain' Ja. VI. 5068 (Comm. acchatu); labhatam D. II. 15013. In Sandhi: vaddhatām-eva 'he should indeed grow' Jā. III.209°.—A true Subjunctive form is to be found in the 1:Pl. in .mase, -mhase. The suffix is probably derived from -masai, which is related to the suffix -mase discussed in §122 (at the end) as Skr. -mahai to -mahe. The two suffix-forms necessarily coincided with each other in Pali. Forms with Subjunctive (Imperativistic or Futural) meaning are not rare in the Gatha-language: labhamase 'we should attain' Ja. III. 2619; ramāmase 'we would enjoy' Th2. 370 f.; bhanāmase 'we wish to speak' S. I. 20928 (verse) (parallel to it are to be found there the optatives sikkhema, muccema); carāmase 'we wish to do (oarry out)' and bhavāmase 'we wish to be' Sn. 32 etc. Similarly karomase D. II. 2881 (verse). On vademase, mahemase etc. see § 129. The suffixform -mhase occurs in labhamhase Pv. 3. 2. 24, 29 (governed by yathā, explained as labheyyāma in the Comm. 1851); mā pamadamhase 'we do not wish to neglect' Ja. III. 13116 etc.—Examples for the 2. Pl., of which the suffix -vho in contrast to Skr. -dhvam is difficult to explain, are the following: passavho 'look up!' Sn. 998; bhajavho 'seek out!' Ja. I. 47216 (Comm. bhajatha, gacchatha); pucchavho 'ask!' Sn. 1030; kappayavho 'carry out!' Sn. 283. Also in the canonical prose: mantavho 'take counsel!' D. I. 12214, instead of mantayavho (as in Jā. II. 10718 beside mantavho 10719). If the reading is correct,

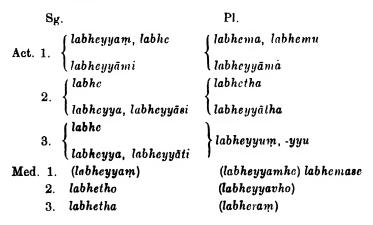

In Pkr. the corresponding suffix is -su, which Pischel § 467 however would separate from Skr. -sug and connect with -si.

In the parallel passage S. I. 2156 there is pucchasse in the texts a remarkable double-ending is to be found in $pamodathavho^1$ 'rejoice!' Jā. IV. $162^{22\cdot26}$ in which both the active and the medial endings have been combined.—An interesting form of the 3. Pl. is presented by visiyarum 'they should dissolve' Thl. 312, from Skr. $\delta y\bar{a}$, $\delta iyate$. The Comm. says: visiyantu ito e' ito viddhamsantu. The suffix -rum is pretty certainly the descendant of Ved. $-ram^2$.

D. OPTATIVE (POTENTIAL)

§ 127. Paradigm:

§ 128. Active. Two types of forms are in vogue side by side. The forms given first: labheyyam, labhe, labhe; labhema, labhetha, labheyyum are direct continuations of the Skr.-flexion. Only in the 2. Pl. the ending -tha (against Skr. ta) is taken from the Indicative. On the analogy of the Imperfect a 1. Sg.* labhem (= Pāli labhe) was formed to match labhes, labhet.—The forms given second: Sg. 2. labheyya etc., have been formed, by similar analogy, on Sg. 1. labheyyum, Pl. 3. labheyyum³. Then, further, on the analogy of the relation between labhāmi and labhāma of the Indicative, primary endings were introduced into the Sg. of the Opt., at first into the 1. Person labheyyāmi, and then also into the 2. and 3. Sg,—the Macdonell, Vedic Grammar § 412 a, with foot-note 16.

long ā of the 1. Sg. being extended also to the latter1.—Considered historically, the forms should be grouped according to types in the following way: The older type is predominant in the Gatha-language: Sg. 1. nisumbhoyyam 'I would strike down' Th2. 302; kareyyāmi 'I would do' Jā. V. 30818. Also the new formations in e are found in the Gatha-language: passe 'I would see', sune 'I would hear' (Comm. suneyyam), samvase 'I would live together (with)' Jā. IV. 24029 (cf. 24030, 2418'9); anaye 'I could have brought' (Comm. āneyyam) Jā. I. 3086; jive '(if) I live' Sn. 440.—Sg. 2. yājeyya '(if) you offer sacrifice' Ja. III. 51524.—Sg. 3. icche 'he should wish for' Th1. 228, hans 'he should kill' Sn. 394, vaje 'he should go' and pamuñceyya 'he should free himself' Jā. II. 24710; iccheyya Sn. 148, rakkheyya 'he should protect' Sn. 702.-Pl. 1. sikkhema 'we would learn' Sn. 898, and with the ending -mu: vasemu 'we would stay' (Comm. vaseyyāma), jānemu 'we would know' Jā. III. 25918'14. viharemu 'we would stay' Ja. II. 3325.—Pl. 2. bhuñjetha 'you should enjoy' Mhvs. 25. 113.-Pl. 3. saheyyum 'they should withstand' Sn. 20; pajaheyyu 'they should give up' Sn. 1058.—In the canonical .and non-canonical prose on the other hand the older type of flexion (labhe etc.) has been given up. Apart from isolated forms of the athematic flexion which have been retained in the language (see below), the regular endings now are: Sg. 1. -cyyam and -cyyami, 2. -cyyasi, 3. -eyya and -eyyati; Pl. 1. -eyyama, 2. -eyyatha, 3. -eyyum. This is apparent also from the fact that in the word-explanations these forms are substituted for the older ones. Thus in JaCo. II. 20518 bhajeyya is given as explanation of bhaje and in 22319 udabbaheyya is given as explanation of udabbahe. Cf. also above. Examples are: Sg. 1. pabbajeyyam Vin. II. 18015, puccheyyāmi D. I. 513; Sg. 2. kareyyāsi Vin. II. 19019, āgaccheyyāsi JāCo. II. 21226; Sg. 3. bhāscyya Vin. II. 18916, dadeyya JāCo. II. 24125, jāneyyāti Vin. II.19022; Pl.1. āroceyyāma Vin. II. 18628, vādeyyāma JāCo. II. 25425; Pl. 2. ancyyātha 'may you bring' S. I. 2217, gaccheyyātha JāCo. II. 24920; Pl. 3. khādeyyum Vin. II. 19711, vissajjeyyum JāCo. II. 24124.

§ 129. Medium. A form of the 2. Sg. is to be found in labhetho Sn. 833. The suffix corresponds to Skr. -thās. Not infrequently the suffix is -ctha in 3. Sg., taken also by those verbs which are otherwise inflected in the Active. Examples of this -ctha are: rakkhctha Dh. 36; labhetha Sn. 45; scvetha Sn. 72, Vin. II. 20318 (verse); jāyetha Dh.

The length of the vowel a was then transferred also to the 2. Pl.

58; nametha Sn. 806; sanketha Ja. II. 5322; atimannetha Sn. 148; saddahetha Jā. III. 1922; jhāyetha Sn. 709; kubbetha Sn. 702, 719, 917 etc.; äsetha in sukham manussä äsetha 'men should live bappily' Jā. V. 22216 (Comm. = āseyyum) has been used in the plural sense. Also in the post-caudical prose: jahetha he should forsake' JāCo. II. 20520. The aspirate in the ending as against Skr. -ta is remarkable. It is found also in the 3. Sg. Cond. and-Aor.; cf. § 157, 159. II.—A form of the 1. Pl. is to be found in sadhayemase 'we would accomplish' Ja. II. 23619, which is explained in the Comm. by sadheyyāma. There are also other forms in -emuse: vademase 'we would speak' D.III. 19722; mahemase 'we would wership' (Comm. mahāmase) Vv. 47. 11; samācaremase 'we would wander' (Comm. paţipajjāmase) Vv. 63. 7; also viharemasi '(if) we stay' (Comm. vasāma) Th2. 375. It is however not always possible to decide whether the forms in question are those of the 1. Pl. Imp. (§ 126) of the e-flexion or simple Optatives. Cf. also saremhase in § 122.

E. THE VERBAL CLASSES OF SANSKRIT IN PALI

1. Thematic Conjugation.

§ 130. Examples of present-stems of Cl. I are: I. from roots with medial a: patati 'falls, flies'. pacati 'cooks', vasati 'stays', vadati 'speaks' (all as in Skr.), vajati 'goes'=vrajati, kamati 'strides'=kramate, but krāmati², bhamati 'roams about'=bhramati; khamati 'forgives'=kṣamate etc.—2. From long-vowel roots: khādati 'ents', jīvati 'lives', nindati 'slanders' (all as in Skr.), vandati 'worships'=vandate, sandati 'flows'=syandate; dhovati 'washes' (cf. § 34) Vin. I. 2827, Sn. p. 101=AMāg. dhovaī, as against Skr. dhāvati etc.—3. From roots with a final u (on roots in ½ cf. § 131): savati flows'=sravati etc.—4. From roots with a final r: sarati 'goes', carati 'goes, does, etc.' (both as in Skr.), sarati 'remembers' (sumarati Dh. 324 comp. anussarati D. I. 1315)=smarati etc.—5. From roots with medial i, u, 7: lchati 'licks' JāCo. II. 4421 as against Skr. leḍhi (Cl. II), jotati 'lightens' JāCo. I. 534=dyotate, vassati 'rains'=varsati; vattati 'becomes, originates' = vartate; ghamsati 'rubs' (cf. § 6. 8) = gharsati; hamsati 'stands on end (as hair of the body)' Vin. III. 8³³ = harsati; kaddhati 'draws' = *kardhati, side-form of karşati, etc.—6. The secondary verbal stems too take after the paradigm labhati in the present-flexion. On Passives, Causatives and Denominatives in ya, aya see particularly § 136. 4, 138, 139. For Desideratives (§ 184), Intensives (§ 185) and Denominatives in a (§ 188. 1.) cf. Pres. Sg. 1. jigucchāmi Vin. III. 3⁴, 3. dandhati Jū. III. 141²; Pl. 8. sussūsanti A. IV. 393¹³, Med. dicchare S. I. 18²⁷, simsare Vv. 64. 7. Imp. Sg. 2. tikiccha S. I. 238³⁴ and tikicchāhi Vin. I. 71³⁶, Med. sikkhassu Th2. 4; Pl. 2. vīmamsatha JāCo. VI. 367²⁰. Opt. Sg. 1. vīmamseyyam M. I. 125¹⁶, 3. jiguccheyya Th2. 471 etc.

¹ Also in S. I. 173 (verse)=Jā. II. 11221 we have to take kubbetha (sgainst Andersen, PGI, under the word karoti, who considers it to be a 2. PL) as 3. Sg. Med. in the sense 'one should do', as also samāsetha 'one should be with' in the same verse.

Also in Pkr. (Pischel, § 481) there is no protraction of the radical vowel.

§ 131. The following details should be noted regarding Class I: 1. The roots in i, i show contracted forms besides those corresponding to Skr. forms. Such contracted forms are: jemi 'I conquer', nemi 'I lead', jesi, nesi etc. In the oldest period of the language both types are found side by side. Cf. anenti Jā. VI. 5074, vinayanti Th1. 3. The contracted forms get the upper hand later: ānemi JāCo. VI. 33410, ānema JāCo. VI. 33412. The Imp. Sg. 2. is nehi JaCo. II. 1602, beside vinaya Sp. 1025, vinayassu Sn. 559; Pl. 2. anetha Mhvs. 5. 253. In Opt. we have jeyyam and neyyam (instead of jaycyyam, nayeyyam) etc. Cf. Sg. 1. apaneyyam JaCo. III. 266; Sg.3. vijeyya Sn. 1002, vineyya M.I. 565, beside the older form naye Dh. 256=nayet and nissayeyya Sn. 798 from root śri with ni. Like jeti also deti 'flies' = dayati D. I. 717, M. I. 26834, III. 3426. The root ci 'to collect' too may take this contracted form although it otherwise belongs to Cl. IX: Opt. Sg.1. abhisamceyyam 'I would heap up' (Comm. -cincyyam) Vv.47.6; Sg.3. niccheyya (ci with nis) Sn. 785,801. Also in DhCo. III.38114 we should probably read viniccheyya. From the root hi 'to send' we have the pres. pāheti (p. 79, foot-note 3) beside pāhiņati (§ 147. 2). On the other hand the root ji (corresponding to Ved. jināti) may form the pres.-stem also according to Cl. IX2: Ind. Sg. 2. jināsi D. II. 34823, Sg. 3. jināti Sn. 439; Imp. Sg. 2. jināhi Th1. 415, abhivijina M. II. 7132; Opt. Sg 3. jine Dh. 103; Pl. 3. jineyyum S. I. 2215.-2. Similarly there is found an uncontracted and another contracted form of the root bhū 'to be' in the Indic. Pres. and in Imp. The contracted forms are (cf. § 37):

² Similarly AMag. jinami etc.; Pischel, § 478.

Sg.

Ind. 1. homi

2. hosi Vv. 84.20, M. III. 1402

3. hoti pass.

Imp. 2. hohi Sn. 31, M.III.13414, JāCo.I.3230; hehi Bu.2.10

3. hotu Sn. 224, JāCo. III.15025

Beside these there are the archaic forms bhavāmi etc., Imp. Sg. 2. bhava Th2 8, Sn. 701 and bhavāhi Sn. 510; Pl. 1. Med. bhavāmase Th1. 1128, Sn. 32; 2. bhavatha JāCo. II. 2186 and bhavātha Sn. 692, Dh. 144b (cf. § 123); 3. bhavantu Sn. 145. Moreover Opt. Sg. 1. bhaveyyam JāCo. VI. 36416; 2. bhaveyyāsi Ud. 9133, PvCo. 1123; 3. bhave Sn. 716 and bhavcyya JāCo. II. 15922; Pl. 2. bhavetha Sn. 1073; 3. bhaveyyum Sn. 906. A dialectical side-form is to be found in Sg. 3. hupeyya (§ 39. 6) which is clearly = Paiś. huveyya². As for compounds, we have Ind. Sg. 1. anubhomi Vv. 15. 10; 2. anubhosi Vv. 40 3; 3. vibhoti Sn. 873, sambhoti Sn. 743 (cf. D. II. 23219-21), anubhoti JāCo. II. 20211, 2521 and sambhavati Milp. 2104, anubhavati JāCo. II. 20214; Pl. 1. abhisambhoma 'we attain' Jā. III. 14024; 3. anubhonti Th2. 217. Sometimes certain compounds of bhū form the present-stem after Cl. IX3: sambhunāti 'attains' Vin. I. 2568, abhisambhunāti VinCo. Rangoon cd. I. 2² etc. Cf. also § 190, 191.

§ 132. Of reduplicating roots of Cl. I., pivati 'drinks' (cf. pivāmi M. I. 77³⁷, pivasi JāCo. II. 417⁷; piva JāCo. III. 110²², pivatha JāCo. II. 128²; piveyya D. I. 123²³) and pipati (in Gen. Dat. Pl. Part. Pres. pipatam Sn. 398) correspond to Skr. pibati (root pā); sīdati (cf. nisīda 'sit down!' Th1. 411, nisīdatha Th2. 13) is=sīdati (roct sad). The root ghrā 'to smell' assumes in Pāli the form ghāyati D. II. 338²⁰ as against Skr. jighrati.—The present-stems of sthā 'to stand' are multifarious. We have 1. the stem tittha-4=Skr. tiṣtha-. Thus

For Pkr. cf. Pischel, § 475.

² The form huveyya presupposes a pres. huvar (Māh. huvantı). For Pāli heyya (Minayeff, PGr. p. 77) I cannot find attestation. The corresponding form in Pkr. would be hojjā.

³ Kern, Revue Celtique 22, 337 ff. and Festschrift Thomsen 70 ff.

⁴ In Pkr. the corresponding stem is cittha- in Māh., AMāg., JMāb. There are besides the stems the, theya- and the-; see Pischel, § 483.

Ind. Sg. 1. titthāmi, 2. titthasi, 3. titthati; Pl. 1. titthāma, 2. titthatha, 3. titthanti. Imp. Sg. 2. tittha Mhvs. 7. 13 and titthahi Th1. 461, DhCo. III. 19417, 3. titthatu D. I. 944. Opt. Sg. 2. tittheyyasi M. III. 1297, 3. titthe Sn. 918 and tittheyya Sn. 929, Milp. 2810 etc. Also in compounds, as Ind. Sg. 1. samtitthāmi A. IV. 30217, Opt. Sg 3. uttitthe Dh. 168 etc.—2. Stem tha- (according to Cl. II) formed on analogy of roots like yā (Pāli yāti): Ind. Sg. 3. uṭṭhāti Dpvs. 1. 53, saṃthāti Pu. 3124, A. I. 19734, adhiṭṭhāti A. II. 4510; Imp. Sg. 2. uṭṭhāhi Th1. 411, S. I. 23332, 3. uṭṭhātu Jā. III. 29715.-3. Stem ṭhāya-(Cl. IV) formed after roots like dhyā (Pāli jhāyati): Ind. Sg.1, thāyāmi Th1. 888.—4. Stem thaha-, formed after the stem daha of root dhā: Ind. Pl. 1. upațțhahāma Jā.III. 12026, 3. vuțthahanti Mhvs. 5. 124; Imp. Sg. 2. adhitthaha Vin. I. 1832, vutthaha Vin. I. 12823 and upatthahassu S. I. 16712 (verse); Pl. 2. utthahatha Sn. 331; Opt. Sg. 3. samutthahe Ja. III. 15612 and samthaheyya S. V. 329°, adhitthaheyya Vin. I. 12521; Pl. 2. uţţhaheyyātha S. I. 21718.—5. Stem thein Ind. (and Imp.) Pl. 1. adhitthema Vin. IV. 2324; Imp. Sg. 2. utthehi, (on analogy of dehi from da) S. I. 1987 (verse), Ud. 5219, Vin. I. 63, JaCo. I. 15123; Pl. 2. utthetha Ja. VI. 4441.

- § 133. 1. The form corresponding to Skr. Pres. gacchati from root gam is gacchati also in Pāli. Cf. Ind. Sg. 1. gacchāmi Milp. 26³², 2. gacchasi etc.; Imp. Sg. 2. gaccha Jā. II. 160¹², gacchāhi S. I. 217⁴ (verse) and gacchassu Th1. 82, Pl. 2. gacchatha Vin. II. 191³⁵, JāCo. I. 222¹⁹; Opt. Sg. 1. -gaccheyyam D. II. 340³; 3. -gacche Th1. 11 and gaccheyya Sn. p.14, Pl.3. gaccheyyum Milp. 47²⁴ etc. On the other hand the present-stem of yam 'to restrain' is however yama-(Ind. Pl.1. Med. saṃyamāmase S. I. 209²⁷), not yaccha- as in Skr.—2. To Skr. daśati (from root daṃś-) corresponds dasati (§ 42. 3) in Pāli.—3. Of the roots with a medial u, ruh 'to mount' in compounds may both retain it unchanged¹ or lengthen it. Thus ārāhati 'climbs up' besides ārohati, virāhati 'sprouts, grows' JāCo. III. 12²¹; orāhati 'climbs down' besides orohati. It thus takes after Cl. VI, or is treated like the root guh, gāhati 'to conceal': nigāhati JāCo. I. 286²⁵, III. 392¹⁴; Imp. Sg. 2. Med. upagāhassu JāCo. III. 437²⁸.
- § 134. Present-stems after Cl. VI are: kasati 'ploughs'=kṛṣati (besides kassati after Cl.I=karṣati: cf. Imp. Pl.2. apakassatha Sn. 281); khipati 'hurls'=kṣipati; tudati 'goads' Jā. I. 50018=tudati; disati 'directs'=disati; nudati 'presses' Sn. 480, 928, Dh. 388=nudati;

§ 135, 1. Corresponding to Skr. icchati from root is 'to wish', we have icchati also in Pāli: Ind. Sg. 1. icchāmi Th1. 186, D. I. 1935, JaCo. I. 29222, Med. icche Th2. 332, DhCo. III. 1994 (verse); Opt. Sg. 1. iccheyyāmi Ud. 1733, 2. iccheyyāsi Ud. 1732, Pl. 2. iccheyyātha M. II. 798 etc.-2. Here I include also Pāli acchati 'sits, remains', which I consider to be an old inchoative formation related to root ās in the same way as icchati to is. Forms: Ind. Sg. 2. acchasi Vv. 11. 2, 12. 1, 3. acchati D. 1. 10123, Pl. 3. acchanti Vin. III. 1958, Th2Co. 6030 and Med. acchare Th2. 54, samacchare Jā. II. 6719; 1mp. Sg. 2. acchassu Jā. VI. 51616, 3. acchatu Jā. VI. 50613 and Med. acchatam Ja. VI. 5068.—3. Roots which show nasal stems in present in Skr.4 do the same also in Pali. Thus muñcati 'liberates', limpati 'besmears', lumpati 'robs', vindati 'finds' (nibbindati 'feels disgust'), sincati 'pours out' (the same forms also in Skr.), kantati 'cuts' = krntati. Cf. sumbhati, sumhati 'strikes' (§ 60); Opt. Sg. 1. nisumbheyyam Th2. 302.

§ 136. Present-stems after Cl. IV. 1. Example of root ending in vowel: alliyati 'attaches' JaCo. 1. 4334, 5028, III. 65²² (o-liyati Iv.

48¹⁴, niliyati JāCo. I. 292¹⁸)=ā-līyate, root lī. In the case of roots ending in consonant the y is assimilated to the preceding consonant. Thus ijihati 'flourishes'=7dhyati; kujihati 'is angry' = krudhyati; kuppati 'is angry' = kupyati; qijihati 'is eager' = grdhyati; naccati 'dances' = nrlyati; nassati 'is destroyed' = nasyati; samnayhati 'guards up, prepares' = samnahyati; āpajjati 'gets involved in something' and many other compounds of the root pad=āpadyate; bujjhati 'wakes up, perceives'=budhyate; maññati 'thinks' = manyate; yujjhati 'fights' = yudhyate; sussati 'dries up' = śusyati etc. Also siniyhati (§ 49.1) DhsCo. 19231 = snihyati. There are found moreover, in agreement with Skr.: majjati 'rejoices' Jā. II. 97¹⁵, A. IV. 294⁶ (Opt. Sg. 3. majjeyya Jā. III. 87²⁵)=mādyati (root mad); sammati 'rests' = śāmyati (root śam). Also bhassati 'falls down' Jā. VI. 53011 = bhrasyati (root bhrams); rajjati 'takes delight in something' S. IV 7421 (verse), DhCo, III. 2333'4=rajyati (root ranj); vijjhati 'bores through'=vidhyati (root vyadh). To the Skr. pres.-stem krāmyu- from root kram (not attested) corresponds kammain Imp. Sg. 2. palikamma 'go back!' S. I. 22628 (verse), and to Skr. medya- from root mid ' to feel oneself drawn towards something' corresponds the stein mejja- DhsCo. 19231 (var. lec. mijja-).-2. Though not in Skr.1, a presestem lagga- after Cl. IV is derived in Pali from the root lag 'to hang' (Imp. Sg. 3, laggatu DhCo. I. 13112). Similarly from root ruc 'to be liked' ruccati1 Vv. 63. 8, DhCo. I. 1323 against rocate, In the same way Pali has besides supati (§ 134) from root svap 'to sleep' also suppati, soppati (§ 10) S. I. 10719 (verse).—3. To the Skr. Pres. pasyati from root dars corresponds Pāli passati. Cf. Ind. Sg. 1. passāmi Sn. 776, Vin. I. 1263, 2. passasi etc. Imp. Sg. 2. passa Sn. 435. I. 13729, 3. passe Dh. 76 and passeyya JāCo. III. 5522 etc. Beside it a new pres.-stem dakkha- has arisen in the language. It is abstracted out of the future-stem (draksyati, § 152). Cf. Opt. Pl. 1. dakkhema or mu DhCo. III. 21719, 2187 (verse).—4. The Passives (§ 175 f.) and the ya-Denominatives (§ 188. 2, 3) have formally coincided with the presents of Cl. IV. Cf. Ind. Sg. 1. ñāyāmi 'I am mentioned' Milp. 25°, vediyāmi 'I feel' Vin. III. 3725, namassāmi 'I worship' Sn. 1058, aţţiyāmi 'I suffer' D. I. 21322; 2. vcdiyasi M. II. 7014, 3. sūyati suyyati

§ 137. The root jar (jṛ) 'to grow old', Skr. jīryati, gives in Pāli (besides jīriyati M. I. 1887 with Svarabhakti) the forms jīrati Jā. III. 388 (Ind. Pl. 3. jīranti Dh. 151, Imp. Sg. 3. jīratu Mhvs. 22. 76) and jīyati (Ind. Pl. 3. jīyanti M. III. 1689, Med. jīyare Jā. VI. 5285, Opt. Sg. 3. Med. jīyatha D. II. 6327) and jīyyati M. III. 24620 (parijiyyati Th1. 1215). Cf. § 52. 5. From the root śar (śṛ) 'to wither', Skr. śīryatı, -le, we have Ind. Sg. 2. seyyasi (instead of *siyyasi, § 10) Jā. I. 1719, in Comm. =visinnaphalo hoti. Similarly from root mar 'to die', Skr. mriyate, we have in Pāli miyati (Ind. Pl. 3. mīyanti Dh. 21, M. III. 1689, Opt. Sg. 3. Med. mīyetha D. II. 6327) and miyyati Sn. 804 (Ind. Pl. 3. Med. miyyare Sn. 575, Opt. Sg. 1. miyye in miyyāham Jā. VI. 49820). Moreover marati (as in Vedic) in Ind. Pl. 3. maranti Mhvs. spurious verse after 5. 27, Opt. Sg. 1. mareyyam JāCo. VI. 49830, 2. mareyyāsi JāCo. III. 27622.

§ 138. To Skr. jāyate from root jan 'to be born' there corresponds in Pāli jāyati; to Skr. ā-hvayati from root hvā 'to call' the Pāli forms avhayati and avheti (§ 49. 1.): Ind. Pl. 1. avhayāma D. I. 244²⁵, 3. avhayanti Jā. VI. 529¹; Opt. Sg. 3. avheyya D. I. 244¹⁶. Various roots in ā form their present-stems in the same way as jāyati, partly in agreement with Skr. (the roots in ai of the Indian grammarians), and partly deviating from it². Thus vāyati 'blows' besides vāti, Skr. vāti (Ind Pl. 3. vāyanti Jā. VI. 530¹², Vin. I. 48³⁵, D. II. 107²⁵; also nibbāyati 'is extinguished' JāCo. I. 61³, Opt. Sg. 3. nibbāyeyya M. I. 487²⁵ besides parinibbanti Dh. 126, parinibbātu D. II. 105⁵). Similarly yāyali 'goes' besides yāti, Skr. yāti (Ind. Pl. 3. yāyanti Vin. I. 19118, Opt. Sg. 3. yāycyya Vin. 1912); gāyati 'sings' = gāyati; milāyati 'withers' S. I. 1262'3 = mlāyati; jhāyati 'meditates' = dhyāyati; jhāyati 'burns' (§ 56, 2.)=kṣāyati (vijjhāyati 'is extinguished' Vin. I. 3129); nahāyati 'bathes' = snāyati besides snāti; khāyati 'becomes clear' (Ind. Pl. 8. pakkhāyanti D. II. 9923 besides pakkhanti Th1. 1034)=khyāyatc; tāyati 'protects' DCo. 181 (Imp. Sg. 2. Med. tāyassu DhCo. 1. 2184 (verse)) = trāyatc besides trāti; antaradhāyati 'disappears' D. II. 10910, A. IV. 30727 = antardhāyatc. In the same way is formed also bhāyati 'fears'1; Ind. Sg. 1. bhāyāmi Th1. 21, Sn. p. 47, 2. bhāyasi Th2. 248, Sn. p. 47; Pl. 1. bhāyāma JāCo. II. 2122, 3. bhāyanti Dh. 129; Imp. Pl. 2. bhāyatha Ud. 51°, JāCo. III. 44; Opt. Sg. 3. bhāyc Sn. 964 and bhāyeyya Milp. 20826, Pl. 3. bhāyeyyum Milp. 20820. Palāyati 'flees' = palāyatc is inflected in the same way: Imp. Sg. 2. palāyassu DhCo. III. 334°, Pl. 2, palāyatha Mhvs. 7. 66, 3. palāyantu JāCo. II. 9017. Denominatives of the type cirāyati, dhūpāyati (also sajjhāyati) along with forms like gahāyati, phusāyati, samkasāyati are to be grouped herewith so far as the form is concerned. Cf. § 186.

§ 139. The formans aya is contracted into c also in the present-stems of Cl.X.—1. To this group belong verbs like cintcti 'thinks' Sn.717, JāCo. I. $221^{30} = cintayati$, $p\bar{u}jcti$ 'worships' = $p\bar{u}jayati$, particularly however denominatives like katheti 'relates' = kathayati, gancti 'counts' = ganayati, pattheti 'begs' = prārthayati and the whole category of causatives. Similarly also bhemi 'I fear' S. I. 111² (verse) besides bhāyāmi and paleti 'flees' Dh. 49, Sn. 1074 besides palāyati (see p. 74, f.-n. 4 and § 138). In the Gāthā-language both uncontracted and contracted forms are found side by side. In Sn., for instance, they almost hold the balance if the prose portions are left out of consideration. But already in the canonical prose contraction is the rule. But occasionally even later there are found forms like lappayati Milp. $227^{6\cdot12}$, pihayāmi, patthayāmi Th2Co. 239^{30} , mantayatha JāCo. II. 107^{22} . The flexion will be clear from the following examples:

Older type:

- Ind. Sg. 1. sāvayāmi Sn. 385; āmanlayāmi D. II. 156¹; Med. patthaye Th2. 341 (patthe Th2. 32).

 - 3. vāceyyum D. I. 9714; tāseyyum Milp. 2096.
- 2. The e-flexion has however extended its sphere on all sides, and verbs which originally did not belong to Cl. X were transferred to it. Thus from root vad 'to speak' we have not only vadati but also vadeti (the Causative is vādeti) Sn. 825, D. I. 3636, Vin. II. 111, JāCo. I. 29421; bhajehi 'worship!' occurs in Jā. III. 14811113 for the usual bhaja, bhajāhi (Comm. bhajeyyāsi); to Skr. upahadati corresponds Pāli ūhadeti 'defiles with dung'; maññesi Pret. Sg. 2. 'you thought' presupposes manneti besides manneti; gaheti, without any Causative sense (the Causative is $g\bar{a}heti$), is the oft-used side-form of $ganh\bar{a}ti$ 'seizes'. Instead of the usual $akkh\bar{a}hi$ (§ 140.2) there also occurs akkhehi in Jā. VI. 318^{20} etc.

2. Athematic Conjugation.

§ 140. 1. An isolated form of athem. flexion after Cl. II. is to be found in hanti¹ 'strikes' Sn. 118, 125, Dh. 72, 355, S. I. 154³ (verse); also Milp. 2147, besides thematic hanati Ja. I. 43213, Milp. 2204, 2. Pl. hanatha JaCo. I. 2633, Opt. Sg. 3. haneyya Sn. 705 etc. Similarly veti 'knows' Th1. 497=vetti. In other cases however the thematic flexion bas taken the place of athematic in Pali: āsati 'sits' (Dh. 61; Opt. Pl. 1. -āseyyāma JāCo, I. 5091) as against Skr. āste (Ved. also āsate), ghasati 'eats', lchati 'licks', rodati 'cries', ravati 'roars', abhi-tthavati 'praises' S. I. 1906 against stauti (but Ved. also stavate) etc.—2. More numerous are the athematic forms of roots in \bar{a} , which are otherwise transferred to the flexion of Cl. IV. Individual examples have been given § 138. Cf. Ind. Sg. 2. yāsi 'you go' JāCo. I. 29115, 3. yāti Sn. 720, Dh. 29, Pl. 1. āyāma D. II. 8114, 3. āyanti Th2. 237; Imp. Sg. 2. yāhi Mhvs. 13. 15, Pl. 2. yātha Mhvs. 14. 29 from root yā. Similarly Ind. Sg. 2, vāsi Jā, II. 1121, Pl. 3, pavanti Tb2, 371 from root vā 'to blow'; Ind. Sg.1. akkhāmi Sn. 172, Imp.Sg.2. akkhāhi Th1. 168 from root khyā with prefix ā- 'to proclaim'; Imp. Sg. 2. sināhi 'bathe!' M. I. 3921 (verse), or nahāhi JāCo. VI. 3210 (besides nhāya Vin. III. 11015); Ind. Pl 3. ābhanti 'they light up' Vv. 6. 10, patibhanti 'they become clear' JaCo. II, 10019 from root bhā etc.—3. i 'to go', after generalising the strong stem, has given rise to the forms emi, csi, cti; ema, ctha, cnti2, both as simplex and also in numerous compounds. On the basis of such historical forms as cti (sameti etc.) the pres.-flexion has been completely adapted to that of verbs like $n\bar{i}$, ji (§ 131), or to that of e-stems (according to § 139) as the case may be. Examples are numerous: Ind. Sg. 1. paccemi D. I. 1861, 2. paccesi D. I. 1853, 3. pacceti Dh. 125, Pl. 1. paccema Milp. 3136. 3. accenti Th1. 231; Imp. Sg. 2. ehi Th1. 175, JaCo. II. 15913, 3. etu D. I. 17916, Pl. 2. etha D. II. 9876, apetha DhCo. III. 20113; Opt.

The form Imp. Sg. 3. sumühantu D. II. 154¹⁷ is not quite certain. Buddhaghosa (DCo. ed. Rangoon, II. 165³⁰) reads -hanatu. So also in the quotation in Milp. 142¹⁵.

The Pl. 3. is enti also in Pkr. Māh., AMāg.; Pischel, § 493. It is doubtful if inti in Jinālamkāra is right.

Sg. 2. upeyyāsi Jā. IV. 241²⁴, 3. pacceyya¹ Nett. 93¹⁴, upeyya M. III. 173⁸³. The analogy of e-stems then also gave rise to forms like Ind. Pl. 3. accayanti Th1. 145, S. I. 109¹ (verse), Opt. Sg. 3. accayeyya Sn. 781.—4. The flexion of the root $\delta i$ should be judged precisely in this light. Forms such as Ind. Sg. 2. sesi Jā. III. 34¹², S. I. 110²³ (verse) and Sg. 3. seti Dh. 79, Jā. I. 141²⁵ may be direct continuations of Skr. $\delta e se, $\delta e te.$ After them was formed (as nenti to neti) the 3. Pl. senti Sn. 668 (against Skr. $\delta e rate). And just as there are forms like nayāmi etc. besides nemi, kathayāmi etc. besides kathemi, so we have also forms like sayāmi Th1. 888, S. I. 110²⁶ (verse), sayati Vin. I. 57³⁰, Jā. II. 53¹⁶ (cf. Ved. $\delta y a te.$) Imp. Sg. 2. saya JāCo. III. 23²¹; Opt. Sg. 3. saye Iv. 120¹⁰ (verse), Med. sayetha Th1. 501.

§ 141. 1. The present-flexion of as 'to be' is as follows:—

	Sg.	Pl.
	(asmi	{ asmā (asmasc Sn. 595), amhā (amhāse Jā. III. 309 ²⁷ , D. II.
Ind. 1.	asmi { asmā (asmase Sn. 595), amhā (amhāse Jā. 111. 30927, 27511 (verse))
2.	asi	att h a
3. atthi		santi (sante Sn. 868)
	ątthu
Opt. 1.	siya m, assam	assāma M. III. 250 ¹⁵
2.	สริสล	assatha D. I 35
3.	siyā, assa	ธ เทูนฑุ, แร ธน.

The Medial forms in Ind., occurring only in the Gāthā-language, are innovations on the analogy of labhāma: labhāmase, labhanti: labhante. In Opt. the forms siyam, siyā, siyum correspond to Skr. syām, syāt, syus; the form siyamsu M. II. 2394 in Pl. 3. is remarkable. It is a new formation in the place of siyum, just as in Aor. there is addasamsu besides addasum. The forms assam etc. are derived from the strong stem like Greek etēn. They occur already in the Gāthā-language. In the post-canonical prose the forms of atthi are used mostly in periphrastic perfect. But they were more and more replaced by forms of bhavati-hoti. Quite frequently atthi is used, also with a plural subject, as a petrified form in the indefinite sense of 'there is'. Cf., e. g., DhCo. I. 4125, JāCo. III. 12619 etc.—2.

¹ Also of the simplex the Opt. Sg. 3. is eyya. Cf. M. III. 15928, where the proper division of words would be matam-eyya 'he goes unto death, dies.'

In the pres.-forms of the root brū the stem of the 1. Pl. Skr. brūmas was generalised¹. We have Sg. 1. brūmi Sn. 458, Dh. 385, Thl. 214, pabrūmi Sn. 870, 2. brūsi Sn. 457, Jā. II. 48²³, Th2. 58, S. I. 8¹⁰⁻¹¹, S. brūti Sn. 122, pabrūti Sn. 131, Pl. 3. pabrūnti Sn. 649; Imp. Sg. 2. brūhi Sn. 76, pabrūhi Sn. 599. Quite remarkable is the Imp. Sg. 3. brūmetu D. I. 95¹³; but the form is not above all doubts. This verb may be regarded as an archaism when it occurs still in the post-canonical prose (e. g., Milp. 327³). That is why brūmi is explained as kathemi in PyCo. 11¹².

§ 142. Present-stems after Cl. III. 1. A stem jaha- (besides jahā-) has been abstracted out of jahāmi from root hā- 'to leave', and it is the basis of the forms of the present: Ind. Pl. 3. jahanti Dh. 91; Imp. Sg. 2. jaha Th1. 83 (also jahi Th2, 508) and Med. jahassu Sn. 1121, Th1. 1219, Pl. 2. pajahatha S. IV. 8110; Opt. Sg. 1. jaheyyam JāCo. I. 1531, 2. pajaheyyāsi S. IV. 35023; 3. Med. jahetha (§ 129) etc. The stem jahā. in Sg. 3. jahāti Sn. 1. ff., 506, 589, pajahāti Sn. 789.—2. The stem daha- stands in the same relation to the root dhā 'to set' (cf. particularly also saddahati 'believes'= śraddadhāti). The forms dahāsi, dahāti (§ 123) are older. From the stem daha- we have Ind. Sg. 1. samādahāmi M. I. 11615, 2. saddahasi S. IV. 29812, JaCo. I. 42610, 3. samdahati Milp. 4020, Pl. 1. saddahāma D. II. 3281, 2. saddahatha JūCo. I. 2226, 3. dahanti Sn. 882, D. I. 9215; Imp. Sg. 2. saddaha JaCo. IV. 5218, Med. odahassu Sn. 461, Pl. 2. pidahatha Thupavs. 7632; Opt. Sg. 2. nidaheyyasi Ja. VI. 49417, 3. vidahe Sn. 927 and padaheyya M. II. 17411, Med. saddahetha Ja. III. 1922, Pl. 1. saddaheyyama Milp. 3302, 3. saddaheyyum S. II. 25526 etc. The root dha, however, also takes the e-flexion, particularly in the Gatha-language2: Ind. Sg. 1. samadhemi Th2, 50, 114, Pl. 3. odhenti Th1, 1283 = S. I. 19030; Imp. Sg. 2. panidhehi Th2. 197, S. IV. 30226; Opt. Sg. 3. saddheyya Ja. II. 44614 (Comm. = saddaheyya) etc. -3. From root hu (juhoti) 'to pour into the fire' we have the stem juha-3: Ind. Sg. 1. juhāmi Th1. 343, 3. juhati S. I. 16721, Sn. p. 79.—4. The pres.-stem of root gar (jāgarti, jāgarati) 'to wake up' is jāgara- or (with the elision of a according to

¹ The form brumi may be found occasionally also in Skr. In Pkr. we have AMag. Ind. Pl. 1. buma, Imp. Sg. 2. buhi. In AMag. the Ind. Sg. 1. is bemi, Pl. 3. benti. Pischel, § 494.

On the basis of the 2. Sg. Imp. dhehi. Similarly in Pkr. Cf. Pischel, § 500.

³ As var. lec. we have jühati Sn. p. 79, and its Part. Pres. Sg. Gen. jühato Sn. 428. Jüh-may be derived also from juvh-=juhv- (Skr. juhvati 8. Pl.).

§ 20 and the assimilation of gr) jagga-. From the first we have, e. g., Imp. Sg. 2. Med. jāgarassu Th1. 411, as well as the Participles jāgarant Db. 39, Vin. III. 31³⁵ and jāgaramāna Dh. 226. From the second the Ind. Sg. 1. paṭijaggāmi JāCo. I. 438³⁰, 3. jaggati A. III. 156°, Pl. 3. jagganti A. III. 156°; Opt. Sg. 3. paṭijaggeyya Db. 157.

§ 143. The present forms of the root dā 'to give' have had a multifarious development. There are found (a) the stems dadā- and dada-: Ind. Sg. 1. dadāmi Sn. 421, Th2. 245, 2. dadāsi Mhvs. 10. 50, 3. dadāti D.I. 10323, Sn. p. 86, Pl. 1. dadāma Th1. 475, JāCo. III. 4710, Med. dadamhase Ja. III. 47°, 3. dadanti Vv. 44. 25; Imp. I. 33², 3.detu JāCo. II. 104⁸, Pl. 2. detha JāCo. II. 103²², 3. dentu Mhvs. 5. 179. Also Opt. Sg. 1. deyyam Mhvs. 7. 31. Already the Gathalanguage knows the flexion demi etc. in Ind. and Imp. Along with the Opt. dadeyyam etc. this can be regarded as the regular flexion in the canonical and the post-canonical prose.—(c) An old form which is met with in all the periods of the language is to be found in the Ind. Sg. 1. dammi Sn. p. 14, Vin. I. 3917, JaCo. I. 12728, II. 23121, DhCo. I. 100°. It is derived from dadmi which is current in epic Sanskrit. Also Pl. 1. damma in Kacc. 3. 4. 1 (Senart, p. 452).—(d) The following Optative forms are also old: Sg. 1. dajjam Vin. I. 14825, 2. dajjāsi Jā. VI. 25136, 3. dajjā Dh. 224, Th1. 468, D. II. 26710 (verse), S. I. 5782 (verse). They are derived from Skr. dadyām etc. and are a spacial feature of the Gatha-language. The JaCo. I. 32215 explains dajjā, by dadeyya. A present-stem dajja- or dajje-1 was abstracted out of these forms. Hence, e. g., Imp. Sg. 2. dajjehi Vin. III. 2174 and the double-forms -dajjeyya, -dajjeyyāma Vin. III. 25935,36, dajjeyyātha Vin.

- I. 282'. On the analogy of dadāmi: dajjan there was formed also from the root vad 'to speak' a similar Opt.: Sg. 1. vajjan Th2. 308,2. vajjāsi Th2. 307, and vajja(?) Th2. 323, 3. vajjā Sn. 971, Jā. VI. 526°, Pl. 3. vajju(n) Sn. 859, Jā. V. 221²¹. These forms too are a peculiar feature of the Gāthā-language; in JāCo. VI. 527° vajjā is explained by vadeyya, as vajjāsi by vadeyyāsi in Th2Co. 228°.
- § 144. The present-stems of Cl. VII have generalised the weak form, and their flexion is thematic (a-flexion) throughout1. These presents, therefore, have coincided with muncati etc. discussed in § 135.3. Cf. kantati 'spins' (root kart, krnatti); chindati 'cuts off' (root chid, chinatti); bhanjati 'breaks' (root bhaj, bhanakti); bhindati 'splits' (root bhid, bhinatti); bhunjati 'enjoys' (root bhuj, bhunakti); yunjati 'joins' (root yuj, yunakti); rincati 'leaves' (root ric, rinakti); rundhati (cf. § 60) 'surrounds' (root rudh, runaddhi); himsati 'injures' (root hims, hinasti). I give here a combined paradigm: Ind. Sg. 1. bhuñjāmi Sn. p. 12; 2. niyunjasi Th1. 1114, himsasi M. I. 3923 (verse); 3. yunjati JaCo. III. 651; Med. bhunjetha Dh. 70; Pl. 3. sambhañjeyyum S. I. 12326, chindeyyum D. II. 3222.
- § 145. In the present-stems of Cl. IX, the form with the suffix $n\bar{a}$ has been generalised. The analogy of $labh\bar{a}mi$: labhati has then led to frequent transfers to the a-flexion. The forms with the suffix $n\bar{a}$ have disappeared. Examples: 1. Koot $j\bar{n}\bar{a}$ ($j\bar{a}n\bar{a}ti$) 'to know'. It derives (a) from the stem $j\bar{a}n\bar{a}$ (here I give also those forms in which the stems $j\bar{a}n\bar{a}$ would coincide): Ind. Sg. 1. $j\bar{a}n\bar{a}mi$ Sn. 908, JāCo. I. 26639, Med. $j\bar{a}ne$ Mhvs. 37. 220 (ed. Colombo 170), 2. $j\bar{a}n\bar{a}si$ Sn. 504, JāCo. I. 22315, 3. $j\bar{a}n\bar{a}ti$ Sn. 276, S. I. 10323, JāCo. Another type is found besides in the oldest period of the language: Sg. 1. vijaññam Sn. 482, 3. jāñāā Dh. 157, Thl. 10, Sn. 116. In the Comm. on Jā. II. 42¹² jāñāā is explained by jāneyya. This type is analogical, formed after the Opt. dajjam from dadāmi. The form jāniyāma Sn. 873 is very probably historical and the same as Skr. jānīyāma.
- § 146. Similarly in the case of 2. root grah (grhnāti) 'to seize' there are side by side the stems ganhā- and ganha-: (a) From ganhāwe have for instance Ind. Sg. 2. ganhāsi DhCo. Futures, Preterites, Infinitives and Gerunds are derived from the secondarily formed stem gahe of the e-flexion (§ 139. 2). -3. Of the root mā (māti, mimīte) the present-stem is minā-. Cf. Opt. Pl. 1. abhinimmineyyāma S. I. 12432.-4. The root bandh (badhnāti) 'to bind' has, as in Pkr. (Pischel, § 513) the present-stem bandha-, and is inflected, therefore, according to § 144. Cf. Imp. Thus Ind. Pl. 3. pahinanti D. II. 3211, 32327; Imp. Sg. 3. pahinatu DhCo. III. 3424; Opt. Pl. 2. pahineyyātha DhCo. III. 318°.—3. But the stem sund- is by far the more predominant one. In Opt, it is naturally the only stem in use: (a) Stem suno- in Ind. Sg. 1, sunomi Ja. IV. 44322, Pl. 1, sunoma Sn. 350, 1110, Vv. 84. 12; Imp. § 148. Roots of Cl. V. with consonantal final are: śak (śaknoti) 'to be able to' and āp 'to get' mostly with pra (prāpnoti).

1. From the root śak we have (a) the present-stem sakko-=śakno-preserved in the Ind. which completely ousted the weak stem śaknu-and is met with in every period of the language: Sg. 1. sakkomi Mhvs. 32. 17, 2. sakkosi JāCo. Beside it there is found from the earliest times (b) the stem pāpuņā-2 formed according to Cl. IX. with Svarabhakti-vowel. This is the only form used in the later period. Ct. Ind. § 149. A probable example of a present-stem of Cl. VIII is to be found in munāti 'comprehends, understands' Dh. 269. But itself it seems to stand for *munoti=Skr. manoti (Act. to manute, root man), with transfer to Cl. IX. I would explain in the same way also thunāti 'roars' from root stan³. We have to do here with a formation according to Cl. VIII. (and Cl. IX.). There is besides an abhi-tthanati and -tthanayati 'thunders' (§ 52.2) Jā. I. 332¹, JāCo. I. 330¹³ = stanati stanayati after Cl. X, just as beside munāti there is maññati after Cl. IV. The forms are: Ind. I. 2793, 3. lacchati S. I. 11419, Pl. 1. lacchāma Jā. IV. 29221. From root viš 'to enter': Sg. 1. pavekkhāmi Jā. III. 865, Mhvs. 25. 42. From root vas 'to live': Sg. 1. vacchāmi Jā. VI. 52311 and vaccham Th2. 414, 425=vatsyāmi, 3. vacchati Th2. 294. From root dars 'to see': Sg. 1. dakkham Th1. 1099 = draksyāmi, 2. dakkhasi S. 1. 11611 (verse) and dakkhisi Th2. 232, Ja. VI. 49715, 3. dakkhati S. II. 25523 and dakkhiti Sn. 909, D. I. 16519, M. II. 2026, Pl. 3. dakkhinti Vin. I. 1634. The forms mokkhasi Vin. I. 2118 (verse) =S. I. 11129 (verse) and mokkhanti Dh 37 from root muc=moksyasi, moksyanti have a passive meaning. These futures were apparently still felt to be such. Thus in M. III. 1801 dakkhati stends beside nassati and sacchi-karissati. But that the futural sense was already getting blurred is proved (a'ready in the oldest period of the language) by doublets such as dakkhisam (instead of -issam for metrical reasons) Th2. 84 (Comm. 8919: passissam); 2. dakkhissasi M. III. 510: Pl. 1. dakkhisāma Jā. III. 997 (Comm. dakkhissāma), 2. dakkhissatha M. II. 60°. Similarly Sg. 1. sakkhissāmi 'I shall be able to' JāCo. I. 2907, 2. sakkhissasi Vin. III. 1933, JāCo. I. 22231, 3. sakkhissati DhCo. III. 1764, Pl.1. sakkhissāma JāCo, II.1295, 2. sakkhissatha DhCo. III. 807, 3. sakkhissanti JāCo. I. 25525,—in all of which the future-suffix has been added to sakkh- which itself is the future-stem of root śak2.

§ 153. The Type I b includes 1. a number of futures of roots in r. A form *karṣyāmi is evidently presupposed by kassaṃ Th1. 381, kassāmi Th1. 1138 (in the same verse karissāmi!) from root kar 'to do'. Instead of kassaṃ there is also kāsaṃ Jā. IV. 28713, and this leads easily over to the forms Sg. 1. kāhāmi Th1. 103. Jā. II. 2571, III. 4715, Vv. 52. 17, 2. kāhasi Dh. 154, Th1. 1134, II. 57; 3. kāhati Jā. II. 44314 and kāhiti Jā. VI. 4972, Pl. 1. kāhāma Vv. 84. 37, 8.

Does the verb-form parecchati 'throws, gives, bestows' Sn. 463 fl., 490 fl., Th2. 272, S. J. 18²⁶⁻²⁷ (verse), Jā. III. 12¹⁻³, 172⁷, VI. 502¹² contain a future-stem like this?

kāhanti Jā. VI. 5108 and kāhinti1 Th2. 509. From root har with vi 'to sojourn, live' we have vihassam Th1. 1091 ff. = *viharsyāmi, 3. vihassati S. I. 1571 (verse). Then with h Sg. 2. vihāhisi Dh. 379, and also the simplex Sg. 3. hāhiti Jā. VI. 5006. Instead of a we have i in the root-syllable in Sg. 1. vihissāmi Th2. 181, 360. Pl. 1. vihissāma Th2. 121; also Sg. 1. āhissam 'I shall bring in' Jā. VI. 5237 (Comm. āharissāmi); and further c in vihcssati2 7h1. 257. All these forms belong exclusively to the Gatha-language.-2. Finally there are still to mention some difficult futural forms of the root han 'to strike. kill', occurring in the Gatha-language and the canonical prose: Sg. 1. patihankhāmi S. IV. 10426 (= *hanksyāmi?); hanchati Jā, IV. 102° (Comm. hanissati); the Opt. hanchema Ja. II. 41811 (Comm. hanissāma) proves that the futural meaning of the stem hanchhad become blurred. Finally I have to mention the Sg. 1. āhanhi 'I shall strike' Vin. 1. 826 (verse), D. II. 726119, which however may have to be emended into āhanham3.

§ 154. Futures of Type II likewise contain many historical forms. 1. Examples: Sg. 1. pakkamissam Th2. 294 = prakramisyāmi, asissāmi Sn. 970 = ašisyāmi, khādissāmi JāCo. III. 5219 = khādisyāmi; 2. karissasi JāCo. III. 5425 = karisyasi, harissasi JāCo. VI. 36426 = harisyasi; 3. jayissati (besides jessati) Jā. II. 25215 = jayisyati (besides jesyati); nayissati Vin. I. 4317 (verse) = nayisyati (besides nesyati), hanissati JāCo. IV. 10225 = hanisyati; Pl. 1. yācissāma Vin. II. 19636 = yācisyāmas, vasissāma Mhvs. 14. 26=vasisyāmas (besides vatsyāmas): 2. labhissatha JāCo. III. 12624 = labhisyatha (besides lapsyatha). pabbajissatha Mhvs. 5. 199=pravrajişyatha; 3. gamissanti Sn. 445= gamisyanti, samanumodissanti M. I. 398° = modisyante, etc.-2. forms bhavissāmi, etc. = bhavisyāmi, etc. are historical, and they are the usual forms in the canonical and post-canonical prose. beside them there are in the Gāthā-language (and artificial poetry). and archaistically also in the canonical prose, the contracted forms (§ 27. 5) such as Sg. 1. hcssam Th1. 1100, Ja. III. 2243 and hcssami Th2. 460, 3. hessati Ja. III. 27916, Med. hessate Mhvs. 25. 97, Pl. 2.

The forms of the root har have thus coincided with those of the root hā. Cf. § 150, 151.

³ Franke, D. 180, foot-note 7, adopts for the passage D. II. 726'19 the very plausible reading āhaāh' ime Vajjā (=āhaāhaṃ ime) instead of āhaāhi 'me as in the text-edition; but the form āhaāhi occurs also in Vin. I. 826: āhaāhi amatadudrabhim. The text here should then have to be emended into āhaāh' amata-, hessatha S. IV. 179²⁴. Formally these forms have coincided with those of the e-stems of Type I.—3. According to Type II are derived future forms also from the uncontracted stems of Cl. X and Causatives and Denominatives discussed in § 187, and they correspond to the analogous forms in Skr. Thus bandhayissāmi 'I shall have bound' Mhvs. 24. 6=bandhayiṣyāmi; pālayissāmi 'I shall protect' JāCo. IV. 129¹⁵ = pālayiṣyāmi.—4. Also Desideratives (§ 184) and Intensives (§ 185) form their future after Type II: Sg. 1. tilikkhissam Dh. 320, vīmamsissāmi JāCo. I. 390¹⁷, cankamissāmi Th1. 540; Pl. 1. sussūsissāma S. II. 267²¹, 3. sussūsissanti S. II. 267⁶.

§ 155. The Type II has extended its sphere to an unusual extent within Pali1. Practically from every pres. stem a future of this Type may be derived. Examples from thematic conjugation: 1. Cl. I. With reference to § 132: Sg. 1. pivissāmi Th1. 313, JāCo. IV. 2°, tițthissāmi M. III. 12913, vuțthahissāmi Mhvs. 36, 76; 2, pivissasi JāCo. VI. 86418, phusissam Th1. 386; Pl. 1. pucchissama Sn. p. 112, etc. The form panudahissāmi Th1. 27, 233 is remarkable. With reference to § 185: Pl. 3. acchissanti Vin. II. 763. Sg. 1. muncissami2 JaCo. I. 4341'19; Pl. 3. sincissanti Vin. II. 1217 etc. 3. Cl. IV. With reference to § 136, 1: Sg. 1. naccissāmi JāCo. I. 29224; 2. mannissasi Vin. I. 5927; B. ijjhissati JāCo. II. 2138 etc. With reference to § 136. 4: Sg. 1. vihaññissam

It is significant that in the commentaries future forms of Type I are frequently explained by those of Type II. Thus, of the example given in § 150, 151, 152, hāhisi is explained by jahissasi, jessasi by jinissasi, bhokkham by bhuñjissāmi, vacchati by vasissati. For all the new formations of Type II there are parallels in Pkr.; Pischel, § 520 ff.

In both cases in passive sense; it therefore should perhaps be read mucciosams. In that case also pamunes 'may be be released' Jā. III. 23619, 2372 should be emended to pemuces.

Conditional.

§ 157. As in Skr., the Conditional is formally a Preterite to the Future. It is used as Irrealis of the present and the past. Excepting in compounds, the augment seems to be obligatory. The flexion is as in Skr., only the 3. Pl. derives its ending -amsu from the Aorist (§ 159. III). Examples are: Sg. 1. abhavissam JāCo. I. $470^{15} = abhavisyam$; adassam JāCo. III. $30^6 = ad\bar{a}syam$; apāpessam (from Causative of $\bar{a}p + pra^1$) JāCo. II. 11^{18} ; olokessam 'I would watch' or 'I would have watched' JaCo. I. 47015, -Sg. 2. abhavissa JaCo. II. 1118, III. 306 =abhavisyas; āpajjissa DhCo. III. 13717.—Sg.3. abhavissa 'would be' or 'would have been' Vin. I. 1338, D.II. 576, M.III. 16311, Ud. 8024, JaCo. II. 11216 (should it be read nābhavissa?), V. 2641 = abhavisyat; anassissa1 'he would have died' JaCo, II. 11217; adassa JaCo. V. 2641; uppajjissa DhCo. III. 13719, payojayissa. pabbajissa, pāpuņissa, patitthahissa DhCo. III. 13116, akarissa DhCo. I. 14719, asakkhissa DhCo. I. 14720 (should it be read nāsakkhissa?), III. 323, alabhissa DhCo. III. 41 .-1. alabhissāma and āgamissāma JāCo. III. 351011. Pl. 3. abhavissanisu Vin.I. 1331.—Here should be mentioned a series of medial forms of the Conditional in the Sg. 3. occurring in D. II. 633 ff.: okkamissatha 'would have climbed down', samucchissatha2 'would have originated', nibbattissatha (root vart) 'would have come about', āpajjissatha 'would have been a tained', alabhissatha 'would have attained.' The suffix is -tha as against Skr. -ta as in Pres. Opt. (§ 129) and Aor. (§ 159. II).

4. Aorist.

§ 158. The Aorist of Pali is derived from old Imperfects and Aorists. Apart from the endings, it is characterised by the augment, which is however frequently left out. Wackernagel³ has succeeded in formulating definite rules according to which the augment is retained or dropped: 1. The augment is retained by monosyllabic verbal forms: adam 'I gave', agā 'he went'. Also acc-agā, samajjhagam (besides adhi-gam Th2. 122).-2. The augment is always retained, also in the later language, by dissyllabic forms derived from the Imperfect, the simple Aorist or the s-Aorist agamā 'he went', adāsi 'he gave', akāsi 'he did', avocum 'they spoke'. Also ajjh-agamā, pacc-assosi, pāyāsi.—3. In the two oldest periods of the language the use of the augment is arbitrary in the dissyllabic forms derived from the -is-Aor.: alabhim 'I received' beside labhi 'he received.' Omission of the augment is the rule in the post-canonical prose: khādi 'he ate,' bhindi 'he broke'.-4. The augment is always retained by the trisyllabic forms (a) of the extended type (§ 165)

¹ It should be read as does Speyer, Ved. u. Skr.-Syntax, p. 60, foot-note 2: nassissā 'ti (more properly: yev' anassissā 'ti). Cf. also D. Andersen, PR. p. 119.

² E. Windisch, Buddha's Geburt, p. 39, foot-note, hesitatingly derives the form from Skr. sam-mūrch. In that case we would have to read sammucchissatha N t so R. O. Franke, WZKM. 8. 327.

Wortumfang und Wortform, GN. 1906, p. 154 ff. It was held hitherto that the use of the augment was quite arbitrary as laid down by Kacc. Cf. e.g. V. Henry, Précis de Gramm. Pâlie, p. 88, § 220.

such as agamāsi 'he went,' addasāsiņ 'I saw' or (b) derived from thematic Imperfects and Aorists, such as abhāsatha 'he spoke'.—5. For the rest, forms of three or more syllables began early to drop the augment, at first quite at random, but regularly later in the post-canonical prose. Thus in the Gāthā-language we have still apucchiņsu 'they asked' beside pucchiņsu; but the forms which later predominate and finally usurp the field are descsiņ 'I taught', khādimha 'we ate', kathayiṃsu 'they related.'

§ 159. The different types of Aorist¹ may be classified according to origin.

I. Type, Example: root dā 'to give.'

Sg. Pl.

1. adam Jā. III. 411¹⁰ (adamha) Jā. II. 71⁴, Vv. 68. 4, 5

2. ado (adā) Jā. IV. 24014, V. 16112 (adattha) JāCo. II. 16621

3. adā Sn. 303, Mhvs. 7. 70. adū, adum.

This Type is derived from the root-aorist, Skr. $ad\bar{a}m$, $ad\bar{a}s$, $ad\bar{a}t$... adus. The forms of the Pl. 1. and 2. are however taken from Type III (as against Skr. $ad\bar{a}ma$, $ad\bar{a}ta$).

II. Type. Example: root gam 'to go.'

Sg. Pl.

agamam Th1. 258
 agamāma (agamamha Sn. 349)
 agamā Sn. 834
 agamatha (agamattha)

3. agamā Sn. 408, Mhvs. 5. 42 agamuṃ Sn. 290, Mhvs. 4.36.

This Type is based on the a-Aor. (Skr. asicam, asicas, asicat... asican) or the thematic Imperfect (asiñcam etc.). The endings -amha-attha are taken from Type III. But there occur also the endings -āma, -atha: akarāma 'we did', addasāma 'we saw', addasatha 'you saw.' Cf. § 162. 1, 3—There are also medial forms of this Type: Sg. 3.-tha: abhāsatha 'he spoke' Sn. 20, vindatha 'he found' Th2. 420; Pl. 1. -mhase: akaramhase Jā. III. 2618; Pl. 3.-re, -rum: abajjhare 'they were bound' Jā. I. 4281, amañārarum 'they thought' Jā. III. 4882. The suffix -tha again shows (cf. § 129, 157) the aspirate instead of the tenuis. For -amhase (Type III) cf. § 126; -re and -rum correspond to the Ved. endings -re and -ram or -ram².

This Type is derived from Skr. s-Aor.: aśrauṣam, akārṣam; aśrauṣīs, akārṣīs; aśrauṣīt, akārṣīt; aśrauṣma, akārṣma; aśrauṣṭa, akārṣṭa; aśrauṣus, akārṣus. The u in assumha, assuttha is to be explained according to § 15; the suffix -mha according to § 50.4 or 58.2. The ending -ttha=-ṣṭa, instead of the expected -ṭṭha, is remarkable.—The medial forms are: Sg. 3. -tha: udapattha 'flew up' (root pat) Jā. V. 255¹⁴ (conjecture by Fausböll), pāpattha 'he fell' Jā. V. 255²⁰; a new formation based on this pāpattha is to be found in the Sg. 1. pāpattham 'I fell' Jā. VI. 16²⁹; mā laddhā 'she should not receive' Jā. III. 138²¹=Skr. alabdha, but also alattha¹ 'he received' Jā. IV. 310³, M. II. 49³, S. IV. 302°, Sn. p. 107. The s has been dropped in all these forms as in Skr.

This Type is derived from Skr. is-Aorist abodhisam, abodhis, abodhis, abodhisma, abodhista, abodhisus. The form agamim is derived from the Vedic 'contracted' forms such as akramim, avadhim². Instead of -isam we find also -issam in Sg. 1 exactly as also in Pkr. (Pischel, § 516), e.g. adhigacchissam Sn. 446; nandissam S. I. 176¹² (verse). Besides -isum, -imsu there is also -um in Pl. 8., taken from Type II. Also Imperfects

Also āsi 'he was' Sn. 286, Mhvs. 2. $1 = \bar{a}s\bar{i}t$ (its Sg. 1. āsim, āsi Th1. 157, Pv. 1. 2. 2, Cp. 3. 7. 1, but Pl. 1. āsum Th2. 224; Pl. 3. āsum Sn. 284, Mhvs. 1. 32).—Medial forms: Sg. 2. -ittho = - isthas: ma patisevittho 'do not expose yourself (to poison)!' Jā. IV. 2229, pucchittho 'you asked' D. II. amaññitho Th1, 280, M. III. 2476 (cf. Ja. II. 2917), vihaññitho Thl. 385; Sg. 3. -tttha = -ista: pucchittha Mhvs. 17. 33; $m\bar{a}$ jiyittha 'may it not disappear' Ja. I. 4682; sandittha 'flowed' (root syand) D. II. 12933; mā vo āvuso evam ruccittha 'may it not please you to do so!' DhCo. I. 1323. From Passive stems: sūyittha 'was heard' DhCo. I. 163; adissittha 'showed himself' Th1 170; diyittha 'was given' S. I. 589. Here again we find dentals in the place of expected cerebrals1.

Type I.

§ 160. The forms of Type I belong for by far the most part to the Gatha-language, individual forms occurring also in the canonical and post-canonical prose. Mostly roots in vowels take these for ns. Thus 1, root gā 'to go': Sg. 1, ajjhagam Th1, 405, Th2, 67, adhigam Th2. 122, samajjhagam S. I. 10310; 2, ajjhagā Vv. 34. 7; 3, agā Sn. 538, ajjhagā D. I. 2233; Pl. 3. ajjhagū Jā. 1. 2567, Sn. 330, upaccagum A. I. 142²¹ (verse). To these belongs also the Pl. 1. agamhā Sn. 597. though formally of Type III.—2. Root sthā 'to stand': Sg. 3. atthā Sn. $429 = asth\bar{a}t$. 3. Root $bh\bar{u}$ 'to be': Sg. 1. ahum Jā. III. 411^5 , Thi. 316 as against Skr abhāvam on the analogy of adam; 2. aht Th2. 57, 190, PvCo. 11^{10} (verse) = $abh\bar{u}s$; 3. $ah\bar{u}$ Dh. 228, Sn. 139, M. I. 487° , ahud-eva S. IV. $350^{12} = abh\bar{u}t$; Pl. 3. ah \bar{u} , ahum D. II. 256° (verse), Mhvs. 2. 25 as against Skr. abhūvan on the analogy of adum. As for Pl. 1, there is ahum Th2, 225. The form ahumha belongs to § 163. 3.—4. The form $ak\bar{a}$ 'did' Jā. V. 292 (Comm. $ak\bar{a}si$) = Ved. ákar is also historical On the analogy of adā: adam there was formed a Sg 1. akam Ja. V. 1601 (Comm. akarim) to akā. Similarly assum 'I heard' Ja. III. 5421, assu 'you heard' Ja. III. 54110 (Comm. assosim, assosi) presuppose a Sg. 3 *assu=Ved. asrot. Historical are moreover Sg. 3. addā 'he saw' Th1. 1244 = Ved, adrāk and Pl. 3. āgu

(root $g\bar{a} + \bar{a}$) D. II. $258^{3} = \bar{a}guh$ (new formation Sg. 3. $\bar{a}ga$ D. II. 258^{20} on the analogy of $\bar{a}ha$: $\bar{a}hu$), and perhaps $p\bar{a}v\bar{a}$ Sn. 782, 888 from root vac + pra.

Type II.

§ 161. What has been said at the beginning of the preceding paragraph applies also to the use of Type II in the different periods of the language. Examples: (a) Forms of Imperfect origin are Sg. 1. kasam 'I ploughed', pavapam 'I sowed' Th2, 112, papatam 'I fell' Jā. V. 7012; amaññam 'I thought' Jā. V. 2156, adadam 'I gave' Vv. 34. 8; Sg. 2. with primary ending apucchasi 'you asked' Sn. 1050; Sg. 3. papatā Vin. III. 1726, asarā 'went' Jā. VI. 1997, amarā 'died' (Ved. marati, cf. § 137) Jā.III. 38918; Pl.2. amaññatha 'you meant' Th2 143. Moreover Sg. 3 Med. ajāyatha 'originated' Dpvs. 5. 40, samapajjatha 'became' Ja. V. 7134, upapajjatha 'originated' Th1. 30, abhassatha 'fell down' Sn. 449, samakampatha 'shook' Jā. VI. 57012 etc. (b) The forms in Sg. 2. with the ending -o are Aoristforms: mā pamādo 'do not tire!' Dh. 371, Th1. 119, S. IV. 26320, 26413; āsado 'you came in, reached' Jā. I. 4146, Vin II. 19528 (verse); Sg. 3. abhida 'broke to pieces' Ja. III. 2917, D. II, 1075 (verse) or abbhidā Jā. I. 24729 = abhidat, acchidă 'tore asunder' Sn. 357, āsadā Th1. 774; Pl. 3. acchidum S. I. 3514. 2. A remarkable innovation1 has taken its origin from the med al forms alattha, papattha of Type III (§ 159. III). As these forms came to be regarded as analogous to abhida there were formed after them also the Sg. 1. alattham Vv. 81. 22. Th1. 747, D. II. 2686, JaCo. I. 14121, DhCo. I. 5124, 2. alattha S. I. 11414; Pl. 1. alatthamha M. II. 631, 3. alatthum D. II. 27422 (verse). Beside them there is also alathanisu S. I. 4834 after Type III. Precisely in the same way, from asayittha of Type IV (§ 169. 1), there has been evolved a Sg. 1. asayitham A. I. 13629, and alabhittham Th1. 217 from an *alabhittha.

§ 162. 1. The Aorist of Type II of the root kar 'to do' is derived from the Ved. Impf. åkaram etc.: Sg. 1. akaram Jā. III. 206²¹, V. 70¹², 2. akarā Jā. III. 135¹⁷, V. 69¹³, 3. akarā Jā. II. 230¹⁵; Pl. 1. akarāma M. II. 214²⁷ and akaramha M. II. 214²⁸, 3. akarum D. II. 256⁴ (verse), Mhvs. 3. 33.—2. The following forms of the root bhū 'to become' are derived from an Impf. of Ci.VI (*huvati, cf. § 131. 2 with f.-n. 2. p. 168): Sg. 1. ahuvā S. I. 36² (verse), 2. ahuvā S. I. 36³ (verse), 3. ahuvā Jā. II. 106¹, III. 131¹¹, Vv. 81. 24; Pl. 1.

The root dars 'to see' forms an Aorist from the base drus; Sg 1. addasam Sn. 837, Th2. 48, Jā. III. 3808, M. I. 796, JāCo. III. 38025 and, with primary ending, addasāmi¹ Th1. 1253, Th2. 135, S. 1. 168¹⁸, Vy. 50. 12, 2, addasă S. I. 11510, 3, addasă Vin. II, 1927, JāCo, I. 22220: Pl. 1. addasāma Sn. 31, Jā. II. 35517, S. I. 19613 (verse) JāCo. 11I. 3042, 2. addasatha M. II. 10832, JaCo. III. 3042 and (for metrical reasons) addasātha Jā. V. 5523, 3. addasum D. II. 2567 (verse).— 4. The Aor, of the root vac shows two series of forms. One series is derived from a thematic Impf. *avacam, the other form the Aor. avocam: Sg. 1, avacam JaCo. III. 28019, DhCo. III. 19417 and avocam Th2, 124, Vv. 79, 7, S. I. 1023, DhCo. III. 28521, 2. avaca Th2, 415 and (a)voca Dh. 133; 3. avaca JāCo.I. 29421 and avoca Th2. 494. S. I. 1504, JaCo. II. 1608; Pl. 1. avacumha and avocumhă M. II. 9128, III. 158, 2. avacuttha Vin. II. 29710, DbCo. I. 7324 and avocuttha. 3. avacum Jā. V. 2604'10 and avocum M. II. 14720.

Type III.

§ 163. A considerable number of historical forms of this Type were retained in all the periods of the language. 1. Acrists of roots in ā. Thus from jāā 'to know' (ajāāsīt) Sg. 1. abbhañāāsim Vin. III. 523, 3. annāsi Sn. 540, Vin. I. 1813, JāCo, VI. 36610; Pl. 3. abbhaññāsum Sn. IV. 1130 or abbhaññamsu D. II. 15031 or (under the influence of Type IV) annimsu JaCo. III. 30317. Also Sg. 3. pāyāsi D. II. 738, JāCo. 1. 2236, Pl. 3. abhiyamsu S. I. 21610 and pāyimsu D. II. 9624, DhCo. III. 25719, JūCo. I. 25411 from root yā 'to go' (ayāsīt); Sg. 3. pahāsi Sn. 1057 from root hā 'to leave' (ahāsīt). Similarly from the root dā 'to give': Sg. 1. adāsim JāCo. I. 167°, DbCo. I. 1910, 2. adāsi, 3. adāsi JāCo. I. 27917; Pl. 1. adamha Vv. 65. 4, Ja. II. 714 and (with transer to Type IV) adasimha Th2. 518, Jā. III. 12011, 2. adattha JāCo. II. 16621, 3. adamsu JāCo. I. 2229. From root sthā 'to stand': Sg. 1. aṭṭhāsiṃ Th2. 73, 3. aṭṭhāsi² Vin. II. 1952, JāCo. II. 1922; Pl. 3. atthamsu D. II. 842, JāCo. II. 9621 etc. From root pā 'to drink'; Pl. 3, apamsu (sic!) Ud. 7811. From root mā 'to measure': Pl. 3. pāmiņsu Th1. 469.—2. Aorists of roots in t. From root nī 'to lead' (anaiṣīt): Sg. 3. nesi JāCo. V. 28123, Pl. 3. ānesum JāCo. IV. 13722, Mhvs. 5. 24 etc. From root ji 'to' conquer'

(ajaişīt): Sg. 3. ajesi Vin. II. 112. From root hi 'to send' (ahaişīt): Sg. 3. pāhesi Th1. 564, Vin. I. 9235. JāCo. II. 9012, Pl. 3. pāhesum Mhvs. 25. 104. Forms of 1. and 2. Pl. are not attested. On Aor. IV. of uncontracted stem, see § 167. 1 -3. Acrists of roots in t. Cf. śru § 159. III. From root dhū 'to shake' (adhauşīt): Sg. 3. adhosi Sn. 787. After this form was constructed also that Aor. of root bhū to be, to become' which became the predominant one in course of the development of the language: Sg. 1. ahosim Th1. 620, JāCo. I. 10610, 2. ahosi JāCo. I. 1079; 3. ahosi Sn. 835 Vin. I. 237, JāCo. I. 2798, anubhosi JāCo. III. 11224, adhibhosi S. IV. 18532; Pl. 1. ahumha Ja. I. 36210, DhCo. I. 570, 3. ahesum Vv. 74. 4, D. II. 57, JaCo. I. 14919. The form Pl. 3, adhibhamsu S. IV. 18531 as compared with the Sg. adhibhosi is to be explained by the analogy of adamsu.—4. Aorists of roots in r. Cf. kar § 159. III². From root har 'to teke away' (ahārṣit): Sg. 1. pahāsim Th2, 99, vihāsim Th1. 513, Ud. 428, Vin. III. 48, 3. ahāsı Dh. 3. pahasi Jā. III. 8512, Vv. 298, Pl. 3. ahamsu Jā. V. 2006, also vihimsu Th1. 925.

§ 164. Historical forms are preserved also by roots in mutes and sibilants Thus Sg. 3. acchecchis 'cut off' Sn. 355, Th1. 1275, M. I. 124, A. I. 134 = acchaitsīt fr. m root chid. In the same way, (a)sakkhi 'was able to' D I. 9610, Vin. I. 106, Milp. 52 may be derived from an asākṣīt from root salt (whence Sg. 1. (a)sakkhim Th1. 88, Mhvs. 32. 43, Sg. 2. asakkhi DhCo. I. 1615); akkocchi 'howled' Dh. 3, Jā. III. 2126 from an *akraukṣit from root kruś; pāvckkhi 'entered' Jā. III. 4602 from a *pra-avaikṣīt from root viś. Old Aorist forms of the root darś 'to see' (adrākṣam, -kṣīs, -kṣīt, -kṣus) are quite numerous: Sg. 1 (ad)dakkhim Sn. 938, Th1. 510, Th2. 147, Vv. 83. 14; 2. addakkhi Jū. III. 18925, 3. addakkhi Sn. 208, Th1. 986, S. I. 1173 (verse), Vin. II. 19535; Pl. 3. addakkhum D. II. 2-66 (verse). The form addā 'saw' Th1. 986, 1244 is also very old. It is the Ved. adrāk. On the analogy of adā: adam there was formed also here a Sg. 1. addam Jā. III. 3806 (Comm. addasam).

§ 165. 1. Double-forms such as $ak\bar{a}$: $ak\bar{a}si$, $ad\bar{a}$: $ad\bar{a}si$ have given rise to remarkable new formations which are based on Type II, but are brought about by the transfer of forms of this type to the mode of flexion characteristic of Type IIIs. Thus from addasā he saw' (§ 162. 3) there was tormed an addasāsi Th2. 309, Jä. V. 15816 (Comm. addasa), and also Sg. 1. addasāsim Th1. 287, Jā. II. 25622. Pl. 3. addasāsum M. II. 987, Vin. II. 19024 and addasamsu M. I. 795, Vin. I. 834. Similarly agamāsi 'went' Th1. 490, JāCo. I. 11812, II. 1603, Mhvs. 4. 44 besides agamā; Pl. 3. agamamsu Vv. 80. 6, JāCo. I. 1431, IV. 35, DhCo.I. 642. In the same way Sg. 1. ahuvāsi(m) Vv. 82. 6 beside ahuvā (§ 162. 2); Sg. 2. avacāsi 'you spoke' Vv. 35. 7, 53. 9 and Sg. 3. avacāsi Jā. VI. 52514 beside avacā; Sg. 1. pivāsim 'I drank' Ud. 4214; Sg. 3. viramāsi 'ceası d' Th2. 397 etc.-2. The Type III has been greatly extended due to the fact that e-stems of various origins form their Aorists on the analogy of ajesi, anesi (§ 163. 2) just as the \bar{a} - and ostems form their Aorists after $ak\bar{a}si$, assosi. A few examples will suffice: Sg. 1. sesim 'I lay' Ja. V. 7014 (from seti § 140. 4), vadcsim 'I spoke' DhCo. III. 17416 (§ 139. 2), kathesim 'I related' JaCo. III. 36917 (§ 139. 1), cintesi(m) 'I thought' Jā. VI. 57019, Cp. 1.8. 1, kāresim 'I had...made' JāCo. III. 1121; Sg. 2. vadesi DhCo. III. 17321, paccesi M. I. 44529 (from eti § 140. 3); Sg. 3. pūjesi 'he worshipped' JāCo. I. 422⁵¹, kathesi Vin. I. 15³⁶, JāCo. II. 154', pidhesi 'covered' Mhvs. 24, 52 (stem dhe, § 142, 2, from root dhā with pi), aggahesi 'seized' JāCo. I. 5225, kāresi, kārāpesi JāCo. I. 634, 14311 etc., samgāmesi (§ 187. 1) JāCo. V. 41717; Pl. 3. samesum 'they assembled' JaCo. II. 3016, pūjcsum Dpvs. 16. 31, kathesum JāCo. II. 25616, aggahcsum Sn. 847, kārcsum JāCo. III. 110 etc. Forms of 1. and 2. Pl. are not attested. On Aor. IV. of uncontracted stems see § 168.4.

Type IV.

§ 166. The Aorists of Type IV occur most frequently in canonical and non-canonical prose. Quite a number of forms may be regarded as historical. Thus from root khād 'to eat': Sg. 3. khādi Mhvs. 6. 21=akhādīt; from grah 'to seize': Sg. 1. aggahin Th1. 97 = Ved. agrabhīm, 3. aggahī Jā. V. 914=agrabhīt.—Similarly from root kram 'to stride' (ākramiṣam, ākramīt), with facultative lengthening of the radical vowel as is found also in Skr. in the case of various roots with a medial a: Sg. 1. pakkāmim Th1. 34, 3. pakkāmi Vin. I. 816, JāCo. II. 11025 and pakkami Mhvs. 19. 56; Pl. 1. upasamkamimha S. IV. 973, 3. pakkāmum Sn. 1010 and pakkamimsu JāCo. I. 15015.—From root tras 'to fear': Sg. 2. mā vitthāsi Vin. I. 9424. Various compounds of the root pad: Sg. 1. udapādim 'I was born' D. I. 1822, 3. udapādi Jā. III. 295, D. I. 28516; Pl. 3. āpādu 'fell into...'

D. II. 273^{20} (verse).—Of the roots in ar the forms in \bar{a} may be regarded as historical. Thus from root car 'to live, do, carry on' (Skr. acārişam): Sg. 1. (a)cāri(m) Th1. 423, Th2. 79, 3. acāri Dh. 826, Sn. 354; Pl. 3. acārisum Sn. 284. From root tar 'to cross': Sg. 3. atāri Sn. 355 (= Ved. átārīt); Pl. 3. atāru(m) Sn. 1045. There are besides forms with a, which probably have to be judged according to § 167: Sg. 1. (a)carim Th2. 107, Jú. V. 1016, 3. acari Sn. 344 and atarī Jā. III. 45316, otari JāCo. II 15421; Pl. 1. vicarimha Th2. 305, 3. acarimsu So. 809, vicarimsu JaCo. II. 9627 and atarimsu1 Sn. 1046. Similarly from root kar: Sg. 1. karim JaCo. III. 39829, 2. kari Th2. 432, JāCo. II. 2215, III. 27613, 3. akarī D. II. 15713 (verse); Pl. 2. karittha JāCo. I. 2635, 49223, DhCo. I. 6421, 3. karimsu JāCo. II. 3528.—I give here further a number of forms a part of which are historical: Sg. 1. (a)labhim 'I attained' Th1. 218, Th2. 78, udikkhisam 'I noticed' Th1. 268, paccavekkhim 'I observed' Th1. 395 (cf. Skr. aiksista), nandissam 'I was pleased' S. I. 17612 (Skr. anandit); adassim 'I saw' Cp. 1. 2. 2, samdhāvissam 'I ran through' Th1. 78, asevissam 'I visited' Jā. IV. 1784 (Skr. asevista); Sg. 2. mā vadi 'do not say!' JāCo. II. 13311; Sg. 3. vedi 'he knew' Dh. 419, 423 (=avedīt), vandi 'he praised' Sn. 252, vast 'he lived' Sn. 977, JāCo. II. 15827, pabbaji 'he left the life of the laity' D. II. 2930 (but Skr. avrājīt), pāvassi 'poured ram' Sn. 30 (Skr. avarsīt); Pl. 1. paţikkosimha 'we disputed' M. I. 95°, labhimhā D. II. 1471°, āvasimhā Vv. 65. 4; Pl. 3. khādimsu 'they ate' JāCo. II. 12923, avattimsu 'they existed' Sn. 298, vaddhimsu 'they grew' (Skr. avardhista) JāCo. II. 10517, patikkosimsu M. I. 8419 etc.—With the exception of Passives, Causatives and Denominatives (§ 168. 3, 4), the secondary stem-the Desideratives (§ 184) and the Intensives (§ 185)—form their Aorist after Type IV: Sg. 1. abhisimsim Vv. 81. 18, cankamin Th1. 272; Pl. 3. sussūsimsu Vin. I. 108.

§ 167. The Type IV became very productive, and that due to the fact that Aorists of this Type could be derived from all present-stems with the exception of those in long vowels (§ 163, 165. 2) in every period of the language². Examples: Thematic Conjugation:

(1) Cl. I. With reference to § 130. 4: parilehisam 'I licked' Vv.

¹ It is quite clear that the variation between acarimsu and acarimsu was partly determined by the word-rhythm.

Acrists of other Types are often replaced by those of Type IV in the Commen laries: thus akkocchi DhCo. I. 4820 by akkosi, ahansu in Jä. V. 2006 by aharimsu, akamha in Jä. III. 474 by karımha etc.

81. 21, VvCo, 31620. With reference to § 131: The roots in # form Aor. IV from the uncontracted stem (Aor. III from the contracted stem. § 165. 2): Sg. 3. ānayi Mhvs. 1. 30 (beside ānesi); Pl. 1. ānayimha JāCo. III. 12715, 3. ānayimsu JāCo. IV. 1383 (beside ānesum). Also from root bhū: Pl. 3. bhavimsu DhCo. IV. 155 (Skr. abhāvisus) beside the (possibly contracted) form ahesum. With reference to § 132: Sg. 1. nisidim Th2. 44, patitthahim Cp. 8. 7. 3; 3. apivi Mhvs. 6. 21, nisīdi Vin. I. 18, utthahi JaCo. § 170. It remains still to discuss a few isolated forms which may be interpreted in different ways. Thus we have in Th2Co. 85²⁸ (verse from Apadāna) the form dakkhisam 'I saw'. As dakkhedrākṣ- is already itself a stem of Type III (cf. § 164), the transfer to the flexional mode of Type IV is effected by means of the ending isam. Probably the parallel forms in isam and im of Type IV have led to the new formation out of adakkhim. Similarly (a)šakkhissam 'I was able to' M. III. 179²⁸, A. I. 139^{1,28}, Pl. 1. sakkhimha D. II. 155², 3. sakkhimsu Mhvs. 8. 23 and sakkhisum Mhvs. 23. 11. Of course it may also be assumed that the future-stem of the roots darś and śak provided the basis to these new formations. Dukkhati and sakkhati were no longer felt to futures, but as presents (cf. § 136. 3), which now formed their Aorist after Type IV. An Aorist stem of Type III is however doubtless the basis of the form Wackernagel, GN. 1906. 357 considers it to be a Pl. 3. Prf. = Skr. jahus, which is, of course, formally possible.

adāsimhā 'we gave' Th2. 518 (Comm. 295¹⁷=adamhā), as well as of the form ahesumha 'we existed' M. I. 265¹⁻⁴. I am therefore inclined to consider all the forms referred to as 'double constructions' in which both the Types III and IV have crossed each other. This hypothesis seems to be more probable to me than the assumption that these are forms of the sis-Aorist of Skr. Also pamādassam 'I was unexerting' M III. 179²⁰, A. I. 139¹⁻²⁸ is probably nothing but an elaboration of "pamādam (Type II, § 161) after Type IV, which might have been facilitated by the form sakkhissam which immediately precedes it.

5. Perfect

§ 171. With the exception of a few petrified forms, the Perfect has been almost completely eliminated from the Pāli language. Forms like bubodha susoca¹ (but cf. also $jag\bar{a}ma$ Jā. 203^2) as they are found, for instance, in the artificial poetry, are merely learned reminiscences. To set forth a paradigm for the Perfect, as is done by the Grammarians, is therefore unn cessary. The last vestiges of the perfect are: $\bar{a}ha$ 'he has said' (= $\bar{a}ha$) Sn. 790, Vin. I. 40^{28} (verse) M. I. 14^{15} , JāCo. I. 121^3 and its Plural $\bar{a}hu$ (= $\bar{a}hus$) Th1. 188. Dh. 345, JāCo. I. 59^{31} , Mhvs. 1. 27, to which was added the new formation $\bar{a}hamsu$ (after adamsu) JāCo. I. 121^{12} , 222^{14} etc. Finally, we have also $vid\bar{u}$ or vidum 'they know' (=vidus) Sn. 758, Th1. 497, Mhvs. 23. 78. The Sg. corresponding to it is the form vedi (§ 166), which is very probably = Skr. $aved\bar{u}t$.

6. Periphrastic Constructions

172. Traces of the use of the periphrastic future, as in Skr., are present in Pāli. Thus āgantāro punabbhavam (the copula has to be supplied) Sn. 754. Cf. M. II. 13016. A periphrastic Optative is to be found in... iti ce, bhikkhave, pucchitāro assu 'if, you monks, would ask this' Sn. p. 135; cf. also bhavanti vattāro 'it will be said' M. I. 46914 and bhavanti upasamkamitāro 'they will come along' M. III. 1119. I mention here further tassa kumbhe patitāmi 'I will throw myself on his head' JāCo. III. 11324, where we have either to read patitā 'mhi or to accept analogical contamination by the flexion of the simple future (patissāmi).1

§ 173. A periphrastic Perfect arose out of the combination of the Preterital Participle with the copula2. In the third Person the copula atthi is always omitted, and hoti is often so. Examples are numerous in every period of the language.—1. For Intransitive verbs we have thus: Sg. 1. pabbajito 'mhi 'I have retired from worldly life' Th1. 72; otinno 'mhi 'I have dismounted' M. I. 1926; sītibhūto 'smi 'I have been forsaken' Th1. 79, fem. sītibhūt' amhi (=-tā 'mhi) Th2. 15; āgato 'mhi 'I have come' JāCo. II. 2013; Sg. 2. thito 'si 'you are standing' JaCo. III. 5812, fem. sītibhūtāsi Th2. 16, gatāsi 'you are gone' JāCo. II. 4168; Sg. 3. uppannam (hoti) 'is originated' M. I. 1305'10; nahāto 'has bathed' JāCo. I. 18429. Pl. 1. vutth' amha (=vutthā amha) 'we have lived' Jāc'o. IV. 24311, sītibhūta' amha (fem.) Th2. 65, āgat' amhāse D. II. 27511 (verse); Pl. 2. āgat' attha JāCo. I. 2011, jāt' attha 'you have become' DhCo. III. 594; Pi. 3. agata Mhvs. 14. 12.-2. In the case of transitive verbs the Periphrastic Perfect has naturally a passive meaning: Sg. 1. fem. mutt' amhi (= muttā amhi) 'I am released' Tb2. 11; vañcit' ammi (sic!=vañcitā amhi fem.) 'l am betrayed' JāCo. I. 28726; nimantit' amha, nimantit' attha 'we, you, have been invited' Vin. III. 1037, 113. The agent is in Instr. or also in Gen.-Dat.3, as, for instance, in Mahākaccāno Satthu c'eva samvannito sambhāvito 'M. has been praised and honoured by the Master himself' M. III. 1942, S. IV. 9321, or patto me āsavakkhayo 'I have achieved the conquest of carnal weaknesses' Th1. 116. In the case of certain trans tive verbs the Periphrastic Perfect however sometimes assumes an active meaning: patto 'si nibbāṇaṃ 'you have attained Nirvāṇa' Dh. 134. Cf. Vv. 53. 20, Mhvs. 4. 65 etc. -3. Also other tenses and moods may be expressed by the combination of the Past Participle with the auxiliary verb. Thus we have a Pluperfect Potential in patto abhavissam 'I would have attained' JaCo. I. 47015, or an Exact Future in gato bhavissati 'he will be gone' JaCo. II. 2144 etc.

§ 174. Periphrastic constructions are further resorted to when continuous action, whether of the past or the present, has to be expressed. Formally they are combinations of Participle Present or Gerund with the Copula or Verbs with an indefinite meaning. We have thus 1. Part. Pres. with Copula; e.g. sayāno 'mhi 'I am lying' M. I. 571 (as also immediately preceding thito 'mhi, nisinno 'mhi). -2. Part. Pres. with titthati. Thus to annam-annam patvā sarīrāni lehentā atthamsu 'they were licking each others' body' JāCo. II. 8118,. in which however the original meaning 'they stood there licking.....' can still be distinctly felt. Likewise in DhCo. III. 932.—3. Gerund with titthati. Thus mulam-pi tesam palikhanna titthe 'attempt should be made to pull out even their roots' Sn. 968; mahantam phanam karitvā atthāsi 'he formed an enormous hood' Vin. I. 818-19; hatthilandam..... ekasmim gumbe laggitvā atthāsi 'remained hanging from a bush'. Cf. S. IV. 6015, Tb1. 98, M. I. 24721 etc.-Part. Pres. with carati or vicarati. Thus nannesam pihayam care 'one should not be jealous of others' Dh. 365; Bodhisatto ekam upamam upadhārento vicarati 'B, was busy thinking out a simile' JāCo. III. 10216, Cf. D. I. 2624, JāCo. III. 169; D. II. 2877 (verse), JāCo. I. 5035 etc.-5. Gerund with viharati. Thus pathamajihānam upsampajja viharati 'he has attained the first stage of the trance (and is continuing to be in that stage)' D.I. 373. Cf. M. I. 3326, Sn. p. 15 etc.-6. Gerund with vattati. Thus Gotamo ime dhamme anavasesam samādāya vattati 'G. is observing these rules to the letter' D. I 1645. Cf. D. I. 23014 etc.—7. Gerund with voharati. Thus so tadeva abhinivissa voharati 'he is holding on to it firmly' M. III. 210²⁸⁻²⁹. Cf. M. I. 41018.

Exclusively these forms are used in Pkr. to express past tense, excepting in AMag.; Fischel, § 519.

7. Passive

§ 175. The Passive may be formed in two ways: by means of ya, or by means of ya^2 . The Passive formed with ya formally coincides with the Present-class IV (§ 136.4). The ya is retained unchanged after vowels; it is assimilated to the final consonant of a root according to the respective phonetic laws. 1. Roots in vowels: Roots in \bar{a} : $n\bar{a}yati$ 'becomes known' Milp. 25^8 ; $pann\bar{a}yati$ D. I. 93^3 , JāCo. I. $485^5 = prajn\bar{a}yate$; the roots $d\bar{a}$ and $dh\bar{a}$ have $d\bar{a}yati$ (diyyati) Th2. 467, D. I. 144^{25} and $dh\bar{a}yati$ (dhiyyati) D. I. 73^{23} , M. I. 37^{23} , ¹ Many of these constructions are reminiscent of the similar usage in Singhalese. C: Geiger, LSprS. § 67. Thus, for instance, kim panal to imam dhanam gahetra va na gamimeu 'why have they not taken their money with them (in death)?' DhCo. III. 8715. Sgb. gen-enu, gena-yanu.

Both the constructions are known also in Pkr. Piechel, § 585.

Milp. 289' = diyate, dhiyate. In ādiyati (samād-, upād-) 'takes unto himself' (§ 136, 4) the passive has a medial meaning. Cf. Skr. adatte, as well as § 176. 1. The root ha has besides hiyati (hiyyati) 'decreases' Th1. 114 (nihiyati Th1. 555, pahiyyati S. IV. 313) = hiyate also hāyati Jā. I. 18120, DhCo. I. 1110 (verse), D. II. 20810, JāCo. I. 279°. From the root syā 'to congeal' we have siyati Th1. 312, Vv. 33521 = siyate. Roots in i. i. jiyati (jiyyati) 'is defeated' Dh. 179, Ja. II. 75²². M. III. 170⁸ = jīyate; parājīyati 'goes under' JāCo. I. 290²⁰; niyati (niyyati) 'is led' Sn. 580, M. 1. 3717 = niyate; parikkhiyanti 'they are being annihilated' Th2. 347=ksiyate. Root bhū: anubhuyyati 'is enjoyed' VvCo. 18129; root śru 'to hear': sūyati (suyyati) Jā. IV. 14120, VI. 52830, M. I. 3019, JaCo. 1, 721, Milp. 15212.-2. III. 18828, 1897, and also of root bhar: anubhīrati2 'is carried to' M. III. 12320.— 3. Roots in consonants: vuccati 'is spoken' Dh. 63, D I. 1682= ucyate; paccati 'is cooked' = pacyate; lujjati 'falls to pieces' (§ 44) =rujyate; kacchati 'is related' M. II. 12410 from dasseti = darsyate; addiyati 'is pained' Th2, 140 = ardyate; paññāpiyati 'is elucidated' DhsCo 11814 from paññāpeti (root iñā); vesiyati 'is introduced' M. 1. 8825 from veseti; sodhīyati 'is purified' Bu. 2. 40 from sodheti=śodhyate; posiyati 'is nourished' Jā. III. 2897, JaCo. I. 49212 from poseti. Similarly sariyati 'is reminded'. māriyati 'is killed', codiyati 'is impelled' etc. Also pūjiyati 'is worshipped' Mhvs. 17. 17 from pūjeti of Cl. X. Sometimes the causative meaning cannot be traced in such Passives. Thus vediyati 'is made to experience, feels' M. I. 5912, A. I. 1416 from vedeti (root vid); vādiyati is made to speak, speaks' Sn. 824, 832. The Passive has medial meaning in sādiyati 'enjoys for himself, takes pleasure in' Vm. II. 29420, III. 2918, D. I. 1664 from *sādeti (= Skr. svādayati) from root svad1.—2. Passives may be constructed with tya also from various Present-stems². Firstly, in the case of a number of verbs of which the Present-stem is the same as the root. Thus yāciyati 'is asked for' MLvs. 7. 14 from root yāc; pucchīyati 'is asked' DhCo. I. 1010 from the weak-grade root prch; samanugāhiyamāna 'interrogated regarding motives' A. V. 1565 from root gah etc. In the words quoted above the Pali form is distinguished from the Skr.-form only by the Svarabhaktı; ci. Skr. yācyate, prechyate, gāhyate. we have also hartyati 'is carried away' M. III. 14814 from harati, as against Skr. hriyate = hīrati; yunjiyatı ın samanuyunjiyamana 'exorted interrogated A. V. 1565 from yunjati (§ 144) -- 3. We have a "double-construction" in which a new Pass, in 1ya is derived from a Passive-st. formed according to § 175. 3 in parichijiyamāna 'clearly marked off' DhCo. I. 221, 3515 from chijjati=chidyate. S milar double-construction also in an-upalabbhiyamāna from upa labhati =upa-labhyate S. III. 1126, A. I. 17411.

§ 177. The flexion of the Passive is like that of a verb of Cl. IV. For the Present-system cf. § 186. 4, for the Future § 155. 3, for the Aorist³ § 168. 3. The Sg. 3. Aor. Pass. in i derived from the stronggrade form of the root has been retained in a few isolated forms:

¹ In Sn. 261 I am inclined to read abhinibbajjiyātha 'avoid!' from root varj, varjayati and explain the Pa-sive form in the same way. If we read abhinibbijjiyātha (root vid) then it would be a case of "double-construction."

² These forms are more frequent in Pkr. than in Pali. Cf. Pischel, § 586 ff.

³ An Aor. from the Passive-stein is found only in AMag. in Pkr, a Future however almost in all the dialects. Pischel, § 549.

abhedi 'was destroyed' and nirodhi Ud. 98^{12} (verse) = abhedi, arodhi; samatāni 'stretched itself out' D. III. $85^{11} = at\bar{a}ni$.

8. Causative

§ 178. Many Causatives in Pali are historical continuations of corresponding constructions in Skr. The formans aya may be cantracted to e1. 1. Unmodified roots: pāpeti 'makes attain' JāCo. I. 22314, II. 118 (root āp with pra) = prāpayati; samsandeti 'joins together' JūCo. I. $403^{19} = syandayati$. Similarly with roots with medial τ and l: dasseti 'shows' Th1. 86, Dh. 83, JāCo. III. 2764 = daršayati; kappeti 'performs' Sn. 295, JaCo. I. 14026 = kalpayati. Cf. chaddeti = chardayati; vatteti = vartayati; vaddheti = vardhayati; vissajjeti = visarjayati; hamseti=harsayati.-2. Roots with medial a before a single consonant: (a) the a is lengthened as in Skr. Thus vādeti 'makes speak, plays (musical instrument)' Sn. 1010, Ja. I. 29323, JāCo. II. $110^7 = v\bar{a}dayati$; $ubb\bar{a}hcti$ 'heaves up' D. II. $347^{17} = udv\bar{a}$. hoyati; hāscti 'makes laugh' Vin. III. 8421 = hāsayati. Similarly gāheti=grāhayati; tāpeti=tāpayati; pāteti= pātayati -pādeti= -padayati; -yādeti (§ 38. 3) = -yātayati; vāseti = vāsayati; sādeti = sādayati; sāmeti=šāmayati. For *labheti as against lambhayati we have labbheti 'lets attain' Vm. IV. 538 (verse)=JaCo. I. 19316, DhCo. III. 21310. From roots with final r: kāreti 'causes to do' Jā. III. 3947. JāCo. I. 10721 etc. = kārayati; pūrcti 'fills' Sn. 30, 305, Jā 'o. II. 119 etc. = pūrayati. Similarly tārcti = tārayati; -thārcti = -stārayati; dhārcti = dhārayati; mārcti = mārayati; vārcti 'holds back' and 'chooses' = vārayati; sāreti = sārayati; sāreti = smārayati. -(b) The a remains short as also in Skr. in gameti 'makes go' M. III. 16621, A.I. 1412 (āgameti 'waits' Vin. I. 786, JāCo. II. 2114) = gamayati. Similarly janeti=janayati, dameti=damayati; yameti Db. 37, 380= uamayati; bhameti Mhvs. 23. 80=bhrămayati.—(c) The quantity varies: jäleti 'kindles' (ž Milp. 472, ā JāCo. II. 441, 10427)=jvālayati; namayanti 'they bend' Dh. 80, Th1. 19, but paṇāmeti 'sends away, stretches out' Jā. II. 2812. Vin. I. 523, JI. 30313 etc., (in Skr. only namayati); nikkhāmeti 'lets go out' (ă JāCo. II. 11212, ā Vin. I. 18735, 1881'5, JaCo. III. 9910) = kramayati, nişkrāmayati.

§ 179. Causative stems 3. of roots with non-final i, u: chedeti 'causes to be cut off' Jā. III. 17917, Mhvs.21. 18=chedayati (root chid); deseti 'shows, teaches' Sn. 722, Vin. I. 54, D. I. 19521, JāCo. II. 1224= deśayatı (root diś); paveseti 'lets enter, introduces' Vin. III. 292, M. III. 16916, JaCo. I. 41923 = pravešayati; codeti 'pushes forward' Dh. 379, Vin. I. 11416, A. V. 790 = codayati (root cud); sodheti 'purifies' Db. 141, M. I. 39^{18} (verse), Vin. I. 47^{32} , JāCo. I. 291^{1} = śodhayati. Similarly peseti = presayati (root is with pra); ceteti Vv. 84. 40, D. I. 18418, Vin. III. 1938 = cetayati (root cit); vcdeti = vedayati; sineheti 'makes tender' Milp. 1726 = snehayati; poseti = posayati; āroceti = ārocayati; bhojeti = bhojayati; yojeti = yojayati; palobheti = pralobhayati; soceti = socayati. -4. From reots with final t, \vec{u}: bhayayate 'frightens' Ja. III. 9914 = bhāyayati (root bhī); cāveti 'drives forth' Sn. 442, Vin. I. 12032 = cyāvayati (root cyu); bhāveti 'brings about' Th1. 83, 166, Ja. II. 2225, D. II. 7914, JaCo. I. 4155 = bhāvayati; sāveti 'lets bear, proclaims' Ja. III. 43713, Vin. 1. 366, JaCo. I. 34414, Mhvs. 5. 238 = śrāvayati. Also nāyeti = nāyayati from root nī¹, as well as opilāpeti (§ 39. 6) = plāvayati and hāpeti (ibid.) = hāvayati from roots plu, hu.-5. Miscellaneous: In agreement with Skr. the root dus (dussati 'is defiled' Vin. I. 18817) forms the Causative dūseti 'defiles, in ult-' Jā. I. 45416, Vin. I. 8517, JāCo. I. 35828 = dūşayati; padoseti Sn. 659, S. IV. 70³² (verse), M. I. 186¹³ (in the parallel passage M. I. 129¹⁶ -dūs-); from han we have ghālcti 'causes to be killed 'Sn. 629, Dh. 129, S. I. 11619, JaCo. I. 2555, Mhvs. 6, 41 = ghātayati; from root prī: pineti 'pleases' D. I. 5115, Mhvs. 36. 77, Rasav. II. 9620 = prinayati. The Causative is based on the Pres.-stem in nacceti 'causes to dance' D. I. 13527, DhCo. III. 23114 from naccati (§ 136); laggeti 'hangs up' JāCo. III. 10714, DhCo. I. 1382 from laggati (ibid.).

§ 180. As in Skr., the roots in \bar{a} take the formantic element paya, pe. And as in Skr. some roots may shorten the \bar{a} , the vowel in some cases is of variable quantity—even in those roots which are never shortened in Skr.² 1. Examples: $d\bar{a}peti$ 'causes to give' Vin. I. 55^{37} , JāCo. IV. $188^1 = d\bar{a}payati$, but $sam\bar{a}d\bar{a}peti$ 'causes to take, exhorts'; $nidh\bar{a}peti$ 'causes to lay down' Mhvs. 20. 12, $niddh\bar{a}peti$ 'turns out' Jā. IV. $41^{26} = -dh\bar{a}payati$; $vijjh\bar{a}peti$ 'extinguishes' Vin. I. 31^{26} (root $k\bar{e}\bar{a}$ § 56. 2); $n\bar{a}peti$ 'causes to know, informs' Vin. I. 56^{10} , JāCo. II. 183^{26} , $pan\bar{n}\bar{a}peti$ 'explains, designates', $\bar{a}n\bar{a}peti$ 'orders' (§ 68. 2) etc. $=jn\bar{a}payati$; $m\bar{a}peti$ 'causes to measure', $nimm\bar{a}peti$ 'causes to build' $=m\bar{a}payati$; $y\bar{a}peti$ 'passes (time), lives on.....' Jā. VI. 532^{15} , D. I. 166^{12} , JāCo. III. $67^{21} = y\bar{a}payati$; $nibb\bar{a}peti$ 'extinguishes' D. II.

16417, JāCo. I. 47210 = nirvāpayati; thăpeti 'establishes' (a) Dh. 40, Th1. 38, D. I. 12033, JaCo. I. 22321, (a) Sn. 112, A. II. 4612 (verse) with numerous compounds = sthāpayati; nahāpeti 'bathes (trans.)' D I. 93°, II. 1925, JaCo. I. 16620 = snapayati; hapeti 'causes to leave, releases' (JPTS. 1906-7, p. 163) = hāpayati¹.—2. The course of this type was taken also by some other roots, as also in Skr. 'plants' Sn. 208, Vin. II. 222, JaCo. II. 375, aropeti 'causes to climb up', (v)oropeti 'robs'=ropayati (besides rohayati) from root ruh; ussapeti 'raises up' (§ 58. 3) = ucchrāpayati from root śri with ud; jāpeti 'causes to conquer' S. I. 11619, M. I. 2312'3 = jāpayati from root ji. Peculiar to Pali is the form anapeti2 'causes to be brought' Vin. I. 1167, JaCo. III. 39124, Mhvs. 9. 25 from root ni with a.-3. From root pā we have pāyeti 'gives to drink' Vin. II. 28930, D. II. 1924, JāCo. III. 981, VI. 33625 (Skr. pāyayati).

§ 181. Numerous new forms were constructed after the Causatives of roots in ā. The formantic elements āpaya, āpe serve 1. to form causatives out of all Present-stems, and 2. to form new doublecausatives out of older causatives. These new formations are not vet current in the Gatha-language, but are met with already in the canonical prose and are unusually numerous later. 1. Causatives from Present-stems3. With reference to § 130: vasāpeti JāCo. I. 29012, II. 2716; paccāpeti JūCo. II. 1524; khamūpeti 'excuses' Vin. I. 5413, JāCo. II. 2923, Mhvs. 4. 40; sundāpeti Milp. 1222; harāpeti JāCo. The form cheijapessāmi Milp. 9011, which is however doubtful, would seem to

With reference to § 146: ganhāpeti JāCo. I. 264⁶, II. 105¹⁵. With reference to § 147: suṇāpeti DhCo. I. 206¹³. From the Desid. tikicchati (§ 188) is derived tikicchāpehi 'cause to be cured!' DhCo. I. 25¹³.

§ 182. The number of 2. Double-causatives too is very large. With reference to § 178. 1, 2: kappāpeti D. I. 4922, II. 18927, JāCo. II. 9617, chaddapeti JaCo. I. 35715; vaddhapeti JaCo. I. 45528; vissajjāpeti JāCo. I. 29428, II. 316, Mhvs. 6. 43; gāhāpeti JāCo. I 16610, II. 3712; paţiyādāpeti D. II. 8814, 1275, JāCo, I. 4589; adhivāsāpeti JaCo. I. 25422; kārāpeti Vin. I. 8918; ohārāpeti 'causes to decrease' Vin. I. 2212; mārāpeti JūCo. II. 417912, Mhvs. 22. 19; pūrāpeti Mhvs. 35. 7. With reference to § 179: chedapeti D. I. 5222, Mhvs. 35. 42; sodhāpeti JāCo. I. 3053, II. 1927, Mhvs. 25. 5; yojāpeti D. II. 9518, 963; posāpeti JāCo. I. 29014; ārocāpeti D. II. 1276, JāCo. I. 1535; ghātāpeti Vin. I. 2777; laggāpeti Mhvs. 33. 11. With reference to § 180: thapāpeti JāCo. II. 2017, Mhvs. 36. 104; ropāpeti D. II. 17915, Smp. 84110, Mhvs. 34. 40. The form cetapeti 'causes to collect' Vin. IV. 25013 ff, is remarkable. Formally it is a double-causative from reteti, but, as the meaning shows, it belongs to the root ci 'to collect'. The double-causative meaning has often become obscure in the forms reviewed above, but in some cases it is still quite clear. Thus, e.g., when in Vin. I. 4915 vinodapeti occurs in the immediate vicinity of vinodeti, or when the simple Causative is derived from a basic transitive verb and through further suffixation becomes a double transitive, as in the case of thapeti and thapapeti 'erects' and 'causes to erect'.

Desiderative.

§ 184. The Desideratives of Pali are stems derived from an older stage of the language1. The construction of Desideratives is no longer a living motif in Pali. Examples: jigucchati 'dislikes, loathes' Sn. 215, 958, Th2, 469, 471, D. I. 21323, Vin. I. 871, 884, JaCo. I. 42220032 = jugupsate from root gup; jighacchati 'wishes to eat' D. II. 2661 (verse) = jighalsati from root ghas (jighacchā 'hunger' Dh. 203); vicikicchati 'hesitates' D. I. 1061'7, S. II. 1710 = vicikitsati from root cit, but tikicchati 'treats (medically)' Vin. I. 7136, JaCo. I. 48511 and tikicchā 'medical treatment', tchiccha 'curable' (§ 41. 2); jigimsati, jigisati 'wishes to attain, conquer' Sn. 700, Th1. 748, 1110 = jigīṣati from root ji²; titikkhati 'tolerates' Dh. 321, 399, Jā. III. 22124 (verse) = titikṣati from root tyaj; pivāsati Ι (Kacc. 1II. 2. 3, Senart, p. 434) = pipāsati to drink ' ' wishes from root pā; bubhukkhati 'wishes to eat' (Kacc. III. 2. 3) =bubhuksate from root bhuj; vimamsati 'puts to test' M. I. 12516, JaCo. I. 27911, Mhvs. 5. 258, 14. 16=mīmāmsati (§ 46. 4) from root man; vavakkhati 'wishes to speak' D. II. 256° (verse) =vivakṣati from root vac; sussūsati3 'wishes to hear' D. I. 23018, M. III. 1332, A. IV. 3932=śuśrūṣate from root śru. Weakened and shortened stems too are met with as in Skr.: dicchati 'wishes to give' S. I. 1827 (verse) = ditsati, Pl. 3. dicchare S. I. 1837, from root dā; sikkhati 'wishes to succeed, learns' (JPTS. 1909, p. 157)=śiksate from root śak; perhaps also simsati 'wishes to go' Vv. 64. 7 f., 81. 18 = (si)sīrṣati from root sar4. Skr. icchati and îpsati have coincided in Pali icchati.—On the flexion of. § 130. 6, 154. 4, 166 (end), 181. 1 (end).

Intensive. 10.

§ 185. Also the Intensives of Pali are derived from Skr. stems. Of very frequent occurrence is cankamati 'walks up and down' Vin.

According to Kacc. III. 2. 3 (Separt, p. 434) from root har (Skr. jihirşati).

³ The spelling sussayate M. III. 2218 etc. is very probably wrong.

⁴ But (pacc'asinisati is derived from Bkr. έατμε

For Prakrit see Pischel, § 556.

I. 15²⁵, 87¹³, D. I. 89¹⁹, Sn. p. 101, 112=cankramate from root kram. Cf. further daddallati 'lights up, sparkles' S. I. 127¹⁸ (verse), D. II. 258⁷ (verse) = jājvalyate (§ 41. 2) from root jval; lālappati¹ 'chatters' Sn. 580, Jā. III. 217¹⁰, Mhvs. 32. 68 (lālappita 'conversation' Jā. VI. 498¹⁷) = lālapyate from root lap. The substantive loluppa 'desire' Jā. I. 429²⁷, JāCo. I. 340²⁵ (cf. Skr. lolupa 'desirous') is derived from a root lup. Cf. also kākacchati JūCo. I. 61²⁴, 160²⁸, 318², Milp. 85²², probably meaning 'talks (in sleep)' from the verb kathayati. Sometimes the stem in Pāli ends in a as against ya in Skr.: jangamati against jangamyate from root gam 'to go', canalati against canalyate from root cal 'to move', momuhati Sn. 841 (besides the Adj. momuha § 37) as against momuhyate from root muh 'to lose control over one's own mind'. On jāgarati, jaygati=jāgarti see § 142. 4.—For the flexion of Intensives cf. § 130. 6, 154. 4, 166 (end).

11. Denominative.

§ 186. The number of Denominatives with the formantic element āya is very large: 1. From Adjectives in a: cirāyali 'hesitates' JāCo. I. 42630, III. 4984, VI. 52111 = cirāyati, -te; dandhāyati 'is slow' JāCo. III. 14110 from dandha (p. 84, foot-note 1); piyāyati 'loves' Th2. 285. JāCo. II. 2723, 13314 from Skr. priya; maccharāyati 'is jealous' JāCo. III. 1582, VI. 33413 from Skr. matsara; sukhāyati 'is happy' JāCo. II. 314=sukhāyate.-2. From Substantives in a: kukkuccāyati 'feels remorse' Vin. I. 19132, JaCo. II. 1512 from kukkucca; dhūpāyati 'spits forth smoke' Vin. I. 180^{27} , S. I. 169^{7} , DhCo. III. $244^{4} = dh\bar{u}p\bar{a}yati$; dhūmāyati 'smokes' M. III. 18413, Dpvs. 15. 67 = dhūmāyati, -te; mahāyati 'honours by a festival' Ja. IV. 2362 from maha; rahāyati 'wishes to be alone' M. II. 11929 from raha(s); verāyati 'rages' Dpvs. 15. 67; saddāyati 'makes noise' Ud. 616'7, Milp. 25828, 2591, JāCo. III. 2862 = \$abdāyate; sārajjāyati 'is embarrassed' S. III. 9231 from sārajja. In Kacc. III. 2, 4 (Senart, p. 434), pabbatāyati 'he is like a mountain' from pabbata and III.2.24 (Senart, p.442) samuddāyati 'resembles the ocean' from samudda. Anomalous is the case of harāyati 'feels shame' Vin. I. 871, 885, D. I. 21322 from hiri=hri.-3. From a pronominal form: mamāyali 'loves, worships' Th1, 1150, DhCo. I, 1110 (verse), Mhvs. 20. 4=mamāyate.-4. Onomatopoetic expressions³ and kurumāna JāCo. I. 29115. Dovs. 9. 17.—The suffix -māna has been pleonastically added to Past Participles in paduţţhamāna DhCo. I. 179° = paduţţha; vibhātamāna DhCo. I. 16511 = vibhāta, aladdhamāna Rasav. I. 8510 = aladdha. These are constructions of later age.

- § 192. Present Participles in -āna¹ are rarer. They belong to the Gāthā-language; occasionally some forms may be found also in the canonical prose. Examples are: esāna 'seeking, desiring' Dh. 131 (Skr. eṣamāṇa); abhisambudhāna 'attaining the highest knowledge' Dh. 46; an-utṭhahāna 'not getting up' Dh. 280; a-heṭha-yāna 'not injuring' S. IV. 179³ (verse); patthayāna 'begging for' Sn. 976, Vv. 84. 7; sayāna 'lying' Jā. III. 95¹², D. I. 90¹³ (=śayāna); saddahāna 'faithful' S. I. 20²⁵ (verse) and samādahāna S. The root ās 'to sit' has āsīna Dh. 227, 386, Jā. I. 363¹², 390⁴², III. 95¹², D. II. 212²¹ (verse) as in Skr. The form is however archaic.
- § 193. Very rare is the construction of Future Participle in Int from the futural stem. Thus Sg. Acc. $marissam^2$ (cf. § 97. 2) $J\bar{a}$. III. 214^{11} for marissantam = marisyantam (Comm. yo $id\bar{a}ni$ marissati tam); paccessam 'one who will return' Vin. I. 255^{24} (root i+prati).

2. Participles of the Preterite.

§ 194. The Past Participle in -ta has mostly a passive meaning in the case of transitive verbs, and an active meaning in the case of intransitive verbs. There are numerous forms of historical origin. Thus from roots in t,t: ita 'gcne' (samita, atīta, peta etc.), jita, nīta as in Skr.; suta=śruta; bhūta=bhūta. As there is suta from suṇāti, so there is pariyāputa D. III. 2036 from pariyāpuṇāti 'learns'. From roots in ā: ñāta=jñāta, sināta Jū. V. 3303, M. I. 391=snāta; gita 'sung' D. I. 9911, JāCo. III. 6125=gīta; thita=sthita; hita (ohita, pihita, vihita etc.)=hita; atta 'seized' in attadaṇḍa Dh. 406=ātta (root dā with ā).—Roots in r: kata=kṛta, mata=mṛta; saṇṣsita 'one who has wandered about (in the existences)' Sn. 730, D. II. 912 (verse)=saṇṣṣṭa; saṇṣnula 'restricted'=saṇṣṛṭa; nibhuta 'released'

In Pkr. these Participles are quite rare; Pischel, § 562 (at the end)

² E. Müller, PGr. p. 123 quotes from Dathavs. S. 80 the form karissam. It is, however, clearly the 1. Sg. = karisyāmi. The Sgh. paraphrase has keremi. On the Part. Future Active in Pkr. see Pischel, § 550.

Dh. 406, 414, Th1. 79, 96, Vin. I. 8^{21} (verse) = $nirv_{1}ta^{1}$; $hat a = h_{1}ta$; atta (§ 64) = $\bar{a}rta$ (root ar with \bar{a}). Also from root star 'to stretch out' we have atthata, samthata, vitthata as against Skr. stirna.-Roots in nasal: hatu, mata, tata; nata, gata; nikhāta Sn. 28, Jā. III. 2428, D. II. 1711 as also in Skr. Similarly santa 'quieted' = śanta (root śam); santa 'tired' = śrānta; kanta 'dear, charming' = kānta; nikkhanta 'gone out', pakkanta etc. = krānta; jāta 'born, originated' from jan.—Roots in surds and smants: sitta Th1. 110, JaCo. III. 1441 = sikta; vutta = ukta, durutta = durukta; bhutta = bhukta; yutta = yukta; puttha 'interrogated' = preta; yittha 'sacrificed' Ja. VI. 522°. M. I. 82^{15} , A. II. 44^6 (verse) = ista (root yai); samsattha = -srsta(root sarj), suddha 'purified' = śuddha; khitta 'hurled' = ksipta; vutta 'sown' JaCo. 1. 34019, III. 1220 = upta; sutta 'one who has slept' Dh. 29, Th1. 22 etc. = supta. On vatta, $vatta = vrtta^2$ see § 64. 1. -Roots in aspirates: duddha 'milked' Sn. 18=dugdha; siniddha 'oily, smooth' Th2Co. 13918, JaCo. 1. 8923 (verse), 4813 = snigdha; daddha (§ 42. 3) = dagdha; vuddha, vuddha etc. (§ 64) = vrddha; laddha 'attained'=labdha; luddha 'eager' Iv. 110 (verse)=lubdha.-Roots in sibilants: diftha=drsta; phuttha 'touched'=sprsta; nattha 'destroyed' = naṣṭa; kaṭṭha 'ploughed' S. 1. 173' (verse) = kṛṣṭa; sattha 'taught, commanded' Ja. II. 29823, III. 324 = śāsta; samlatta 'frightened' Jā. III. 7723 = -trasta.—Roots in h=Indo-Iranian zh: vălha (§ 35) = $\bar{u}dha$; $m\bar{u}lha$ 'foolish' [v. 2^{16} (verse) = $m\bar{u}dha$; $samy\bar{u}lha$ (sannulha) 'spoken, composed' D. II. 26719, M. I. 38633 (sannulha DCo. I. 38^8) = $sam - \bar{u}dha$ (root $\bar{u}h$); $abb\bar{u}lha$ 'torn out' Sn. 593, 779, D. II. 283^{27} , M. I. 139^{17} from $abbahati = \bar{a} \cdot b \, rhati$.

§ 195. Past Participles in -ita too have been handed down in large numbers in historical forms. Examples: patita, carita; khādita, saṃdhāvita D. II. 9014 etc., as in Skr.; sayita 'laid down to rest' D. II. 3538, JāCo. I. 33824, III. 3318 = śayita; paritasita 'thirsty' Milp. 25324 = -tṛṣita (root tarṣ); vusita Th1. 258, D. II. 20610 (verse) (besides vuttha Jā. I. 18322 etc.) = uṣita from root vas 'to dwell'; gahīta = gṛhīta. Often from Causatives: dassita = darsita; pesita = preṣita; hārita, codita, dāpita as in Skr.; addita 'pained' Th2. 77, 328 = ardita.

¹ But the users of the language felt that (pari)mibbuta was the Past Participle of (pari)mibbāyati

Instead of kanta 'spun' M. III. 2539 I should like to read katta = krttu.

From the Causative of root jñā we have ñatta Dh. 72 (cf. SBE. X 1, p. 22, note); āṇatta 'ordered' Dpvs. 6.75, Mhvs. 5. 183, 10. 1; paññatta 'declared, fixed legally' Vin. I. 83²³, D. II. 748 etc.=jñapta, ājñapta, prajñapta.

Similarly from Desideratives: jighacchita 'bungry' M. 111. 1862, DhCo. III. 26313 = jighatsita; jigucchita 'scared' Mhvs. 6. 3 = jugupsita. From Intensives: cankamita Mhvs. 15. 208 = cankramita. From Denominatives, § 186: cirāyita DhCo. III. 3051, dhūpāyita Th1. 448, mamāyita DhCo. I. 1110 (verse) as in Skr. With reference to § 187: patthita JāCo. I: 40826, II. 3616, DhCo. I. 11226 = prārthita; mantita Th1. 9, M. II. 10521 (verse) = mantrita; dukkhita Th2. 29 = duḥkhita.

§ 196. The type of Past Participle in -ita has moreover been very productive for the reason that new forms were evolved after it from every kind of Present stem1. They are met with in every period of the language. With reference to § 130-133: kilamita 'tired' JäCo. III. 3626 (besides kilanta = klanta); samtasita (root tras) Milp. 922 (besides -tatta); vasita 'inhabited' Mbvs. 20. 14, 16 (besides vusita and vuttha § 195); āharita S. IV. 5925, 603 (besides āhaļa § 194); samsarita Th2, 496, D. II. 9014 (besides samsita § 194); jinita JāCo. § 197. Many Past Participles are formed also with the suffix -na as in Skr. Thus from roots in d: chinna, bhinna, -panna, -sanna (but nisinna=niṣaṇṇa); pakkhanna 'fallen into something' Th1. 95, 258, 342=praskanna; tunna 'goaded' Th2. 162 and nunna 'pushed, propelled' A. II. 41¹⁸, JāCo. VI. 527²⁰, Mhvs. 34. 60, as in Skr. Also ruṇṇa 'bewailing' Jā. VI. 525⁴, 'wail, lamentation' Th1. 554, A. I. 261² (besides roṇṇa Th1. 555) as against Skr. rudita (root rud).²—

Analogous constructions from the Present-stem also in Pkr., Pischel, § 565.

³⁻ Also Pkr. Mah. runna; Pischel, PkrGr. § 566.

Further from certain roots in ā, ī, ū: hīna (JPTS, 1907, 163) from root $h\bar{a}$, $\sin a$ 'frozen' M. I. 79^{29} (verse), Milp. $117^{18} = \sin a$ (root $\sin a \sin a$); lina (a-lina 'unattached, passionless' Dh. 245, Sn. 68, 717, nilina 'concealed' Vin. II. 354, JaCo. III. 264, patisallina 'withdrawn' Vin. I. 433 etc.) = lina (root li); vikhhina 'destroyed' Th2. 22 = viksina; lūna 'out off' Th2. 107 = lūna. — From certain roots in r: jinna, tinna, nunna = jirņa, tīrņa, pūrņa. Also patthinna 'spread out' Vin. I. 28634 = prastirna (besides patthata § 194), as well as cinna 'done, performed' Sn. 181 f., Vin. II. 3915, JaCo. I. 3006 (ācinna 'done, customary' M. I. 37210 etc., paricinna Th1. 178, M. 111. 26423) besides carita as Skr. cirna and carita. -From some roots in j and g: (sam)bhagga 'broken' Dh. 154, Th1. 184, S. I. 12328 = bhagna; nimugga 'drowned' (§ 18) Vin. I. 631, D. I. 7517, II. 3245, JaCo. III. 471 = nimagna (root · majj); samvigga 'disturbed, anxious' D. I. 501, S. IV. 29030, JāCo. I. 59^{10} , ubbigga Jū. I. 486^{10} . JūCo. I. $503^{13} = vigna$ (root vij); olagga 'bound fast' Th1. 356=avalagna.—The root dā 'to give' has dinna = Pkr. dinna, dinna against Skr. datta (this, e.g., in dattūpajīvin 'one who lives on what he receives as charity' DhCo. IV. 9918 as well as in proper names like Brahmadatta, as also in atta § 194).—Finally, there is the dialectal form patimukka 'bound down' Th2. 500, S. IV. 9123, 921 (opposite of ummukka S. IV. 927) as against Skr. pratimukta².

§ 198. Past Participle Active. 1. The meagre traces of the Participle in -vas have been discussed in § 100.—2. We do not find any large number of Participles formed by affixing -vant to Participles in -ta. Thus vusitavant 'he who has lived' in the transferred sense 'perfect, complete', Sg. Nom. -vā Sn. 514, Iv. 9614, M. I. 423, D. I. 9020, Pl. Gen. -vatam D. II. 22319, 22913; bhuttavant 'he who has enjoyed' Sg. Gen. -vato VvCo. 2446. In Kacc. IV. 2. 6 (Senart, p. 483) we have moreover hutavā. Of analogous construction is the Sg. Nom. ādinnavā 'he who has seized, utilised' Mhvs. 7. 42.—3. The Participles in -tāvin (tlexion according to § 95) are an innovation of Pāli: bhuttāvin 'he who has eaten', Sg. Acc. -vim D. I. 10935, 2274, Gen. -vissa D. II. 19532; vijitāvin 'he who has been victorious', Sg. Nom. -v\(\frac{1}{2}\) Thl. 5 ff., S. I. 1108 (verse), D. I. 8834,

² As var. lec. to mutta we have mukka in M. III. 61¹⁵. The corresponding form in Pkr. is mukka; Pischel, § 566.

D. Andersen, PR. 11231 (PG!, sub voce) reads adingara 'he who has torn asunder', skr. dirge from root dar.

Acc. -vinam Dh. 422, Pl. Gen. vīnam A. 111 15126; katāvin 'expert', Sg. Nom. -vī M. II. 697; kīļitāvin 'he who has played', Sg. Nom. anikīļitāvī S. I. 96, Pl. Nom. -vino S. IV. 11027; samitāvin 'he who has come to rest', Sg. Nom. -vī S. I. 1884 (verse); sutāvin 'he who has heard and learnt, learned', Pl. Nom. a-ssutāvino Th1. 955.

3. Participles of Future-Passive.

§ 199. Of Future Passive Participles those in .labba1 = -lavya are the most numerous. 1. The following are some of the historical forms: dātabba 'that which has to be given' Vin. 1. 466, JāCo. III. $52^2 = d\bar{a}tavya$, pahātabba Sn. 558, M. I. 7^{11} (root $h\bar{a}$ 'to forsake') = -hātavya; saddhātabba JāCo. 11. 3723 = śraddhātavya; pacculthātabba 'he who is to be greeted by standing up' M. III. $205^{17} = -sth\bar{a}tavya$; nctabba = nctavya; sotabba = śrotavya; gantabba Vin.I. 4619 = gantavya; vatthabba Mhvs. 3. 12 (root vas 'to live') = vastavya; datthabba PvCo. 1018 (root dars 'to see') = drastavya; kattabba Dh. 53, JāCo. I. 45322 and (§ 6. 1) kātabba Vin. I. 4720, JāCo. II. 11215 = kartavya; vihātabba (from viharati) M. III. $294^{2i} = hartavya$. Similarly also forms with i: bhavitabba JaCo. I. 4404 = bhavitavya; tikicchitabba DhCo. III. 204. = cikitsitavya; rakkhitabba JāCo. III. 522 = raksitavya etc. -2. After this latter type are moreover constructed numerous new forms from Present-stems². With reference to § 130-132: vasitabba Sn. 678 from vasati; pacitabba Vin. I. 505 from pacati as against paktavya; -kamitabba Vin. I. 5011, D. I. 17910 from -kamati; uddharitabba Vin. I. 476 from uddharati, samharitabba Viv. I. 4628 (from root har); jinitabba DhCo. III. 313° (from root ji); nisiditabba Vin. 1. 4719 (from root sad). With reference to \$ 134-138: -khipitabba Vin. I. •4625, 471 as against keeptavya; pucchitabba Vin. I. 4633 from pucchati as against prastavya; -visitabba Via. I. 4716 as against vestavya; ālimpitabba Vin. II. 2671 (from root lip); āsiācitabba Vin. I. 4911 (from root sic); -pajjitabba Vin. I. 16410, D. II. 14114 from -pajjati (root pad); paţivijjhitabba 'that which is to be comprehended' DCo. I. 2023 from -vijjhati (root vyadh). From Passive -bhijjati: bhijjitabba Ja('o. III. 5623 as against bhettavya; from jāyati 'is born, originated': jāyitabba Th2. 455. With reference to \$ 142, 144: vijahitabba Vin. 111. 20017 (from root hā); nidahitabba Vin. 1. 4628, saddahitabba Milp. 3102

The suffix may occasionally be extended by ku. Cf. khāditabbaka DhCo. III. 137³.

As in Pkr.; Piechel, § 570.

from duhati (root dhā); bhañjitabba Vin. 1. 7410 (from root bhaj, bhañj), bhuñjitabba Mhys. 5. 127 (from root bhuj).

The Future Passive Participle of root bhū too may be constructed on the Present-stem¹: hotabba Vin. 1. 4619, paribhotabba 'that which should be deprecated' S. I. 692, Sn. p. 91 from hoti, -bhqti (§ 131. 2). The aya-stems (Cl. X., Causatives, Denominatives) too derive it in the same way directly from the contracted e-stem2. Examples are numerous: codetabba Vin. II. 221 as against coditavya; sāretabba Vin. 11. 222 from sāreti (root smar); pūjetabba M. 111. 20520 (stem pūjay-); lanchetabba Vin. 11. 267° from lancheti 'seals'; ñāpctabba Vin. II. 223 from ñāpeti (jñā); ghamsāpetabba Vin. II. 26628 from ghamsapeti 'causes to rub' (root ghars); kottapetabba Vin. II. 26620 from koţţāpeti 'causes to hit'; paţiggahetabba 'that which should be accepted' Vin. I. 4613 from gaheti (§ 139. 2) etc. A whole list of such forms is to be found in Vin. I. 46-50. I cite from there otapetabba 'that which is to be heated'. pajiyādclabba 'that which is to be constructed' (root yat), thapetabba 'that which is to be erected' (root sthā), thaketabba 'that which is to be clo-ed' (root sthag, § 39. 1) etc. We have a curious form in chedatabba 'that which is to be cut off' Vin. 1. 5015, the form expected being chedetabba. Besides it there is chedapetabbas.

§ 201. Moreover there is in Pāli the Future Passive Participles in -anīya or -ancyya⁴ = Skr. -anīya. Thus labhanīya Th2. 513 (alabhanēya 'unattainable' Jā. III. 205° is due to contamination of labhanēya; pājanīya Sn. 259 or -neyya Th1. 186 = pājanīya; anatthaneyya 'what should not be striven after, useless' Th1. 1073 from arthay-; dassanīya 'that which is worth seeing, charming' Vin. I. 38²⁵, D. I. 47¹¹, JāCo. 1. 509° and dassancyya Dpvs. 15. 39 = daršanīya. These forms have very often a substantive meaning. Thus karanīya 'task, duty'; mohaneyya 'enchantment' Jā. III. 499¹⁰; yāpanīya 'sustenance' Jā. VI. 224¹³, Vin. I. 59¹⁰; bhojanīya 'liquid food' and khādanīya 'solid food' Vin. I. 18²⁹, D. I. 108° etc., Skr. karanīya, mohanīya etc.; khamanīya 'toleration' Vin. I. 59^{10} , D. IÍ. 99^{22} , JāCo. I. $408^{11} = kṣaman̄ya$.

§ 202. The Future Passive Participles in -ya mostly belong to the two oldest periods of the language. Hence, for instance, even hanna 'he who should be killed' Jā. IV. 27327 is explained in the Comm. by hanitabba, saddheyya 'worthy of credence' Ju. III. 6218 by saddhātabba. Examples from roots in vowel: negya 'that which should be led' Sn. 803=ncya (root ni); bhabba 'capable of' Vin. I. 1718, A. III. $8^{30} = bhavya$ (root $bh\bar{u}$); pameyya 'that which is to be measured' A. I. 26618, Pu. 353 = prameya (root mā); similarly viññeyya 'that which can be perceived' Vin. I. 18420, D. I. 24517 etc., deyya Sn. 982, Vin, III. 113, D. I. 8710, peyya 'drinkable' D. I. 24414, II. 8914, Milp. 214 = vijneya, doya, poya. Also suppahāya 'that which should be easily forsaken' Sn. 772 (root hā) as Rv. 10, 103.5 vijāāya. From roots in r: a-kāriya 'unfeasible' Dh. 176=kārya (besides kicca 'that which should be done, task, duty' Dh. 276, Th1. 167 etc. = krtya), a-samhāriya 'indestructible' S. V. 2192 = -hārya, both with Svarabhakti. From other consonant roots: hhajja 'masticable' and bhojja 'edible' Milp. 214 = khādya, bhojya; vajja 'that which should be avoided, sin' Dh. 252, D. I. 6315 etc. = variya; vaijha 'he who must be killed' Jā. VI. 5282, JāCo. I. 4394 = vadhya; a-bhejja 'inseparable' JāCo. III. 514=bhedya; labbha 'attainable, possible' D. II. 11829, M. II. 22013 = labhya; sayha 'that which is to be borne' Sn. 253 = sahya. From root lih 'to lick' we have in Milp. 214 leyya instead of *leyha = lehya, due to attraction of peyya occurring at its side. Svarabhakti' is in evidence in a-sādhiya 'incurable' Mhvs. 5. 218 = sādhya. We have a new construction in a sakkuneyya 'impossible' JāCo. I. 553 from the Present sakkuņāti, after the pattern of deyya from dadāti.

§ 208. The Future Passive Participles in -tāya, -tayya or -teyya are a peculiarity of Pāli². Examples out of the two oldest periods of the language: nātayya, daṭṭhayya, pattayya 'that which is to be known, seen, attained' S. IV. 93°-7, nāteyya, daṭṭheyya, patteyya Ş. I. 61²°-27 (root jāā, darē, āp with pra); a-tasitāya 'where one need not fear' S. III. 57²⁷. From Causatives: ghātetāya 'to be killed', jāpetāya 'to be conquered', pabbājetāya 'to be banished' (root vraj) M. I. 231²⁻³, II. 122¹⁻². Also lajjitāya¹ 'that of which one has to be ashamed' Dh. 316.

4. Infinitives.

§ 204. 1. The Infinitives in -tave = Ved. -tave or -tavai, as well as some forms in -taye, -tuye2 are confined to the Gatha-language (and the artificial poetry). (a) Infinitives in -tave. From roots in vowel: netave Dh. 180, S. I. 10724 (verse); sotave Kacc. IV. 2. 12 (Senart, p. 485); dātave Sn. 286, Jā. I. 1903, yātave Sn. 834, hātave Dh. 34, Sn. 817. Also nidhetave Jā. III. 176 (Comm. nidhānatthāya) from the e-stem of root dha. From other c-stems: rajetave Th1. 1155 from rajeti 'colours, paints', lapetave Ud. 2114 (verse) from lapeti 'speaks, addresses'. For roots ending in consonant: gantave 'to go' Th2. 32, Ja. IV. 22126 (Comm. gantum), vattave 'to say' S. I. 2052 (verse) = gántave, váktave. (b) Infinitives in -tuye: kūtuye Th2. 418 (root har, Comm. kātum); marituye Th2. 426; ganetuye Bu. 4. 28 from ganeti 'counts'; hetuye Bu. 2. 10 from hoti. (c) Infinitives in $-t\bar{a}yc$: $dakkhit\bar{a}yc$ D. II. 254^{7} (verse) = S. I. 26^{25} from the new Present-stem dakkha- derived from the Future of dars; jagghitaye 'to laugh' Ja. III. 22610 (Comm. hasitvā, or hasitena), pucchitāye 'in order to ask' Jā. V. 1376 (Comm. pucchitum); khāditāye 'to eat' Jā. V. 33' governed by arahati,—2. A archaic Infinitive form is to be found in ctase Th2. 291 'to go' (Comm. etum, gantum), governed by näsakkhim.—3. Finally, the Datives of Verbal Nouns are not seldom used as Infinitives: thus savanāya (governed Ly labhati) '(is fortunate enough) to hear' D. III. 8016; dassanāya (governed by pahoti) '(is in a position) to see' M. II. 13124; karanāya (governed by arahati) '(can) do' Jā. III. 17223-24; idhāgamanāya (governed by pariyāyamakāsi) '(has made it possible) to come here' D. I. 179's etc.; vicakkhukammāya 'in order to dazzle' S. I. 11213; adubbhāya (governed by sapassu) '(swear) not to injure' S. I. 22519 etc.

Norman in his edition of DhCo. III. 490 wrongly divides the words into alajjitā ye and lajjitā ye. Cf the Commentary.

² In Pkr. there are corresponding Infinitives in -ttae, -ittae, such as AMIg. ittae, hottae, pucchitae; E. Müller, Beitr. z. Pkr. Gr., p. 61; Pischel, PkrGr. § 578.

§ 205. The Infinitive which is most current in every period of the language is however that in -tum. The number of historical forms is very large. Thus from roots ending in vowels: datum, saddhatum, nātum from roots dā, dhā, jāā; nibbātum 'to die' Mhvs. 5. 219 (root vā); vinetum JāCo. I, 50418, III, 1034 (root nī); elum Th2Co. 22420 (root i); ketum 'to buy' Ja. III. 28214, vikketum 'to sell' JaCo. III. 28312 = (vi)kretum; ocetum 'to collect' Th1. 199 = avacetum; sotum Sn. 384, D. II. $2^7 = śrotum$. From roots in r: $k\bar{a}tum = kartum$; uddhātum 'to draw out' Th1. 88, āhattum M. I. 8955 = āhartum from root har = - hartum. From roots in nasal: gantum; in mute: vattum Sn. 431, S. I. 12927 (verse) = vaktum; putthum Sn. 91, S. I. 15' (verse) = prastum; avabhottum 'to enjoy' Jā. III. 27223 = bhoktum (root bhuj); yatthum 'to sacrifice' Sn. 461 = yastum (root yaj); chettum Th1. 188=chettum; pattum 'to attain' DhCo. III. 3994=prāptum; sottum S. I. 1112 (verse), apparently derived directly from svaptum 'to sleep'; laddhum 'to attain' JaCo, II, 35214, DhCo, III, 11714=labdhum. From roots in sibilant: datthum = drastum.—Also constructions with i are quite numerous: jīvitum JāCo. I. 2633 = jīvitum; kilitum JāCo. III. 18826 = kriditum; bhavitum JaCo. IV. 13725 = bhavitum; uddharitum (besides uddhatum) JūCo. I. 313° from root har (Skr. haritum besides hartum). From Desideratives: tikicchitum JaCo. I. 48511 = cikitsitum, vimamsitum Mhvs. 37. 234 (Colombo ed. 184) = mīmāmsitum. From a Causative: dhārayitum Anāgatavs., JPTS. 1886. 8523 = dhārayitum. Denominative: gopayitum DhCo. III. 48810.

§ 206. The Infinitive is very often derived directly from the Present-stem¹. Thus pappotum 'to attain' Th2. 60=S. I. 129¹¹ from pappoti; hotum from hoti. Also in the case of e-stems (Causative etc.) the Infinitive may be directly derived from the Present-stem: sodhetum Vin. II. 34⁵, JāCo. I. 292¹⁴; bhāvetum DhCo. III. 171¹⁰; vāretum JāCo. IV. 2¹²; gahetum Vin. I. 92³¹, JāCo. I. 222³¹, Mhvs. 8. 28 (cf. § 139. 2), gāhetum Mhvs. 33. 48 and gāhāpetum JāCo. I. 506²²; thapetum Vin. II. 194³³, D. II. 177⁻; kārāpetum Mhvs. 5. 80. The form tārayetum Sn. 319 is a double-construction,—a contamination of tārayitum and tāretum.—The type in -itum has been very productive. In later literature it has in many cases supplanted the historical forms in -tum. The form bhottum, for instance (see § 205), has been explained in the Comm. by bhuājitum. Examples of new construc-

I. 9616; sincitum JāCo. VI. 58327; nibbinditum 'to feel disgust' D. II. 19822 from root vid, vindati. With reference to § 136-138: naccitum DhCo. III. 1027; -pajjitum Th1. 1140, A. III. 818; pamajjitum Th1. 452; virajjitum 'to be free' D. II. 1982; vijjhitum Mhvs. 6. 28; passitum JaCo. I. 222', Mhvs. 4. 21. Also from a Passive stem: pamuccitum 'to free oneself' Th1. 253; vimuccitum D. II. 1982. Further: sināyitum M. I. 39°; jhāyitum 'to meditate' Vin. II. 14724 (verse); palāyitum JāCo. § 207. As in Skr., in compounds with $-k\bar{a}ma$ the Infinitive has the ending $-tu^1$: $j\bar{\imath}vituk\bar{a}ma$ 'he who desires to live' Dh. 123, D. II. 330°; $pabbajituk\bar{a}ma$ 'he who desires to forsake the world' DhCo. III. 273°; $gantuk\bar{a}ma$ 'he who wishes to go' JāCo. I. 22213; $datthuk\bar{a}ma$ 'he who wishes to see' Sn. 685; $amarituk\bar{a}ma$ 'he who does not wish to die' D. II. 330° etc.

5. Gerunds.

§ 208. The Gerunds are formed with the suffixes $-tv\bar{a}$ and -ya, for the first of which there often appears, particularly in the Gāthālanguage, also the suffix $-tv\bar{a}na$. The suffix -ya appears particularly after compounds, but this rule is not so strictly followed in Pāli as in Skr. The suffix $-tv\bar{a}na$ is clearly widening its sphere progressively, and is by no means confined only to the simplex. According to statistics prepared by me on the basis of a large section of the Jātaka-Commentary, the Gerunds in $-tv\bar{a}$ occur 8 to 9 times more frequently than those in -ya. In the canonical prose the difference is not so great. In the Commentaries too the forms in -ya are readily replaced by those in $-tv\bar{a}$, as $saddh\bar{a}ya$ Jā. V. 176^s by $saddahitv\bar{a}$, $a\bar{n}n\bar{a}ya$ Jā. I. 368^{21} by $aj\bar{a}nitv\bar{a}$. The few forms in $-t\bar{u}na^1$ are confined to the Gāthā-language, as also those in $-y\bar{a}na$, which is evidently a new construction on the analogy of $-tv\bar{a}$: $-tv\bar{a}na$.

Rimilarly also in Pkr.; Pischel, § 577.

§ 209. There are many historical forms among the Gerunds in -lvā, -lvāna. From roots in vowel: ñatvā, natvāna = jnātvā, nahatvā = snātvā, datvā = dattvā (in analogy with these forms also vidhatvā Th2. 480 from root dhā as against (d)hitvā, and thatvā from root sthā as against sthitvā); pttvā(na) Db. 205, Tb1. 103, 710, Jā. II. $71^6 = p\bar{\imath} t v \bar{a} \pmod{p\bar{a}}$; $hitv\bar{a}(na)$ Sn. 60, 284 etc. = $hitv\bar{a} \pmod{h\bar{a}}$. Also jilvā Th1. 336 from root ji; sutvā=śrutvā, hutvā=bhūtvā. From roots in r: katvā(na) = kŗtvā (purakkhatvā D. II. 20723, Jā. VI. 51610 or purakkhilvā Vv. 84.49). From roots in mutes: mutvā (§ 58.3) Jā. I. $375^3 = muktv\bar{a}$ (root muc); $vatv\bar{a} = vaktv\bar{a}$; $bhutv\bar{a}(na)$ Th1. 23, S. I. 8^{25} (verse), Jā. III. $58^{17} = bhuktv\bar{a}$ (the o of bhotvā S. IV. 74' (verse) is to be explained according to § 10. 2); chetvā(na) Dh. 283. 346. Vin. I. 88¹. JāCo. III. $396^{25} = chittv\bar{a}$ (e according to § 10, 2. or due to analogy of jetvā, netvā, § 210); bhetvā(na) Th1. 753= bhittvā2; patvā from root ap (Skr. aptvā) with pra; laddhā(na) Sn. 67, 228 etc., paţiladdhā Vv. 80.7=labdhvā. From root dars the Gerund is $disv\bar{a}(na) = drstv\bar{a}^3$. The roots in n, m retain the nasal through the influence of forms like Skr. śāntvā. Thus we have also hantvā as against hatvā; mantvā Mhvs. 12. 50 (besides mantā Vv. 63. 6) as against mutvā; gantvā(na) (āgantvā Sn. 415, JāCo. I. 1511 etc.) as against gatvā.—Historical forms in -itvā: patitvā, pacitvā, vanditvā, khāditvā as in Skr.; nikkhamitvā JāCo. III. 2614, akkamitvā Vin. 1. 188²⁸ etc. = kramitvā (besides krāntvā); sayitvā JāCo. II. 77¹⁴ = śayitvā

² Also in Pkr. AMag chetta, bhetta; Pischel, § 582.

³ As AMag. dissā; Ibid. § 334. According to H. Kern (Toevoegselen op 't Woordenboek van Childers I. 63) the form drytvā is retained in a dittha (var. lec. of adatthā) Jā. IV. 1926.

⁴ As AMag. hanta, manta.

(root ši). Similarly from Chusatives¹: bhojayitvāna Jā. VI. 577²⁵ = bhojayitvā; gāhayitvā Mhvs. 10. 31 = grāhayitvā, ghātayitvā Milp. 219¹⁶ from ghāteti (root han), janayitvā Milp. 218²¹ as in Skr.; thapayitvāna Mhvs. 19. 31 = sthāpayitvā, and in the same way from double-causatives: gāhāpayitvā Mhvs. 7. 49 etc. From Desideratives, Intensives and Denominatives: a-jigucchitvā JāCo. I. 422²⁰ = jugupsitvā; vīmaṃsitvā JāCo. VI. 868² = mīmāṃsitvā; vavakkhitvāna D. 11. 256⁶ (verse) = vivakṣitvā; cirāyitvā Mhvs. Tī. 124²² etc.

§ 210. New constructions out of Present-stems are again quite frequent. Thus we have forms from Causatives, Denominatives etc. with the contracted e-stem, and in fact these forms are more frequent than those in -ayitvā. Examples; desetvā JāCo. I. 15210; codetvā Vin. II. 222; sāretvā (root smar) Ibid.; bhāvetvā A. V. 19515; ghātetvā Mhvs. 25.7; thapotpā Dh. 40, D. I. 10527 etc.; gahetvā (§ 189.2); vandāpetvā Vin. I. 8223, kārāpetvā Ibid.; āmantetvā (§ 187, 1) Th1. 84, JāCo. II. 1832; a-ganetvā JāCo. II. 22911 etc. occurring very frequently. The roots in $ too take after them: jetvā Sn. 439, Th2. 7 from jeti (root ji) as against Skr. jitvā; netvā(na) Sn. 295, Vin. II. 1111 as against nītvā. Also abhibhotvāna Th1, 429, from an abhibhoti 'overcomes'.-The number of new constructions in -itvā2 derived from Present-stems is extraordinarily large. With reference to § 180: labhitvā JāCo. I. 15020 as against Skr. labdhvā; vasitvā JāCo. I. 27820 as against usitvā; uddharitvā D. I. 2346, JāCo. III. 5214, sumharitvā JāCo. I. 26527 from harati as against hrtvā; otaritvā JāCo. § 211. Of examples of Gerunds in tūna there occur in Kacc. IV. 8. 15, 4. 6 and 7 (Senart, p. 497, 503): janitūna, kātūna (kattūna), gantūna, khantūna, hantūna, mantūna. Also chaddūna Th2. 469 from *chardtūna. Comm. chaddetvā 'after throwing away.'

§ 212. Gerunds in -ya¹. From roots ending in vowel: abhi-ññāya², aññāya = abhi-, ā jñāya; ādāya (and other compounds of dā) = ādāya; nidhāya Dh. 142, 405 and other compounds of dhā = nidhāya; utṭhāya (paṭṭhāya as postposition 'starting from') = utthāya. From root i (Skr. -itya) we have pecca 'after dying' Dh. 15 ff., JāCo. II. 417¹ (verse) = pretya, paricca Th2. 71 = parītya. samecca D. II. 278²⁰ (verse) = sametya, paṭicca 'm consequence of' = pratītya. From root bhū: abhibhuyya Dh. 328, Sn. 45, Th1. 1242, D. II. 110³. In analogy of abhibhoti: abhibhuyya there has been formed from pappoti a (ferund pappuyya Sn. 593, 829, Th1. 364, 876, S. I. 725 (verse), 21218 (verse). In Vin. From a root in sibilant: okkassa 'by dragging after' (p. 79, foot-note 4) D. II. 74^{29} at $a = avak_1 sya$. From roots in $h: \bar{a}$, abhi, o-ruyha Th1. 147, JāCo. Besides -gayha there is also gahāya 'after seizing' Sn. 791, samuggahāya Sn. 797, clearly from gahāyati (§ 186. 5). proportion gaheti: yahāya has also led to the formation of anvāya (post-position) 'on account of, by means of' D. I. 1312, JaCo. II. 3916 from anveti1 (root i with anu) and unchaya 'having searched' Ja. V. 9010 (Comm. uňchitvā).

§ 213. The Svarabhakti-vowel i appears not seldom before the suffix -ya. Thus in pakiriya 'letting (the hair) loose' D. II. 139³⁰ = -prakīrya; lingiya Th2. 398 = -lingya (Comm. ālingetvā); abhirāhiya Th2. 27 (besides -ruyha); (saṃ)avckkhiya Sn. 115, Mhvs. 5. 195. pekkhiya Mhvs. 5. 194 = -īkṣya; nikujjiya Th2. 28, 30 from nikujjati (Skr. kubj) 'turns round, upsets'; vivajjiya Th2. 167 from vivajjeti; virājiya Th2. 18 from virājeti 'sends away from oneself, is displeased with'; cintiya Mhvs. 7. 17=-cintya; kāriya Mhvs. 3. 5=-kārya. On the snalogy of kāretum, kāreti: kāriya there has been formed a nicchiya 'after deciding' Mhvs. 37. 233 (Colombo ed. 183) to niccheti (=nicchinati § 131), nicchetum (§ 205).—A new type of Gerunds in -iya was originated in this way, and the new formations derived from the Present-stem took after this type. Thus with reference to § 180: sumariya Mhvs. 4. 66, as against -smṛtya; atitariya Sn. 219 as against -tīrya. With reference to § 135: nisiāciya Mhvs. 7. 8 as against -sicya. With reference to § 136: passiya Th2. 399. With reference to § 144: chindiya Th2. 480 as against -chidya. Also the new Present-stem dakkha- (§ 136. 3) has given rise to dakkhiya Th2. 381 f.

§ 214. Examples of Gerunds in -yāna are: uttariyāna Jā. V. 204° (Comm. uttaritvā, avattharitvā); ovariyāna Th2. 367, 369 (instead of it ovadiyāna Th2 lo. 250²⁶ explained as ovaditvā); pakkhandiyāna Vv. 84. 11 (in VvCo. 338¹³ explained as pakkhanditvā) from root skand.—Nasal ending is to be found in khādiyānam 'having eaten' Jā. V. 24⁴, anumodiyanam 'having been pleased' Jū. V. 143°, etc.
